The January Class of 1925

THE January class of 1925 numbered forty, the largest class in the history of Central. Miss Nelle Bridenbaugh, Miss Lena May Williams, and Mr. V. E. Chatelain were elected sponsors, and their earnest co-operation with the seniors made the work of the class possible.

This class showed its loyalty to Central and her activities by pledging itself at once one hundred per cent for Student Association tickets.

For the first time in history a January class came before the school in a mass meeting. On the mornings of January 13 and 14 the seniors gave two mass meetings with the dual purpose of boosting the Neihardt entertainment and of presenting the seniors in a farewell to Central.

Among the most enjoyable events of the year were the hayrack party on November 3, and the senior banquet held on January 9 at the University Club.

The climax of the class' activity came in the presentation of Mr. John G. Neihardt in the high school auditorium on January 16. This worth-while entertainment was made possible by the enthusiastic support of Mr. J. G. Masters, the sponsors, and the class.

January Class Prophecy

ONE day I was returning home after several hours of wearisome work at the College of D. F. M.—no, it does not stand for College of Decrepit Faculty Members, but for College of Dentistry, Forestry, and Medicine—where I instruct the senior class in table manners and proper etiquette on a blind date. As it was a bitterly cold and stormy day, I stepped into the lobby of the Cassidy Theatre, named for Miss Mildred Cassidy, reigning belle of the Midnight Folly Chorus. Glancing about, I saw behind a cloud of dust, and wielding a huge broom—Willard Bailey, that black-haired president. He tried to avoid me, but I rushed over and seized his arm. We began talking of old times and classmates, and I picked up some really delightful bits of news. It seems that Tom Halpin of India is in line for the heavyweight championship of Africa. Alice Bondesson is the under nursemaid for the prize-winning poodle of Madame Ruth Margolin Vanderbilt. Rose Rosenstein is residing in Greenwich Village where her painting "The Moon on a Cloudy Night," is hailed as the masterpiece of American literature. Bessie Kirschenbaum married Pat Nolan, upholder of the law.

I then rushed out to my car, and almost knocked over two small tots. I looked up—the mother was Myrtle Powell. I could not chat, for I was in a rush. Inside the car, I found myself next to Isadore Schriebman, who was a graduate of the I. C. S., and aspired to be a criminal lawyer. I discovered that I had the wrong car, so I got off and barely escaped being hit by a huge limousine. The chauffeur, Wilber Horwich, was flirting desperately with a pretty girl whom he did not recognize—it was Elaine Hussey who starred in the movies after winning a beauty contest in Waseka, Minnesota.

January Class Prophecy

I saw a picture of Fannie Fish in a newspaper entangled about my feet. She was returning from the Sahara where she had aided Prof. Earl Mercia, famous biologist, by imitating the cries of cows, cats, and birds, with her violin. Helen Bowman, who solved a cross-word puzzle in Czecho-Slovakian, was being entertained by Helen Ehster, the famous suffragette. Miss Esther Ellis, matron of the cat and canary hospital, had just returned from Europe where she had investigated social conditions.

Florence Nestor was selling tickets in a dime movie and Larvin Rullman was running the popcorn stand. A poster announced that Miss Florence Levy would speak on "The Place of Man in a Well Regulated Family."

Then I met Olga Plouzek, who invited me to her home for dinner. She made a fortune selling oil stock. She told me that Helen Pitzer was publicity agent for Barnum & Bailey (no relation to Willard) and Ringling Bros. combined circuses. The death-defying bareback rider was Agda Larson. Myfanwy Jones, desperately pounding the keys of the steam calliope, leads all their parades.

Leo Chaiken teaches ballet dancing, and has put Theodore Kosloff out of business, while Audrey Groves is running a pawnshop in Korea.

Then came an awful crash, and collecting my scattered senses, I discovered that it was only my landlady, Miss Mary Eastman, who demanded her rent. It was a great relief, though, to know that I had only dreamed that awful nightmare, but as Virgil remarked in the Odyssey,

"YOU NEVER CAN TELL."

June Seniors

AS WE, the graduating Seniors of '25, realize that we are leaving Central for good, we feel joy of course, because our second lap of education is finished, and we feel, too, the adventurous thrill of embarking either on a college or a business career. However, this graduating sensation has another side. There is regret in no small degree at leaving the scene of so many good times (we have had them in spite of lessons), and the place of meeting life-long friends, and then there is that terrible, indescribable feeling that we really haven't done enough for our high school. This feeling sometimes overshadows the fact that we haven't been entirely idle during our four years' residence at Central.

For one thing, our Senior boys have been bright and gleaming stars in football, basketball, track, and swimming; in fact, in all athletics, and our Senior girls, not to be outdone, have made a name for themselves in basketball, hockey, tennis, and volleyball. The Seniors have been illustrious in all other worth-while activities such as Debate, Speakers' Bureau, Student Control, Central Committee, during their high school career, and have done really valuable work toward the betterment of Central's activities.

We have not been lacking on the honor roll and even on the five A list. We have had many of our class taking the train for Lincoln to enter the state scholarship contests; so, after all, remember that the Seniors of '25 have done their bit in Central's seething whirlpool of lessons and activities.

Out of the Mailbox

June, 1940.

*Received a bunch of notes,
Just the other day,
Perhaps you'd like to know
Exactly what they say.*

Wilma McFarland—"I'm running for governor of Kansas now, and ought to get elected with Murray as my campaign manager."

Paul Jenkins—"Paul Fetterman is some minister. He got me, Henry Clarke, Charles Haas, Robert Hartman, Ralph Jeffries, Bartlett Quigley, and John Sherwood away from golf long enough to form an Anti-Pool Hall Society. Sh! Don't breathe a word of this, but he did it thru his influence with our wives."

Helen Bramman—"Sure am glad I learned how to cook. Those who were once Belle-Howe Arey, Ruth Beardsley, 'Babe' Christie, Betty Fradenburg, 'Swede' Larson, Dean Robbins, and Adelaide Seabury, as well as myself, have formed a 'Better Babies' Club. We married women have to stick together, you know."

David Waterman—"Have invented a fine non-skid floor polish, but haven't had time to patent it yet, tho' Ellen gets after me every day."

Jean Borglum—"Honestly, I'm nothing but skin and bone. The life of a piano mover is no joke. Beatrix Manley, my new truck driver, works havoc with the traffic force. Three have been fired for neglect of duty the past week."

"Wally" Marrow—"On account of my complexion, I am demonstrating the value of FINE FACE COLD CREAM. I hear 'Jim' Hoyle with that handsome countenance of his is still trying to break into the movies. Isn't it a fact that one is born every minute?"

Sam Minkin—"Stayed out of the Congressional session long enuff last week to go to New York to see Sylvia Adler dance in 'Waves.' She did it, too."

Kathryn Freitag—"Selling autos is keen, especially the demonstration car. Every day I drive past Ernie Weymuller's pop corn stand and Allan Reiff's delicatessen shop right next to it. Some competition!"

"Dick" Sinclair—"Hot tamales take fine with the public. Sold one to Don Gorton the other day who said the restaurant business is a whiz, but has had a terrible time getting a new chef since Harold Barris went into the chicken business."

Catherine Mills—"Behold a traveling saleswoman for the Stay-Rolled Stocking Co. Dorothy Johnson is certainly tripping the light fantastic. She's the hostess at the largest hotel in Atlantic City and I see her every time I stop there."

Anna Jonisch—"Political Peace Thru Clean Politics' is the motto of our Women's Peace League. Other officers beside myself are Ruth Pollack, Louise Rosenthal, and Lois Reichenberg. We have quite a time to get peace ourselves between Lois and Louise, but otherwise things are going smoothly."

Out of the Mailbox

Deane Starrett—"Am designing various types of doll clothes just at present. Did you know that Art Green is the editor of The Daily Marriage Sheet, and is operating thru this paper the most stupendous and successful matrimonial bureau in the U. S.?"

Vivian Wrenn—"Jessie Mitchell and I are having a lovely time in the Mitchell Home for Crippled Fords and Typewriters. Jessie looks after the Fords and I the Typewriters."

Frederic Oliver—"Grinding out classical music on the bassoon at one buck per day, since the wild craze for classics set in. What is the older generation coming to? Here's John Sharpe playing Beethoven on the shoe horn while his Shoe Shining Parlor goes to the dogs."

Drusa Delahoyde—"The life of a missionary has its compensations. The other day up in Hong-Kong I saw 'Chick' Dox and 'Phil' Price trying to sell nail files to a group of Chinamen."

Bernarr Wilson, President of Youth's College for Girls and Boys Under 80—"Joe Vaught is a charming matron of the Girls' Dormitory. She keeps all the kittenish girls of 60 from eloping with boys under 25. Remarkable work, really."

Leona Pollack—"Ha! Gaze upon the chief usherette of the dazzling Mammoth Theatre. Next week Lester Lapidus, co-starring with Lila Showalter, is coming in 'Poor but Honest.' Harry Wise is also on the bill, but he is in vaudeville and will talk on 'The Evil of the Phonograph in the Home.'"

Volcott Swift—"Have trained fleas so successfully that I'm getting a number of goldfish from Reader and Robinson, Dealers in Fish, just to see what luck I have with them."

Catherine Southard—"Lost my last case and Curses! the opposing attorney was none other than my friend, Dave Fellman."

John Trout—"I'm not complaining, but life is a hard taskmaster. After I come home from a hard day trying to get boys interested in the old game of mumble peg, my wife drags me off to John Byron's School of the Dancing Foot."

Beverly Manning—"Juggling may be entrancing, but it's certainly expensive. Frances Elliott and Helen Gray are becoming quite famous in South America making new discoveries in plant and animal life. Such is the way of fate."

Stanfield Johnson—"I don't want to seem conceited, but there's not many men at my age who reach the position of official flag carrier in all patriotic Elks' parades. Poor old George Lorenz is merely the Pres. of the Cross City Omnibus Co., while our friend Elwood Wilmoth is engineer of Engine No. 788,989,000, which runs between Omaha and Valley."

Alberta Elsasser—"Am operating three beauty parlors. Do you remember Margaret Dailey? She's my best manicurist and attracts a great deal of masculine trade."

Out of the Mailbox

Lloyd Marquis—"Glad I had a French name to give to my new derbies for women. I had Hazel Showalter, the ideal business secretary, in mind when I conceived the idea of the Marquis Hat."

George Gesman—"Sure is hard keeping my mouth going continually advertising Everlasting Gum."

Beth Cole—"You may be interested to know that I, with the aid of Janice O'Brien and Dr. Lawrence Mollin, have undertaken a movement to introduce methods of correct dieting in the school curriculum. Since Central has installed elevators, the girls are becoming entirely too stout."

"Bill" Kearns—"Running a circus is a regular merry-go-round. We sure know the crowds since Mary Alice Race has been our 'Strong Woman.'"

Lucille Gannon—"I spend most of my time playing Will-o'-the-Wisp, the new game which stepped in when Bridge died out. You can see Annalee Yates, the master mechanic of Mary Walrath's garage, in overalls any time of the day or nite."

Scott Eidson—"How the mighty do slip and the lowly do stick. I've reached the maximum of washing 20 plates a minute breaking only three, and ran against Willoughby Conner for Pres. of the Dishwashers' Union. Not wanting him to have any competition being the reason I ran."

Madeline Miller—"Coaching children's plays is so inspirational n'everything. I get all my costumes from 'Dick' McNamara who has absolutely the best children's dress shop in town."

Lynn Norris—"My reputation as a second Sherlock Holmes is rather annoying for I am pestered by so many enterprising to-be divorcees such as Irene Goosman."

Warren Chiles—"Just been promoted to general manager of the glass blowing factory. So George Gillespie is trying to see how many shovelfuls of dirt he can dig per day without becoming tired! I understand he's advanced to three shovelfuls in the first four months."

Alice Mae Christensen—"Got my appointment as mail aviatrix thru Postmaster General Henry DeLong's influence."

Virginia Powell—"The chimney of my Photographing Parlors caught fire yesterday. It was quite a treat 'cause 'Jim' McMullen, Fire Chief, came in a nice shiny uniform—really too cunning for words."

Delmar Saxton—"Still trying to make kids believe in Santy Claus. Al Shrier is a deep sea diver for colored dirt, while Richard Cole and Ruth Fitch are in Honolulu trying to find a gold mine. Alice Rothwell and Roy Larsen are both high ski jumpers of note, and are up in Alaska practicing for the next contest."

Class of 1926

OUR class of '26 has kept "Old Central's" standards high. We have all endeavored to enter into the real spirit of our school. Many are the scholastic honors which have fallen to members of the Junior class. Miriam Wells led the honor roll with five and one-half A's, while five other Junior girls received five A's.

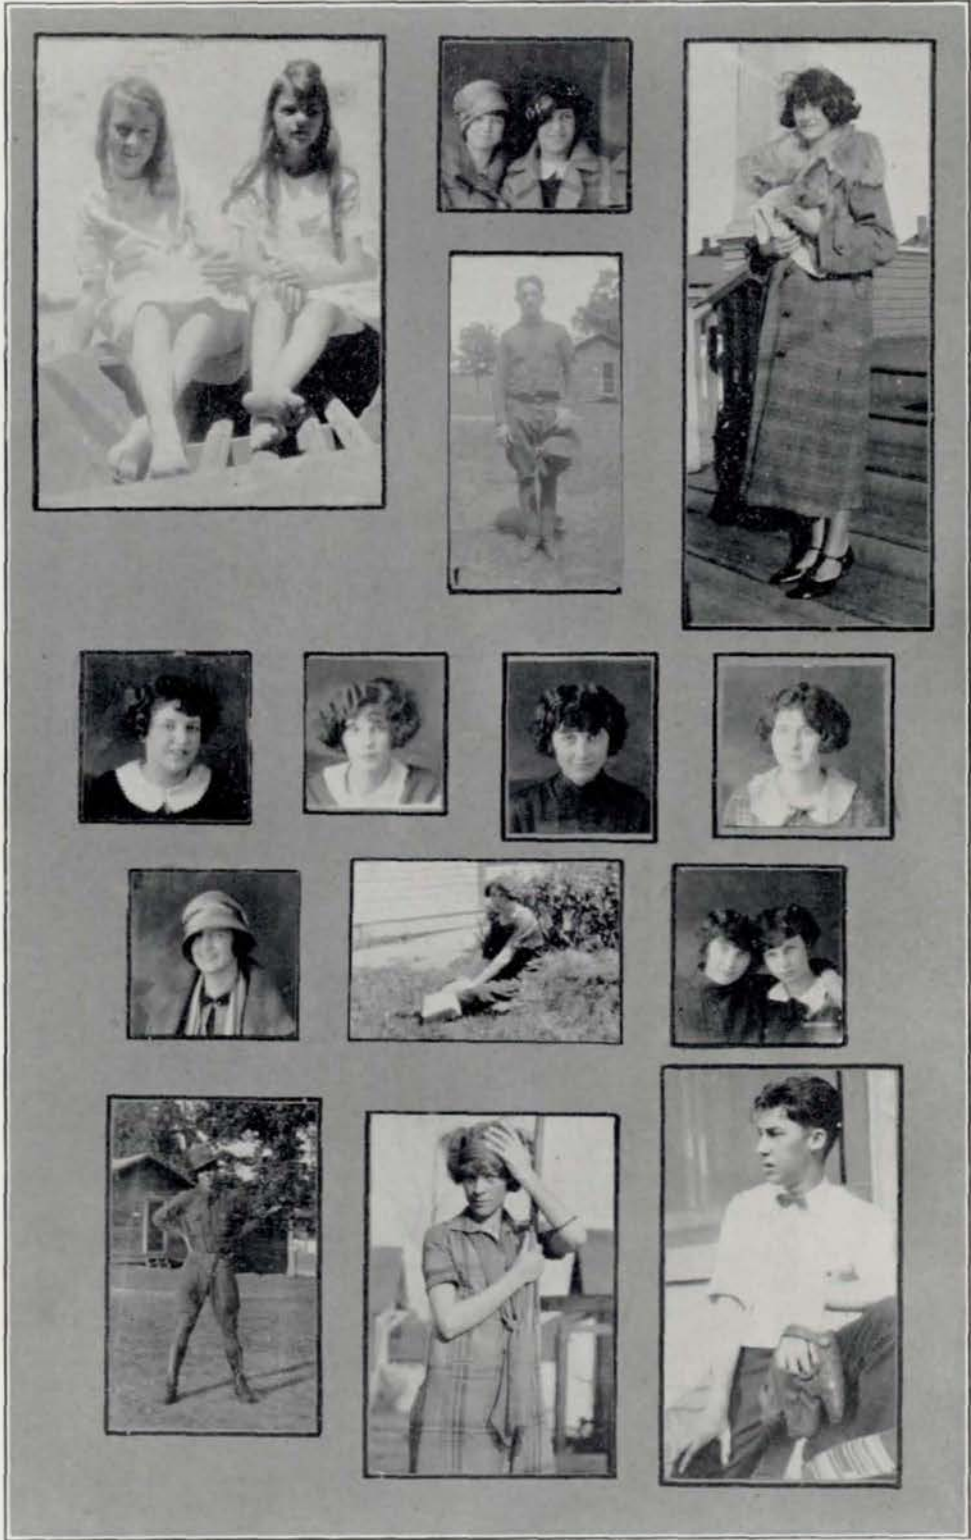

We not only have been well represented in scholarship, but have also entered into all student activities. Among the most prominent Junior boys in athletics are William Egan, Wilbur Jones, Basil Turner, Carl Lindell, and Henry Glade.

Two outstanding boys on the debate team are James Mason and Edward Brown. Numerous students of our class of '26 are members of Speakers' Bureau, Student Control, and Central Committee, all organizations of lasting benefit to the school.

From every standpoint we feel that we have gained a great deal through the experience of the past year. With a true loyalty and a firm determination to bear high the royal banner to be entrusted to us by the graduating class, we look forward to our Senior year.

Class of 1927

AS THE class of 1927 we feel that we have contributed to Central's activities and organizations, and we are duly proud of our numerous and worthy participants.

