PURPLE REIGN

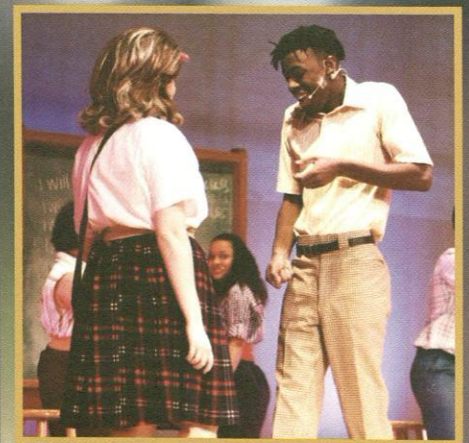

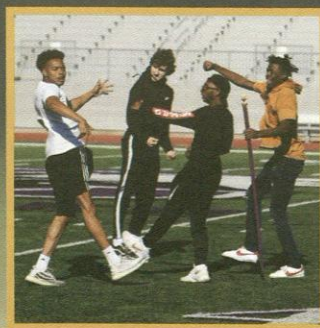

Central prides itself on being a school of excellence. The community of Central is one that encourages everyone to strive toward their best selves - whether that be academically, athletically, or just as human beings interacting with their peers. This can be seen in our three National Merit Finalists, who all scored exceptionally on the PSAT, or the basketball team making it back to the state tournament play-offs. It is evident in the production quality of the drama department's musical Hairspray or the robotics team making it to the state robotics championships.

Altogether, these traits and accomplishments create a reign of distinction that can be likened to royalty. In ancient times, purple was a color associated strongly with royalty, due to its high perceived value. Thus, Central's school colors seem almost fated to these comparisons. We embody these ideals as we promote both our dignity and capabilities as a school. The students all can be defined as kings or queens because there is a bit of royalty in all of us. We work hard for our reputations, and collectively uphold the honor of Central's. As a school, we reign.

FALL HAPPENINGS 2019

The beginning of the school year is the time for reinvigoration and redefining what our school means to us. This autumn, the season brought new highs in athletic achievement and theatrical talents. Central's production of Hairspray premiered to a matinee audience on Halloween, just weeks after the oft-postponed pep rally was finally held in Seamann Stadium. Many students also took the time to volunteer, such as at the Blood Drive, or for National Honor Society. No matter how our students stayed involved, they did so with passion and dedication. These traits are exactly what is needed for strong leaders and reveal the little bits of royalty we all have within us.

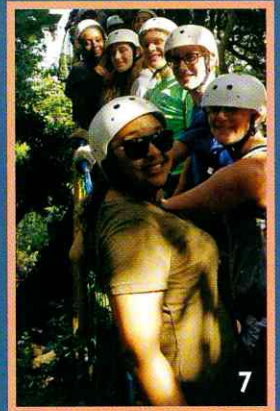

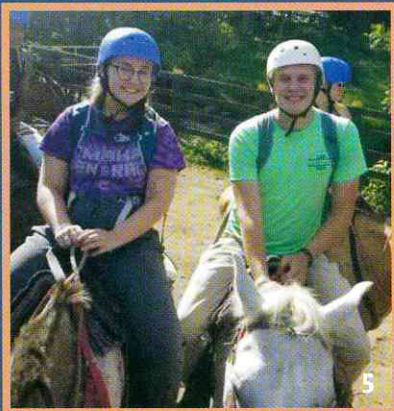

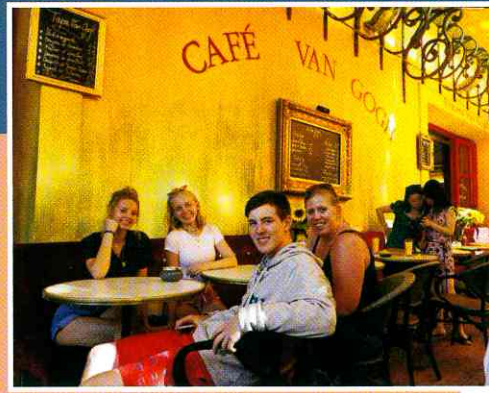

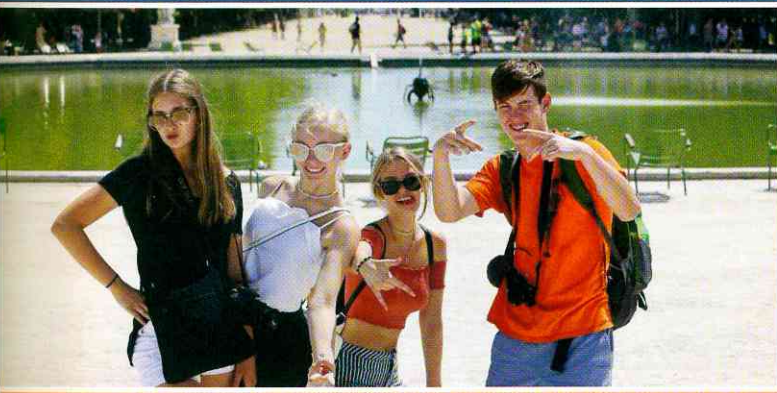

A FRANCE-Y CITY

By Avery Scholte

france to italy trip

In the summer of 2019, four students and fashion teacher Mallory Mohr travelled through France and Italy. Starting in Paris, the group visited the historic side of the city and viewed the Notre Dame Cathedral and multiple museums. Twelve days later, the trip came to an end in Milan, Italy. Ending in the capitol of fashion, the day was spent shopping before going to the airport to head back to the States.

1. William Anderson (12) films a red eyed tree frog on his GoPro. This tour, in which students saw frogs native to Costa Rica, was one of many sightseeing opportunities on the trip.
2. Seniors Anderson, Gabriel Prescott and Aaron Ramsdell, cling to the captain's helm in strong wind. They were able to view a variety of marine life from above.
3. Central students and staff pose in front of a waterfall at Parque Nacional Volcan Tenorio. "We had to hike a mile, but it was worth it," Emma Nieland (12) said.
4. Lauren Anderson (12), Carolyn Dillman (11), Ramsdell, Prescott, Ella Williams (12) and Ryin Hink (12) catch some rays during a whalewatching tour. The participants were able to capture photos of dolphins, humpback whales and even mating sea turtles.
5. Prescott and Hink ride horses through the lush Costa Rican wilderness. Following the ride, the students were able to soak in a hot spring nearby.
6. A group of students beam at the camera after hours on the bus. Most days consisted of traveling in order to see as much as possible from coast to coast.
7. After a long horse ride, students grin on the way to the spa. They were treated to a full-body mud mask and time in a sauna.

1. Walking alongside his classmates, Ian Young (9) is on his way to his next class. "This place is cool and pretty nice," Young said.
 2. Tate Grabher (9) speaks to his homeroom teacher Sara Evans while the class practices opening their lockers. Grabher looked distressed when he was unable to open his locker.
 3. Freshmen Vincent Beaudoin-Favela, Madison VanLaningham, Marina Prieto and Elizabeth Pavelka complete their walk through the freshmen tunnel. "I was pretty nervous on the first day, but everything was pretty easy to get used to," VanLaningham said.
 4. Christian Short (9) smiles for the camera on his first day. "I wasn't really nervous about making friends, just the homework. Though, I was really excited for band," Short said.
 5. National Honor Society member Hannah Brown (12) volunteers to organize new student activity cards. "Being a senior and helping out with freshman day brought back memories I honestly didn't know I had. The nostalgia was real," Brown expressed.

1. After A Mari'yan Lathan (11) intercepts the ball, Devontae Perry (12) was right there to help Lathan up after being tackled, showing teamwork and good sportsmanship. "The purple-white game really helps us become closer as teammates and prepare us for the upcoming season," Perry said.

2. Abraham Hoskins (12) and Alexander Castillo (11) soar up into the air to celebrate Castillo's touchdown. "It was the first touchdown of the season and we were so excited about it, so many more to come," Hoskins said.

3. Junior Trevon Jones jumps into the air, dodging Malaby Byrd's (12) tackle. With a tight grip on the ball, Jones runs straight to the endzone, scoring yet another touchdown for the purple team.

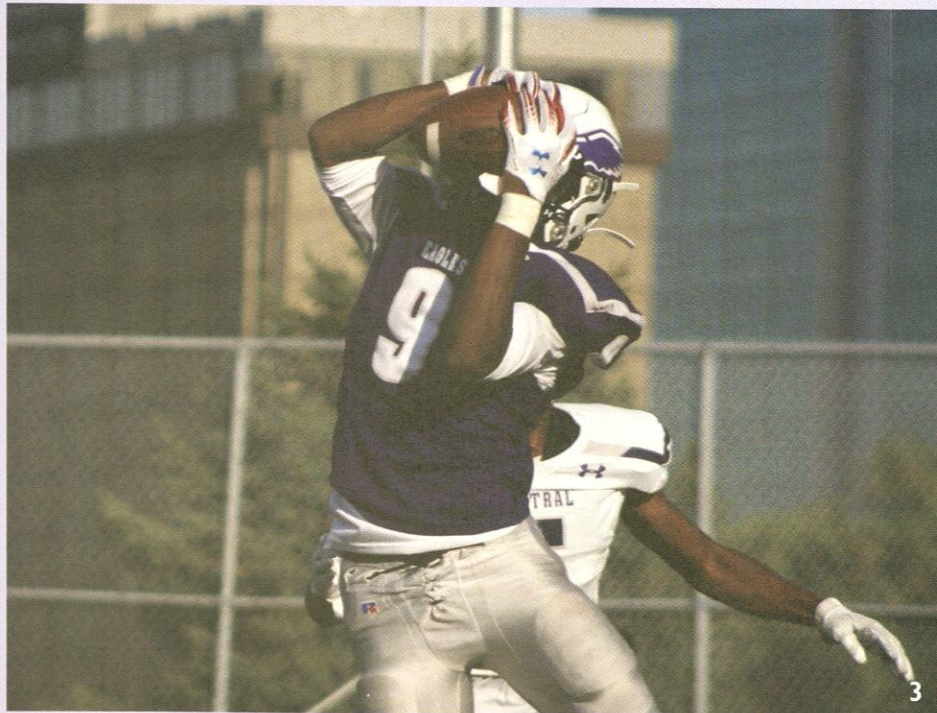

purple v. white scrimmage

By Dahly Long and Jamie Reiff

WIN FROM WITHIN

On Aug. 23, the annual Purple v. White game opened to a roaring crowd at Seeman Stadium. Varsity football players were split into two teams according to jersey color. Although it was a tough fight, the white jerseys came out on top with a final score of 14-13. "The scrimmage was a good experience with my guys. I was taking in the most of it since it was my last one, but overall it was great," Abraham Hoskins (12) said.

By Lauren Anderson and Isabelle Sgourakis

1. Anna Massey (12), Dahly Long (11) and Sophia Gibson (12) smile for the camera, showing how much appreciation they have for their mascot, Emily Hodges (12).

2. Seniors Lauren Anderson and Isabelle Sgourakis pose with Emily Eagle. "Emily has always been an individual with a huge amount of school spirit. She's the heartbeat of the school," Anderson said.

1. With great focus, William Zingg (12) slings a pitch into home plate. Zingg dominated the mound for most of the game and became known for his unique pitching style.

2. Three-sport athlete Christian Simmons (12) kicks a line drive to center field. Simmons commended the game. "It had a great turnout and shows how close the senior class really is."

3. As the game continues, Maxwell Polk (12) cheers his teammates on. "It was fun and I'm looking forward to more bonding activities," he said.

4. The offense calls a timeout to discuss their next play. Grant Goding (12) was late to the meeting.

5. Alexander Kay (12) snatches the ball at third base. "Despite sucking at soccer, I still enjoyed the baseball aspects of the game," Kay said.

1. Tessa Reumann (10), Isabel Cady-Orso (10) and Mila Herszbaum-Harding (11) sign up to volunteer. They cleaned the aftermath of the parade.
 2. Central's booths cluster next to each other. This organization allowed eagles to support each other throughout the day.
 3. The dance team sells baked goods to fundraise for state. "Dundee Day is a great way to start off the year," Claire Linnell (10) said.

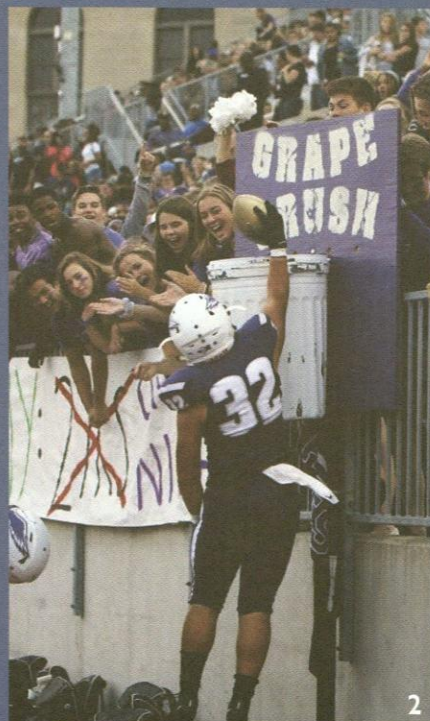

4. The marching band starts off with a bang, leading their fellow students in the parade. The Underwood Street route was surrounded by hundreds of excited parade-goers, all looking to catch some candy.
 5. The drama department also fundraises at Dundee Day. Drama Club president Willa Rauch (11) expressed her appreciation. "Dundee Day makes me really realize how critical Central is to the Omaha community, and how amazing it is to be a part of CHS, especially the drama department."

HUNTING WABBITS

first football game

By Dahly Long and Jamie Reiff

1. Le'Trevin Nelson-Beasley (10) tackles an opposing player as Christian Dump (11) prepares to defend the ball. The Eagles opened their season with a win against the Benson Bunnies.
 2. Seniors cheer on Christian Simmons (12) as he celebrates a Benson turnover with a Grape Crush. "There is no better feeling than being able to dunk in the purple crush," Simmons said.
 3. DeAnthony Bridgeford-Jackett (12) celebrates with his teammates as they score a touchdown. "The first game of my senior year will always be one to remember," he said.
 4. As senior Dylan Baker pushes back the opposing team, Abraham Hoskins III (12) attempts to score. The Eagles went on to win 53-2.

1. Grace Titus (10), Piper Demman (10), Alexis Blankenfeld (12), Elizabeth Pavelka (9), Taylor Adams (12) and Avenlea White (11) gather in the pitching circle for a brief meeting. The infielders discuss a game plan for the new inning.
 2. Piper Demman (10) gets low to the ground in order to stop the ball coming her way. "I really enjoyed this year. I feel everyone played very well," the starting shortstop said.
 3. Mia Wicken (10) takes a nice cut at the Warrior pitcher's pitch. "In softball, it's not about how good you are, it's about your mindset and the player you are willing to become," Wicken said.

 2. A group of students clings to the rainforest bridge teetering above the treetops below. They spent a sleepless night in the aquarium surrounded by marine life.
 3. Paulina Salzman (11), Alexis Walker (11), Ayrion Goodwin (11), Adithya Gurumurthy (12), Ryin Hink (12) and Ethan Marco (12) pose in front of a waterfall.

12

1. Michelle Hart (10) came in as a relief pitcher late into the game against Westside. Hart was able to hold off the offense during her time in the circle.
2. Ryley Sanden (11) takes a big swing and demolishes the pitch. "Going up to the plate I try to be relaxed and think about making contact with the ball," Sanden said.
3. Katie Klem (9) is the starting pitcher for the JV team. Klem kept the Warriors on their heels while in the circle.

By Naomi Weak and Peyton Venneman

1. Daniel Denenberg (11) gears up for the next serve during his final singles game. "Tennis is a tough sport. It's a mind game, but that also makes it so fun," Denenberg said.

2. Watching the ball, Alec Weedman (11) and Benjamin Fuerstenau (11) both prepare to return a shot hit by their opponents. "It's really fun to go outside and play tennis everyday after school with friends," Weedman said.

3. Samuel Sartori (11) contemplates the next play he needs to make to win the game. He went on to win the match with the help of Parra-Garcia.

4. Emilio Parra-Garcia (10) tosses the ball into the air to serve the start of his next point. He and Sartori were playing number two doubles together for the first time this season.

unwritten rules of central

1. After shaking hands with the other team, Rayann Hawkins (12) heads off the court following a tiresome game. Central's varsity team plays a game at least once a week.
2. Peyton Preston (12) prepares to serve the ball. Preston loves their traditional team dinners. "They definitely brings us closer and helps us get ready for games."

3. Junior Anna Festersen stares down the court, waiting for the ball to come her way. "Volleyball is the ultimate team sport and learning how to play together efficiently is the best feeling ever," Festersen insists.

4. Quinn Kay (10) readies herself for an incoming serve. Kay is an outside hitter, meaning she hits and blocks on the left side of the court.

