Charade

From remarks that have been made,
I gather this thing's a charade.
If you, like me, are dumb today,
Then turn this page the other way.

Miss Jessie M. Towne

It is not by public banquets and gaudy testimonials that Miss Jessie M. Towne, who retires in August, will be saluted for her years of brilliant teaching in Omaha Central High School.

Men and women by the hundreds will recall the time when they, brash youngsters, entered her classes in English. They will remember how she for the first time gave them respect for their language, taught them to love its beauties, helped them to become skillful and exact in its usage. She opened for them the vast and quiet pleasure that is to be found in books. They had approached with some trembling the terrors of Shakespeare only to discover, under her guidance, that he could become their familiar, lifting the curtain upon the depths of tragedy as well as delicious comedy.

For Miss Towne is that truest teacher, one who inspires her pupils with eagerness to learn. She believes in boys and girls and has the faculty of bringing out their best and helping them overcome their worst.

No one can measure the extent of her inspiration over these many years.

(Condensed from an editorial by George Grimes in the Omaha World-Herald of May 4, 1939. Mr. Grimes is an alumnus of Central High School.)

STUDENT COUNCIL

When the Student Council members for next year are elected this month, it will mark the first milestone in formal student government at Central. Since the beginning of the organization this year, much has been done to promote better understanding in the school.

When Ben Rees and Beth Kulakofsky talked with Fred Hill last fall about the need for more student government at Central, they did not realize how far their ideas would carry. The Student Council was founded to aid the best interests of Central by promoting the spirit of cooperation between students and faculty, to encourage initiative on the part of the students, and to foster public expression of the students on affairs in the school.

Central was not the first school in Omaha to adopt a new plan of government in its school, but Jack Garriss, Central's Student Council president, was made president of the Intercity Council. This year, our Student Council has laid the foundation for future years and has compiled a constitution that should prove highly valuable to members in years to come. Our council has been recognized by the Intercity Council.

Mrs. Irene Jensen is the chairman of the board of sponsors, which consists of Andrew Nelsen and F. Y. Knapple. Under her supervision, a committee, selected from the 22 members of the council, visited South and Technical High schools.

Members of next year's council are to be chosen by the whole school. Each class will vote for its own candidates.

SENIOR OFFICERS AND SPONSORS

Officers for the June, 1939, graduating class were elected last semester in order to facilitate organization and to allow early plans for senior enterprises. Dallas Madison was elected president. Other officers were Jack McGrane, vice president; Marjorie Rivett, secretary; and Harold Hickey, treasurer. Sergeants at arms were Bob King and Betty Jean Brown. Peggy Piper was chosen class reporter.

Mainly responsible for the organization of senior activities was the ever popular executive sponsor, Miss Julia Carlson. Miss Dorothy Anderson, Miss Maybel Burns, J. J. Guenther, Miss Elizabeth Kiewit, Miss Margaret Mueller, and Mrs. Florence Roush were the other faculty sponsors.

Each of the three senior home rooms elected its own presiding officers. Officers for Home Room 215 were chairman, Malcolm Dow; vice chairman, Bill Stuh; secretary, Mildred Nielsen; treasurer, Bob Clow; sergeants at arms, Jane Haggerty and H. M. Sinclair. Chairman of the new auditorium was Robert Daugherty; vice chairman, Jean Christie; secretary, Jack Gariss; treasurer, Harold Bremers; and sergeants at arms, Dick Peters and Ruth Haney. In 325 officers were chairman, Jack Nimmo; vice chairman, Frances Fuhrer; secretary, Jean Short; treasurer, Betty Marie Wait; and sergeants at arms, Phyllis Hoffman and John Goodsell.

The January graduating class elected Bob Batt, president; Joseph Quattrocchi, vice president; Raymond Dorsey, secretary; and Yvonne Strawn, treasurer.

SENIOR PLAY

"You Can't Take It With You," Pulitzer prize play of 1938, was the production offered by the class of 1939 this spring. Over one hundred seniors were in the cast directed by Miss Myrna Jones.

The play, a comedy about a carefree family, their snakes, cats, and odd paraphernalia, was received with unusual acclaim. In the cast were many members who had had no previous stage experience, but each of the difficult parts was handled excellently.

Dallas Madison was outstanding in the role of Grampa Vanderhof, central figure in the plot; Della Kopperud took the part of his eccentric daughter, Penelope Sycamore; and Roger Frohardt portrayed her husband, a maker of spectacular fireworks. Betty Marie Wait and George Armstrong had the romantic leads. Jack McGrane, Lou Dwyer, and Howard Schonberger acquired extraordinary talents for the play in the form of a distinctive xylophone technique, a novel type of ballet dancing, and a convincing Russian accent.

June Bliss was assistant director; Pearl Simon, student director; Betty Nellor and Bette Rose, prompters; and Margery Stewart, costume mistress. Make-up was under the direction of Miss Frances McChesney.

The business manager was Louise Knox; ticket manager, Phil Eyer; and stage manager, Frank Rice. Jack Malmquist was student stage manager. Publicity was by Joan Metcalfe.

The orchestra was under the direction of Henry G. Cox, and ushers were non-commissioned R.O.T.C. officers.

JUNIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Founded in 1923 by J. G. Masters, former principal of Central High School, the Junior Honor Society is the highest goal for which underclassmen may strive. Its purpose is the recognition of individuality and high achievement in both scholarship and school activities, the encouragement of leadership, and the development of character.

Three chapters — Epsilon for freshmen, Delta for sophomores, and Gamma for Juniors — compose the society. All underclassmen elected must have two A's and no grade below a B, unless the student carries five credits; he is then allowed one C. The only requisite for membership during the freshman year is high scholarship and good character, but in the sophomore and junior years, the student must show qualities of service, initiative, and leadership.

This year, 229 students were elected to membership by a faculty committee under the chairmanship of Miss Josephine Frisbie, freshman counselor. Active membership ceases at the end of one year, but graduates who have belonged to the Junior Honor Society are considered honorary members.

Announcement of the election was made in the Central High School auditorium on May 3. Miss Gertrude Knie announced juniors elected to the Gamma chapter, F. Y. Knapple announced the members of the Delta chapter, and Miss Frances McChesney announced freshmen who were elected to the Epsilon chapter. Miss Jessie M. Towne delivered the charge.