In football several of our men made remarkable showings. These men were Pirruccello, Thompson, Mortenson, Schimmel, Lieben, Smith, Larkin, Carmichael, Sutphen, and McKinley.

In basketball we were represented by Wallace Chadwell on the first squad. On the girls' team were Dorothy L. Jones, Helen Howe, Oletha Ingram, Dorothy Boucher, Ida Tennenbaum, Madeline Shipman, and Dorothy Zimmerman.

In swimming five of the members of the team: Gallup, Peterson, Larkin, Smith, and Enger were expert participants.

When A's are in order, the Sophomores come out of the ordeal with colors flying. Over twenty of those receiving four or more A's were Sophomores.

Our class has always expressed its active loyalty to Central by attending every mass meeting and other school functions. Pep and loyal boosting is instilled in every member of the class. Under the leadership of our efficient officers we hope to be able to fill the place of the upper classmen with the welfare of Central always at heart.

Class of 1925

WE, THE class of 1928, fully realizing our present insignificance, but just as fully realizing our future importance to Central high school, pledge ourselves to maintain the high standards which have been set by the former graduating classes.

While at present we may be of little consequence, yet in the next three years we will play an important part in the affairs of our school.

Meekly we submit to all the indignities which are heaped upon us by the upper classmen, knowing full well that, since all things come to him who waits, we can soon visit the same practices on the future incoming freshmen.

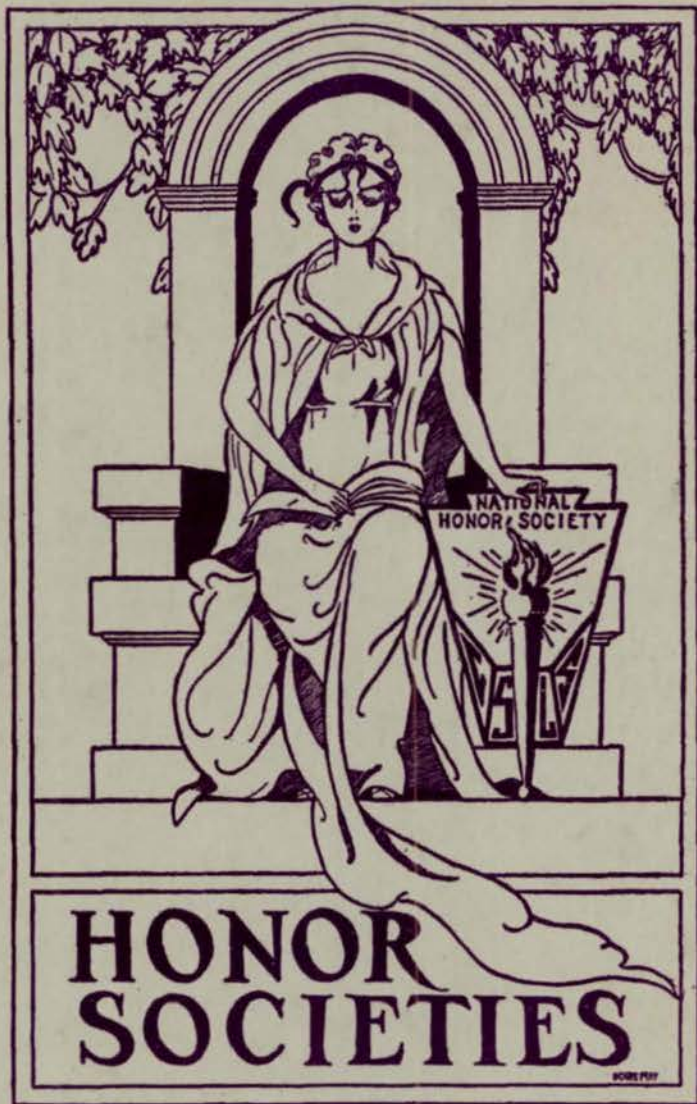

Even now, we have been here a sufficient length of time to consider ourselves a full-fledged part of the school, proud of its achievements, and loyal to its purposes and ideals.

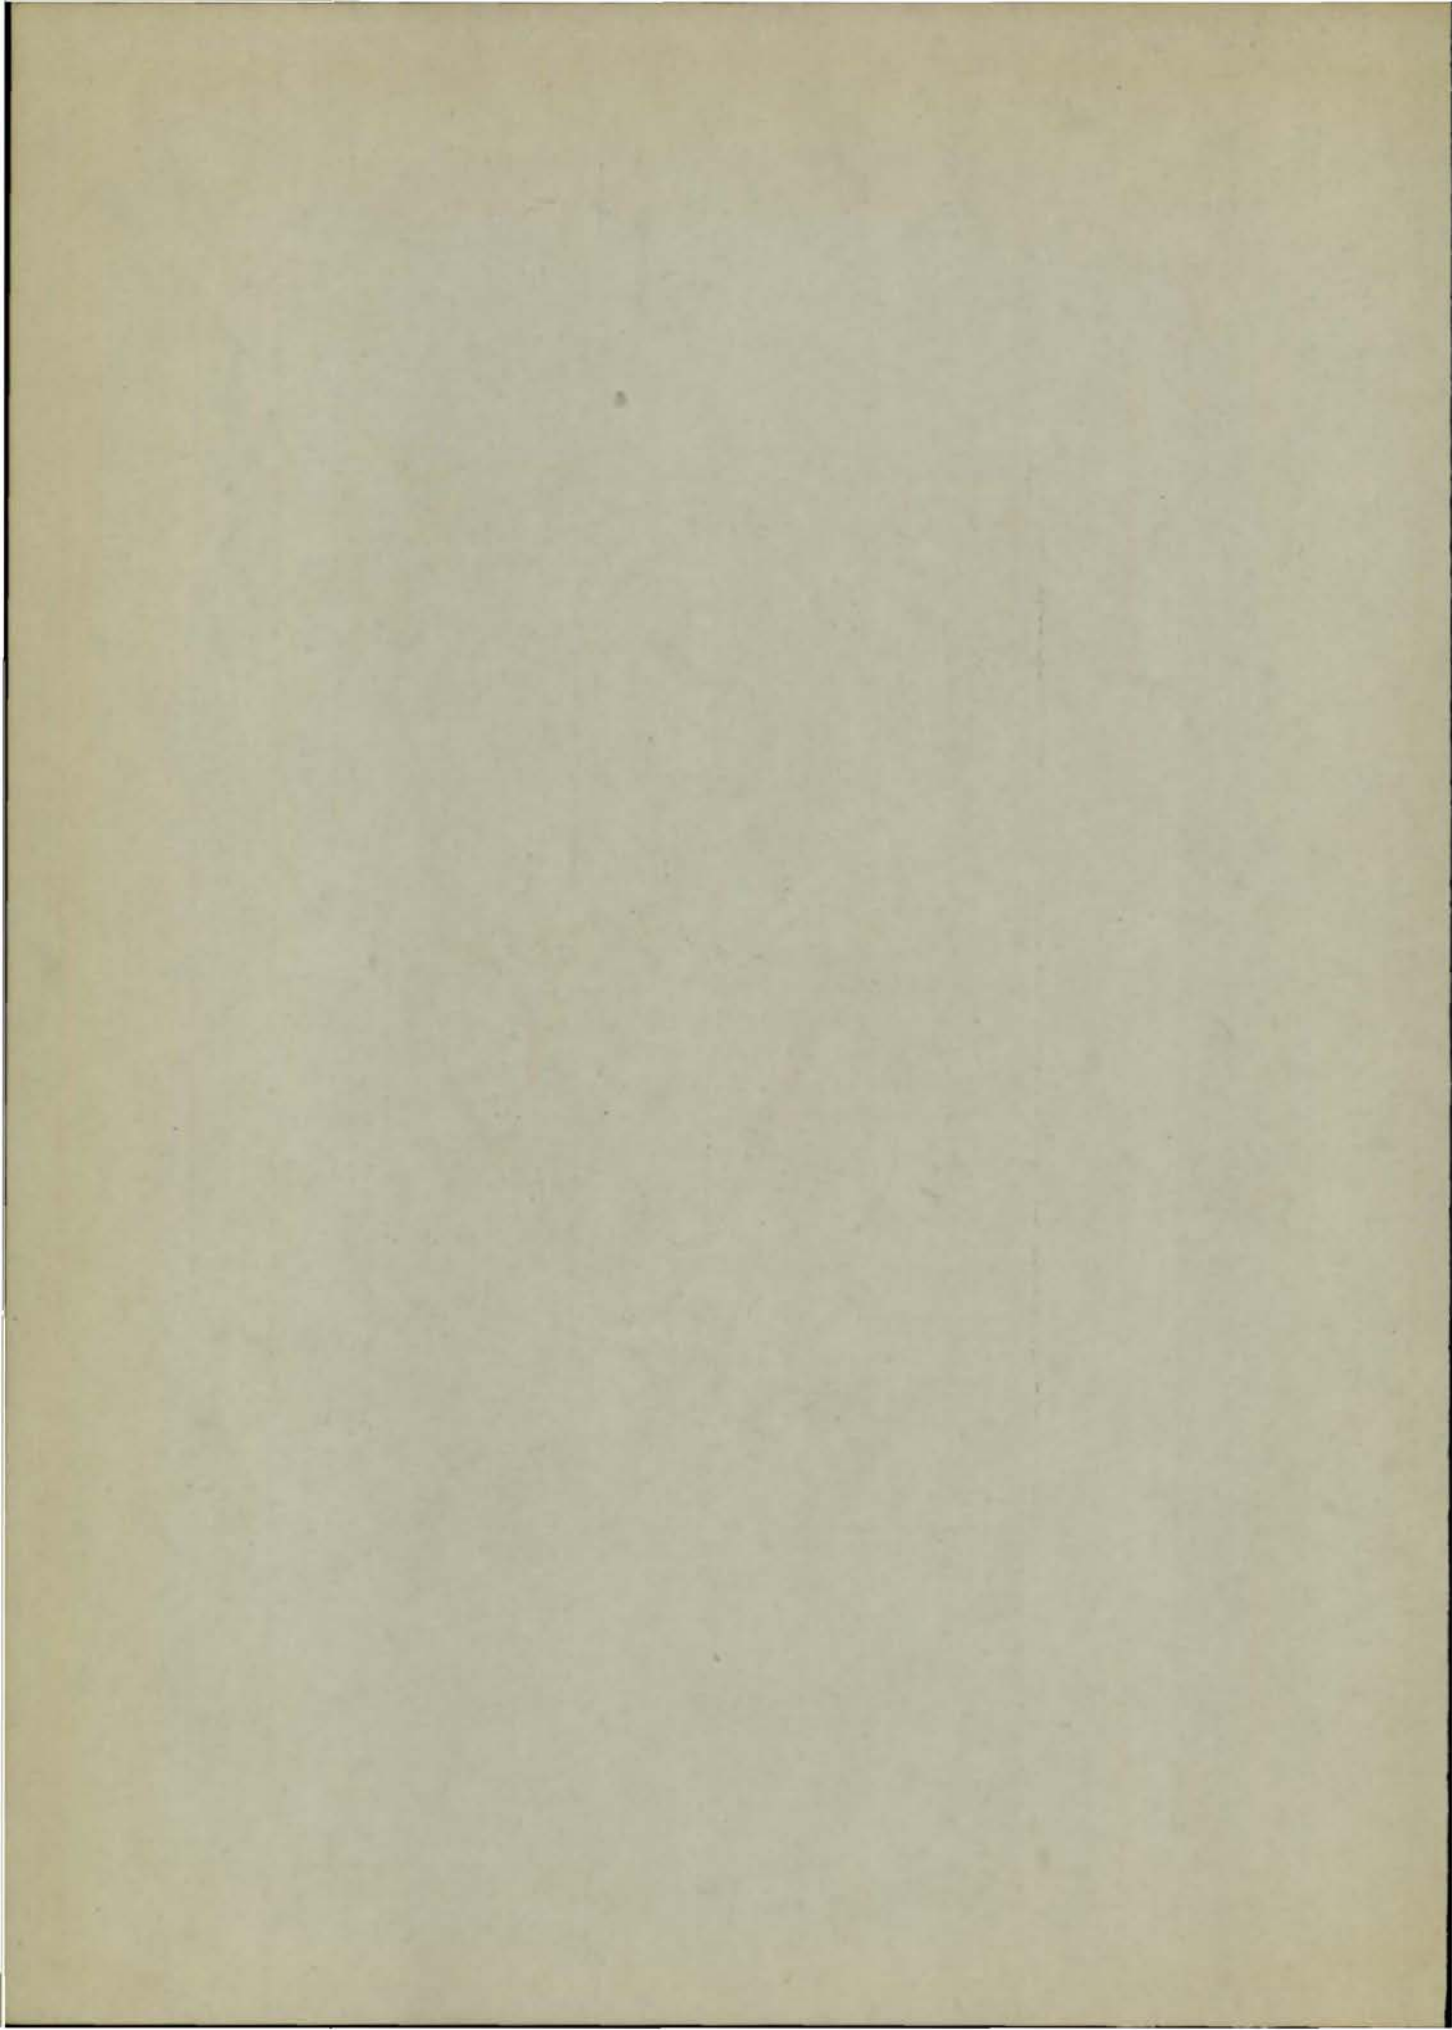

Here's to the class of '28
May the day we celebrate,
As our graduation day,
Find us true in every way,
Loyal to C. H. S.

The key to knowledge they have sought to turn,
And seeking for that treasure, learned to spurn
The waste of time. And like a city on
A hill whose light cannot be hid, anon

Of each shine out and send a messenger
To say that in this school upon the hill
The light of the Honor Society burns still.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society, 1925

THE National Honor Society, founded in 1920 largely through the efforts of Principal J. G. Masters, was organized for the purpose of encouraging and recognizing scholarship, leadership, service, initiative, and character among high school students. The members are chosen annually from the Senior Class by a faculty committee of which the Principal is chairman. The record of each candidate is carefully investigated before he is elected.

Only Seniors who stand in the upper fourth of the class in scholarship are eligible for membership, but not more than fifteen per cent of the class may be elected. In addition, each member must excel in the other requirements of character, service to the school, initiative, and leadership in some of the numerous activities such as debate, athletics, drill, Register work, or in one of the many student organizations.

Following is a list of the students selected from the Class of 1925:

ELECTED FROM THE JUNE SENIORS

The Gamma Chapter

THE Junior Honor Society was founded in 1923 by Principal J. G. Masters to recognize originality and high attainment in scholarship and general work, to develop character, and to encourage leadership in school activities. The requirements for membership are practically the same as those for the National Honor Society. The Junior Honor Society is divided into three chapters, the Epsilon for the Freshmen, the Delta for the Sophomores, and the Gamma for the Juniors.

The general council which sponsors the organization is composed of Miss Genevive Clark, chairman, Miss Jessie M. Towne, Miss Bess Bozell, Miss Katherine Hilliard, and J. G. Masters. The members are chosen by a committee composed of the general council, the sponsors of each chapter, and three members-at-large.

The greatest number that may be chosen to membership in each chapter is ten per cent of the class. A student holds membership for one year, and at the following election it automatically expires, unless he is elected to the succeeding chapter. Membership in one chapter is not an assurance of membership in the succeeding chapter or in the National Honor Society.

Miss Katherine Hilliard was director of the Gamma Chapter this year. At an election held last fall Delmar Saxton was chosen president of the Junior Honor Society and of the Gamma Chapter.

The students elected to membership in the Gamma chapter for next years are as follows:

Frank Ackerman
Luella Cannam

MILITARY

The Regiment

THROUGH the thirty-three years of its existence, the record of the High School Cadet Regiment is so interwoven with the history of the high school that to review its achievements entails a chronicle of the whole school.

The Regiment is recognized as the largest and most popular activity. All boys are eligible, and the valuable training that is received in co-operation, loyalty, teamwork, respect for authority, and leadership makes it worth while. Of all the qualities taught, leadership is the most prominent. The fact that it takes willingness to work and the desire to make of oneself the biggest and most helpful citizen possible accounts for the fact that the Regiment contains most of the student leaders and occupies such a prominent place in the school.

The activities of the Regiment, well expressed in the phrase, "school service," have this year included handling three ticket sales, furnishing ushers for school functions, marching in parades, and being of assistance to the city in various affairs. The band has contributed very definite service during the athletic seasons. The most outstanding activity, however, is the Cadet Camp. To make this camp possible the Cadet Officers' Club sponsors the Annual Road Show.

In speaking of the Regiment, one naturally thinks of the head of the organization. Here we find F. H. Gulgard, undoubtedly one of the school's most competent leaders and instructors. The reins of the Regiment have been in Mr. Gulgard's hands for six years and the great improvement noticeable in that time speaks much for his ability. As cadet commander, John T. Trout, lieutenant-colonel, measures high in efficiency and leadership.

It is said that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. We have no weak link. The officers have shown marked loyalty and leadership and a knowledge of military tactics by producing well-drilled companies. United with the commandant, colonel, and officers was a splendid group of privates working hard that each might be worthy of the loyal men who have gone before and made the Regiment the splendid and helpful organization that it is.

The Band

THE cadet band is one of Central's best known organizations. Its numerous appearances before the public in parades, at athletic contests, and at mass meetings have made its work familiar to everyone. It has paid its own expenses on trips out of town with the athletic teams, using money received for marching in the Ak-Sar-Ben parades. It is one of Central's best boosters.

The Cadet Officers Club

SERVICE—to the regiment and the school—is the fundamental purpose of the Cadet Officers' Club. A personnel of leaders, sponsored by the commandant, gives it the power to produce results; its membership from each company supplies the unity necessary for effective action.

The C. O. C. of 1924-25, heir to thirty-one years of organized cadet leadership, consists of the forty officers of the regiment. They have applied themselves throughout the year to the betterment of the military department, the backing of every activity of the school, and the development of leadership.

The Eleventh Annual Road Show, sponsored by the C. O. C., was proclaimed by many to be Central's greatest production. The proceeds of the Road Show were used to defray camp expenses.

Experience gained from twenty-four annual cadet encampments contributed to make the year's camp at Valley, Nebraska, an honor to Central. A permanent camp kitchen built this year proved a valuable addition.