I am from Hamburg, Germany. I chose America because America is interesting and there are so many things I want to visit. I also like the American English. The school system is the biggest difference. Everything in America is supersized. My favorite thing about Omaha is Thirst-Tea and Central High School. I miss my friends, my house and my neighborhood.

I am from Sandhawsen, Germany. I chose to come to America because I did not want to go any place in Europe and America influences my country a lot. In Germany, a lot of are movies and social media is from America. I wanted to personally experience that. Everything here is bigger and teaching styles are different. My favorite thing about Omaha is school because of how different it is. I miss my friends and family the most.

I am from La Spezia, Italy. I chose Nebraska because I love the culture in the United States. I love the English language and Italy, Ireland and UK have similar cultures. I just wanted to escape from the European ideas and customs. In Italy, they have a more conservative view that I don't necessarily agree with. My favorite thing in Nebraska so far are the people I have met. I miss the my family and the Italian cuisine.

I am from Normandy, France. I chose to come to Nebraska because I've been to the east and west coast of the United States, but I have never been to the midwest. I love the culture and the people here. The people here are very nice and schooling here is completely different from France. We do not have any type of dances like prom or homecoming or sporting events. I really like being at Central and meeting all the students here. But from Normandy, I miss my family and French cuisine.

I am from Bordeaux, France. I come to America with the Rotary Youth Exchange. Students learn a new language, discover another culture and truly become global citizens. In America everything is huge. The culture is so different. People are more here. It's very interesting to understand the American culture. My favorite thing about Omaha is the downtown because it's very nice during the night.

marysia szyprowska

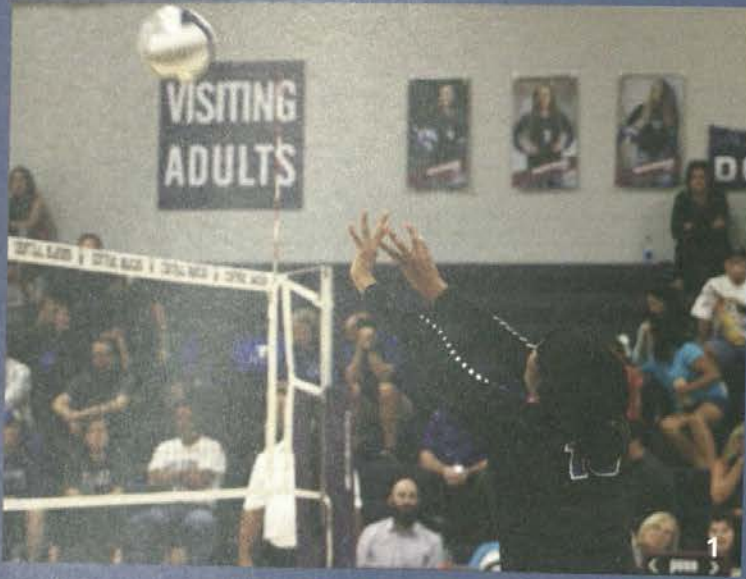

I am from Warsaw, Poland. I came to the United States because I got a scholarship from the FLEX program. I chose to apply for this scholarship because I wanted to experience a completely different culture and continent. The biggest difference between Poland and the United States is the size because the US has a lot more free space. My favorite thing about Omaha is the variety of places you can go and the sunrises and sunsets you get to see. I miss the food, my family _____ and my friends in Poland the most.

1. As a representative of Students for Sustainability, Anya Long (12) took the stage to advocate to other students the importance of getting involved in their communities. Long is also involved with managing the organization's social media accounts.

2. Isabelle Sgourakis (12) and Tess Bowler (11) proudly display their protest sign. "This is a cause my friends and I are very passionate about, so we got together the night before to make posters together," Sgourakis explained.

3. Standing in front of City Hall, Jaden Tchalassi (11) waves a flag depicting the planet. The event organizers provided these to help communicate the message to passerbys.

4. Vanessa Amoah (12) chuckles as she and junior Jordan Saxton lovingly pet a canine also in attendance. "If you don't want to save the planet for humans, do it for the dogs," Amoah said.

Central aka "Champ High" has defended their title with a raging student section. From football to basketball, students love to show out to support their teams and dress for the themes. From purple out to frat, students are not scared to go all out for those Friday Night Lights.

1. Seniors show off their tropical gear at the Homecoming game. Some other themes were pink-out, class colors and jerseys.
2. The rowdy students chant to the opposite student section at the end of the second quarter. They didn't even notice their team scoring a touchdown as they heckled the boys of Prep.
3. A group of students get to the game early to show off their painted sign. Vanessa Amoah (12) holds out a pom pom from one of our great dance team members saying,
4. Senior Negil McPhearson (12) flaunts his pink pajamas as students watch the game. Will Anderson (12) has loved his position as activities coordinator so far saying, "Although I can't take all the credit I think our traditions and values at Central have kept the spirit alive."

POSITIVITY RULES

By Emma Miller positive affirmations

For the month of September, Student Council focused on mental health. They created posters of positive affirmations to hang around the halls for students to receive positivity throughout the day. They even hung sticky notes with positive encouragements in the bathrooms. Keyra Guzman (11) saw the sticky notes in the bathrooms and said, "I really enjoyed seeing them. It's good to know there is still goodness in the world. Hearing the positive encouragement helps more for the girls because some of us don't hear it enough."

ON GOD

By Sophia Gibson FCA

1. FCA brings in many different speakers, Brandon Kinnie was the club's first speaker of the year. He's a former Nebraska football player and gave his testimony.
2. Corbin Williams, a teacher at Central, engages in a deep conversation. He gets the members of FCA into conversation by posing questions.

3. It is freshman Irene Allgire's first time at an FCA meeting. This is her first year at a public school, having been homeschooled most of her life.

nuts&bolts

1. Maci Wilson (12), Sage Maynard (11) and Evan Newhouse (11) work on the program that runs their robot. When asked why she does robotics, Wilson said "I like a challenge."
2. Maynard concentrates on fixing his robot after a trial run. Robotics requires a lot of trial and error in order to compete with the best robot possible.
3. Wilson, Newhouse and Maynard's robot stands in a ready position before its program is run. This robot is designed to pick up the colored blocks surrounding it and put them into containers surrounding the area.

4. Newhouse makes an adjustment to his robot after a trial. During the runs, they look for anything that can be adjusted. The team does trial runs almost once a week to prepare for their state competition in the spring.

5. Violet Treusdell (11), Adriel Chica (11) and Tanner Hueschen (11) attach a new metal arm to their robot. This piece will be helpful to pick up blocks in a competition.

"It's a great addition because of the all the opportunities it presents for students. The vacated space in the existing building is also being repurposed to benefit students in our ACP and EL programs as well as allowing some flexibility with other programs," principal Dr. Edward Bennett said.

"We are incredibly grateful to the CHS Foundation, all donors who contributed to the project and the Omaha Public Schools for making this a reality for kids," Bennett explained.

"The Legacy Walk is a nice way to show the influential people who have contributed to our school in a way that looks beautiful," senior Olivia Weide said. The cost of the new addition and Legacy Walk was approximately $20 million.

A SWEET NIGHT

Homecoming was held in the gymnasium on September 28, 2019. The dance was themed around Candyland, and featured sugary-sweet decor. Over 1,000 tickets were sold.

1. The homecoming queen and king, Gianna Baratta (12) and Mekhi Mitchell (12), pose together after being crowned. "I felt amazing when they announced I won king. I've always wanted to be in the spotlight and have people cheer for me. It was a very special moment," Mitchell said.

5. Senior trio Kaleb Thomas, Abraham Hoskins and Latrell Wrightsell pose in their dance formal wear. "Last ride with my guys... VVS on top," Hoskins said.

3. Juniors Matthew Ulrich, Zachary Ebers, Benjamin Young, Anthony Lind, Jerad Peck, Alexander Castillo, Samuel Levy, Henry Carlson, Samuel Nodes and Benjamin Messbarger smiled bright for the camera, exited for the night ahead. "Saturdays are indeed for the boys," Ulrich said.

4. Hannah Brown (12) shows off her black floral dress with her matching date Brock Lakin (12). Floral dresses were once again a big hit.

5. Sophmores Kenya Winston, Quinn Kay, Claire Linnell, Aniah Wayne, Claire Williams and Piper Demman smile brightly for a pre-homecoming photo. "Homecoming is the highlight of my year because it brings all of my girlfriends together for a fun night," Linnell said.

7. Dahly Long (11) and Sophia Sgourakis (11) pose quickly as the camera turns towards them, showing off their corsages. "I always have a great time at homecoming, but this year was definitely the best," Sgourakis said.

senior bucketlist

By Dahly Long, Brynn Nelson and Vanessa Amoah

1. Go to Japan
2. Be in a huge party
3. Swim in an infinity pool
4. Go somewhere remote with a group of friends
5. Drive over 200mph

Nehemiah Barney

Barney has bright plans for the future. The senior has plans to be a famous film director. He is planning to attend UNL next year.

1. Go to state for track
2. Go karting with friends in Council Bluffs
3. Maintain a 3.5 GPA
4. PR in tripple jump
5. Get a raise

Kaleb Thomas

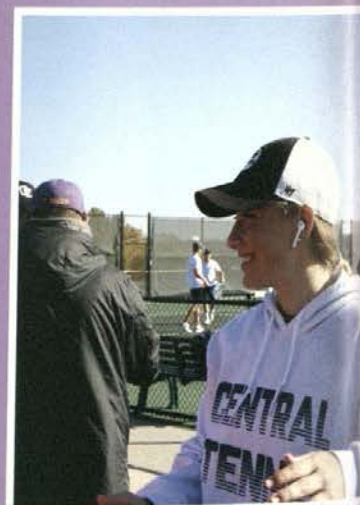

Thomas has many goals before graduating. "I just want to live life to the fullest, being a senior in high school is like knowing you're going to die soon," Thomas said.

1. See the northern lights
2. Visit 6 of the 7 continents
3. Own my own home
4. Be fluent in another language
5. Go to an out of state college
6. Get above a 30 on the ACT

Madeline Bohn

Bohn plans on accomplishing all of her goals during her lifetime. The senior is excited to see what the future has in store for her.

Peyton Venneman

Mitchell was the student manager for the boys basketball team. The team went to state last year and couldn't have done it without the help of Mekhi during practices. "I'm proud to be a part of the nest and support our boys," Mekhi said.

Aaron Ramsdell
volleyball

"To be honest I joined for fun, for the coach and to make friends," Aaron Ramsdell said when asked why he became a student manager of the girls volleyball team. During practice he shagged volleyballs and filled up waters for the girls on the team.

Grant Goding
volleyball

Goding chose to be manager because his family loves volleyball and he went to a couple games as a sophomore. He claims it has been a super enjoyable experience and has loved helping out and getting involved. "I made it a goal to make practice fun and interesting," Goding said.

Miranda Ritchie
cross country

Ritchie was the team manger for the girls cross country. She did quite a lot for the team by timing runners and giving them words of encouragement while they ran. "I couldn't run and I wanted to be a part of the team. It does take up a lot of time, but it is worth it. I love being a part of the community that the cross country creates," Ritchie said.

marching band By Dillon Galloway and Emma Whaley

1. Cassandra Wiley (12) watches the drum major as she plays her clarinet. All marchers watched the time-keepers intensely.

2. Gaurd captain Mia Dempsey (12) performs with her flag. She was the star of the show, Coraline.

3. Ayden Maher (12) plays the marimba with the frontline. The frontline had many solos.

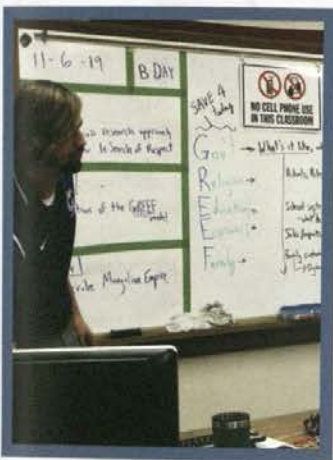

4. The color guard performs flag work in unison. All the guard members were dressed as Coraline to fit the theme of the show.

5. Dempsey and Sarah Overbeck (12) dance together as Coraline and her feline companion. The co-captains performed many duets throughout the show.

6. Emma Whaley (12) and Eleonora Petersen (11) drum in green shirts. The band had a costume change mid-show, dropping their jackets to reveal different colored shirts.

GETTING DOWN

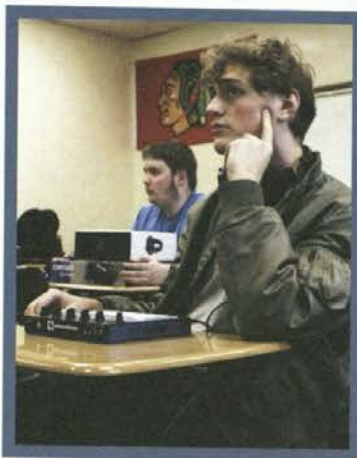

eagle beats By Lauren Anderson and Carolyn Dillman

Social studies teacher Brendon Smith leads the new club, Eagle Beats. This club was started to help bring together kids who want to create electronic music.

Mariela Gregorio-Rueda (10) gets instruction from Smith how to mix music. Smith created this club as a way to help teach kids something he has a passion for and he got the idea from a podcast he listened to.

Jeremiah Dalen (11) and Thomas Richardson (12) listen to Smith to learn the basics of mixing. This club is most students' first chance to learn the skills.

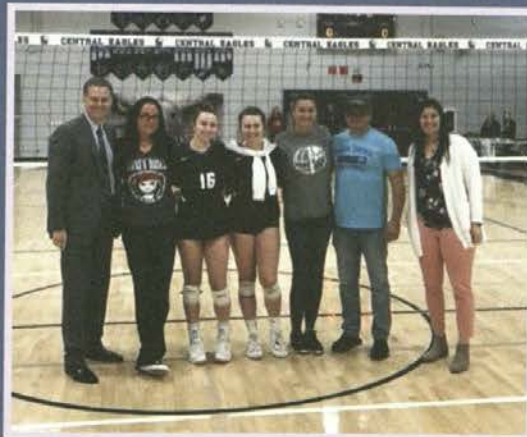

Sinatra Skillestad (12) begins to mix music using the materials provided by a grant. "A lot of kids at Central might not have the opportunity to work with instruments," Smith said.

LAST DIG OF THE SEASON

volleyball senior night By Emma Miller

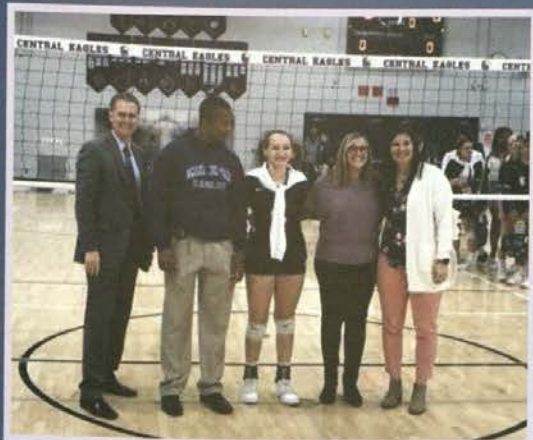

"Senior night was a roller coaster of emotions, but after a few choice words we were able to come together for a great final game for the seniors."
- Rayann Hawkins

"The senior night game was BONKERS, I nearly fell out of my chair like three times!"
- Angelina Baratta

"Volleyball is like a roller coaster ride. Your stomach falls to your butt, but you cherish every second of it."
- Gianna Baratta

"The volleyball program has helped me grow as a student and athlete at Central. I would not be the person I am today without it."
- Peyton Preston

"Thank you Central volleyball. It was a wild season filled with lots of laughs, dancing and fun."
- Delaney Demman

1. Christopher Lenz (12) grins as he begins assembling his gingerbread house. Lenz has been part of World Language Club since ninth grade.

2. Crafting a sturdy base, Adna Abdi (9) and Olivia Armendariz (10) discuss the designs of their house. The club hosts this gingerbread activity annually.

3. Maci Wilson (12) rummages through candy alongside other members. "I really like building the houses, it's a huge part of the holiday for me," Wilson said.

1. Four-year varsity member Mia Spencer (12) pulls herself forward while swimming butterfly. Spencer loves the sport, and calls the team her "second family."

2. Shay Macafee (11) focuses on the ceiling above during the backstroke. Although swimmers often specialize in one stroke, they usually participate in multiple events.

3. Daniella Hernandez (10) takes a quick breath before dunking her head back underwater during a race. Hernandez appreciates the team support. "The girls team is much closer this year because we held bonding activities immediately," she said.

4. Junior team captain Christina Spomer (11) laughs as Lauren Anderson (12) embraces her following a race. Spomer has already earned multiple state cuts despite it being early in the season, meaning she achieved a set time to participate in an event in the state meet.