The C. O. C. has co-operated with the colonel and the commandant to produce an improvement in the regiment worthy of the best efforts of succeeding officers. To the next staff falls this leadership, with its duties, traditions, and increased opportunity for usefulness to Central.

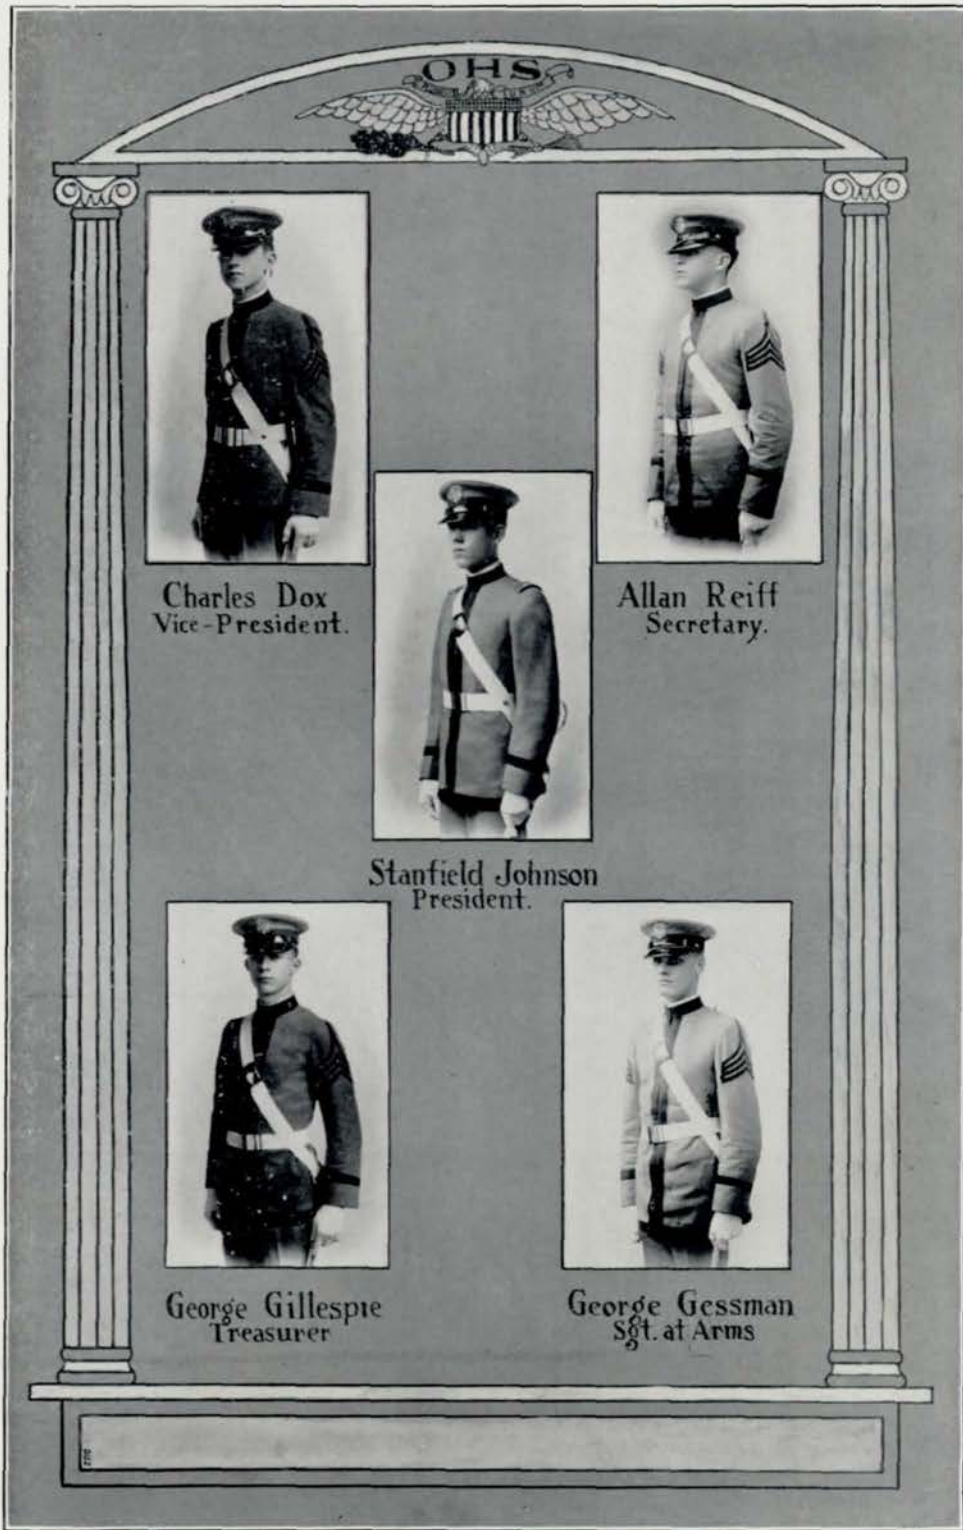

—John Byron '25.

Dana A. Eastman, first lieutenant of Company B, did not appear in the C. O. C. picture. He was a January graduate, and left school immediately. He was a capable officer, and the C. O. C. regrets his absence.

The Coaches and Managers

BACK of all athletic contests of every sort are the men and boys who coach, train, manage, and equip the various teams. Central's record in athletics testifies to the ability and skill of this group.

Coach J. G. Schmidt, head football and track mentor, has in his four years as first team coach, developed many championship teams. Recently he was appointed Director of Athletics by the Board of Control. Due to his management, Central's teams have the reputation of being as well if not better equipped than the average college team.

A new man, Coach F. Y. Knapple, came to us from Sutton high school as basketball and baseball coach. His value has been proved by the fine work of the teams under his supervision.

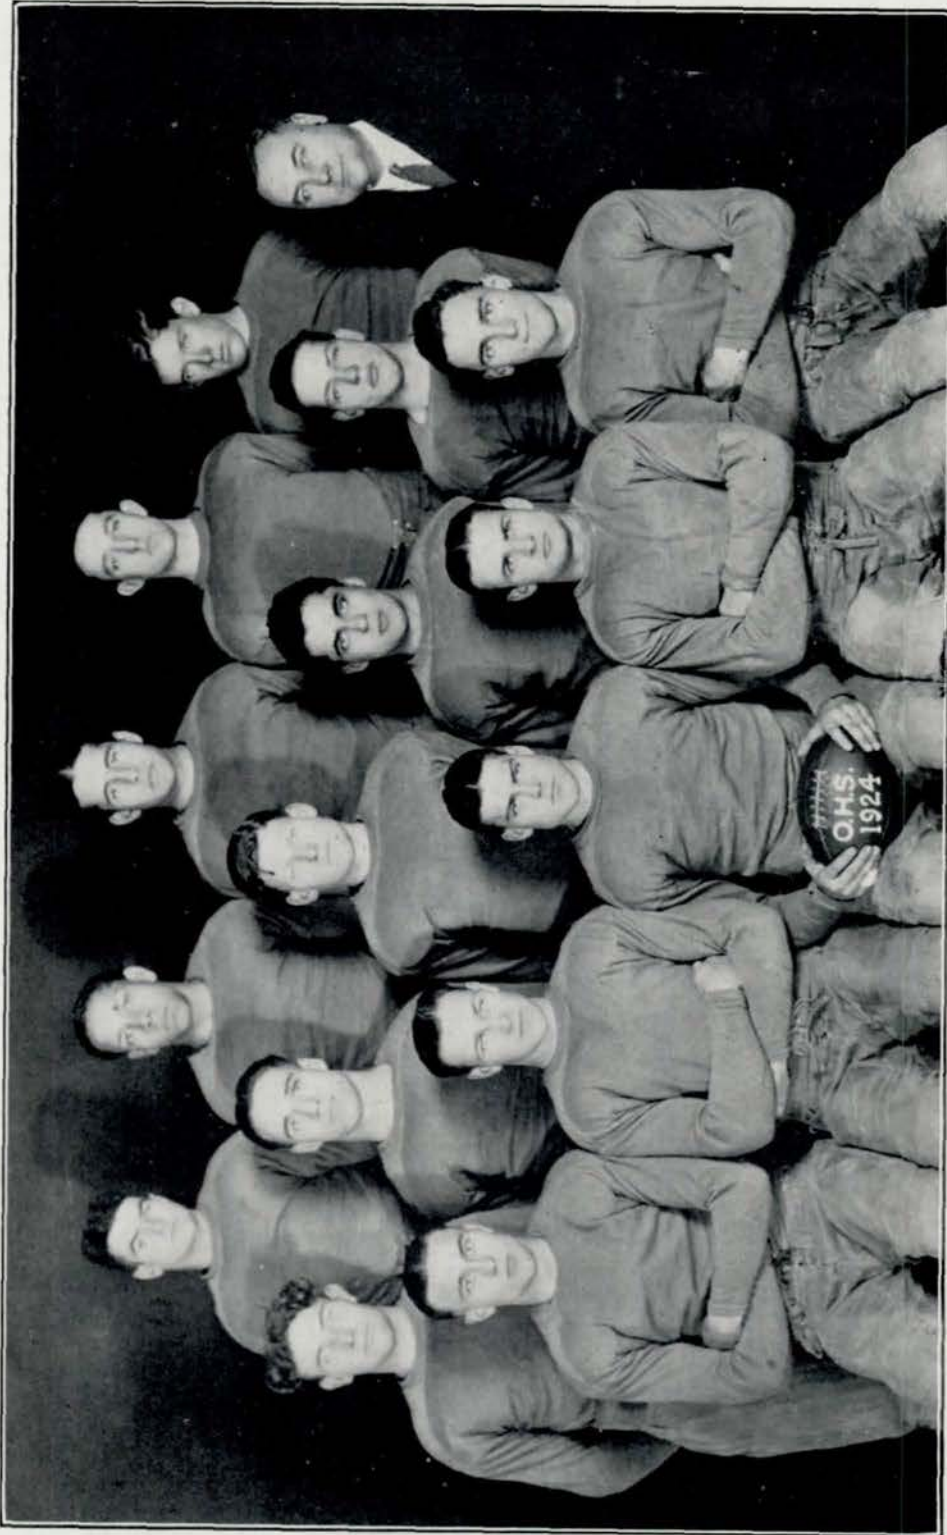

L. N. Bexten and G. E. Barnhill, assistant coaches, take charge of the second and underclass teams. By thoroughly training these future athletes, these two coaches are able to lay a foundation for teams of future years.

The financial end of the Athletic Association is in charge of Andrew Nelsen, the school treasurer. It is due to his work that Central's Student Association is supporting our teams so well.

A position full of hard work and little reward is that of Student Manager. During the football season Clement Clark, with the assistance of James Musgrave, held this office. The remainder of the year, however, Fred Oliver and Verne Reynolds have been in charge.

AT THE beginning of the season, prospects for a championship team seemed bright. Eight letter men from the team of last year and several reserve and promising second team men again entered the ranks.

During the season, Central won four games, lost three, and tied the fast Sioux City team which had previously defeated Tech. A consideration of comparative scores will show that Central rolled up 133 points to its opponents' 60. The climax of the season, which was the game with Tech, ended with a victory for Tech and a wonderful display of Central's spirit.

Through graduation, the team loses nine out of sixteen letter men. The majority of these men intend to go to college or universities and continue their playing there. We expect to see many of them fighting for their respective colleges as they all did for old Central. Our team of next year, having six letter men back, is sure to continue their good work and live up to Central's highest ideals as athletes.

Football Letter Men

Captain Matthew Muxen, fullback. A speedy consistent ground gainer with All-State honors. "Bud" is a good triple threat man and a wonderful captain.

Wallace Marrow, halfback. "Wally" is our only four-letter man in school. A more shifty or faster, better back cannot be found in the state as is shown by all his All-State honors.

Emmanuel Robertson, halfback. "Manny" or "Grange," as he is called, started late, but once started, like a cyclone, was hard to stop.

James Hamilton, halfback. A most promising man for next year with a brilliant record for this year. "Lope" ought to be All-State next year.

Weldon Solomon, halfback. One of Central's speed merchants. A good end runner with plenty of speed in reserve.

William Egan, quarterback. The fighting Irishman of the team. A heady signal caller and a good field general.

Wilbur Jones, quarterback. Central's lightning flash we call "Missouri." The smallest man on the team with the most nerve.

Frank Horacek, center. "Horse" plays a steady brilliant game which is hard to beat. A good man at opening holes and breaking plays.

Elmer Greenberg, guard. A valuable man to the team, able to play guard, tackle or end in an emergency.

Ralph Jeffries, guard. "Jeff" was a regular this year until put out by a smashed finger. A good man at breaking up plays and opening holes.

Leo Chaiken, guard. Chaiken played a good game at guard when given the chance and surely deserves credit for his work.

Alvin Mooney, guard. A steady, dependable player who, though a late comer, made good when one of the regulars was injured.

Raymond Lepicier, tackle. An All-State man, a deadly tackler, a hard worker and an all around good fellow.

Fred Oliver, tackle. Last year he played at center, this year "Papa" shifted him to tackle. In both places "Fritz" made good.

Henry Clark, end. Our All-State end with the powerful toe. His chief delight is kicking the ball out on the opponent's four-yard line. A good defensive man also.

Don Gorton, end. "Clancy" can play either guard, tackle, or end and make good at any of the three.

Captain Blue Howell, our star halfback who, though only playing in the first two games, deserves mention. His ankle was broken in the Council Bluffs game, putting him out for the season.

HANDICAPPED from the start by ineligibility, Coach Knapple's basketeers fought and battled their way through one of the hardest basketball schedules ever undertaken by the Hilltop school. With two regulars, Robertson and Horacek, out for over half the season, Central ended its schedule with six games won and eight games lost. The brilliant offense work of Marrow, and the steady guarding of Egan, were high lights of the games. Out of the seven letter men, three will return, but Central loses Marrow, Sharpe, Solomon, and Fetterman by graduation.

Coach Schmidt's reserves deserve much credit for giving Central its successful basketball team. This team, composed entirely of underclassmen, has many promising hoopsters. Among the men who showed up well during their season are Glade, Reynolds, Hamilton, Chadwell, and Love. With these men, Central will not lack material for next year.

TRACK TEAM

Track 1925

AS USUAL Coach Schmidt turned out a winning track team. For the first time in the history of track at Central, a team of eight men were taken to the Drake relays where they made a splendid showing. A team composed of Doty, Muxen, Solomon, and Jones placed second in the 440 and 880-yard relay. The mile relay team composed of Marrow, Reed, Nestor, and Hamilton took third place.

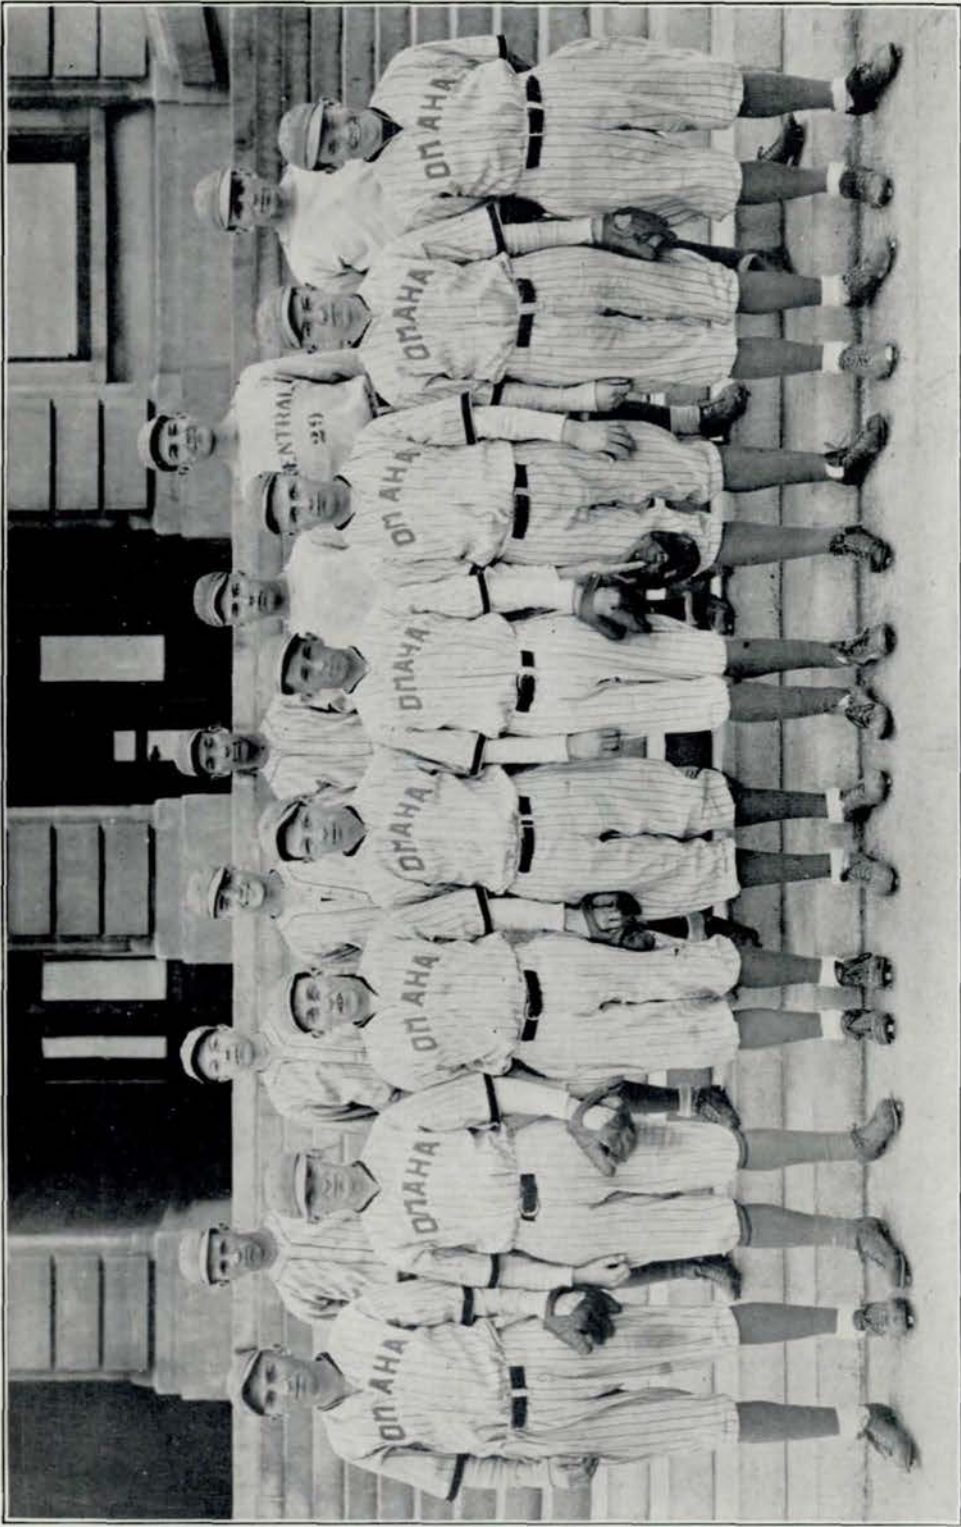

The following week, Coach Schmidt and his athletes ran off with the Council Bluffs relays when they took first in the mile, half-mile, and shuttle relays. Solomon, Marrow, and Jones placed in the special events.

The Purple cinder path artists were forced to second place in the State meet. Jones, Solomon, Hamilton, and Marrow placed in their events, while Doty tied for first place in the broad jump. Ray Lepicier, a junior, broke the state record in the javelin throw when he threw it over 149 feet, breaking the old record by five feet. This was the first state record broken by a Central athlete since 1915.

For the third consecutive time the Purple speedsters ran true to form at the Nebraska Medical relays, taking first in the mile and half-mile relays and second in the 440-yard relay. Acting Captain Wally Marrow took the high hurdles and placed in the high jump. Doty took first in the broad jump, with Muxen a close second. Jim Hamilton left everyone behind in the 440-yard dash, while Bill Egan tied for second in the pole vault.

Six letter men will be lost by graduation: Wally Marrow, Bud Muxen, Russ Doty, Bill Reed, Weldon Solomon, and Heinie Clarke. However, Lepicier, Hamilton, Egan, Nestor, Thompson, McGrew, Wright, W. Jones, E. Jones, Izard, and Love, will be back in the spiked shoes next year.

IN THE first baseball game of the season, the Central team romped over the North high aggregation to the tune of 10 to 0. Charley Cox was the boy on the mound, and during the entire game, he allowed one measly bingle, and struck out ten "ice-men."

The first out-state game Central won from Ashland by the score of 5 to 4. Glade pitched this game while Bleicher featured with the stick. He made the first home-run of the season.

Central blew her hopes of a city championship in the next few games. She handed the Creighton team its first win, in a game featured by numerous errors, and then to make matters worse she let the boys from South high stage a track meet, which they won, 10 to 2.

The next two games were hotly contested affairs, and although Central lost both encounters, they played a wonderful brand of ball, but the breaks of the game always seemed to go against them. Tech high's luck won the first of these two games by a score of 5 to 4 after two extra frames. In the other game against North, it was Central's inability to hit that proved their downfall, the score being 4 to 0. North collected two hits off Glade, while Central got only one off West, this being a bunt from the "Fightin' Irishman's" bat.

Central came back and won the next game from Creighton, 7 to 4. Captain Chadwell and Johnny Staley were the boys with the bat in this game. Both collected two hits apiece and drove in most of the runs. Although Central did not win the pennant, we played a successful season.

SWIMMING TEAM

Swimming 1925

BY conquering Tech, Lincoln, South, and Creighton during the past season, Central's championship tanksters now have a perfect record for the last two years. During this time they have won seven meets and lost none.

In the state meet, Central presented a well-balanced team and amassed 41 points. Lincoln was second with 25 points, and Technical third with 18 points. Central won the diving, 50-yard free-style, 100-yard breast-stroke, and the 100-yard back-stroke. A new state record was set in every event Central won. New records were also made in the plunge for distance, the relay, and the 100-yard free-style.

Later in the year, Central easily defeated South in a dual meet by a score of 55 to 13. In this meet, our team won seven out of a possible eight first places. The only new record was in the 100-yard breast-stroke.

The city meet, held March 19, is not officially recorded because one of the Tech swimmers entered illegally. On April 10, Lincoln forfeited a dual meet to the Purple splashers.

Although Captain Thomas, Hayden, Cisler, and Quigley will be lost through graduation, prospects are bright for another highly satisfactory season.

Following is the personnel of the swimming team:

Denny Ryan—Coach.

Bill Thomas—Captain and relay.

Richard Hayden—50 and 200-yard free style. State champion for 50 yards free style.

Howard Chaloupka—100 yards breast-stroke. State champion in this event.

Arnold Cisler—Fancy diving. State champion fancy diver.

Frank Mockler—100 yards back-stroke. State champion in this event.

Reginald Ramsey—100 yards back-stroke.

Roger Smith—Plunge for distance.

Fred Larkin—Plunge for distance.

Paul Enger—100 and 220 yards free-style.

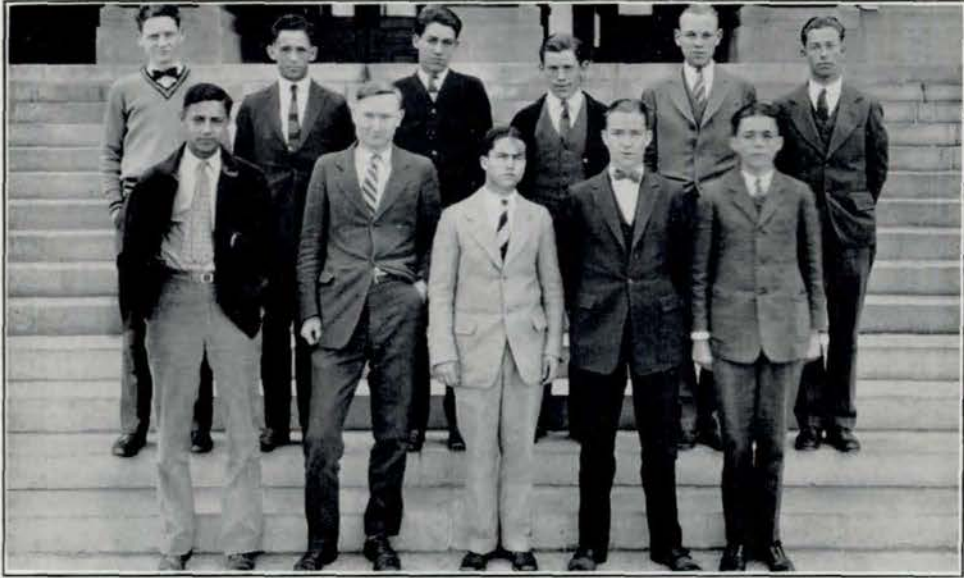

Palmer Gallup—Fancy diving.

Joe O'Hanlon—Relay, 50 and 100 yards free-style.

Bartlett Quigley—Relay, 50 and 100 yards free-style.

Hockey

FIELD hockey is one of the leading girls' sports. The game was first introduced at Central when Miss Charlotte MacDougal, former gym instructor, was in charge. The second season, 1923, Miss Elinor Bennett coached and in September, 1924, she again supervised the playing which took place every Monday immediately after school.

Several of the girls showed exceptional ability last fall, and altogether much enthusiasm and skill were displayed. They played as many games as possible starting early in September and stopping only when forced to do so by snowy weather.

In hockey as in other sports there are always a few outstanding players. Among these were Ruth Richardson, Lila Showalter, Edith Grau, Vera Hansen, and Lois Reichenberg, all seniors. Katherine Allen and Sue Hall, juniors, and Ruth Stark, sophomore, also showed unusual skill, while Dorothy Zimmerman, sophomore, and Bernice Elliott, junior, played steady, consistent games, aiding their teams in piling up large scores.

Sue Hall and Lila Showalter usually headed the two teams. At the end of the season, Miss Bennett picked a first team from the girls who had practiced the most and were the best players. Each of these girls earned five points toward her "O" with two more added for perfect attendance, namely: Ruth Stark, Edith Grau, Fredarika Campbell, Ruth Richardson, Vera Hansen, Adah Allen, Lila Showalter, Bernice Elliott, Emily Rutter, Gertrude Welch, Lois Reichenberg, Katherine Allen, and Sue Hall.

Several veterans will play on next year's team, and the chances for a successful season are very good. Hockey is fast becoming a permanent and popular sport among the girls of Central.

—Sue Hall '26.

—Katherine Allen '26.

Senior Basketball Team

THE coveted position of playing on the senior girls' basketball team was attained this year by Marion Griffin, Ruth Richardson, Lucille Gannon, Edith Grau, Lila Showalter, Lois Reichenberg, with Beth Ehlers and Dorothy Tennant as substitutes. Nearly all of the girls had already earned their "O's." These veterans of two years of playing acquired the highest position attainable in girls' basketball at Central by hard work and diligent effort.

Marion Griffin, center, was elected captain of the aggregation. A brilliant as well as steady player, she combined a decided ability to guard with a rare skill at shooting. Lucille Gannon and Beth Ehlers were both competent forwards, without either of whom the senior team would have fallen far below the standard it reached this year. Lucille made the class teams in both her sophomore and junior years; but her playing this year excelled anything she had formerly done. Although Beth did not go out for basketball to any great extent before this year, she earned a position on the senior team. She earnestly entered into the play and displayed a willing spirit of team work.

The guards as a whole were speedy and proficient. Ruth Richardson, veteran of several years of playing, was adept at getting the ball and keeping it. Edith Grau was a steady, consistent player, with a stubborn faculty of staying with her girl. Lila Showalter proved to be the sterling player she has always been, and Dorothy Tennant, with her active energy, played a clever and competent game.

The senior girls' team, composed of eight stars, made a good record despite the fact that they were handicapped by lack of practice.

Student Association

ON September 23 the Student Association elected officers for the coming year. The voters were all students who had bought Student Association tickets. These tickets, of which about 1,350 were sold at three dollars apiece, besides allowing the holder to vote for Student Association officers, admit him to all home athletic contests and to all other contests in which Central is a participant. This plan of the association was started in 1912 to provide a sure means of paying expenses and to raise the spirit of the school by uniting the student body into an efficient organization.

There have been three mass meetings held at the Rialto Theatre under the supervision of the Association. The first was held to create school spirit preceding the Tech-Central football game. This was held on Color day and ended up in a parade back to the school. The next was on Lincoln's birthday and was under the direction of the military organization of the school. The last was held to announce the names of Seniors elected to the National Honor Society.

The Association also held four old-time mass meetings in the auditorium. One of these was sponsored by the January Senior class to boost their class presentation of John G. Neihardt. Another was held to boost Going-to-College. There were two to boost Debate, one for the reception of the Reed Cup which Central High won, and which was shared by track and the State Scholastic contest held at Lincoln, and the awarding of the medals won there.

Because it was impossible to accommodate every one in Central's auditorium mass meetings, a new plan of holding four assemblies was worked out. One is held in 215 with Lloyd Marquis in charge, one in 235 with David Waterman in charge, another in 435 with Wilma McFarland at the head, and one in the auditorium with Beth Cole presiding. Seven successful assemblies have been held under this plan. The first three assemblies were held to boost football, one assembly before the Sioux City game, one before the Lincoln game, and one song assembly preceding the Central-Tech game. At the opening of the basketball season one was held for this sport. The other three assemblies were held to boost other school activities. The Junior Honor Society held one to create interest in the Honor Societies, and one was held for debate before the Tech-Central contest. The last was a health assembly to commemorate National Health Week. A play, written by Mrs. J. G. Masters, was given at this assembly.

The Purple and White

Centralites, heed as your colors pass,
Those colors you hold so high.
Back with your cheers in a loyal mass
The hues that ne'er shall die.
For fair play and squareness they always shall stand
For goals that are worth while, the best in the land.
Hail! hail! to the colors that shine in the light.
Hurrah for the Purple and White!

Purple whose richness betokens a school
That's royal, a queen of them all;
White whose purity in Central shall rule,
For a Centralite never must fail.
Purple that means all that's truest and best
White of a brightness that dims all the rest.
Hail! hail! to the colors that mean strength and might.
Hurrah for the Purple and White!

Here's to the school whose colors we wear,
Here's to the hearts that are true.
Hail Alma Mater, old Central so fair,
Hail to our colors, too!
Garlands of Purple and White intertwine,
And hearts that are true and voices combine.
Hail! hail! to the colors that stand for the right,
Hurrah for the Purple and White!

—Wilma McFarland '25.

Color Day

A NEW plan for creating school spirit, a Color Day when all loyal Centralites displayed Purple and White, was instituted last fall and is to be continued as an annual affair. This idea which had been worked out successfully at other schools, proved a success at Central, also.

Early in the week of November 17, football tags were sold to the students for ten cents. During a Rialto Theater mass meeting held on November 21, boosting the Tech game, these tags were exchanged for a surprise package which contained a purple balloon, an arm-band, and a cap. The students, cheering for Color Day, marched from the theater to the school building in a huge parade. During the day many favors and novelties were on sale around the halls. The money derived from this sale, after twenty-five dollars had been taken out for the scholarship fund, was used as a means of financing stunts at the various athletic contests, and for the purchase of a purple silk flag for the school.

The committee which planned for this day was made up of students and faculty members with Miss Mary Parker representing the faculty and Charles Dox, the student body.

STUDENT Control came into existence in 1911, when it was known as the Student Council. But interest in its work waned, and in 1919 it was disorganized. Louis N. Bexten, the present sponsor, thinking that as large a school as Central needed an organization such as the former Student Council, started the Student Control in 1916.

Members of the Student Control are chosen for their scholastic standing and executive ability. They are all seniors, with the exception of ten juniors, who are elected each spring to carry over the work of the organization to the next year.

Accomplishments of these upperclassmen during the past year—controlling the lunch line, keeping the halls quiet, aiding in library registration, and upholding the spirit of Central—has been of much value.

THOUGH comparatively a new organization in Central high school, having been started only last year, the Central Committee has ably demonstrated its worth by the work accomplished this year. Through the efforts of the Central Committee the study halls have been supplied with a better grade of writing ink; the statues and art-work are in better condition; a flower garden is planned for the court; and new trophy cases to the right of the East entrance have been secured.

The Central Committee brought Joe Davis, Indian Chief, to Central high school to present an exhibition of fancy lariat-twirling, and Indian dances, and also presented Sheik Raphael Immanuel in a talk on Mesopotamia. This organization, representing each class in the school, has become a recognized and established institution at Central.

THE Speakers' Bureau is the organization in Central which is in back of every movement and project attempted by the school. Its three-fold aim is training the member in the art of public speaking and parliamentary law, the advertising of the school's affairs, and the boosting of Central high school's spirit. Among this year's important drives may be mentioned Color day, Rollocs sale, band concerts, Opera, Dad's dinner drive, Neihardt assembly, French plays, sale of Student Association tickets, Road Show, football, basketball, debate, and the big O-Book campaign. The benefit which is gained is enough to induce membership in one of the most progressive organizations in the school.

THE Mathematics Society is composed of that group of students who are interested in the study of mathematics and its development. The meetings usually feature a speech on a topic on the history of mathematics or on its relation to modern every day life. In a social way the members have become acquainted through the programs at the meetings and through various functions sponsored by the society.

THE Keen Key Klickers is composed of the group of Centralites who have and are taking typewriting. There has been for the past year a membership of twenty-two of Central's speed demons. All of the students who entered the District and State Commercial contests were members of the Keen Key Klickers. Besides turning out several state champions, the organization has sponsored at its meetings the demonstration of the time-saving inventions in the commercial world such as filing systems, and the electric typewriter.

THE Reyna Spanish Club was founded in 1922 by its sponsor, Alfonso Reyna. This year it has accomplished its purpose of further acquainting the students with the language and with the political, artistic, and literary history of Spain. This is interesting and instructive information which cannot be given in the classroom. Speakers from Porto Rico and Argentina have addressed the members on subjects pertaining to Spain and the countries where its language is spoken. The membership this year has been increased to over thirty students.

THE Freshman Student Club which has been a true daughter of the senior club for five years, has been active this year in service of many kinds. At Christmas, gifts were sent to the Canyon Diable Indian Reservation in New Mexico. Throughout the year six needy families were made happy by food and clothing.

Many talented girls contributed freely to the programs presented by the respective triangles into which the club is divided. A faculty tea, a mothers' tea, and a farewell picnic have been the outstanding social events of the season.

The year has been successful financially and socially, and each club year brings an increase in membership, good times, and service.

STARTING off the year with the Big Sister Movement, the Student Club, numbering two hundred girls, has maintained a pace of many well-done activities throughout the past year. Junior and Senior girls wore "Ask Me" bands and each girl was a "Big Sister" to a freshman assigned to her.

The girls fixed over a rest room for the teachers, and did every bit of the work themselves even to the painting of the room. Then they served tea every night after school in 149 to the members of the faculty.

Next, a Mystery Carnival was the object of their efforts. This carnival was the means taken by the girls to raise the money necessary to carry on the work of the Student Club.

"The Set of the Sail," a vocational conference, held in conjunction with the Student Clubs of the other Omaha high schools for the benefit of every girl in high school, was the climax of the year. The material for the conference was compiled by the members of the clubs and the entire program presented vocational opportunities for girls, schools for technical knowledge, and ways of preparation for life.

A girls' encampment, in charge of the Student Club, was held at Camp Brewster at the end of the year. This concluded the Student Club's activities for the year.

THE Greenwich Villagers is comparatively recent and should, therefore, be all the more recognized for its great progress in so short a time.