1. Choir leader Lyn Bouma announces the schedule of songs bell choir will be performing. In addition to running the bell choir, Bouma also teaches vocal music and a myriad of other performing groups.
2. Shane Waits (11) rings his bells while reading sheet music. While sightreading is paramount, having impeccable timing is of even more importance.
3. Jonathan Gilmore (10) chimes his instrument alongside the rest of the choir. The concert lasted for about an hour and was well-received by the audience.

pep rally

Due to weather cancelations, the pep rally may not have been to celebrate the beginning of football season, rather the end of it, but students and faculty still came together to remember the wins. After introducing all the fall teams and coaches that were concluding their season, there was time taken to thank all of the seniors and student assistants who helped to motivate the teams and who put lots of time and work into what they did. Shortly after, teachers and coaches participated in a game of tug-o-war, the coaches helped by the football team. Performing next, cheer and dance showcased some routines. Their cheer was put together by an alumni. Then a handful of students took part in a dance-off between grades. Freshman tumbled while sophomores executed Tik-Tok moves. "I wanted to sit in a hole after I did it but it was a fun experience. Class of 2022 should've won," Maia David (10) said. But in the end, after a battle of tricks and flips by the juniors, and country dancing by seniors, seniors won.

Journalism students were tasked with interviewing a classmate and then writing a profile piece about them. "It was a great experience," freshman Alea Kaan said. "Especially since I was a part of both sides of the interview." The assignment helped them with their future stories. "Interviewing is much more enjoyable than I expected," senior Oscar Biesanz said. "The best interviews just feel like normal conversations, and if you ask the right questions, the article practically writes itself."

The CHS dance team performed an iconic, sass filled, routine that had the students clapping and cheering.

Teachers and coaches face off in an epic battle of tug-of-war. The coaches ended up being victorious with the assistance of their players.

Students from each class showed off their best moves in a dance off battle. The winner was decided by the students' clapping and cheering. Lo and behold, the kings of the school, the seniors won.

1. Jaden Tchalassi (11) spreads the marshmallows and cereal mixture to make the Rice Krispy treats. "The bake sale was different than most other fundraisers. Not only did it provide support and attention to mental illness, but it allowed the student council a way to give back to the community," Tchalassi said.

The Student Council baked a variety of goods to sell during parent teacher conferences to support a mental health foundation. They chose the Kim Foundation which helps spread awareness on mental health. They made brownies, cookies, popcorn and Rice Krispy treats and raised $212 for the Kim Foundation.

2. Mia Birch (10) and Emily Tran (10) put packages of popcorn and M & M's together for parents and teachers. "It was fun working together and contributing to helping mental illness. It gave us a sense of community. Also the popcorn bags Mia and I made were tasty," Tran said.

1. The girls on the team have fun before cheering on their teammates. The team travels to Kearney each year to support the girls who have qualified to run in the final race of the year.

2. Michael Roun (10) stated "My favorite part of the season was being able to run with my friends and getting to stay in shape." His best time this year was a 16:56.9 minute 5K, which qualified him for state.

3. Eric Seger-Para (12) is very focused on passing the runner in front of him and advancing through the crowd of runners. Seger-Para wanted to make his final run memorable because it was his last chance to medal at state.

4. Madeline Krause (12) and Mohussin Abakar (12) talk before the meet. Krause works to calm down Abakar before the final race of her high school career.

5. Lauren Anderson (12) said her favorite part of the season was the pumpkin painting gathering. "It was a great way to bond with the team because we are like a family."

CHECKMATE.

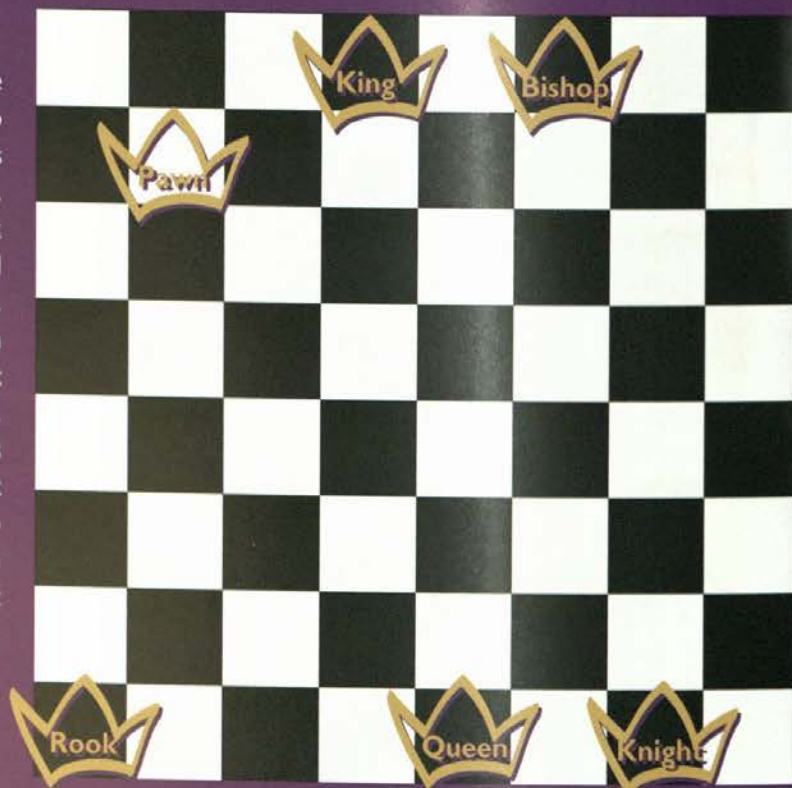

royal names By Olivia Mangiameli and Avery Schlote

Chess is a game of strategy, and the names of the pieces often make it an easy comparison to royal and the complexities of regality. The queen is the most important player, used to protect the king.

Other pieces include the bishop, and the rook (which is often called a castle, just like the royal residence in London, Buckingham Palace).

Furthermore, the role of princes and dukes is often one overlapping with that of knights, as they protect and defend their kingdoms - or chessboards.

Additionally, the importance of the pawns in chess is one not to be overlooked, as they are the most numerous but still require great strategic thought to succeed with. Therefore, we consider the pawns, in a royal context, to be the gems and wealth that accompanies them, such as diamonds or pearls.

Boji, a tri-color Corgi, owned by Olivia Mangiameli (10), was a surprise over the summer. "His name is Boji because we found out about him in Okoboji," Mangiameli said. Corgis are known for being preferred by English royalty.

Pekingese dogs can be related to ancient Chinese royalty, the penalty for stealing one was actually death. Good thing Scout was not stolen because he is highly valued by Aidan Eklund (10). "He's hyper, territorial, and needy," Eklund said.

Astrid the cat would have been idolized by ancient Egyptian royalty. "She's kind of timid with other people, but she loves to cuddle with me and lay on my face. Her favorite thing is sit on the window sill and watch the birdies," her owner, Livia Ziskey (11) said.

Mia is a Greyhound. The breed was normally owned by 9th century English Monarchies, but now is owned by many Americans including Maia David (10). "Greyhounds are actually really lazy and she really just lays around all day, but she's one of the sweetest dogs there is," David said.

2. Eliazar Rios (12) catches the ball as it's tossed to him and prepares to pitch it towards the kicker. He was the pitcher for three rounds before switching with the other team.
3. Jose Mejia-Ruiz (09) bunts the ball towards the pitcher. Ruiz was able to steal three bases on his run, preparing to run home after the next kicker.
4. Alexia Gomez Landa (09) smiles for the camera while doing her stretches to warm up for class. Her big bow was able to stay in perfect position during the entire kickball game.
5. Kuol Door (11) runs towards first base after kicking the ball. Door is all smiles as she races towards first base, getting there before the field players are able to obtain the ball.

6. During the show's main love song, Negil McPherson (12) and Elle Shaneyfelt (12) twirl around on stage. "Without the friendship we developed throughout rehearsals, Penny and Seaweed wouldn't have been as believable as a couple," Shaneyfelt explained of the two's chemistry.

7. Despite Hairspray being the first production McPherson auditioned for at Central, he was cast in a lead role. "I knew if I didn't do [a show] now, I never would," McPherson said.

8. One of the first scenes of the show established Tracy and Penny's friendship, which extended off-stage between Shaneyfelt and Rauch as well. "I was able to take Penny in a new direction with the help of [Rauch] encouraging me to embrace the ditzy and have fun with it," Shaneyfelt said.

9. Silva and Joseph Warren-Pasley (10) perform "You're Timeless to Me" together. "We definitely had to form a bond," Silva said of playing husband and wife.

10. Following Flora Griffith's (11) performance of "I Know Where I've Been," the cast poses with raised fists in solidarity with the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960's. "[It was] definitely a performance I'll carry with me always," Griffith gushed.

1. Ceruh Hellbusch (12) prepares for the competition by cutting out slips of paper to give to the students after buzzer rounds. Students start preparing for this competition months in advance to make it run smoothly.
2. E-math teacher Lauren Beitel reviews the evening schedule to an assembly of middle schoolers. This is Beitel's third year teaching the class.
3. Jerad Peck (11) and Samuel Nodes (11) announce the schedule for the evening. This event is a way for middle schoolers to learn about the math programs at Central.
4. Carolyn Dillman (11), Mia Spencer (12) and Christina Spomer (11) greet and check in teams of 12. "The competition is a lot of work to organize, but it's worth it to see the middle schoolers happy," Dillman said.
5. Leonardo Risch (12) models the club's current t-shirt, designed by Spomer and Spencer. Risch, impressed with this year's competition, exclaimed "it was great to see the youngsters diligently work on problems that puzzled most of our E-math classes."
6. IB senior Gabriel Prescott (12) prepares to welcome a crowd of competitors into the courtyard. Although the IB program restricts the amount of electives diploma candidates can take, E-math is one class they still enjoy.

COUNT ON ME

ARE THE JUDGES READY?

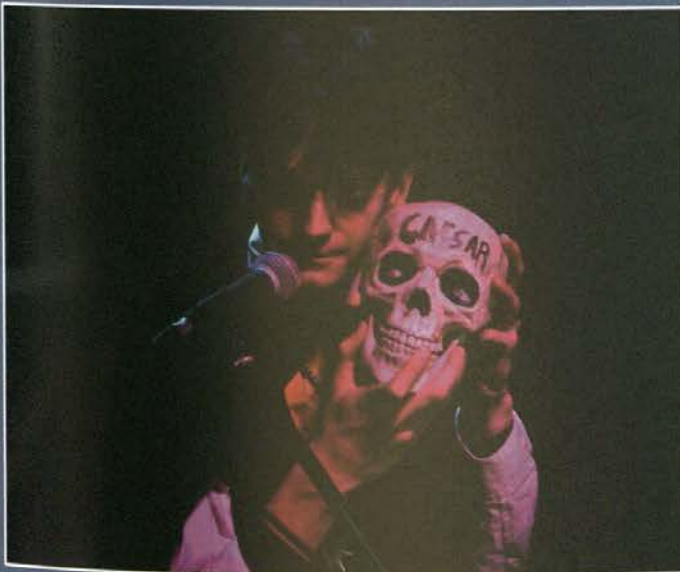

speech by Naomi Weak

1. Ej Slayman (10) works on his persuasive speech while riding to Millard North High School for the novice tournament. His persuasive speech shed a light on crimes against the LGBTQ+ community with a combination of jokes and hard facts.
2. After school Erica Griffith (12) practices in front of Molly Mahannah in preparation for competing later in the week. Her speech explained the dangers of deforestation presently occurring worldwide.
3. Grace Turner (12) reads over one of her speeches for the competitions beginning in December. "Having a team this year makes being on speech a more enjoyable experience because we can rely on each other," Turner said.
4. While on the way to the her first competition, Faith Stryker (12) practices her poetry piece about crimes against women. "It's nice to finally be able to write about something that's meaningful instead of being forced to write on something you don't," Stryker said.

CAESAR'S END

death by brutus concert By Emma Whaley and Maura Durfee O'Brien

Death by Brutus is a rock band comprised of Central seniors. Members Flynn Rickerl, Thomas Richardson and Dexter and Sinatra Skillestad formed the band after pursuing music in years prior. "During guitar sophomore year, I started talking to Dex and Sin and we started a little trio," Flynn said. "Around the end of junior year, I introduced them to Thomas because I sat with him at lunch. So, it all kind of came together." The band would generally describe their genre as a twist on punk rock, but they don't feel the need to stick to one category of music. "Labels tell you what to do," Dexter said.

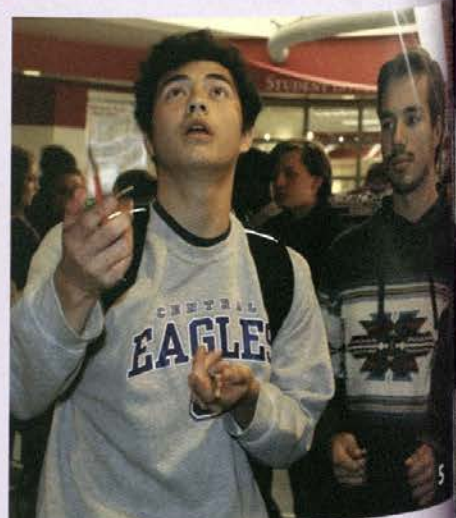

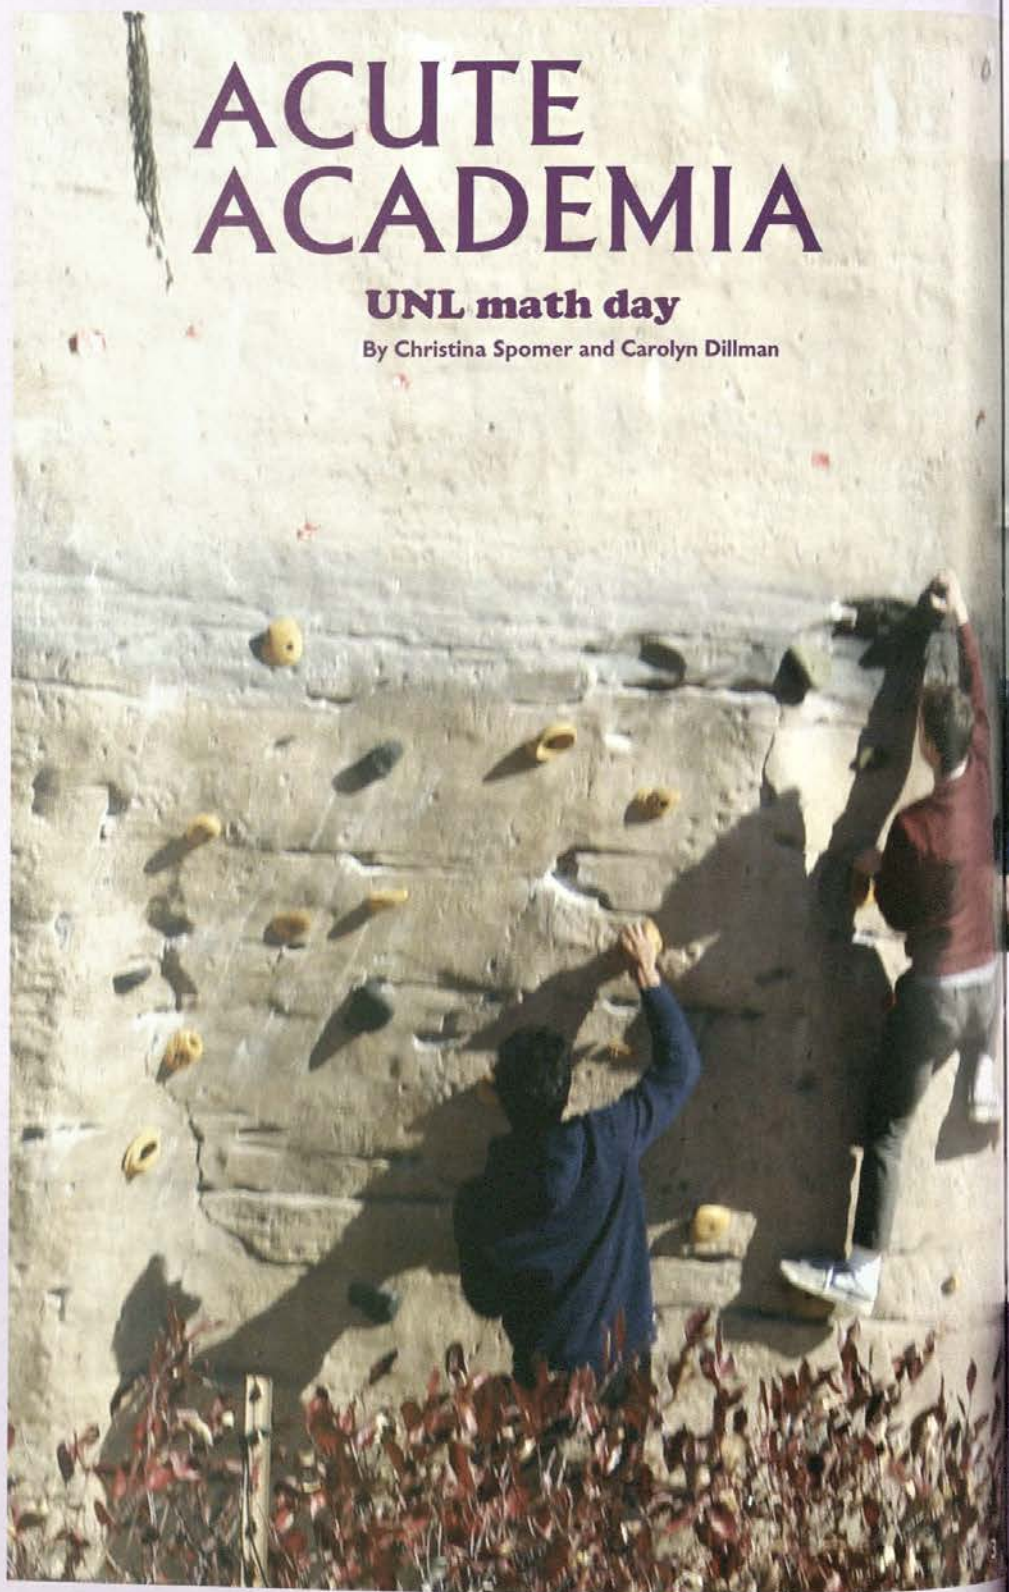

1. Mathletes run around the field outside the competition after finishing their test, playing soccer. This is a tradition every year for students to relax after all of the hard work they put into preparing for the competition.
2. Students pose after finishing the first test while they are waiting for their buzzer round against Creighton Prep to start, where they lost with a final score of 4-6.

Carolyn Dillman (11) states, "I enjoy math competitions because I have met some of my best friends through math and competing."

3. During a break in the schedule, seniors Adithya Gurumurthy and Leonardo Risch get some fresh air. "Climbing the rocks was my favorite part," Risch said.
4. Senior Grant Goding (12) talks to math club coach Lauren Beitel after completing the first buzzer round of the day. "I really like buzzer rounds because it is fast competition and a chance to challenge yourself," Goding said.
5. Emiliano Altuzar (12) and Kyle Linnell (12) carry on a time-honored tradition of tossing pencils into the air. "I hate ceilings, and I hate math," Altuzar said.

Groff at the Mosque

world religions trip By Vanessa Amoah

1. Students tentatively listen to Jamal as he explains the design of the Tri-Faith Initiative Center. "The trip we took to the mosque was very interesting because I have never in my life seen a mosque, a church, and a synangouge next to each other. Seeing this made me happy because people see Islam as bad but, this was proof that you can be friends with anyone no matter the religion and it was very differnt from how I grew up," Amal Abdi (11) said.

2. Social studies teacher Gary Groff and Imam Jamal educate students about the Tri-Faith Initiative and its impact on the religious community. These buildings connect the three Abrahamic religions in one area.

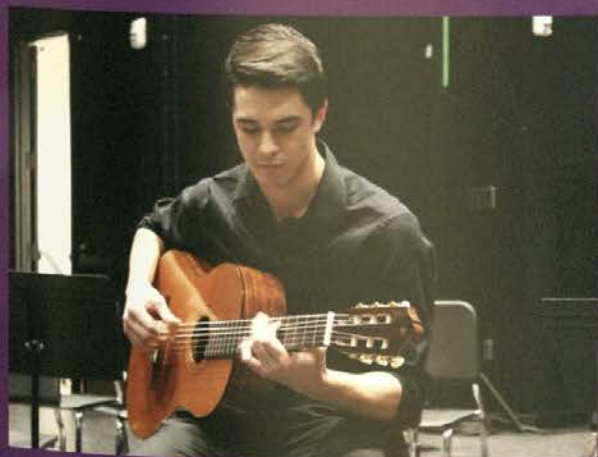

"I worked on this for a couple months. It was one of the first songs I listened to with my dad, and he hadn't heard me play in a while, so I wanted to dedicate it to him."

- Flynn Rickerl (12)

Guitar Gurus

guitar concert By Rita Herrera Villado

"I was very anxious about my performance, but once I started playing, it was fun, since I enjoyed what I was doing."

- Tristan Roberts (12)

"I didn't think I was going to enjoy it, but once I felt the moment everything faded and it was fun."

- Jared Ramirez-Avelino (10)

"I felt pretty honored to be able to perform, seeing all those people in the audience, and playing something I had worked very hard on was exciting."

- Hudson Gardner (12)

O-club induction

The historic Central O-Club was originally brought into existence in the 1920s to celebrate athletic excellence and promote good sportsmanship. The requirements were relatively lax nearly a century ago; any male athlete who had earned a varsity letter was eligible for membership. The Girls Athletic Organization was later instated to promote girls' athletics, and worked alongside the O-Club. Unfortunately, both organizations disbanded by the early 80s, resulting in thirty years of dormancy. Central chose to revive O-Club during the 2012-13 school year, ensuring that both young men and women could join. In order to become a member, nominated individuals must be either a junior or senior, maintain a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above, and earn two varsity letters in separate activities. The induction ceremony is a grand affair featuring bundt cakes. Once made a member, O-Club participants are required to volunteer for a total of 20 hours throughout the school year and uphold the Central values of academics, behavior and community.

Despite being TikTok famous, Joseph Craig (11) is rather enigmatic about his newfound career path. "I don't want people to know I have TikTok."

Sedona Cheloha (12) had a video about the trials of being known only for your nickname get over 40k likes. "I know you're jealous," Cheloha mused.

fall sports banquet

By Brianna Collins and Olivia Mangiameli

Dinner is Served

1. Abraham Hoskins IV (11) and Jonathan Savoie (11) converse with their teammates during the dinner. "It was a good learning experience and it helped me learn to manage time better. I became a better athlete," Savoie said.

2. Before the banquet begins, Delaney Demman (12) is seen joking around with her varsity volleyball teammates. "There is no other team I'd rather have spent my final season with. Through our ups and downs we stayed strong and accomplished so many amazing things," Demman said.

3. Elijah Smith (12), Abraham Hoskins III (12) and Devontae Perry (12) share some laughs after they finish eating. "These past four years of high school football have been a roller coaster, but I will never forget my senior season," Smith said.

4. Parker Lakin (10) thanks his coaches after the football season concludes. Lakin says, "They were super passionate and wanted to win probably more than us."

5. Kate Vokal (10) and Romyn Hutton (10) reminisce on their cross country season. "Cross country has made me become a better runner but has also given me a great group of friends," Vokal said.

6. Varsity softball player Madeline Bohn (12) is seen making faces while waiting her turn to read her letter. All of the seniors wrote a letter to their parents about what the sport means to them, Bohn saying, "My senior season was amazing, but it came and went so fast."

Walk the Walk, Tok the Tok.

By Jamie Reiff and Olivia Mangiameli viral tiktokers

Olivia Theophilus (12) stumbled upon TikTok around homecoming, the video going viral. "I just got really bored, I thought I'd make a video about homecoming," Theophilus says.

"I started as a joke, just to watch fun TikToks, but then I actually made them because it was fun", says Sykora Roberts (10). She went viral for her funny videos and continues to make them, almost weekly, sometimes with friends.

Winter is often a time of reflection, and this season certainly supports that. The basketball team spent months practicing and preparing for a comeback in the state tournament. Many clubs were also getting their bearings, with all the musical groups performing in various concerts or World Language Club hosting holiday festivities. As finals season came and went, students and staff persevered through the stress and snow, supporting each other along the way. The foundation of a kingdom should always be built on mutual support and respect, and Central's strength in this area is a perfect encapsulation of this.

Pass the Mic open mic night

By Avery Scholte

"Thank you guys for coming. Thank you for sharing your voices, because if we couldn't share our voices, what would we be?" - Isabella Mitchell (9)

Paranoia: Do you ever feel like someone is watching you? A heavy feeling that you know when it's happening, someone that can't help but look more than a glimpse, you cannot control it. You try to make eye contact. They keep watching. Fear and unpredictability rush in, makes you feel like you want to disappear. Disappear from this situation, become cautious. Cautious that once they stop, they might start again, but they look away, after what feels like an eternity. Worried that they might do it again, you become crazier than before. It gets in your head, you can't think of anything else. They leave. You are just left there, Paranoid. - Camila Munoz (11)

"4:02 pm- London. 10:02 am- Omaha. caught somewhere between, the fable of time. The inaccuracy of my watch and the capacity of my bladder. Caught between the top of clouds and the bottom of stars. the air is -61.6 degrees fahrenheit - I still haven't picked up the British speech yet. Suspended like trapped angels. With no leg room, full overhead compartment. With screens on the back of other peoples heads, all headed to the same place to depart in such separate ways. Miles and miles away, no metric system. Complimentary ice cream. Disposable cup of gingerale, readily spillable. "Seatbelts on" dings and is considerably ignored. Time is a myth, and so is God." - Lillian McEvoy (11)

1. Gazing upon the city, Sophia Gibson (12) poses atop the Newseum. The JEA conference sponsored free visits for all attendees to the Newseum.

2. Emily Hodges (12) gleefully jumps toward the heavens, with the National Archives behind her. After viewing the Declaration of Independence, Hodges took up ice skating in the rink behind the building.

3. Holding a protest sign, Simret Habte (12), Maura Durfee O'Brien (10) and Brianna Collins (12) show their stance on DACA. "I got to explore a beautiful city with my friends and learn more about journalism and its importance in America," Habte said.

4. Malcolm Durfee O'Brien (12) visits the memorial of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, which features the 32nd president's dog. "There's a lot of dogs in DC, but Fala is definitely the best one," he said.

5. Pretending to be Gnormica, Isabelle Sgourakis (12) pricks her fingertip upon the Washington Monument. "I loved learning about the city's history," Sgourakis explained.

6. Alexis Radke-Chism (11) and Naomi Weak (11) share a beaming smile after visiting a museum. The two were some of the youngest on a trip full of seniors.

7. The trip had 19 students in attendance, both from the newspaper and yearbook staffs. The conference consisted of seminars about everything from in-depth feature writing to learning to create a podcast.

PENNE FOR YOUR THOUGHTS

1. Sierra Jesus (11) adds ingredients into the mixing bowl before stirring things up. "My favorite part of culinary is trying everyone's creations and sharing my own meals to my friends and family outside of class," Jesus said.

2. Jordan Martin (11) is buttering the pan to prevent sticking before the muffin mix is poured in. "Cooking is the best form of artistic expression, and I like it because of the engaging atmosphere and positive people," Jordan said.

3. Madeline DeMare (10) and Kai James (11) add ingredients into the bowl to get ready for the next steps. DeMare begins to mix the ingredients that have been added together to make the batter.

4. Ebonie Lindsey (11) pours dry ingredients into a sifter to break the clumps. "We have so much fun and we get a lot of things done," Lindsey said.

The group shares photos of the pies they ate. "The blueberry lemon pie was scrumptious! Abby makes amazing pies," Jesus said.

EAT'S NOT QUITE WHAT IT SEEMS

weird eats By Brianna Collins

1. Senior Vanessa Amoah likes eating bacon with cinnamon rolls. "People think it's weird, but I like the sweet and salty combination," Amoah said.
2. Freshman Elliott Gray enjoys eating mustard on circular Babybel cheese, saying that people are usually disgusted by his combination. "I was too lazy to make a sandwich once so I tried and enjoyed mustard and cheese," Gray explains.
3. Although everybody thinks it's disgusting, Dahly Long (11) likes to dip pickles into peanut butter. "I tell them they need to try it before they judge," Long said.

Spending the holiday with her uncle, Rita Herrera Villado (11) and her family smile for the camera. Explaining that they don't eat traditional Thanksgiving cuisine, Herrera said, "Me and my family don't typically celebrate Thanksgiving, but we usually stop by my uncle's house and eat what they make, which is usually cultural food."

Maisy Friedman (11) spent Thanksgiving with her family and her boyfriend's family. The two decided to go camping after they ate dinner. "The best part for me was going on a nature walk with him and just being able to unwind from the stress of school," Friedman said.

While Olivia Mangiameli (10) and her cousin did celebrate the holiday, they did it in an untraditional way. They ate a huge dinner with their families, but they also carved pumpkins. "Turns out we aren't very good at it," Mangiameli joked.

MILLY ROCKIN' ON MILLARD SOUTH

varsity boys basketball By Olivia Mangiameli and Dillon Galloway

1. Coach Eric Behrens and Jay Landstrom watch the game intently. Wrightsell, thankful for their guidance, stated "they're there to see us all succeed and be bigger than just basketball."
2. The student section cheers loudly to motivate their fellow Eagles. The varsity team left Millard South's court with their first win of the season.

3. Point guard Latrell Wrightsell (12) follows a Patriot closely to the top of the paint, showing great defense. Although it was a tough battle, Wrightsell said "I believe we played a well-rounded game. We found a way to execute our plays and ultimately get a win."
4. Faisaun Germany (11) steals the ball away from Millard South's offense. This is his second year on varsity.

IT TAKES TWO TO TANGO

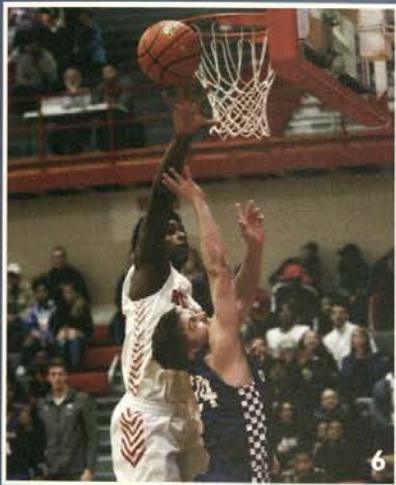

acp performance By Dillon Galloway

The students seemed to really enjoy singing for an audience. Orchestra teacher Brad Rauch has helped the ACP students learn how to sing, dance and play bongo drums. What made it even better was a lot of faculty showed up to watch.

1. Alexis Gomez Landa (9), Patiance Hinman (11), Gregory Tomety-Blake (11), and Michaelyn Buck (9) sing until their hearts are content.
2. Teacher Sara Cowan with her students Jayden Dixon (12) and David Bolden (11) play the drums to the beat of the song.

5. Jayden Dawson (10) adds to the 10-point lead with a layup. After the game, Dawson proudly claimed "it was a good team win."

6. Junior Anthony Bold (11) attempts to drive up the center for a layup. His shot gets blocked by a Patriot.
7. Abraham Hoskins (12) searches for a team member to pass to. "It was cool getting out all of the nerves, but now the focus is to get better for the next game," Hoskins said.

3. Bolden plays a little solo on the drums.
4. Rauch strums along as sophomores Salvador Ramirez Cruz, Daisy Castillo, and Damari Lucas sing.

GET YOUR ACT TOGETHER!

one-act play

By Brianna Collins and Olivia Mangiameli

The Honors Drama 5-6 class performed a one-act play of an award show for literary characters. It featured characters such as Jay Gatsby, Romeo and Juliet, Moby Dick, Hester Prynne, Gandalf, Sherlock Holmes and even Gollum and his "precious." The audience contributed to the play, casting their votes for who they believed should win Best Literary Character while the characters attempted to show why they deserved the award. Although the play was fun, it also touched on what lessons can be learned from these characters and how important reading is.

1. Playing the role of Jay Gatsby, Jacob Frezell (12) prepares to give a speech after his character wins the award of Best Literary Character. "The Office season 6 episode 25 time 8:29," Frezell said.
2. Gandalf, played by Samuel Eckler (11) and his trusty steed, the Eagle mascot, head into the wings after stealing the spotlight for a few moments.
3. In another role as a guard, Frezell forces Gollum, played by Solomon Barber-Holmes (11), off-stage while pursuing the highly coveted award.
4. Stella Ehrhart (11), Dina Saltzman (10) and Liliana McMahon discuss who will win Best Literary Character. Ehrhart, who played Juliet, also played the character who counted up the audience's votes.

1. Lauren Anderson (12) measures out the amount of NaOH needed to determine the vinegar concentration. "Although I am used to studying using flashcards, I like labs as they allow us to expand our real-world knowledge," Anderson said.
2. Emiliano Altuzar (12) checks to make sure that the pipette bulb still works as Achilles Bridgford (10) watches. This tool can be used to make small additions of chemicals during experiments.

1. Ruby Martinez (12) squats deep and gets in the zone as she begins her lift. Ruby has powerlifted since her freshman year.

2. Tri-sport athlete Deshawn Woods (10) powers through the pain to achieve his max. "Pain is temporary, but success is forever."

3. Freshman Amelia Larson (9) looks up to maintain her balance as she lifts an immense amount of weight. "Powerlifting is a great way to meet new people and get involved, especially as a freshman," Larson said.