During the year the members have showed a marked progress towards a higher type of art. In the fall they made favors for the Father-Son banquet and later on, posters advertising various dramatic events presented by the school, among these being the Glee Club opera, "Chimes of Normandy," and the annual Road Show. For the February seniors' presentation of Mr. Neihardt in "The Song of the Indian Wars," they made an intricate tie-dye curtain. All blackboard advertising, also, is under the supervision of the Villagers. This year, for the first time, cash prizes were awarded by the Villagers to the three members of their group who had accomplished the most in originality, composition, color, and technique. William Ronin and Herschel Elarth won first prize, and Maurice Shields won second prize. The judges were Miss Marian Reed, Miss Augusta Knight, and Miss Jessie Towne, who picked their work as the best submitted by all the members of the Greenwich Villagers.

These young artists have proven themselves worthy of the task of beautifying Central and have succeeded in raising the standard of art work in the school.

THE TITIANS, one of Central's newest organizations, and perhaps also one of the most unusual, is a society to which none but auburn or red-haired girls are eligible.

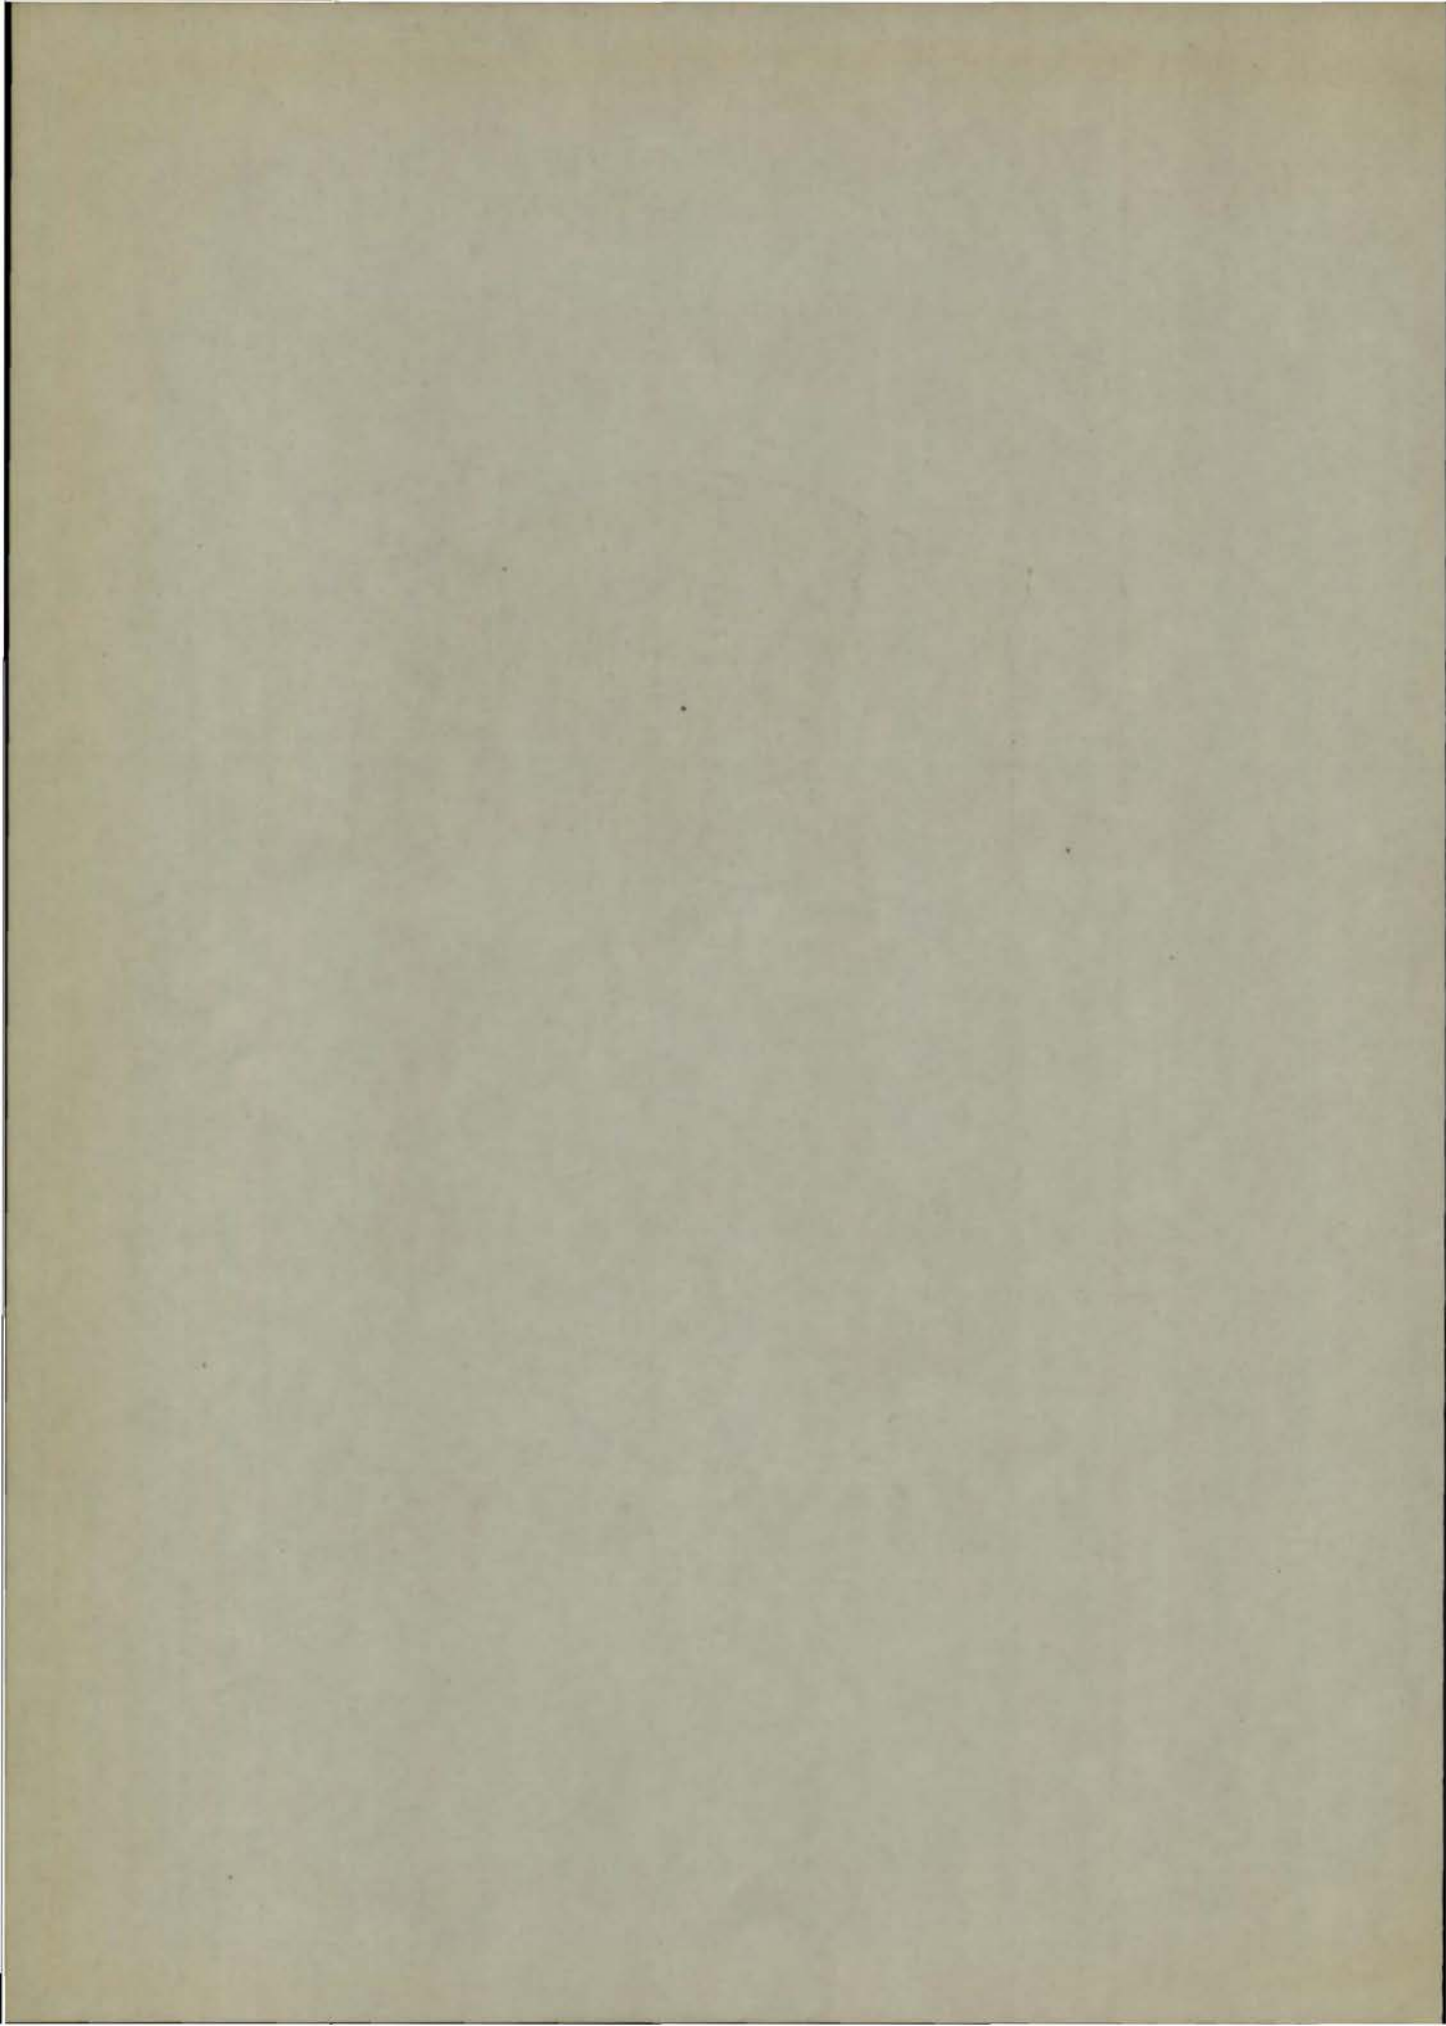

Since the organization of this Central service club last fall, the red-haired girls, sponsored by Mrs. Irene Jensen, music instructor, have ushered at the opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," the Girls' Band mass meeting, the State Declamatory contest, the lecture given by Clayton Hamilton, the Junior Glee Clubs' spring recital, and the Senior Glee Clubs' concert.

The Titians did not confine their aid to Central by ushering, but acted as hostesses to Central's guests at the declamatory contest, and turned out unanimously when the call was issued for dandelion diggers last April.

Considering the activity shown by The Titians this last year, the future success of the club seems assured.

Senior Orchestra

President . . . . . Roy Larsen
 Secretary . . . . . Sunshine Noah

THE Senior Orchestra, under the able leadership of Professor Henry G. Cox, has had a most profitable year. By freely offering its services to Central, the orchestra has made itself a highly necessary if not an indispensable factor in the school. This year it has furnished music for the January senior entertainment, the commencement exercises, the Opera, the Road Show, and the June senior entertainment, besides playing for various mass meetings and debates. The Senior orchestra has played outside the school at Americanization meetings, and for the Drivers' School of the Omaha Safety Council, etc.

President . . . . . EDWARD THOMPSON
 Secretary . . . . . ALBERT OLSON

THE Junior Orchestra, which meets every Tuesday and Friday seventh hour, is a training class for members of the Senior Orchestra. Mr. Cox picks from the Junior those that are to belong to the Senior Orchestra. This year the instrumentations have been completed. Its school service has been given in playing for two of the school debates. Very material progress has been made by the members and they will next year form the Senior Orchestra.

The Neihardt Performance

THE January Seniors presented John G. Neihardt, poet laureate of Nebraska, as their class entertainment on January 16. He read "The Beecher Island Fight," and "The Wagon Box Fight," from his latest epic, "The Song of the Indian Wars." Following the poet's reading, Sergeant Gibson of Bellevue, the only surviving hero of the Wagon Box Fight, told of his experiences in that thrilling battle.

In order to create interest in the Neihardt performance, the Seniors gave two mass meetings. At these J. H. Beveridge, Superintendent of Schools, talked on "Famous Nebraskans," and Principal Masters gave a story of the Wagon Box fight. As a special number, Alice Mae Christensen sang two of Neihardt's lyrics which had been set to music by Eleanor Clapper and Morris Laezerowitz.

The Senior Play

JOHN PAUL BART, a most likable, conceited young chap, tailor made; Tanya, an enchanting young thing who mysteriously finds in the hero something to adore; Huber, an old-fashioned tailor from "Der Faderland"; Dr. Sonntag, a most stupid scholar; Mr. Nathan, a great financier; Kitty Dupuy, a gay divorcee; Bessie, her dependent daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Stanlaw, climbing millionaires; and Corrinne, their pretty but worldly daughter—a combination which in itself alone would make a play a success even without the original plot.

John Paul, a young tailor, wishes to rise in the world but is scoffed at by all but the tailor's daughter. Ingeniously, miraculously, he does so. Socially he makes his mark by winning the affections of a young heiress; commercially he proves himself a genius by establishing himself as one of the heads of a large concern. With his fondest hopes fulfilled, John Paul is dissatisfied. He publicly discloses his past humbleness and returns to the tailor shop. Although immediately dropped by his "society" friends, including the heiress, his value is not lowered in the eyes of his rich employer. He returns to a bigger position than he held before, but with the young tailorette on his arm this time, and all ends well.

The Road Show

THE Eleventh Annual Road Show! We search for superlatives to describe it. The biggest, best, and peppiest performance ever produced by the regiment.

First came the Tin Soldier Drill, presented with silent efficiency by the N. C. O. C. The mechanical regularity of their movements and their toy-shop make-up with its hectic blushes and painted moustaches added to the attractiveness of the act.

John Herzog and Ralph Jeffries presented quite another side of army life in a black-faced skit. They received much applause with the tales of their tribulations in the service.

Drama was ably represented by "The Hand of Siva," given by the C. O. C. The casts enjoyed the distinction of being so particularly gifted that no choice could be made, and they alternated, each appearing at two performances. The plot, laid in India and involving stolen governmental papers, was well developed by the terse lines and quick action. A tom-tom sounded continuously throughout the act which added immensely to its impressiveness.

To introduce a lighter note, there was the "King of Culture," written by Mrs. Masters. The clever lines and action delighted the audience, and "Trust the Sub-conscious!" has become Central's by-word.

Something new to Central was the magicians, Martin and Cornmeyer, who mystified the spectators by their quick passes, proving conclusively that "the hand is quicker than the eye."

A production with a really professional touch was the Magazine Revue, written and staged by Richard Cole. The leads were taken by Lewis Armstrong and Doris Secord, and the chorus was filled with its quota of beauty and charm.

The Toy Shop, presented by the Gym Club in a charming medley of dances, seemed the nursery come to life. Solo dances were given by Faye Williams, and Raggedy Anne and Andy provided the audience with much amusement.

The Imperial Quartette, composed of Harlan Wiles, Volcott Swift, Roy Larsen, and Elwood Wilmoth, gave a program of modern numbers. "Laugh it Off" which portrayed our troubles at Central and urged us to make light of them, was particularly outstanding.

Classical numbers were furnished by a string quartet including Louise Schnauber, Phyllis Reiff, Jessie Stirling, and Bettie Zabriskie. Jean Borglum and Louise Schnauber gave piano and violin solos.

Last on the program was the Road Show Orchestra which brought down the house with its uproarious jazz. It had an added attraction in Charles Steinbaugh's solos and Bill Johnson's clogging.

Yes, it was a wonderful Road Show, over which everyone who took part worked long and late. And while we hope that next year's will be better, we don't see how it can.

Art

ART is an important factor in the work and play of Central high school students. Much has been accomplished under the direction of Miss Mary Angood. It is for the benefit, not only of the pupils, but of the school as a whole.