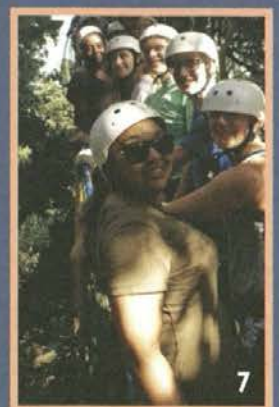

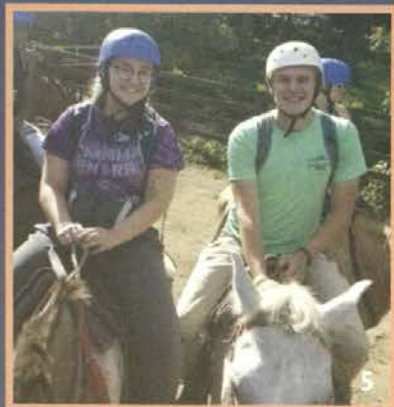

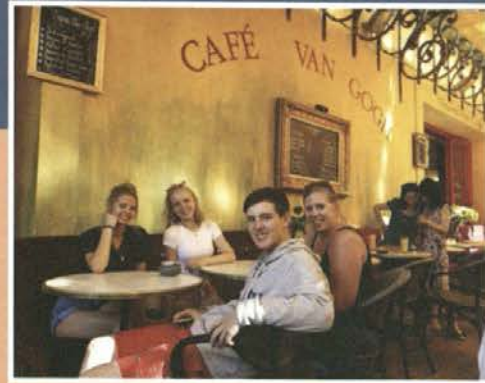

4. Junior Xavier Wade lets out a huge breath as he lifts over 400 pounds. "When I lift I feel like all my problems disappear; it's just me, the weights and my team," Wade said.

A FRANCE-Y CITY

By Avery Scholte

france to italy trip

In the summer of 2019, four students and fashion teacher Mallory Mohr travelled through France and Italy. Starting in Paris, the group visited the historic side of the city and viewed the Notre Dame Cathedral and multiple museums. Twelve days later, the trip came to an end in Milan, Italy. Ending in the capitol of fashion, the day was spent shopping before going to the airport to head back to the States.

By Lauren Anderson

1. William Anderson (12) films a red eyed tree frog on his GoPro. This tour, in which students saw frogs native to Costa Rica, was one of many sightseeing opportunities on the trip.
2. Seniors Anderson, Gabriel Prescott and Aaron Ramsdell, cling to the captain's helm in strong wind. They were able to view a variety of marine life from above.
3. Central students and staff pose in front of a waterfall at Parque Nacional Volcan Tenorio. "We had to hike a mile, but it was worth it," Emma Nieland (12) said.
4. Lauren Anderson (12), Carolyn Dillman (11), Ramsdell, Prescott, Ella Williams (12) and Ryin Hink (12) catch some rays during a whalewatching tour. The participants were able to capture photos of dolphins, humpback whales and even mating sea turtles.
5. Prescott and Hink ride horses through the lush Costa Rican wilderness. Following the ride, the students were able to soak in a hot spring nearby.
6. A group of students beam at the camera after hours on the bus. Most days consisted of traveling in order to see as much possible from coast to coast.
7. After a long horse ride, students grin on the way to the spa. They were treated to a full-body mud mask and time in a sauna.

1. Ray Hubbard (11) puts himself in a good advantage point during his match by making himself bigger than his opponent. Ray is now in his third year being a part of the wrestling program and is a major contributor to the team's success.
2. Hel Doh Soe Htoo (11) scrambles to get up and flip his opponent. Htoo is in his third year in Central wrestling and says "he looks forward to his senior campaign."
3. Deon Davis (11) tries to take down his opponent which would earn him two points. Davis is in his third year of wrestling and says that "everyone should take pride in how far they've come and to have faith in how far you'll go."

5. Htoo frantically tries to gain an advantage over his opponent. In wrestling everyone competes in a specific weight category to create an even playing field.
6. The team cheers on their teammates from the bench to let them know that they believe in them. Coach Foster said, "This is our ooooo! battle cry. It's a sign of respect."
7. Arian Alai (12) works to put his opponent in a crattle. Alai competes in the 113 pounds weight class for Central.

holiday parties Can You Keep A Secret?

Benjamin Messbarger (11) Dahly Long (11) and Henry Carlson (11) take a break from their gift exchanges to pose for a photo. "Presents and memories were shared, but unfortunately I got socks...thanks, Dahly," Carlson says.

Juniors Mario Pettis, Samuel Levy and Alexander Castillo had a blast at their Christmas party. The trio of friends always have a good time when they're together.

4. Jacob Frezell-McClinton (12) is standing tall after a victory in his weight class. "Everything you want is on the other side of fear," Frezell commented on his undefeated senior campaign.

Juniors Anna Festersen, Olivia Gilbreath, Brynn Nelson and Samuel Sartori huddle together for a group picture. The group of juniors reveal they all knew who each other had and their reactions were all faked to keep each other happy.

Seniors Emma Nieland, Lauren Anderson and Sydney Schilling get camera ready for a nice picture under the Christmas tree. Lauren went all out for the holiday, revealing "I found a custom print album of Harry Styles, which I was so excited to give Sydney, because she adores him."

1. Coach Andrew Thompson gives the freshman B-team a pep talk during a time out. The team was a mixture of kids who came from different schools and just started playing together.
2. Kieran Samson (9) reaches for the jump ball to start the game. "We are still getting used to playing; we'll work better together after a bit. He killed me on that jump ball though," Samson said.

"HOLD THAT POSE"

By Brianna Collins photojournalism

Hillary Blayney's fifth period photojournalism class is working on their camera skills, taking portraits of each other during class. The students have only been working with the cameras for less than two months so they're still learning how different camera settings affect the photos in different lighting.

Elena Correa (9) poses with the most recent issue of The Register while Matthew Nivongsa (9) takes her picture. "I really like photojournalism because it gives you an opportunity to tell a story through a different lens," Correa said.

1. Calista Perkins (10) passes the ball into the game to a teammate who takes it down the court to earn another two points. Central squeaked out a win over Bellevue East.

2. "I decided to play basketball at Central because I know how important it is to get involved at school. I took a talent and skill that I have and put it to use out on the court supporting my team," Shalee Marion (9) said.

3. Jayden Harlan (10) has been playing basketball since she was young. "Basketball motivates me and takes all the stress away when I play. I also just love to play basketball," she said.

4

4. Brooklyn Strazdas (9) brings the ball back to her team's side of the court and gets ready to pass it to another player. "I play basketball here at Central to just stay in shape," Strazdas said.

5. Camiya Collier (9) goes in for a shot and scores the another two points. She gets the team the lead before halftime.

Nivongsa lays on the grass with Correa standing over him to take his photo. Correa had a lot of aesthetically-pleasing ideas for them to do.

Quinney hides behind the CHS sign while Guzman takes her photo. The clear and sunny skies made for the best lighting.

Balancing on the steps of the Joslyn Art Museum, Keyra Guzman (11), Correa, and Nivongsa take photos of AnTaneah Quinney (12). "I really enjoyed taking that photo, I felt really comfortable. It was a good time to take the photo since it was nice out," Quinney said.

1. Running the basketball down the court, ShyAnne Mayhue (10) earns two points for the team. Central keeps the lead and earns the win against Bellvue East.

2. "Basketball is a learning experience for me that when life gets too hard to never give up. You may lose some and you may win some, but how you finish is what matters," Calista Perkins (10) said.

1. Emiliano Altuzar (12) claims he finds motivation to finish his work by telling himself "if I don't study, I might end up as a business major." His unorthodox study habits have led him to an intriguing future double major in physics and creative writing in college.

2. Sophomore Adah Gibson is sure to find a quiet room to study in without any electronic distractions like phones or music. Gibson explained "I tend to work for as long as I can without getting tired, but I take breaks when necessary."

3. Student Council Vice President Jaden Tchalassi (11) and usually enjoys coffee or tea alongside his study materials. He enjoys going to Starbucks or the library with his friends so they can bounce ideas and covabulary off each other. Senior Kween Alabi is one of those friends.

5. Sophomore Alahna Davis has been playing basketball for Central for two years. "If it makes you happy, then it is not a waste of time. Just make sure you perfect your craft," she said.

The team worked hard together to beat Bellevue East. Head coach Mario Henderson encouraged his team and gave guidance to make the right plays at the right time. "I've played basketball since I was little and I love playing the sport. Playing basketball here at Central allows me to be involved with the school and play the sport that I enjoy." Jalygn Ignowski (11) said after the game.

"The Grinch" is Keshawn's favorite childhood movie because even though the Grinch had a little heart, he somewhat cared and Keshawn can relate to that.

te'shya houston (11)

"Home Alone" is Te'Shya's favorite movie because she thinks it's really funny. Her favorite part is when Kevin mouths, "Merry Christmas, ya filthy animal."

THE BEST OF THE BEST

In a decade there are numerous memorable events. From the end of the Harry Potter era to the beginning of the Marvel Cinematic Universe, movie followings changed. Notable moments in pop culture shaped who many high school students are, dealing with the emotions of killer clowns and the breakup of the iconic One Direction. Being the first decade that students lived completely through, the 2010s will be a decade to remember for the rest of our lives. To memorialize, students throughout the school voted on their favorite trends and moments of the decade, and reliving the nostalgia of their childhood.

1. Aniah Wayne (10) makes a quick pass to Camille Duryea (12). Duryea is one of the two seniors on the team this year, along with A'nya Jones.

2. Claire Williams (10) attempts to block a pass to an opposing Lincoln East player. "Although the season didn't end the way we wanted, we are heading in a more positive direction," she said.

3. Coach Michael Kroupa encourages the Lady Eagles to keep up the fight against Lincoln East. This is Kroupa's first year as head coach for the girls varsity basketball team. "Even as his first year as our coach, he put us in the right direction for future success."

4. Nywargak Gatkek (11) shoots a free throw. As she nails the shot her teammates look on in awe. Gatkek made nine points and over 15 rebounds in the game.

5. Aaniya Webb (10) rushes the ball down the court after recovering a layup. She has been an overall great player averaging 14.6 points per game.

SENIOR CITIZENS

13 years in the district By Rita Herrera Villado, Lauren Anderson, Kween Alabi and Olivia Caldwell

Anna Massey is one of OPS' loyal students. Having gone to Fullerton and Saddlebrook Elementary, Buffet Middle, and now Central. She almost went to a Millard school, but decided against it. She is, "proud to be in OPS because we are all united, and diverse. Not everyone is white, which makes for a great environment."

Vanessa Amoah also grew up in the OPS district. Having a sense of community through her life has made it a bit better. "Most of my friends and I started at the same elementary and made our way up. We did branch off to different middle schools, but we eventually found our way back. I also appreciate the diversity OPS has, especially Central, that other schools lack."

"I have a sense of pride in OPS and am glad I was able to spend all my years with them," Kyle Linnell said. "I wouldn't have it any other way." Linnell, like Schilling, has gone to Picotte Elementary and Buffet Middle. Now, he will become one of many Central alumni.

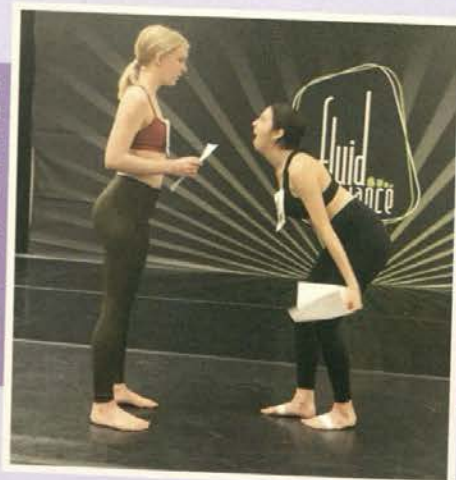

William Anderson had the opportunity to go to a Catholic school when he was younger. He chose against it because, "public school gives you the chance to open yourself up to new things, like different religions, ethnicities and ideas." Anderson is a proud member of OPS, having gone to Harrison Elementary, Lewis & Clark Middle and now Central.

Sydney Schilling went to Picotte Elementary and Buffet Middle. Now, she will graduate from Central. "I am so glad that I have gotten to be a part of the OPS community and grown over the years with the same people by my side."

"I like dancing with Avery, but sometimes we just have to scream at each other," Mangiameli said. She and Schlotte also took an acting class to help with getting their emotions out during dance.

By Dahly Long and Dillon Galloway

Juniors Dahly Long and Alexander Castillo are the only divers on Central's dive team. Both divers have qualified for state, and both divers are looking to place and earn a medal at the 2019-2020 state diving championships.

3

2. Junior Alexander Castillo competes a 105c, a front 2 1/2 tuck. "I like dive a lot actually. It's more of an independent sport compared to the team sports I play like football," he said.

Long smiles after reviewing one of her final dives on the live television. "I was very pleased by my performance. I am so close to becoming all American," Long said.

3. Castillo enters the water on a front 104b, front double pike.
4. Long completes a 201c, back dive tuck finishing with a beautiful entry into the water.

Todd Fiannagan is a choreographer who spends lots of time traveling to many dance studios, but mainly works in Los Angeles. Avery Schlote (11), Olivia Mangiameli (10), and many more dancers learned a few dances from him.

1. Staff members must consistently draft and write newspaper articles about various subjects. These range from editorials to sports coverage or news events. Senior Simret Habte discusses her story assignment with senior photographer Hannah Brown.

2. Members of the newspaper staff discuss upcoming story ideas with adviser Hillary Blayney. Central publishes six issues of their newspaper every year and also publishes their stories online.

3. Editor in Chief Emma Whaley (12) assures all staff members are assigned stories for the week. Studnets are given the freedom to choose their own topics for stories and editorials allowing them to write what they are passionate about.

4. Editor in Chief Malcolm Durfee O'Brien uses his authoritarian techniques to urge staffers to be productive. "Its a very rewarding postiton to be editor of a newspaper, especially one with as much history as The Register. To be able to inform my community and friends is such an honor," Durfee said.

5. Simret Habte (12) interviews a fellow peer, Hannah Brown (12) about her experiences with the Unified bowling league at Central. She used her phone to record every moment of the interview.

1. Rosine Selemani (10) performs, earning her a spot in the next phase of the class competition. Her poem titled, "When I'm Asked" by Lisel Muller details the authors sad truth of her mothers death that led to her writing.
2. Performing "Spanglish" by Tato Laviera, Dora Ziranda Morales (11) presents the reality of speaking both spanish and english in the United States. "I changed my poem the night before, the other one was too boring, probably cause I'm a Cancer," Ziranda Morales said.
3. Edajah Aden (11) put his all into his performance piece titled "The Kiss" by Walter Graves. "Block em' out and do your thing and rock their world. I'm better at poetry than Muhammad Ali," Aden said.

SASHED UP

5A award ceremony By Kween Alabi

Northwest High School hosted the 31st Annual African American Academic Achievement Awards (5A), the ceremony honoring black seniors who have maintained an accumantive GPA of 3.0. In addition to receiving a certificate of academic excellence, seniors also recieved a Kente Sash that can be worn during their graduation ceremony.

1. Daija Jones and Kia Williams posed for a picture after the ceremony. "We are bold, brave, and intelligent in our skin," Jones said.
2. Lauren Lewis was more than happy to attend the event. "I love to see all the black exllence and achievement in OPS," she said.
3. In addition to students receiving certificates, parents were recognized for their contribution to their student's success. Mehki Mitchell's mother described just how proud she is of her son's success. "He's worked so hard to get to where he is and I know there is so much more to come."

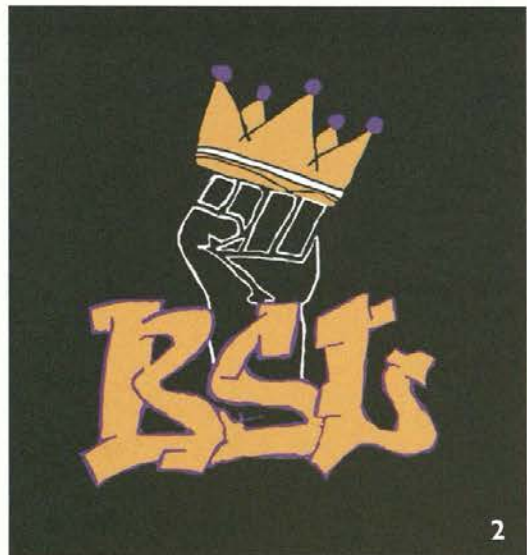

Flexin' in Complexion

black student leadership By Kween Alabi

Black Student Leadership was started this year by seniors Lanae Kent and Aiyonna Holland-Givens. When asked why it was important to form BSL Holland-Givens said "At a school that values diversity, I felt it was vital to have an organization that supports and uplifts the small black population that we do have here. I am excited to start this club because there really is no student organization that specifically highlighted the leadership and culture of black students. Honestly, we usually get sprinkled in with clubs that are predominately white." The goal of BSL is to increase understanding and experience black culture at Central along with promoting leadership skills.

2. The club's logo was designed by BriLynne Smith (12). "I took it upon myself to design the logo because I had a clear vision of what I wanted it to be. I just wanted it to be as black as possible and the black fist just was not enough, so I added the crown to represent black royalty. Aiyonna gave me the idea of the graffiti letters and it tied the whole thing together. I couldn't be prouder of how it turned out."