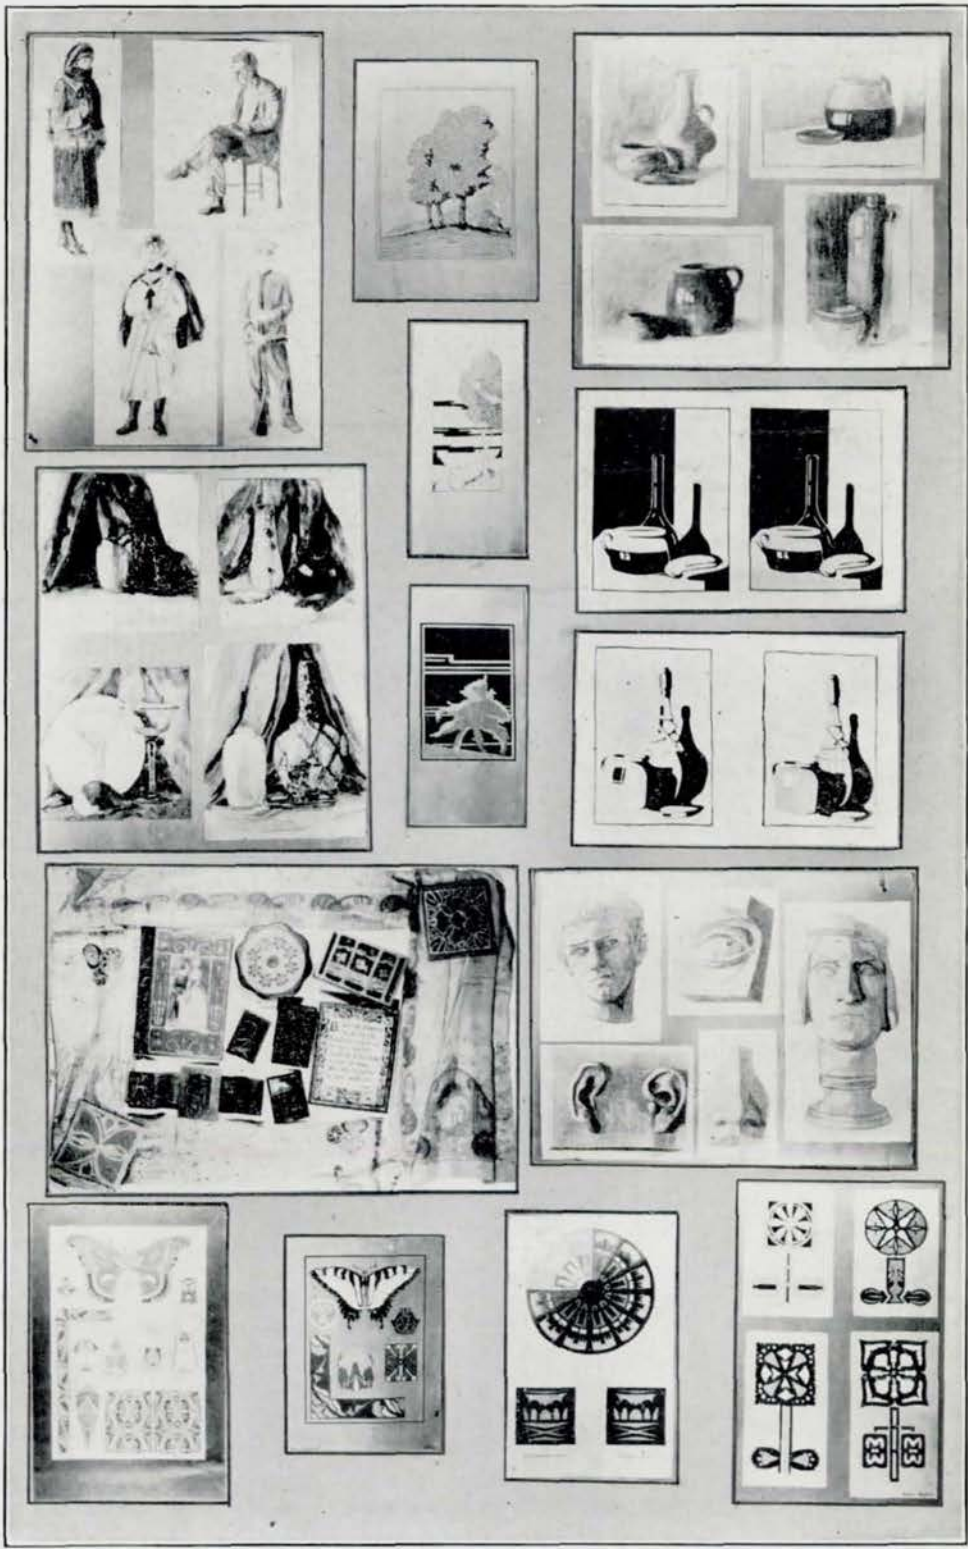

The work, as shown in the illustration, includes charcoal and watercolor representation of still life, sketches from life in charcoal and colored chalk, pen and ink illustrations, charcoal drawings from the cast, elementary and advanced design, together with craft work such as tiles, batik scarfs, decorations in relief and leather problems.

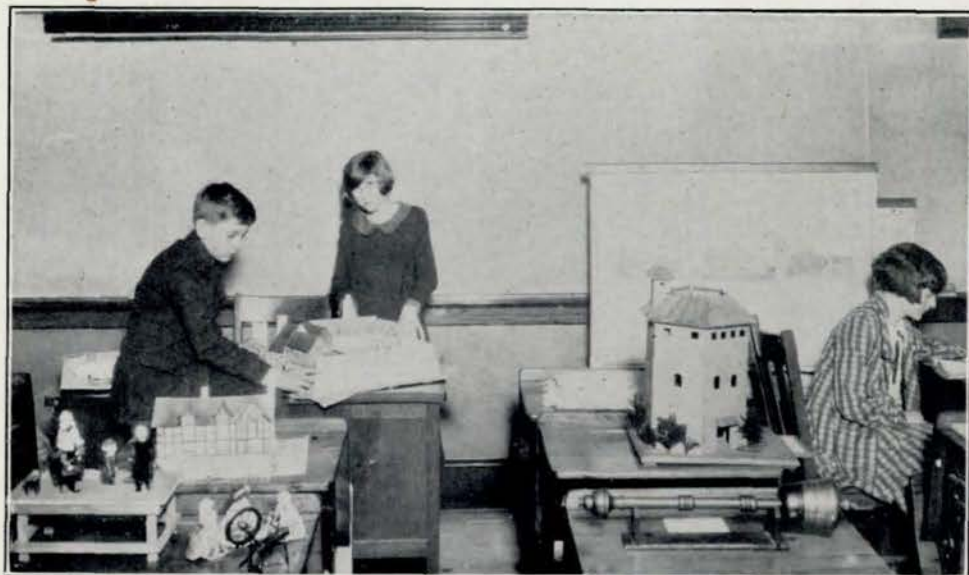

The posters advertising all school productions are made entirely by the art students.

The art work in the O-Book, which is worthy of notice, was done by the more advanced classes and is a good example of the fine type of art work done by the students.

The Project Room

A GREAT pageant of the progress of the world unfolds itself in a wondrous manner when one steps into Central's Project Room. Here is exhibited the work of hundreds of students who from their study of English, history, and many other subjects, have created many interesting models from a radio set to a catapult such as Caesar used so long ago.

The work in the Project Room, which has been conducted by Miss Geneive Clarke for the past eight years, has, during the last semester been organized on a supervisory basis, and has been given a place in the curriculum. Students may enroll in room 130 during the day to read and to work on the various group projects.

This group work could be divided into four general classes, namely, historical tableaux, methods of warfare, progress of the Industrial Revolution, and life in the Middle Ages. All representations are historically correct, and the proportions exact. All these reproductions are made by the students voluntarily. The classes of sixteen teachers were represented by additions to the Project Room this year.

Among the outstanding projects made this year, is the entire construction of an English Manor, assembled by a group of ten students. The model shows division of the fields, construction of the buildings, apportionment of the flocks, and every detail is carried out explicitly. A movable tower of Charlemagne's period occupies a prominent position as does an induction coil of the late eighteenth century.

Somewhat more than a year ago, an arrangement of scenes from "Ivanhoe" was presented by members of freshmen English classes, while again this year a medieval playlet, "Life in a Castle," and scenes from "The Lady of the Lake," were given.

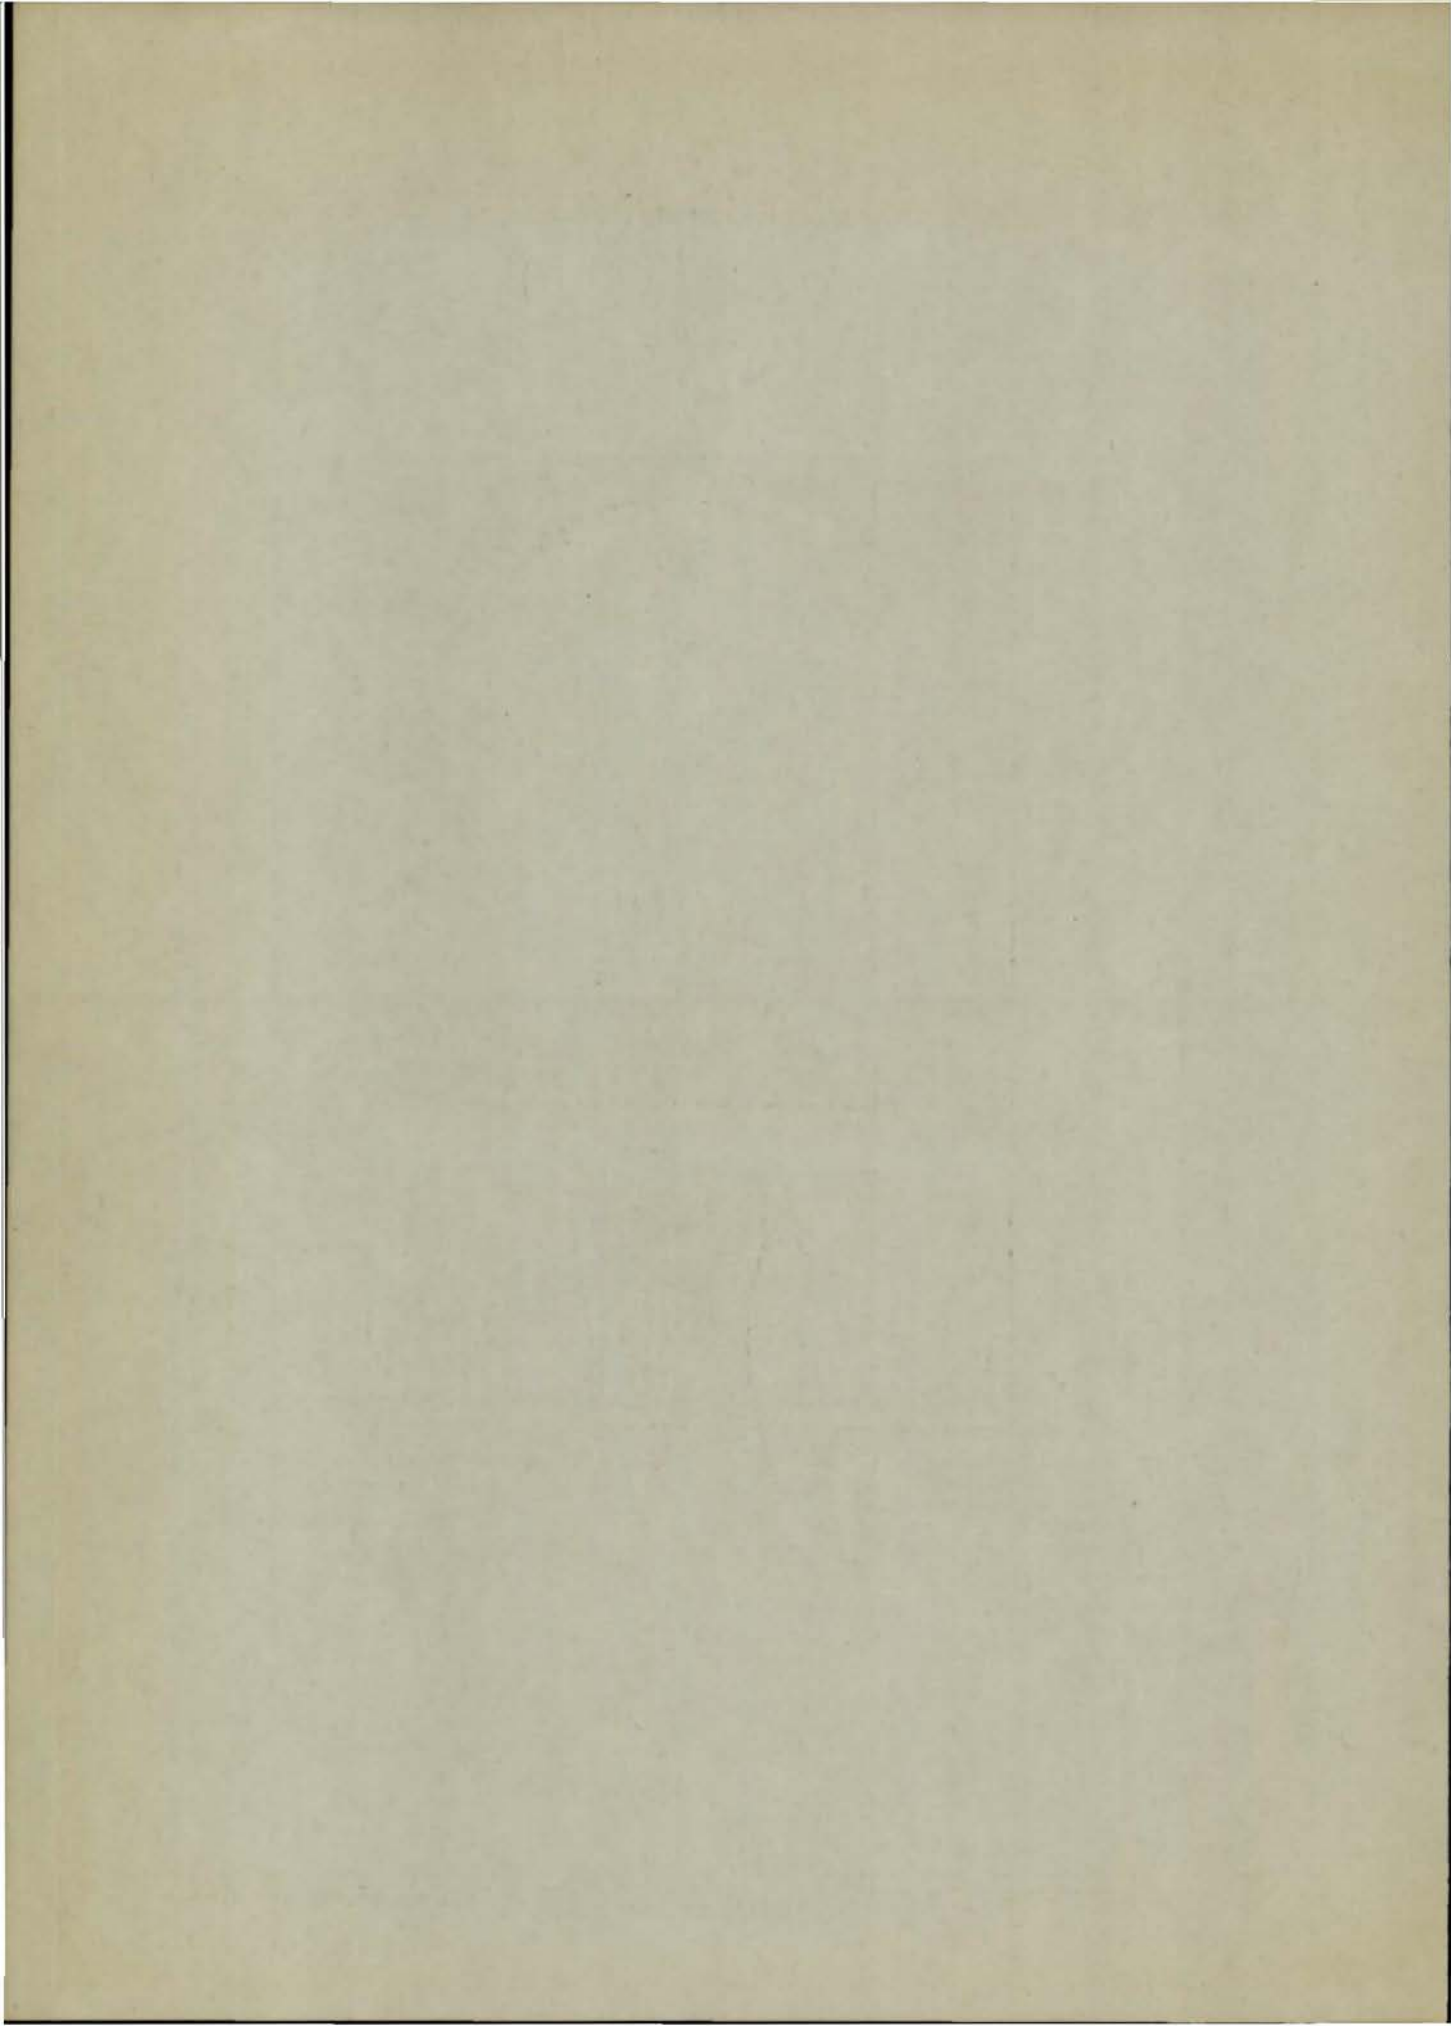

A student committee composed of Elizabeth Waldo '26, Mildred Goosman '28, Lillian Field '27, Dorothy Cooley '25, and Caroline Sachs '28, held an open house in the Project Room every Wednesday and Friday.

The project and problem method of education is fast becoming popular and has perhaps reached the highest point at Central. The collection has been adjudged by national school authorities as the best in the United States.

* District Debates.

** State Tournament Debates.

AS THE culmination of the most successful debate season in its history, Central high school achieved the long-coveted honor of state championship through a series of eight elimination contests.

By defeating South, Blair, and Technical by unanimous decisions, and by winning a unanimous decision over Plattsmouth through default, Central won the city championship and championship of the east-central district arguing on the state question, "Resolved: That the United States Should Enter the League of Nations."

By virtue of winning the state championship, Central gained the second leg on the W. E. Reed Cup offered last year, and as victors in the district, won the right to compete in the state debate tournament at Lincoln, May 7, 8, and 9.

Entering a three-man team composed of David Fellman, Byron Dunham, and Sam Minkin into the state tournament, Central eliminated Alliance in the first round by a 3 to 0 decision, Lincoln in the second round and Brock in the semi-finals by split decisions; and in the final forensic battle with Superior, a third split ballot gave Central the victory and championship of Nebraska.

Previous to the district debates, Central entered into competition with Technical, Lincoln, South, Thomas Jefferson, and Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs in the newly-created Missouri Valley Debating League. Meeting each school in a dual debate, Central won six out of the ten participated in, and tied Thomas Jefferson for second place.

V. E. Chatelain, the debate coach, deserves much of the credit for this year's successful season. Being the man behind the guns, his work is apt to be passed over lightly, but it was only through his unceasing effort, mastery of the strategy of debate, and profound knowledge of the art of argumentation, that a city, district, and state championship were realized.

Credit for the splendid backing received by debate this year from the student body is largely due to the activity of the Faculty Debate Committee, which made possible the mass meetings and general assemblies held during the year, and generally supervised the advertising.

Following the precedent of the previous year, a banquet was held in the cafeteria on the evening of the first debate, an event which gives promise of becoming an annual affair. After winning the state title, a picnic was held to celebrate the victory and to lay the foundations for another banner season next year. Just before the close of the school term, a debate club was organized to co-ordinate and centralize the various elements at Central boosting debate. This organization will commence its activities next fall, and promises to be one of Central's greatest units.

With such a list of achievements, every loyal Centralite can be truly proud of Central high school's record in debate, and should look forward confidently to a duplication of this year's achievements next year.

—Leona Pollack '25.

—David Fellman '25.

The Debate Team

SIX argumentatively-inclined orators represented Central in her 1925 debate season and aided materially in adding to the school's laurels.

Sam Minkin, one of the veterans of last year's championship team, proved to be one of the main cogs in Central's debate machinery. His brilliant oratory, keen humor, and polite but pungent sarcasm, firmly established his reputation as one of Central's best debaters.