1. Holland-Givens and Kent have been seeking advice from North High School's Black Student Leadership Council in order to start a club here at Central. North's BSLC Advise John Jackson Explained his willingness to help Central's BSL grow. "I just want to see black kids be successful, I do not care which school they go to. We need black Leaders."

3. Central Alumni Annique Clark ('19) had a booth at North High's African American Professional that BSL attended where she showcased her artwork, custom shoes and shirts. "I started branching out in art during my last year at Central. I am glad that black creatives have a place to thrive and their work is acknowledged. Clark launched her own company, Annique Arlea in March 2020.

Black was worn twice to symbolize the existence of Black Americans.

Green to symbolize the abundance of natural resources and wealth in Africa.

Red to symbolize the black that unites African Americans.

1. The American Mathematics competition consists of two tests, one for underclassmen and one for upperclassmen. Those who score in the top 5 percent of students in their test internationally qualify to take the next round of tests. There are three rounds of tests which determine the overall winners of the Math Association of America contest series.

2. Claire Williams (10) smiles before she begins the 75-minute exam. This test is one of the largest competitions in the nation and one of the most important that students at Central take during the year.

THE ROAD TO ROADSHOW By Maura Durfee O'Brien

roadshow auditions

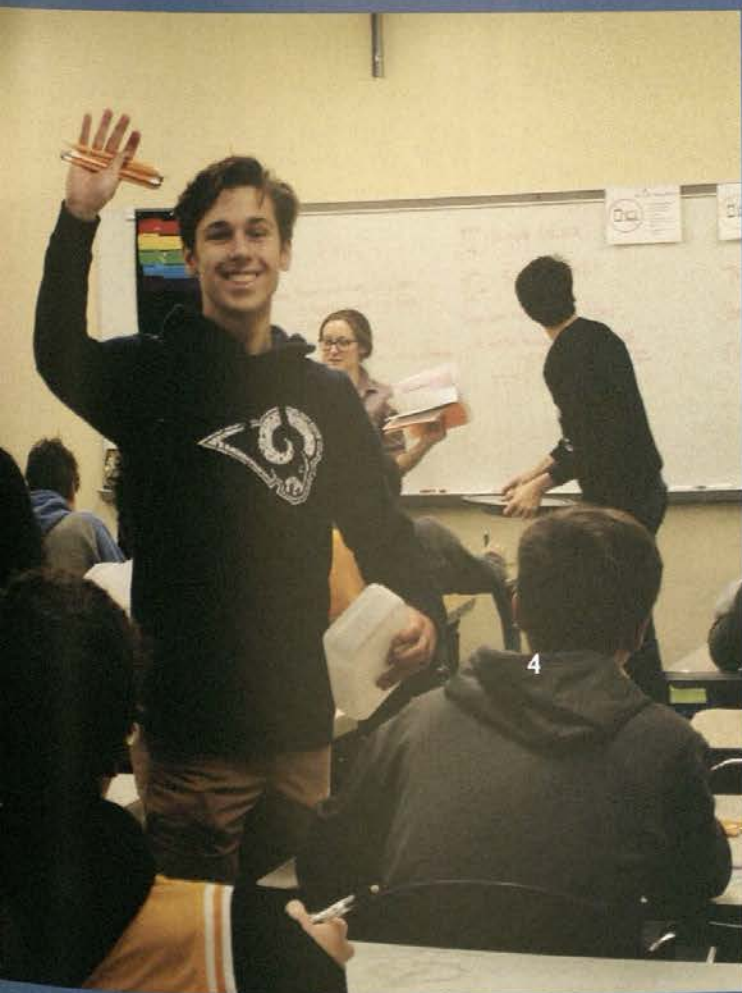

1. Auditioning as a part of multiple groups, Liliana McMahon (11) recounted, "The auditions were really stressful, but when I got up on stage all of the stress let itself go. It was a weight off my shoulders once it was finally over." She hugs Noemi Gilbert (9) after the show.

2. "Auditioning for Roadshow was really fun. Knowing that no matter what happened I was just being stupid with my friends, Jack Foell (10) and Dash Lansdale (11), made the experience more comfortable," Aidan Carrillo (10) said.

3. Kyle Lankford's (10) group auditioned with a scene from Monty Python's "Life of Brian." The scene, one that is incredibly popular and fondly thought of, sadly did not make it into the show. Those involved, Jacob Rose (11), Joseph Warren-Palsey (10) and Creedance Jankowski (9) had fun in the audition process.

4. Brodie Urwin (9) said, "Roadshow auditions were nerve-wracking, but I'm glad I participated because it was a really great experience. I think I did well." Brodie's sister Presley Urwin (9) auditioned with a song.

3. Grant Goding (12) helps pass out pencils to students while they are being prepped for the test. The AMC is the preliminary exam that will help to determine the final US team for the International Math Olympiad. "It was a great experience," Goding said. "Whenever I was stumped I would look up to the virgin ceiling in the old choir room and embrace its immense height. This would help calm me."

4. William Zingg (12) enjoys a coffee to get himself pumped up for the math exam. The AMC requires focus, stamina and a solid background in the diverse field of mathematics.

It was a day where I am called to the Torah as an adult,
a daughter of a mitzvah.
I felt you there next to me your hand on my shoulder as I Chanted
If this mitzvah naba min sh'maya
May there be an abundance of peace for you in Heaven."

"I wrote this piece back during my freshman year. I had just kept it for myself and did not think much of it. Then, my boyfriend told me about the contest. I decided to enter and I won something for it. I am happy that I put my work out there."
Daisy Friedman (11)

"My piece was a school assignment, and we were forced to do it. My teacher told me I should submit it. I didn't think much of it, so I did. I was very surprised and pleased when I found out that I had won."
Avery Schiote (11)

"I was inspired by Kehinde Wiley. I chose to depict a black male within a field of flowers to contrast femininity and masculinity. However, my main goal was to portray black males in a soft perspective to empower the caring side men don't often show."

Eagle Kiddie Camp

dance team By Brynn Nelson

1. The dance team and their little eagles posed for group picture before their performance. All of the groups performances made for a memorable halftime show.
2. Jacinda Vidlak (10) was a leader for the pink group. She sits along side one of her participating girls waiting for their time to perform.

upcoming election

Political Preferences

The 2020 Presidential Election features highly contentious issues and candidates. Despite the majority of current students not being old enough to vote yet, they still have many opinions on the current election cycle. We asked select students who they plan on supporting, and then plotted the responses on the political compass according to the candidates' beliefs.

Maxwell Polk (12)

"I'll vote for whoever the Democratic nominee is, but Pete Buttigieg is the best guy so far. I just want my money."

Left

Scott Warner (12)

"I'm a Republican, so I'm obviously supporting Donald Trump. It's important that we create jobs for all walks of life and the economy has been thriving. I believe in strong gun freedom and the First Amendment."

Malcolm Durfee O'Brien (12)

"Joe Biden is the only candidate left who can bring the change this country needs to continue as the beacon of opportunity and lift up the oppressed people of this nation."

Right

Samantha Robles-Orellana (10)

"Vote blue no matter who! It's important to have open-minded people in office to fight for immigration and LGBTQ+ rights. If I could vote, it would be for Elizabeth Warren or Bernie Sanders."

Libertarian

off the spectrum

Jonathan Savoie (11)

"I'm not sure what I want. Politics are confusing. I'm looking for someone who supports a good economy."

Reminder of Resilience.

empowerment photoshoot

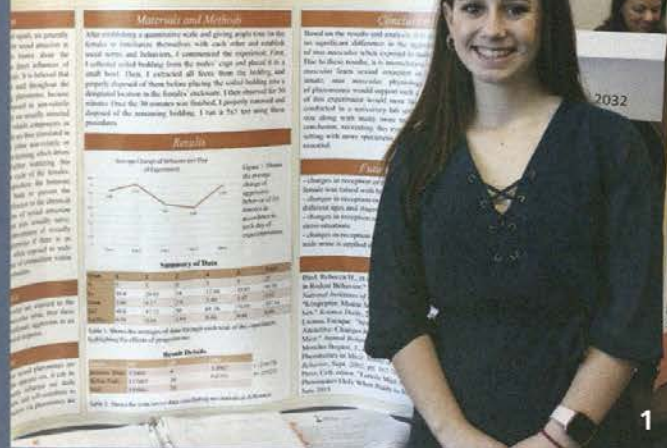

Acceptance and body positivity are on the rise; what time is better than now to love each other and ourselves? The host of this self-proclaimed empowerment photoshoot, Anna Tiritilli (10), stated, "I've always believed that people are the most beautiful fresh out of the shower—no makeup, wet hair, clean skin—and I wanted to capture that. The goal was to empower people and remind them how worth it they really are." Although it was simply a fun experience to participate in, the underlying message was strong. "It was a really positive and uplifting environment to be in and I really appreciate how much everyone was hyping each other up," Maia David (10) said.

The Effects of Opposite Sex Pheromones on the Aggressive Behavior of Female Mus Musculus

1. Isabella Shradar (12) poses next to her board, which discusses pheromones. "I wanted to study pheromones because we have relatively no knowledge of how they impact animals and how they can impact our relationships with others," Shradar explained.

2. Gabrielle Goodwin (12) shows off her board to passing viewers. "Bacteria are evolving because of our overuse of harsh antibiotics, so I wanted to look at other viable solutions."

metro science fair

By Brianna Collins

The Metro Science Fair took place on March 5th at the Henry Doorly Zoo. Students from a multitude of schools appeared at the zoo's education center to talk about subjects that matter to them. All of the students got to choose their own topics and those like Lillian McEvoy (11) chose something that they experience on a daily basis. "I chose to do synesthesia because it's something that I have that helps relate me to other people. It has led to a lot of interesting discussions and arguments," McEvoy elaborated.

3. McEvoy poses next to her board about synesthesia, which she is affected by. Synesthesia is essentially the mixing of senses, like spoken words having a flavor or letters being certain colors. "The letter 'E' is blue," McEvoy said.

4. Erica Griffith (12) explains to a guest whether or not education about certain topics can change people's minds. Griffith studied primarily young children in pre-k and kindergarten to help them understand how different circumstances lead to different ideas and opinions.

The second half of the dynamic duo, junior Willa Rauch exclaims that the best part of delivering the morning announcements is "to start the morning with a smile and obnoxiously cheery voice." However, because of her knowledgeable role, Willa is constantly pestered by a common question. "Is it an A Day or a B Day?"

GOOD MORNING EAGLES!

#1 Dad Joke:

"I'm reading a book about anti-gravity. It's impossible to put down!"

Junior Mila Herszbaum-Harding states that her favorite part of saying the morning announcements is "being up to date on school activities." However, through all the fun, sometimes the teachers forget the simplest of grammar, leaving Mila doing a double take at words such as "25rd."

1. Breeana Read (12), Tamra Nickels (10), Lanae Kent (12) and Anna Massey (12) spent their winter formal together. "It was fun being able to dress up and hang with my friends," Massey said. "I feel like the group of people I met up with made the dance more enjoyable than what others claim."

2. The swim team went together, including but not limited to, Grant Goding (12), Mac DePriest (11), Luke Nieland (10), Gabriel Spiess (11), Connor Tiedtke (11), Benjamin Jezewski (11), Anne Carpenter (10), Valeria Welk (10), Frances Gray (11), Grace Weberg (10), Madeline Demare (10), Christina Spomer (12), Mia Spencer (12) and Ryley Sanden (11).

3. Sophomores Robert Canion, Caedan Sain, two Millard North friends, Aidan Eklund, Caleb St. Cyr, Mary Mayberger, Natalia Shradar, Kate Vokal, Maia David, Olivia Mangiameli, and Daniella Hernandez, as well as freshman, Kieran Samson, experienced their first winter formal together.

5. Attending formal for one last time, seniors Lucia Stavneak, Olivia Schicke, Shanelle Flores, Mekhi Mitchell, Kaleb Thomas and Nehemiah Barney gathered around for a photo. Barney said about the night, "Smells like vibes."

4. Avery Schlote (11), Maria Szyrowska (12) and Piero Tienni (12) all attend the formal. "I spent $20 on my ticket just to stay for 20 minutes. Dinner was fun though," Schlote said.

MADE WITH LOVE lunch ladies By Vanessa Amoah

Crystal Warren - As a child, Warren loved hot dogs. They remind her of childhood birthday parties. She has a love for children and a history of working with them. She wants to help her son become successful and aspires to be more financially established. When she wants to treat herself, she enjoys going to Blue Sushi with her family and orders the Cali Roll.

Jackee Gay -When she was younger, Gay adored fried chicken and meat lovers pizza. Her compassionate traits shine through when discussing alternate career options. Gay wanted to be a teacher because she enjoys working with kids, or a lawyer to help others get out of trouble. Her favorite way to spend her time is with her 11 grandkids.

Darlene Smith - In childhood, Darlene Smith loved eating her mom's grits every morning before school. Now she serves them to her much-adored grandkids. If she wasn't a lunch lady, she would be a nurse. She cares for all people and cherishes conversation. In her free time, she loves to watch game shows, HGTV or Real Housewives while sipping on a can of pop.

Candice "Candy" Tate - Tate's favorite childhood food was spaghetti and meatballs. Along with working at Central, she's a Early Childhood Education Teacher and cares for a young mentally challenged girl. She wants to open her own center for the young. When the weather is nice, she loves to play volleyball and read.

Millionaires in the Making economics field trip By Ella Larsen

1. The group of sophomores stand outside the Federal Reserve Bank and Money Museum in Kansas City, Missouri. This trip was held for Honors Economics students to expand their understandings of finances.

2. Nolan Livingston, Logan Simmons, Brody Brown and Miguel Nuno present how they saved their money wisely while making decisions. The project was designed to provide students with hands-on experience.

3. Mason Wickstrom looks at examples of counterfeit money. It is important to understand how money can be tampered with and used to fool consumers.

4. Hailey Younker, Callan Maher and Israel Bryant were given a midlife crisis while making their decisions before presenting. "I learned a lot about ways to handle different financial situations that may come up in my future," Maher said.

WE GOT THAT 2020 VISION

roadshow 106: 2020 vision for the future

By Olivia Caldwell, Lucille Mason, Maura Durfee O'Brien and Brianna Collins

- 1: Mason Glasser (10) performed as a member of the guitar class. This was his first year in the class and in Roadshow.
- 2: Claire Bouma (11) performed a dance to the main theme from the film "Joker." Her dance was in lyrical/contemporary style.
- 3: Hunter Oakley-Hornbacher (9) sang "We're Gonna Be Friends" by The White Stripes. "The 106 Roadshow was my first time performing solo, but everyone I performed with was super nice and the audience was very supportive, I definitely plan on being there next year," Oakley-Hornbacher exclaimed.
- 4: Mia Dempsey (12) was the leader of Color Guard. Her dancing and choreography was featured at the beginning of their act.
- 5: Daniel Denenberg (11) performed a duet with Grace Titus (10), on his experience he explained "I've always loved the Roadshow's atmosphere-everyone is there to share something special, serious, funny, or dramatic, with the audience and each other."
- 6: Michael Abboud (10) played alongside both Roman Windham (12) and Lachlan Ritchie (9) performing in the Brass Band act. About the show, Abboud said, "Though the practices were long, the show was great."
- 7: Liliana McMahon (11) sang "Rose's Turn" from the Broadway musical, Gypsy. She utilized props and sets to add extra extravagance to her act.

Juniors Ava Sikyta, Mila Herszbaum-Harding, Lyssa Hernandez and Gage Sutherland prepare for the show. Hernandez was the only member of the makeup and costumes crew. Part of her job was keeping watch of the makeup room and, in her experience, "Roadshow was an organized, but chaotic experience, but the chaos made it fun."

Madeline Jaksha (12) and Malcolm Durfee O'Brien (12) of the journalism department, decided to perform in this year's roadshow as the Masters of Ceremonies. "I would have never auditioned, let alone with Malcolm, had I not been encouraged by his sister," Jaksha said. Durfee O'Brien expressed his experience with a short statement, "Words cannot express how cool I am." The MCs were the two performers who kept up the mood throughout the show, with their creative and comedic skits and conversations.

About her experience, Ada White (10) stated "...I really enjoyed singing "Either Way" with Jonathan Gilmore (10) everytime we got to perform it. there was such a positive response from lots of people I didn't even know would come see the show, which was super encouraging."

Love Easterling (9) and Noah Lawson (9) played the song "Lost Boy" by Ruth B. As freshmen, this was their first Roadshow experience.

Senior Negil McPherson III formed Louie Luther and the Ragerz for this occasion. He sang his original song, "Kicking up the Gravel."

Dance Baby Dance

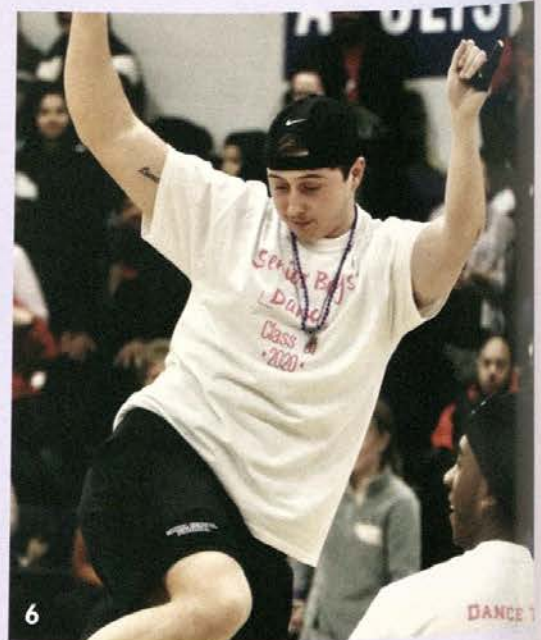

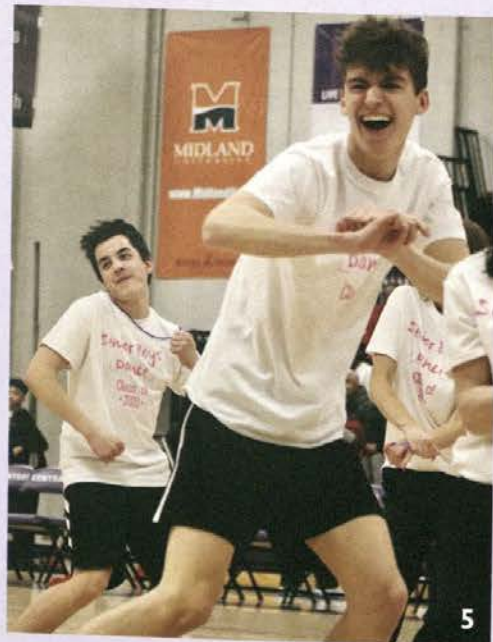

boys senior dance By Emma Nieland and Jamie Reiff

1. Jacob Frezell (12) attempts to dance gracefully as his half of the team attempts to pump him up. "I was forced to do this," Frezell jokes.
2. Mekhi Mitchell (12) and Kelsie McLaughlin (11) are all smiles as they perform for the crowd at halftime. "I was nervous at first, but when I got out there and started dancing it was a fun end to a four year journey," Mitchell said.
3. Senior Tyler Hirschert leaps over Dylan Baker (12) as they dance in between a line of people. "I'm a 5'10" white guy, that was the highest I've ever jumped," Hirschert said.
4. Tysa Dethloff (12) demonstrates "the mop" for the senior boys to follow. "This is most definitely the best senior boys dance I've participated in. They are all better dancers than me," Dethloff said.

5. Jack Mullen (12) laughs as he dances in sync with Oscar Biesanz (12). "I really enjoyed seeing everyone outside of their comfort zone and just having fun," Mullen said.

6. Dylan Baker (12) throws it back with pride as he entertains the crowd. "I throw it back better than Shakira," Baker said.

PILLAGE AND PLUNDER

state swim and dive By Christina Spomer and Brynn Nelson

1. Going in backwards, Dahly Long (11) completes her opening dive. Long celebrated her second state dive by finishing tenth overall.
2. Anne Carpenter (10), Millicent Young (10), Christina Spomer (11) and Valeria Welk (10) pose before swimming the 200 freestyle relay where they placed 5th. The girls later swam again in their 400 freestyle relay placing 6th overall.
3. Senior Gabriel Prescott swam on the boys 400 freestyle relay, helping to lead his team to a win in the consolation heat of finals. "If you asked me freshman year if I thought I would be at state swimming the events I was swimming, next to the people I was next to, I would have said never," Prescott said.
4. Alexander Castillo (11) holds up a sign after finishing sixth at state. This is his first year and is one of the top divers in the state.
5. The Central boys swim team has never had a boys relay place on the podium until now. The boys 200 medley relay consisting of Grant Goding (12), Mark Poeckes (12), Gabriel Spiess (11) and Prescott placed 7th in the state starting a new Central tradition. "I'm so proud of everything we have accomplished this season. I couldn't have asked for better teammates and it won't be the same without them next year" Spiess said.
6. Christina Spomer (11) dives in the water as the anchor of the 400 freestyle relay. "State swim is the longest, two day meet of my life, but the people make it all worth it and are able to keep your energy and spirits high in order to get through the weekend and perform your best," Spomer said.
7. Sophomore Nolan Gray walks over to his coaches after swimming the 100 freestyle. After every race the swimmers discuss what they can improve upon the next time they compete.

PEOPLE

The people of Central are what truly make the school. Together, we create a community of many identities and relationships. Sometimes, the social hierarchy is evident, but in a way that only bolsters our reign stronger. For example, seniors can be thought of as kings and queens, juniors are princes and princesses, sophomores are dukes and duchesses, and freshmen would be the barons and baronesses of the kingdom. On individual levels, we may have different experiences and roles, but together we remain united.

While playing volleyball and helping take care of seven younger siblings, Sophia still manages to have all A's on her report card. She has been playing volleyball since middle school, saying that it is her favorite sport. She enjoys spending time with her teammates and gets along really well with her coaches. She was also the only freshman on the team to receive an award this past season, the Most Improved Player.

Vincent Beaudoin-Favela

J ROTC, art and lawncare are all things important to Vincent. However, art is his biggest passion. As a student in Lindsay Cisco's seventh period art class, Vincent gets to showcase his talent daily. Sharpies are his current medium of choice. Vincent is known in his classes as "Chicken Little" for his fun and bright personality. He also does a very good impression of Chicken Little's voice from the 2005 animated classic. If Vincent were to ever receive an award, his speech would consist of the following: "I'd like to thank my neck, for always supporting my head."

Malachi Butler

"I've been doing pottery since 7th grade," Malachi says of his artistic career. He started doing pottery at Lewis and Clark Middle School, during art classes. The hands-on aspect of working with clay is what really sets the medium apart for him. He doesn't have a pottery wheel at home, but would certainly like one. Because of this, class time is very important for his work. The coolest thing he's ever made was a bowl for dog or cat food, and his family uses it often.

Elena Correa

Do you ever just sit there and think, "Wow, I'm made of star dust?" Elena wants to be an astrophysicist, because she likes trying to answer things nobody has an answer to. She love physics because it's how the entire universe started, and also how it's going to end. There aren't any scientists in her family, but they are really supportive of her dreams. After she graduates, Elena is looking to attend either CalTech or the University of California at Berkeley, both of which have very good astrophysics programs.

One thing that makes Madeline unique is that she likes puzzles. She enjoys the challenge of building them and seeing the finished product. When she finishes, she leaves them out to enjoy the pictures and all of her hard work. The largest puzzle she has finished is a 2,500 piece puzzle. Overall, she is very proud of her work on puzzles and the stress relief they provide.

When Elliott was ten, he went on a family trip to Costa Rica. While there he visited a small island by boat. Once on the island, they were walking through the rainforest when a squirrel monkey came out of a tree and attacked Elliott. He said that there was not a reason that the monkey would have done it. However, he remembers the moment fondly and thinks of it as a fun story to tell and an interesting momento from his family's Costa Rica trip.

Beatrix Jackson

Swimming since the sixth grade, Beatrix Jackson has been through many ups and downs, faced many obstacles, learned valuable lessons and met many lasting friends. Jackson has switched club teams a couple times before finding one that she fell in love with, Swim Omaha. Swim Omaha made her feel welcomed and comfortable, as well as find her love for swimming again. She met many of her best friends and began to look forward to swim practice, which she hadn't before. Balancing school and sports is one of the biggest difficulties a student-athlete has to face. School is stressful and takes up a lot of time which can affect Beatrix's swimming. Swimming in itself is a mentally challenging sport and adding school on top of that, is even more stressful. Beatrix continues to keep up her grades as well as improving her swimming with lots of hard work. She becomes stronger everyday because because of it.

Jerome Kappuzha

Jerome Kappuzha is dedicated to school and getting good grades, partly due to his parents' influence. Jerome has a dream to go to business or medical school and his parents are influential in that dream. Growing up, Jerome was always a very curious person just like his dad. He always asked lots of questions that he immediately wanted to know the answer to, just like his father. His mother always believed hard work will get you places and that is what Jerome believes as well. Jerome was not always the best student. It took lots of hard work and his parents pushing him in order to get where he is today. While Jerome does get good grades and is a well-rounded student, he like everyone else, struggles with procrastination and being lazy at times. He has learned to deal with this over time.

"I was born in Uganda. In Uganda it was different; less modern and remote life. I felt like I had more freedom there. Coming to America there were cars everywhere it was quite overwhelming. My family started off in New York City for about a month, but it was a lot to adjust to, so soon we would move to Nebraska to be around family. [It is a] less overwhelming environment, but the challenge was living with a large family. We ended up having to split into two different houses. My favorite part about Omaha was the zoo. The only thing I dislike is how Nebraska is cut off from the world. Yet, I have made many friends here."

"I love running track and field. I have been running for about four years now. For competitions I run 400-meter and 200-meter dash. I can stay in shape and I love being able to get that runner's high. I believe in setting realistic goals, but to strive for the best. Outside of school I run for the North Omaha Boys and Girls Club Track team."

Ocampo has a passion for photography in which she spends time in and outside of school taking photos. She enjoys shooting almost anything but has a preference for nature photography, most of which are taken with her phone. One of her favorite classes, Digital Media, teaches her how to use programs to edit her photos. As she spends more time learning the software, Ocampo has also developed a passion for editing.

Pedro Perez-Villado enjoys soda just a bit more than the average teenager. He cannot go a day without a Coke and drinks it way more than water, so to him water is disgusting. He drinks about 11-13 cokes in a normal week. "Drinking Coke has become a way of life and its become a habit," he said, claiming he has always been surrounded by Coke, which is what started his addiction.

Kristphoer Robertson may not be intrested in sports, but he has a passion for video games and music. His favorite video games come from the Call of Duty series. "Video games are great because I can connect with people all over that have the same intrests as me," Robertson boasts. The 18 hours-per-week Robertson dedicates to video games can sometimes overlap with his music time, which is mainly rap. Robertson said, "Polo-G is my favorite artist, the words he says make you feel what he's saying." Roberston's two hobbies keep him entertained while he begins to conqeor his high school years.

Sophia Shaneyfelt

Sophia Shaneyfelt has been Irish Dancing for the past 12 years. Whether it's going to competitions or hanging out with friends, Shaneyfelt has enjoyed every minute of it. "My favorite part is definitely getting to dance with my friends, but it can be hard not winning every competition after practicing so hard," Shaneyfelt said. Another infamous aspect of Irish dancing are the heavy wigs. "A lot of girls have quit because of the heavy wigs, but I have built a tolerance so I don't see myself quitting right now." This year Shaneyfelt and her team performed very well at regionals which was a great way to lead into her freshman year of high school.

Jaylin Sims is involved in the school's freshman ensemble. She has been singing since she was six-years-old, and her favorite song is "Halo" by Beyonce. She was chosen for the UNO Choir and recently received an audition for North Platte choir. To be able to audition for these, she had to learn the songs that led her to joining the choir. "Singing is not just voices coming together. It is the harmony mixing with the melody that leads you to believe that you're on top of the world," Sims says.

Bethany Thimjon has a younger sister named Tori. She is 13-years-old and attends Buffet. Together they hang out, and watch Hallmark movies. Hallmark movies are well known for creating a story line of two people falling in love. Their favorite movies to watch on Hallmark are the ones they show during Christmastime. The Christmas movies usually start playing in November, leaving enough time for Bethany and her sister to watch plenty of them. "Movies are able to bring a family together. They are a fun way to relax and have fun with your family after a long week," Thimjon says.

Anne Vickery

Anne Vickery has a heart that is spread all throughout Central. From since she can remember, she has had a natural love for singing. She spends alot of her time in chorus classes and was very proud when her hard work paid off with a solo in her first concert. Aside from being found in the music classrooms, Anne can be found playing softball at Columbus Park. She loves her teammates and enjoys spending time with them while doing what they love. Anne feels at home and could not imagine herself anywhere other than Central.

Makenna Anderson

Anderson has played soccer for 13 years and has a knack for reading and writing, which she utilizes as a staff member of the newspaper. She also made varsity as a freshman for the soccer team. "The feeling of scoring a goal when it matters most feels great and keeps me interested in the game," Anderson said. Soccer has been her favorite way to stay fit and keep healthy relationships with her club team. She hopes to play soccer in college.

Beiermann has been playing the guitar since he was 11 and has always been interested in music and composition. Playing the guitar is like a release and gives Ben a longterm goal and something to focus on. Beierman likes that music is very subjective, as it really helps make guitar such a nice experience for him. He hopes to continue studying music in his free time and start playing gigs.

Aidan Eklund has a passion for baseball. He has been playing the game since he was 3-years-old and has not stopped since. He wants to continue baseball in the future. "If the opportunity presents itself I will take it," Eklund says. His batting average his freshman season was .360, while swinging his Easton Project Three ADV. He plays first base and is also a pitcher. His favorite pitch to throw is an up-and-in-fastball. He hopes to improve his vision as he gets closer to playing varsity baseball.

Ziya Gaskin

Ziya Gaskin is a fashion aficionado. Her sense of style is what makes her stand out. She's not afraid to try bold prints and try the not-so-average hair styles. "Braiding my hair and having it be different colors. I really like that." She draws inspirations from style bloggers on instagram. Her favorite style trends are grunge and barbie doll. Utilizing her creative outlets is what makes Ziya happy. "I love sewing, I started about a year ago but I also like painting and cutting up things, like my jeans, that gets me really excited." After highschool Ziya plans on going to community college for her undergraduate education then going to either New York or Los Angeles to become a fashion editorial designer. "Or maybe being a stylist and dressing models for shows. I don't really know yet, but it's definitely what I'm steering towards. So, I hope end up doing something like that."

Flora Griffith

Flora Griffith is a professional procrastinator and chai tea enthusiast. A queer person of color, but more than that, they are an artist, and someone who prides themselves on who they are and their values. What makes Flora happy is finding new musicians and meeting new people. Flora finds motivation by watching young artists succeed and thrive. When they're not drawing, Flora can be found making or listening to music. After high school Flora plans on attending college on either the East Coast or out of the country studying acting and drama or possibly linguistics. In five years, Flora hopes to be a little less tired, still performing and feeling a little more grounded in themselves. "I'm still young and figuring a lot of stuff out, so often I find myself looking forward to feeling more grounded in my skin."

Taylor Haynes

Sophomore Taylor Haynes has had a passion for basketball since the second grade. Although she doesn't play for Central, Haynes' fondness for the sport hasn't faded, mostly because it was the first thing her older sister taught her to do. The eagles can thank that same sister for Haynes being at Central; not only was she impressed by the school's top tier classes (of which algebra is her favorite), but Haynes could not resist spending her sister's senior year by her side. On the weekends, Haynes can be found working the cash register at WingStop, a job she loves because "everyone gets along." Her experiences have motivated her to become an entrepreneur when she's older.

Kodie Jackson

After watching his father make music for much of his life, Kodie Jackson knew that he was destined to be a producer. His free time is mainly spent jamming out and creating unique beats in his room. Although he is yet to publicize any work, Jackson hopes to have a project out next year on SoundCloud. The sophomore is also an avid nature photographer, but admits that he'll take pictures of anything "that he can get a good shot of." He's looking to hone his skills in Career Center classes as a junior. Jackson's artistic talents, which include pottery and carving as well, are balanced by an adoration for math—although he doesn't see himself in a STEM career in the future.

Most students have a lot on their plate when starting high school. Nieland has created a community of support by joining the swim team and getting involved with CHS drama. Luke spends a lot of his time perfecting his strokes, as he participates in both club and Central swim teams. Even though he is a busy high schooler and athlete, Luke still finds the time to sit down in Central's new addition and enjoy a good book.

Similar to her peers, Roberts is strongly involved in the arts. She's spent the past eight years of her life singing and has been in the past two Central theatrical performances' ensembles. With nearly 1,200 Tiktok followers, Roberts doesn't just leave her fame in the hallways of the school. She also has a fascination with business. This interest has grown to an aspired future career due to her love of economy, the stock market and statistics, which she plans on going into with the title of "International Saleswoman."

Nelly Vera-Esquivel

Nelly Vera-Esquivel loves to paint landscapes, sunsets, flowers and trees. She is also capable of designing a pretty mean stick figure, but that is the extent of her portrait skills. Along with the ability to paint beautiful landscapes, Nelly believes all colors are fantastic and therefore her favorite color is decided depending on her mood. Nelly has never taken an art class at Central, but does spend plenty of time doodling in classes. "Sometimes I doodle instead of paying attention and I don't think that's smart, but sometimes you just have to appreciate the outdoors," Vera-Esquivel said.