David Fellman, the second star of last year's team, successfully defended the honor of Central in the fourteen debates in which he participated. His complete mastery of facts, and their organization into a persuasive argument and delivery in a clear effective manner, won for Central a majority of the decisions, and stamps him as a true exponent of the art of debate.

Byron Dunham, the only junior member of the team, was, however, one of the strongest. His pleasing presentation and analysis were instrumental in winning several of the hardest debates of the year.

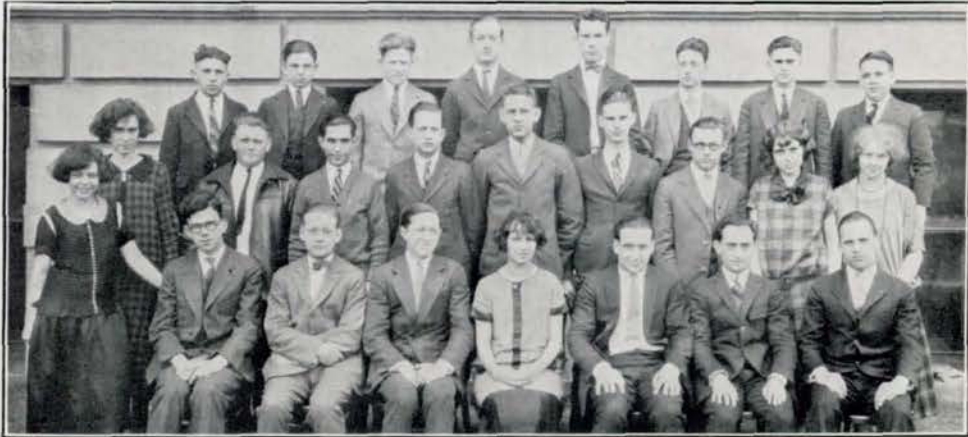

Leona Pollack, the only girl on the school team, was an important link in the remarkably excellent chain of feminine controversialists that Central high school has had. Always a loyal booster of debate, she took her place in Central's Hall of Fame by her ability to reason logically and to speak convincingly.

Henry DeLong was another valuable member of the school team. His ability to handle evidence and actual facts, and his splendid voice endeared him to all lovers of debate at Central.

Harry Wise, though a new man in debate, is becoming a most fiery and impressive speaker and participates in many of the important forensic battles.

Freshman Squad

YOUNG in years but old in wisdom and power of speech! Freshmen debaters, Central bows in recognition of your worth. Undaunted by the greater experience of your opponents, the seniors, you have emerged inter-class champions of 1925, on the question, "Resolved; That the United States Should Join the League of Nations."

In preparation for the inter-class debates, Coach V. E. Chatelain divided the senior squad into three parts: the seniors with Sam Minkin as coach; the juniors under David Fellman, and the sophomores under Charles Haas. The freshman squad was coached by Leona Pollack and Mary Claire Johnson. After a series of debates within each division, the members of the teams were chosen.

The Junior-Senior debate opened the series. The Senior team with Catherine Southard and Harry Wise as members, and Fairfax Dashiell as alternate, upheld the negative side of the question, defeating by a two to one vote the Junior team composed of Warren Creel and James Mason, with Byron Dunham as alternate.

Harold Pollack and James Bednar, with Sam Fregger, alternate, composing the freshman team, battled their way to the finals, upholding the affirmative side of the case, by defeating the sophomore team represented by Richard Woodman and Harold Holtmeyer, with Jeffries Nickols as alternate.

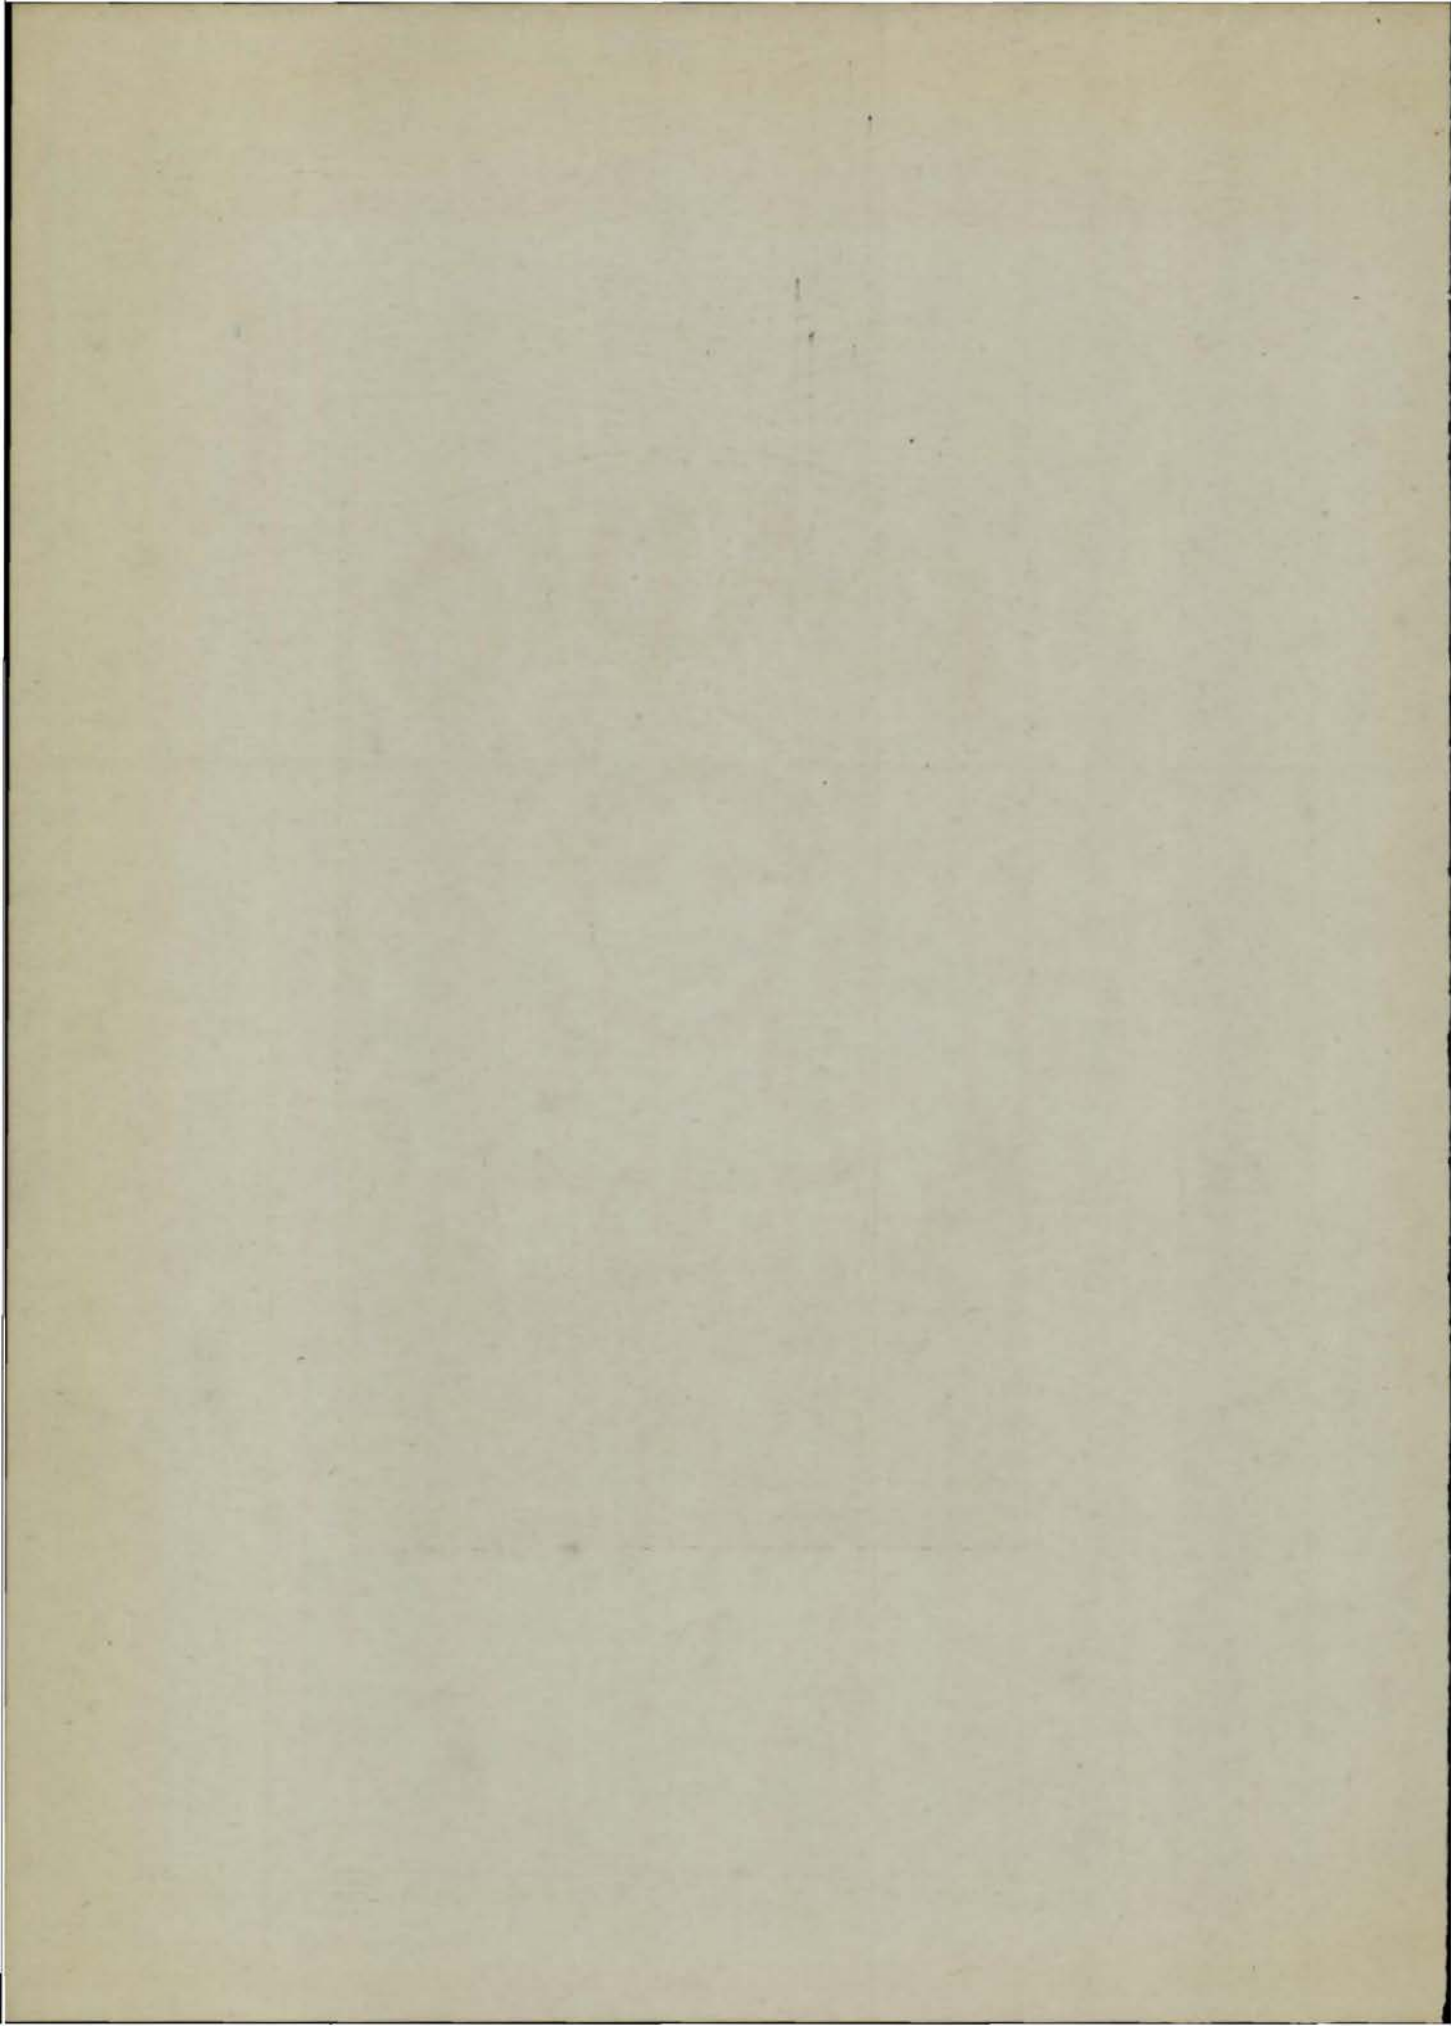

The championship contest between the affirmative Freshman team, and the negative Senior team proved the surprise of the year, and demonstrated freshman ability. The Seniors, experienced and capable, were worthy opponents of the underclassmen.

Inter-class debates have taken their place in Central as an annual event in which class and school interest reaches a high degree of friendly rivalry and keen competition.

"Voice of Omaha Central"

KOCH, the Voice of Omaha Central, was established in 1923 by C. H. Thompson, mechanical drawing and radio instructor, assisted by a group of students from the radio class. The station is of the class A type, operating on a wave length of 258 meters with a power of 50 watts. Since the first inauguration of a regular schedule, in 1924, the Voice of Central has been heard as far as Porto Rico, Cuba, California, Massachusetts, Maine, and British Columbia.

In conjunction with the programs, a remote control line was established between the Rialto theatre and Central. By means of this, Rialto music is broadcast daily except Saturday at 3 p. m. On Saturday night, the leading organists of the city are presented in special recitals. Studio programs are broadcast on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Lectures on Americanization, Journalism, Spanish, and Household Arts have been features of the past year's operation.

The staff for the station is under the personal supervision of Mr. Thompson and is composed of the chief announcer, Arnold Cisler; engineer, Bert Badgerow, and Paul Maxwell, assistant operator.

The Purple and White Handbook

WITH the publication of the Purple and White Handbook, a long cherished ideal for Central has at last been realized. The book is a small, compact volume, easily capable of being carried in one's pocket and intensely interesting throughout. Its pages are well set up and full of valuable material, especially so to the person who is entering Central for the first time.

The purpose of the Purple and White Handbook is to form a bond of union among those who desire great things for Central and to furnish an incentive for a greater school spirit. The book is very similar to the little information books that are put out by many colleges. Every possible question that one might ask on entering Central is anticipated and the answer set down in a clear, lucid manner.