In second grade, Alex Wiczorek's family lived in a haunted house. Many items went missing; phones often ended up in the basement or other creepy places in the home. Wiczorek recalls that the weirdest thing he experienced was when tables and chairs would move a couple of feet. He also remembers that the family dog would refuse to enter their house. After two years, his family decided to move out. "I knew the house was haunted when my dad started yelling at the attic for talking to him," Wiczorek said.

Born on a United States Air Force base, Myles Baker has grown up with patriotism and leadership in his blood. Myles has been a member of Central High School's JROTC program for three years and counting, and is highly decorated and respected. He has many roles within the program including being the color guard commander, performing portfolio and community service briefings, inspections and is an esteemed member of the drill team. Next year, Myles hopes to be given the title of Batalian Executive Officer. After high school, he plans to attend the Naval Academy and later join the United States Marines. His aspirations are derived from his goal to always be pushed and challenged as well as following in the footsteps of his family.

Teagan, when not working at Swimtastics, sings. You would expect nothing less than constant singing from someone who is a part of an A capella group, Tri M, the Allstate Choir and CHS singers. Singing has always been a large part of her life. "I've been singing my whole life for UN, but I did Mini-singers in middleschool. Then I didn't sing in any choirs as a freshman, but sophomore year I auditioned for Concert Choir and got in. This year I auditioned for All-State and I got in too. I recently auditioned for Bach (UNO honor choir) and I got in, as well as All-City too," Borelli said.

When asked about what she loves to do, Maia responded that she loves horror movies, specifically all of the classics such as Scream, the Halloween series and Friday the 13th. She claims to be such a fanatic, that she could tell you about possibly any movie you ask about. Whether she's enjoying them while hanging out with her friends at home, or going to the movie theatre, her favorite snacks are anything chocolate and chips. She enjoys a scare, and if she was in the movies herself she "would probably be one of the last ones to die," Chism said.

Devon Gill

Technology has become a must in today's society. Devon Gill has embraced this as a hobby and has been building computers for two years. He gets very nervous since "anything can mess up the wiring, which is stressful since the pieces are expensive." Gill has built a total of four computers, and has purchased all of the parts himself. Along with being a computer technician, Gill is also a guitarist. Having grown up with music in the home, he easily took up the guitar; he now has a total of eight years under his belt. He does not play for Central, since for him it's more of a personal thing. Gill does not plan on making computers or guitars his career, rather he wants to go into accounting or something similar.

Nancy Henriquez

In this day and age, uncertainty is a constant and common feeling. However, Nancy Henriquez believes that "with time you'll find answers, in the meanwhile find a source of peace." With her passive, neutral and open-minded personality she spreads the spirit of peace. Most of her beliefs stem from the poetry she reads, since they bring her to a sense of calmness, which she tries to implement in her daily life. She accepts growth as a part of living because nothing is permanent. She learns from her friends, family and Life Church on how to find serenity in a world that is always moving.

Hannah Hough

An aspiring artist who draws inspiration from various artists such as Zach Wendt, Emilio Villalba and Jillian Tamaki, Hannah has been involved in art since 2010. Her family used to host art shows in their home throughout her childhood. She has always been encouraged to draw and paint. Hannah and her family used to to be neighbors with a local artist who actually got her parents to start painting which brought on a very encouraged artistic environment. A lot of her art has a theme of humor and irony. "The drawings make people laugh and I have a lot of fun making them," Hough says. She's in the process of building a strong portfolio so she can be advanced into a successful career in art which is really important to her at the moment. Her goal is, "to stay in the art field because art brings me joy." She would love to have a career in freelance illustration, animation or graphic design.

Bryan Jimenez-Adan

Bryan spends his time volunteering at places like homeless shelters and describes himself as someone who puts everyone before himself. He also describes himself as a person who doesn't hold grudges against people. When his friends are asked about Jimenez-Adan many of them described him as "warm, funny, kindhearted, passionate and ready to fight for what he believes in." As well as being passionate about helping people and being kind, he's very interested in art and fashion. He loves styling people, as well as drawing and sketching. He's been drawing since he was 3 and "never stopped from that age." He says it was most likely his "vivid imagination and strong emotions" that got him into art.

Genevieve Lewis

She is a girl that makes an impact with her voice and her hands. She does not necessarily come from an artistic home, but she has carved her own path. She would describe herself as independent, extroverted and having "grandma vibes." Fitting enough, indie rock bands Girlpool and Mom Jeans were her top artists on her Spotify Wrapped playlist this year. She began singing in kindergarten and her passion grew as she got older. Recently, she has taken her vocal advancement more seriously. She also loves to express herself through art. Her inspiration usually stems from a "strong emotion" or fascination with a figure, concept or thing and turns into something completely different. Her favorite type of art is expressionism because she "really likes how the works of art transport you into a feeling and how the figures can be so warped with emotion." One day she would love to find a career that suits both of her interests. "Art and music is all just a language to tell a story, from their art on another level," Lewis described.

Wejuic Majok

Since she was 8, she has found confidence in her wardrobe. An important factor that goes into her outfits is color, regardless of the brand of clothing. "A lot of our generation are more worried about brands than anything." She believes color is the most essential part and everyone has "their" color. Personally, her favorite color to sport is red. What she loves most about styling outfits is planning the photo shoots with it. She purposely is very particular in where she chooses to shoot. "With photo shoots a big thing for me is that the background has to tie with the outfit, it's exciting how everything comes out." Her main inspiration is Yara Shahidi because she enjoys how she has various ways of showing off her style. The way she is dedicated and passionate about this hobby is the same way she conducts herself through life. While most of her friends are involved in sports, she found her interest in styling outfits and planning photo shoots. In the future, she would like to go into business and combine these two passions into a career.

On my birthday, two of my friends and I helped create glass butterflies for the Immigration Legal Center." To celebrate earlier this year, he went to his friend's house in hopes of making a carrot cake. Instead, he went to the Immigration Legal Center, where his friend's mom volunteers. He was originally going to stand back and watch, but then he noticed they needed help so he stepped up to assist. "It was actually really fun," Pai said about the experience.

"I've always liked to cook." Varsity athlete Michael Reynolds may seem like a tall jock, but he has more to him than that. Even though he plays football, runs track and does powerlifting, another thing Reynolds enjoys is cooking. He wants to join the NFL, but another route he's considering is being a professional chef, and opening his own restaurant.

Paulina Salzman

Paulina Salzman is one of three Irish dancers who attend Central High School. Paulina has been Irish dancing for eight years. Before that, she took ballet and tap, which she thought to be too easy. Salzman wanted to try a dance style that was more exciting and different. She has shown off some of her Irish dance choreography in the Central Road Show. Freshman and sophomore year she danced alongside Carolyn Dillman (11), a fellow Irish dancer.

SPRING HAPPENINGS

Spring is a symbol of new beginnings, a sentiment that does not quite match the tradition and history of royalty.

Central is certainly home to time-honored excellence and a long life as the oldest high school in Nebraska.

However, it is also the home of an ever-changing crop of students. While the royalty of Central stays strong, those that embody it are constantly evolving and changing. Each spring brings new opportunities for us all to grow with our school, even if this specific spring has kept us away from it physically.

1. Without a crowd in the stands, the players on the bench are the biggest support. Jason Warner (11) said, "It's been amazing to cheer on my teammates. It's a part of the atmosphere and the game itself."

2. Deng Diew (12) keeps his eyes up and alert as he rushes to the basket. "Playing for Central was a great experience and I have a lot of fun with a lot of great people," he said.

3. Jayden Dawson (10) keeps his head in the game. This year was Dawson's first year as a varsity player.

4. Abraham Hoskins III (12) has high energy as he dribbles the ball down the court. "That was my first time with the ball, so I decided I was going to shoot it regardless of the fast break."

1. Heidi Heyden (12) competes for a repeat win. "Coming back as reigning champions, we all knew that we would have to work extremely hard to defend our titles, and that was what we all did."

2. "The State meet was an incredibly emotional end to a chapter. Having both our girls and boys team make it to the championship was the perfect ending to a season full of hard work," Hudson Gardner (12) said.

STATE CAN'T WAIT

By Jamie Reiff and Dillon Galloway boys state basketball

5. Maxwell Polk (12) leaps in the air to prevent a Packer from passing the ball. "I was jumping to get my senior year back," Polk said.

6. Latrell Wrightsell (12) rushes down the court to score a point. Latrell was the first player on the team to reach 1,000 points this year.

7. Senior Polk cries after playing his last game for Central. "It was just devastating watching the ball go around the rim and fall out; it hit me that I would never put this uniform on again."

JUST LIFT IT

state powerlifting By Dillon Galloway

4

3. As Larry Moreland (10) lifts the bar, he is making sure to maintain a good form. This is essential, as it prevents him from being injured inadvertently.

4. Squatting beneath the barbell is sophomore Adah Gibson. Behind her, Coach Dennis Baker is seen cheering her on.

5. Deshawn Woods (10), along with the rest of the team, reached success in his final powerlifting meet of the year. "First they will ask why you're doing it, later they'll ask how you did it," he explained.

6. "Powerlifting, as a girl, truly taught me how to love my body for its strength and ability rather than what is just socially acceptable or not. It was an environment where women who are strong are greatly celebrated and that has changed my life forever," Ruby Martinez (12) said.

7. Christian Dump (11) lifts the barbell off its stand in preparation. This particular set was over 400 pounds.

THE IMPACT OF COVID-19

On March 11, 2020, COVID-19 (also known as the coronavirus) was declared a pandemic, meaning it was a health crisis impacting the whole world. Though the virus existed as early as the previous December, this announcement launched a new state of anxiety and preparation in the United States, including the closure of many schools.

What to Do...

homework

Though the lack of actual classroom time can make it seem like school is already out for summer, classes are still continuing. In OPS, grades are not allowed to be entered, but many students still see the importance in maintaining participation in their classes. This could be to ensure they earn dual enrollment credit or simply a desire to learn. Classwork can be assigned on many online platforms, such as Teams or Canvas or the online AP resources. These are made to study for the AP exams, which are now online, shortened, and only covering material from before March.

video games

The timing of Animal Crossing: New Horizons' launch came just as many people started self-quarantining. The virtual game set on a desert island provides a calm alternative to the hectic realities many are facing currently. Thus, the game quickly gained popularity among those stuck in their homes. However, the game has not just been used for idly spending time; users have been recreating events they are missing due to isolation or connecting with friends online. One senior, Mekenna Whitney, even recreated her senior photos on the game to share with her friends and classmates.

streaming

The closures of movie theaters nationwide prompted many companies to shift their releases to the digital world. Disney premieres like Onward and Frozen II were available to stream soon into quarantines, as many people in their homes are looking for ways to spend their newly abundant free time. Other services have long been known for their streaming of relatively new releases, such as Hulu's streaming of Parasite. Of course, now is a good time for many to revisit their old favorites, or simply start new shows they've been meaning to binge.

SCHOOL'S OUT

measures taken by OPS

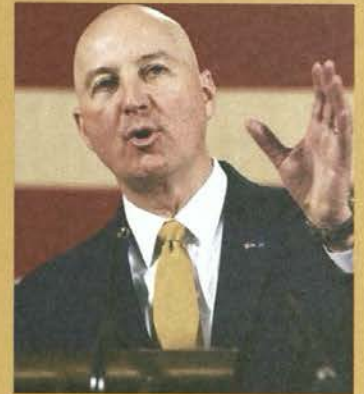

In the effort to slow the spread of the coronavirus, OPS announced during spring break that schools would be shut down for the following week. However, as more cases of community spread emerged, school was called off indefinitely. Following Governor Pete Ricketts' call for all groups to be prohibited until May 31, it became clear that students would not be returning this year.

Following a virtual meeting with the class presidents of all OPS high school's (Central's is Lauren Anderson), Superintendent Cheryl Logan announced that graduation ceremonies would not proceed as originally planned. There will be a virtual celebration in May with hopes for a postponed ceremony in early August.

Soon into quarantine, OPS decided to formally call off all proms across the city. Obviously, these gatherings greatly exceed the recommendations of ten or less people. While this news was disappointing to many seniors, some saw ways to celebrate on their own, such as Mekhi Mitchell's (12) basement ball.

The announcement banning gatherings until May 31 dashed many hopes that the spring sports season would be able to go on, as all group sports were officially prohibited by the governor.

GLOBAL CRISIS

pandemic in other countries

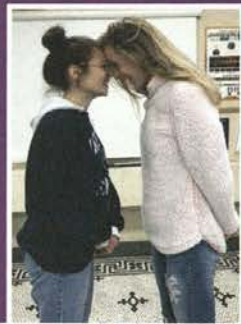

ITALY

Despite alarming death rates (the highest globally, at time of publication), the people of Italy have rallied in socially distant support of each other. Viral videos showed neighborhoods in Italy performing music and mini-concerts from balconies and windows, showing the spirit of the community.

France has not been hit as hard as some of its European neighbors. Some of this can be attributed to it being the first country to close all of its schools, which certainly helped to flatten the curve.

LETTER FROM THE EDITORS

This time around, we were at a distinct advantage in creating this yearbook. Already, we had a year of experience under both of our proverbial belts: a year of organizing staff members to play to their strengths, of dividing coverage to create a clear picture of our entire school, of cutting classes to maximize our efforts to make this book even better than last year's. It seemed we had a lot to live up to, and the task of doing it all over again became daunting. While this year certainly had a lot of shortcuts in terms of designs already brainstormed or ideas already brewing, it also provided a lot of opportunity for us to not live up to our first publication as Editors-in-Chief. Instead of crafting an entirely original tone and style that would define our little editing duo (as we did last year), we had to find a way to build on to our previous endeavors. It is our hope that this book shows exactly that. A more refined style, a little more consciousness in design decisions, a lot more attention paid to what the student body is looking for in their yearbook. This book's theme, Purple Reign, was actually developed in planning for last year's, as a sort of pipe dream from an eighties music and wordplay fanatic. However, as we examined the goals for this year's book, we realized Purple Reign was the perfect fit. An homage to royalty, this theme is meant to honor the enduring legacy of Central and its students. At the risk of sounding sappy, you students are truly what makes Central as special as it is. If last year's book was a love letter to the school, this volume is a letter of thanks to its students. Thank you for being yourselves and showing compassion and determination at every turn. Thank you for having pride in this school and in each other. Thank you for taking the time to read this book and see the hard work of all the staff members. Thank you for giving us editors the opportunity to do it all over again, but better.

COLOPHON & EPILOGUE

All of the pages of this O-Book and Epilogue were printed by Walsworth Yearbooks. Fonts used include Cooper Black, Appetite, Chantilly and Adelon. Senior photos were taken by photographers in the Omaha and Council Bluffs area and various student photographers. Underclassmen, staff and some senior photos were taken by Scholastic Photography. Photos in this yearbook were taken by members of the O-Book and The Register Staff. Credit is given to pictures that were not taken by Central journalism staff members. All layouts were made by Editors-in-Chief Emma Nieland (12) and Sedona Cheloha (12), along with various staff members. The editing of this publication was conducted by yearbook adviser Hillary Blayney and previously mentioned editors. Official members of the 2020 Yearbook Staff created this yeabook: Sedona Cheloha (12), Emma Nieland (12), Lauren Anderson (12), Dillon Galloway (12), Emily Hodges (12), Madeline Jaksha (12), Brianna Collins (12), Peyton Venneman (12), Kween Alabi (12), Vanessa Amoah (12), Sophia Gibson (12), Isabelle Sgourakis (12), Jamies Reiff (11), Dahly Long (11), Avery Schlote (11), Carolyn Dillman (11), Jonathan Savoie (11), Rita Herrera Villado (11), Christina Spomer (11), Naomi Week (11), Emma Miller (11), Alexis Walker (11), Brynn Nelson (11), Na'Kishay Perry (11), Joseph Craig (11), Ella Larsen (10), Olivia Caldwell (10), Olivia Mangiameli (10) and Maura Drufee O'Brien (10). We are very proud of this publication and hope all recipients enjoy.

that is entering even now the lip of our understanding carry you out beyond the face of fear may you kiss
the wind then turn from it certain that it will love your back may you open your eyes to water
water waving forever and may you in your innocence sail through this to that*

*Love,

I loved you before
I knew you
And I was scared
the day you came
Your giant future was in my tiny hands
And our lives would never be same

To watch you change and grow
A little bit each day Has been the greatest honor
That I could ever say

Your courage and your hope Continue to surprise me
And I cannot wait to see
The incredible

With a love that can not compare,
A miraculous blessing you are,
A miracle with God that we share.*

*We thank God for your life,
And the person you've become,
With all of your accomplishments...
We are so proud of you son.*

*We pray for God's guidance,
And wisdom for you,
To seek His will and feel His presence,
Your whole life through.*

*Be strong in your Faith,
Like a rock that can not move,
It will carry you through life,
Solid and True.*

*With each new day and every night,
Ask God for His mercy and care,
And know that our love for you
Is a love beyond compare.*

*We Love You and are very Proud of YOU!