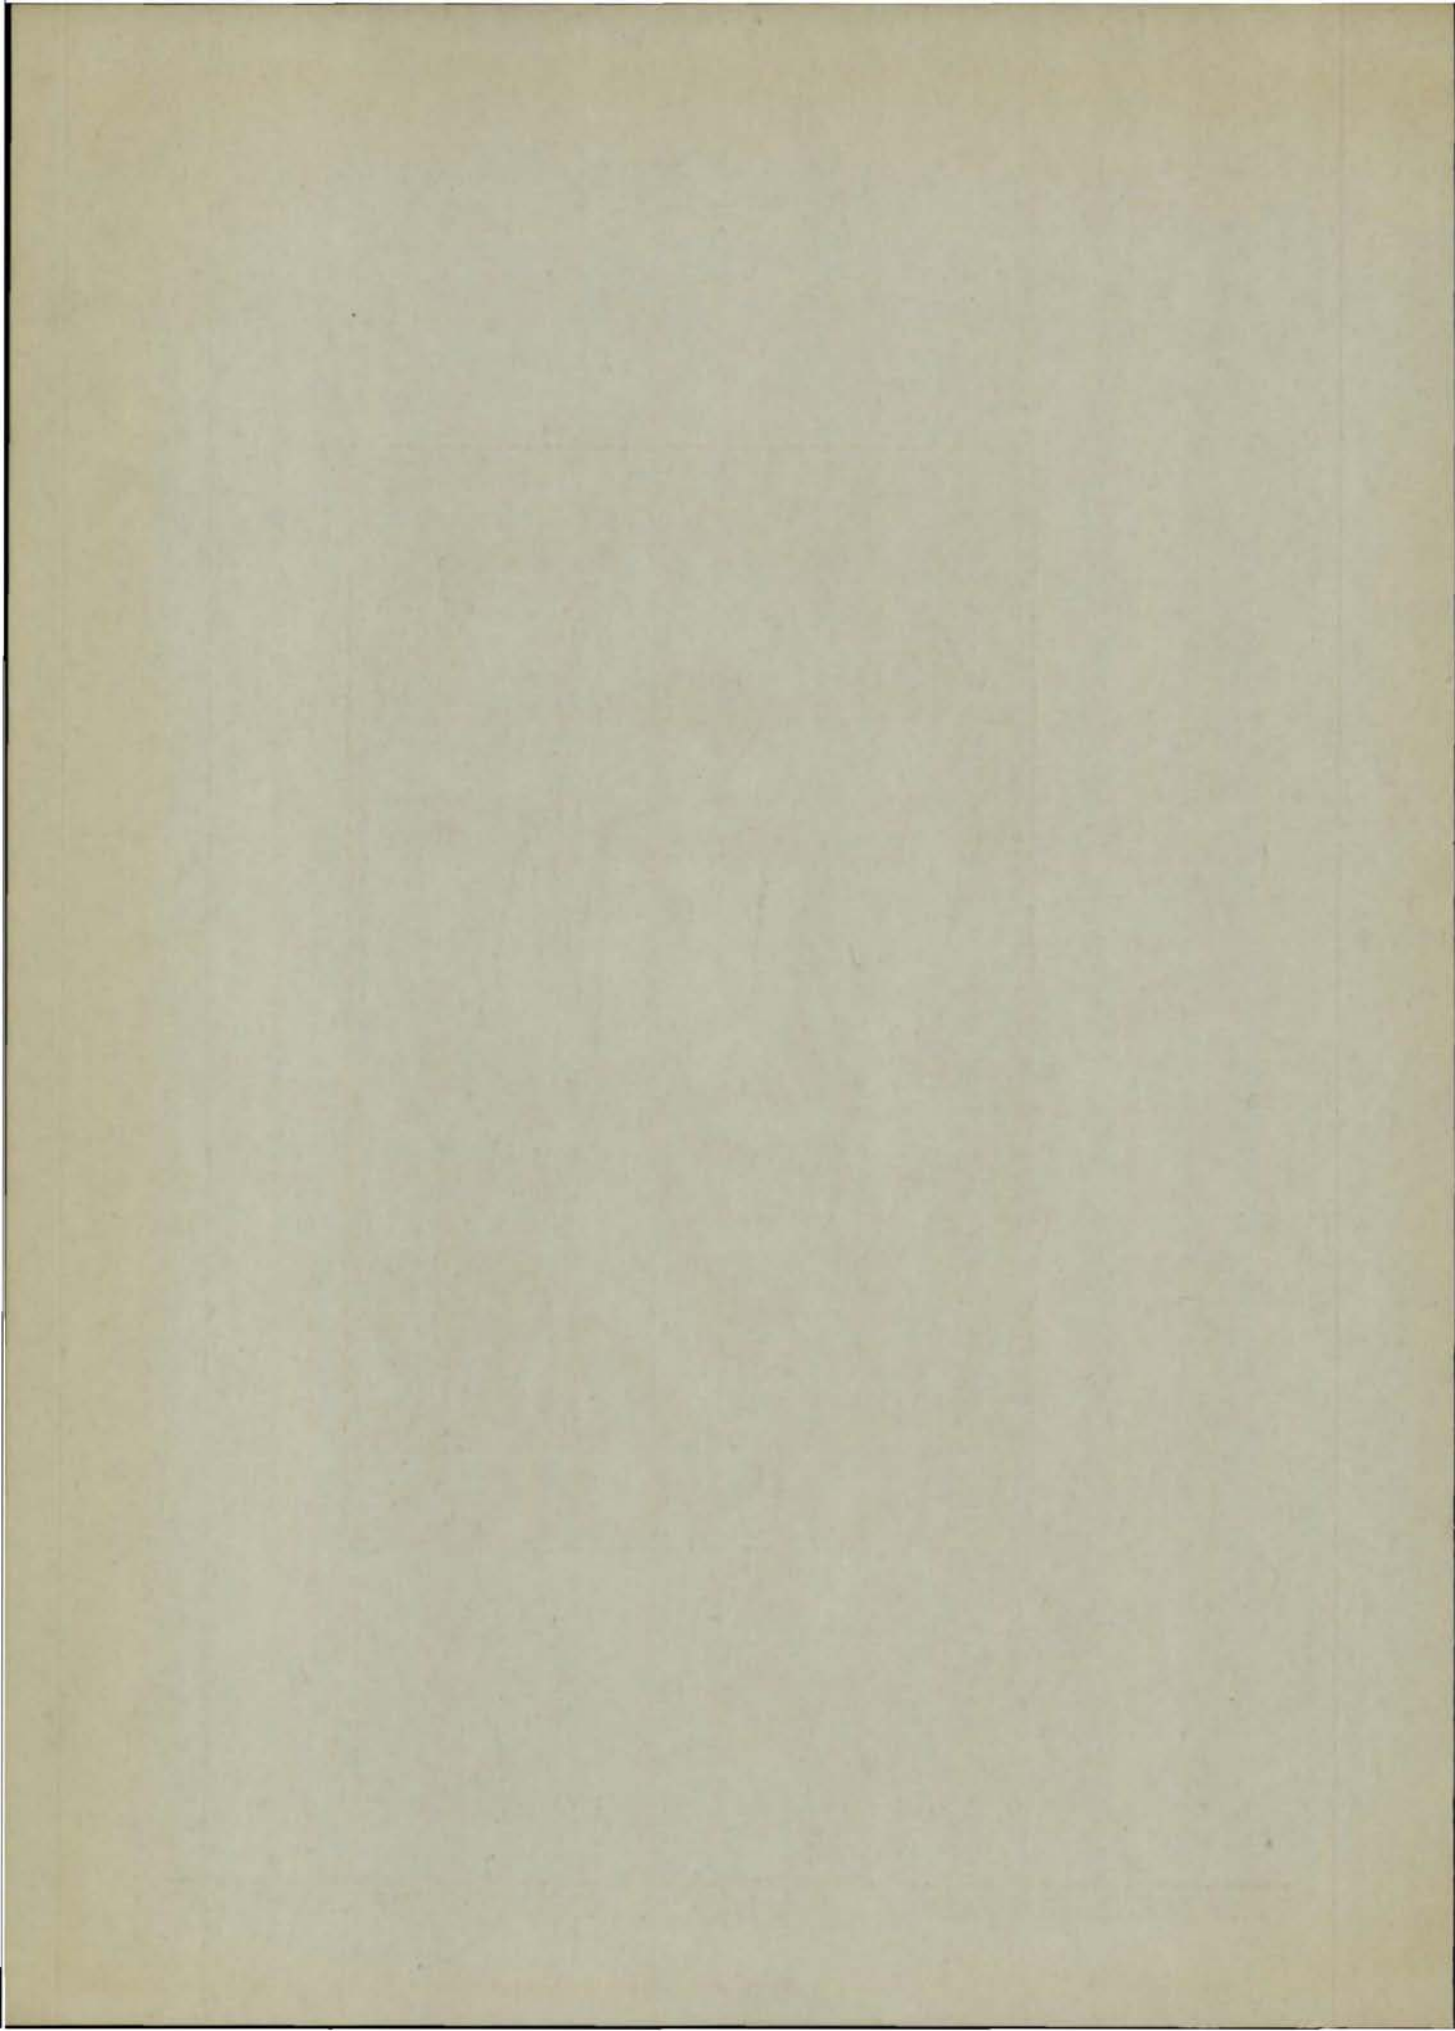

Prominent among its features are the sections devoted to the Activity Points System, College Education, Organizations, Athletics, Awards, and School Songs. Other sides of school life are also presented.

The handbook was compiled by the editorial staff of The Weekly Register for the first semester of the school year, 1923-1924. Due to unforeseen delays, however, the book was not ready for distribution until last fall. On Friday, November 21,—the day before the football game with Tech and when the first annual Color Day was held—the books were given out.

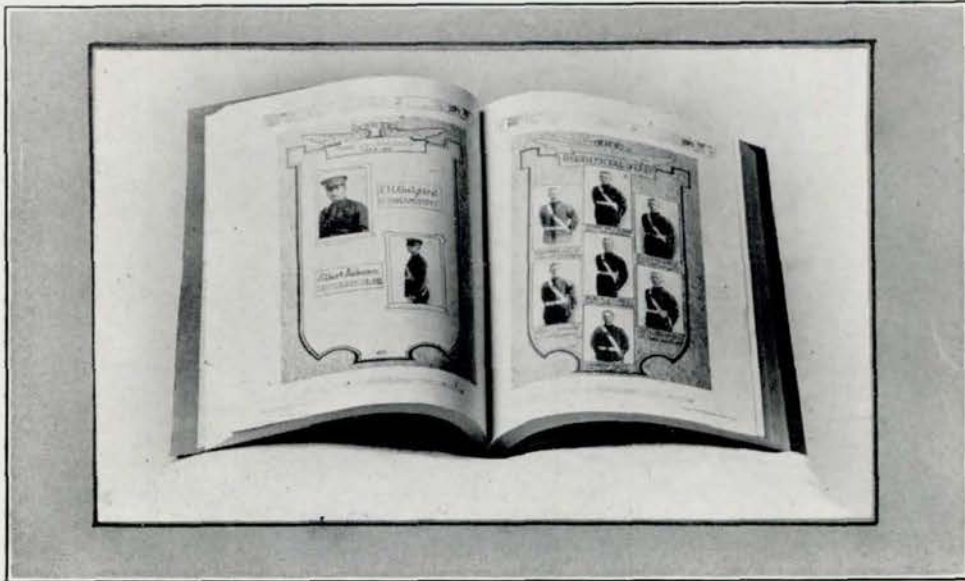

No one now questions the value of such a book. As a means of information about all sides of school life, it is unexcelled. It now seems firmly entrenched, along with The Weekly Register and the O-Book, as one of Central's publications.

Declamatory

DISTRICT

THREE first places and one second marked the "School on the Hill" as the victor in the Eastern District Declamatory Contest held at Central, April 17, 1925.

STATE

Further laurels came to Central in both the extempore speaking section at Arapahoe, May 12, and the humorous section at Scottsbluff, May 8.

Commercial Contests

Central high emerged victorious at the Second District Commercial Contest held at Auburn, Nebraska, March 27, 1925.

KANSAS CITY CONTEST

Richard Cole, Central's only entrant in the Fifth Annual Kansas City Typewriting Contest held in Argentine high school, Kansas City, Kansas, April 11, 1925, won three prizes—second for speed, writing 68 words per minute for 15 minutes; first for accuracy, and first in the one-minute test, writing 103 words without error.

STATE COMMERCIAL CONTEST

Second place was awarded Central at the State Commercial Contest held at Norfolk, Nebraska, April 24, 1925.

Music Contests

GLORY, fame, and honor awaited Central's entrants in the Midwestern Music Contest at Kansas City, Missouri, April 3, 1925. # CALENDAR

SEPT

THE O BOOK

- SEPT. 2—Enrollment Day. 1500 students and 600 Freshmen survive the perils of registration. Casualties, 2099 headaches. (Note: Harold Barris was the only one who did not get a headache from enrolling—he already had one.)
- SEPT. 3—The nine and one-half months' orgy begins. Smiles are about as scarce as blushes in Africa.
- SEPT. 16—Student Association Campaign commences. Members of the Speakers' Bureau make Demosthenes look like the announcer at a prize-fight.
- SEPT. 17—World Fliers pass over school. Stiff necks are exceeded only by sunburnt tonsils.
- SEPT. 23—Student Association Election. Candidates work hard, but the one who wroks hardest is the janitor. Also on the same day is held an unofficial boxing tournament. Contestants unknown, but unusual fistic ability was displayed by all.
- OCT. 3—First football game of the season. Central vs. Beatrice at Beatrice. Score: Central 26, Beatrice 0. Ho! Hum!
- OCT. 8—Cheer leaders organize. Qualifications: One pair of white ducks and ability in dodging apple cores.
- OCT. 9-10—Central outgrows auditorium. First general assemblies. As Shakespeare would say, "Just because you've been in some tight squeezes is no sign you're a nurse."
- OCT. 10—June Senior election. Rabbit punch barred. Also, no biting in the
- OCT. 11—Council Bluffs game. Score: Central 20, Council Bluffs 10. Blue Howell, captain and mainstay of the team, breaks his ankle. 2,000 students break their hearts. John Herzog falls and breaks his ukulele.
- OCT. 13—Hockey practice. As H. C. Witwer might say, "They called him Morris because he was a supreme ham."
- OCT. 17—O-Book business manager elected. R. I. P.
- OCT. 18—Central vs. Lincoln. Score: Central 6, Lincoln 16. Now wouldn't that melt your gold tooth!
- OCT. 20—Another election—June O-Book staff. As Bill Bryan might say, "You vote for me or I'll kick you in the polls."
- OCT. 25—Central vs. Creighton. Score: Central 0, Creighton 13. I allus said 13 was unluckier than a sausage in Jerusalem.
- OCT. 28—Costume design class organizes. Motto: Clothes make the man or woman, but they break the man. Also, announcing the latest fad, low-necked slippers.
- OCT. 29—Freshman debaters organize. Time will here be taken while Handsome Hoyle renders a song entitled, "Don't count your chickens before they're dated up."

THE O BOOK

- Oct. 30—Al Shrier gets 100 in a prep test and drops dead.
- Oct. 31—Mid-term exams. Say! Some of these teachers ask too many questions.
- Nov. 1—Central vs. Sioux City. Score: Central 7, Sioux City 7. Which proves that a nery cat can keep a violin in strings for quite a while.
- Nov. 6-7—Teachers' convention.
Breathes there a student with soul so serene,
He doesn't like to see teachers convene.
- Nov. 8—Central vs. St. Joseph. Score: Central 39, St. Joe 0. It's a heavy flapjack that has no turning.
- Nov. 11—Armistice Day. One minute vacation. Which goes to show that a spade may be a spade but a vacation isn't always a vacation.
- Nov. 15—Central vs. South. Score: Central 27, South 0. South's score is smaller than a safety zone in Havelock.
- Nov. 18—Inter-class debates. The Freshies drag off the high honors. Introducing to the scholastic world the child prodigy, Lotta Gabb, who has more brains than a butcher shop.
- Nov. 21—Much disturbance and occurrence.
1st—Declamatory contest takes place.
2nd—Color day.
3rd—Big Rialto mass meeting.
4th—Epidemic of purple and white sweaters. Conclusive evidence that Beddeo's have had another sale.
- Nov. 22—Central beats Tech in everything but the score, 9 to 14.
- Nov. 27-28—Thanksgiving holidays. Time out while A student takes a whole breath. Also, time out while D student makes up back work.
- DEC. 1—Purple and White Handbook is published. Following is an extract from some of the remarkable statistics contained in this book:
"If the Telephone Building and the City Hall were laid end to end in the halls of Central, it would be hard to get from one class to the other."
- DEC. 3—French cross-word puzzles are introduced.
The boy stood on the burning deck,
The flames were leaping round his neck,
But he could pay them little reck,
He was crossing solve-word puzzles, by heck.
- DEC. 10—Football Banquet.
Waiter: "You shall be served with alacrity."
Ony: "Gee! I don't believe I ever ate any of that before."
- DEC. 12-13—Glee Clubs' presentation of "Chimes of Normandy."
"Papa" Schmidt, vocal, accompanied by "Sheik" Gulgard on the Linoleum, rendering, "The cattleman is afraid because he is a cowherd."

THE O BOOK

- DEC. 19—JAN. 5—Intermission while the Freshies go home and wait for Santy Claus.
- JAN. 19—Final Exam Week begins. Eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow you may have an exam.
- JAN. 23—January class graduation. All graduates express deep sorrow at leaving the school. Like an escaped convict leaving a convention of policemen.
- JAN. 26—Second Semester Registration. New students receive their four-year sentence, and are assigned to their respective cells to await further torture.
- FEB. 13—Flaming Youth ties and handkerchiefs are introduced. No wonder, look at the date! Some sheiks look like their throat was cut, while on others it looks like their tongue was hanging out.
- FEB. 22—Washington's birthday. Half holiday.
 Judge: "Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing else but? I say, do you swear?"
 Witness: "Occasionally."
- MAR. 13-14—Road Show. Central's own little Orpheum putting on a show that makes the Zeigfeld Follies look like amateur night at a neighborhood theatre.
- MAR. 23-27—Mid-term Exams. He who hesitates is a student being led to the slaughter.
- MAR. 30-APR. 6—Spring vacation.
 There once was a student named Eva,
 She got a touch of Spring Feva,
 And the teacher got so,
 That she told her to go,
 Where the feva neva would leva.
- APRIL 9—Central wins a unanimous decision over Tech in a debate for the city and district championship and receives the Reed cup. As one debater said to the other, "Pull in your ears; you look like a loving cup."
- APRIL 14—Election of Junior Honor Society members. Some students admit they are beautiful not realizing at the time that beauty and brains is a rare combination.
- APRIL 24—Junior Glee Club Concert. Rendering a song entitled, "The Height of Imagination Is a Man Named Ginsberg Living in Minneapolis."
- APRIL 29—Some appointments to the National Honor Society. Also, some disappointments.
- MAY 8-9—State Musical Contest. Dante heard the wailing of the damned—
 The saxophone itself was invented later.
- MAY 9—Nebraska Interscholastic Academic Contest. Take it or leave it. Students are given a chance to show their brains. Which reminds me of the man who committed suicide with a revolver.
- MAY 22-23—Senior Play, "A Tailor-Made Man."
 Ques.—When does a Senior Play?
 Ans.—When the notebook rings.
- MAY 28—JUNE 3—Final exams, or the end of a perfect semester—perfectly awful.

THE O BOOK

- MAY 30—Decoration Day. A school holiday, but, much to the disgust of several hundred students, it falls on Saturday.
- MAY 31—Commencement Sermon. The commencement commences to commence.
- JUNE 2-12—Cadet Encampment.
- JUNE 3-8—Girls' Camp.
 Half the students, sweating great drops of perspirations behind a lesson book, wish they were at camp.
 The other half, at the mercy of the elements, wish they were back at school.
- JUNE 11—Visitors' Day at camp. The significance of this is that on this day the the boys must wear trunks when they go in swimming.
- JUNE 12—Graduation and freedom.

Thirty-five Years of Successful Work in the Field of Commercial Education

For Educated Girls and Women

STENOGRAPHIC COURSE    BOOKKEEPING COURSE
CLERICAL COURSE

Measure the value of a business training by estimating the earning power of those who DO NOT HAVE IT.

The DIFFERENCE between what an untrained and a trained office worker can earn will, in ONE YEAR'S TIME, pay for a business training.

Prepare for College or for Business by entering our classes at the close of your High School course. Continuation classes for those who have been taking commercial subjects.

Parents and young women invited to call at my office for consultation.

Every Graduate of the Omaha High School

Should go to college and thus be better able to meet the problems encountered in the great battle of life.

PARENTS should consider seriously the duty they owe their children. To perhaps leave them at a critical time without the financial means to complete their education, would be a great injustice.

THE WOODMEN OF THE WORLD, Omaha's great, successful Life Insurance Association, will provide the necessary funds to guard against this contingency. CERTIFICATES—$250 and up.

SPECIAL FEATURES—Cash and Paid-Up Withdrawal Equities. Temporary disability benefit after five years continuous membership. Particulars, rates, etc., gladly furnished.

DEVOTED TO BETTER HOME-MAKING

You can buy furniture at almost any price—as cheap as your conscience will permit, as expensive as your purse affords. But if you seek furniture of character at prices well within your means, you will patronize a store which urges you to weigh well the life-long investment in creature comfort you are about to make. It is the earnest aim of this store to reflect in its advertising the cordial, conscientious spirit which rules its organization.

We have only thing to sell—CHARACTER; a vigilant integrity in every relation with the customer.
