Central High School

OMAHA, NEBRASKA

VOLUME XLVIII

In tribute:

Andrew J. Nelsen, teacher, counselor, assistant principal—at Central High school from 1917 until his retirement June, 1954.

In dedication:

To all students, teachers—past and present—and friends . . . who have helped nourish and preserve the Spirit of Central High School, we humbly and gratefully dedicate this O-Book.

*"I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch where through
Gleams that untraveled world whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnished, not to shine in use!
As though to breathe were life! Life piled on life
Were all too little, and of one to me
Little remains: but every hour is saved
From that eternal silence, something more,
A bringer of new things; and vile it were
For some three suns to store and hoard myself,
And this gray spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought."*

—Alfred Lord Tennyson—

In memoriam:

Irene Haskins Jensen, teacher and counselor, 1924 until her death September 3, 1954.
Joseph G. Masters, principal 1915-1939, died May 19, 1954.

Omaha City Centennial 1854 - 1954

*The city is my child
And I its anxious parent.
Because it is part of me and I love it
I long for its perfection.
Lovingly I wash its face and dress it up.
Proudly I show it off in company.
Impatiently I scold it for its slowness.
Doubtfully I accuse it of wrongdoing.
Angrily, I leave it.
Lonely, I claim it.
Shyly, I return to it.
Wholeheartedly, I love it!
My city, my child—Omaha.*

Shirley Palladino 1954

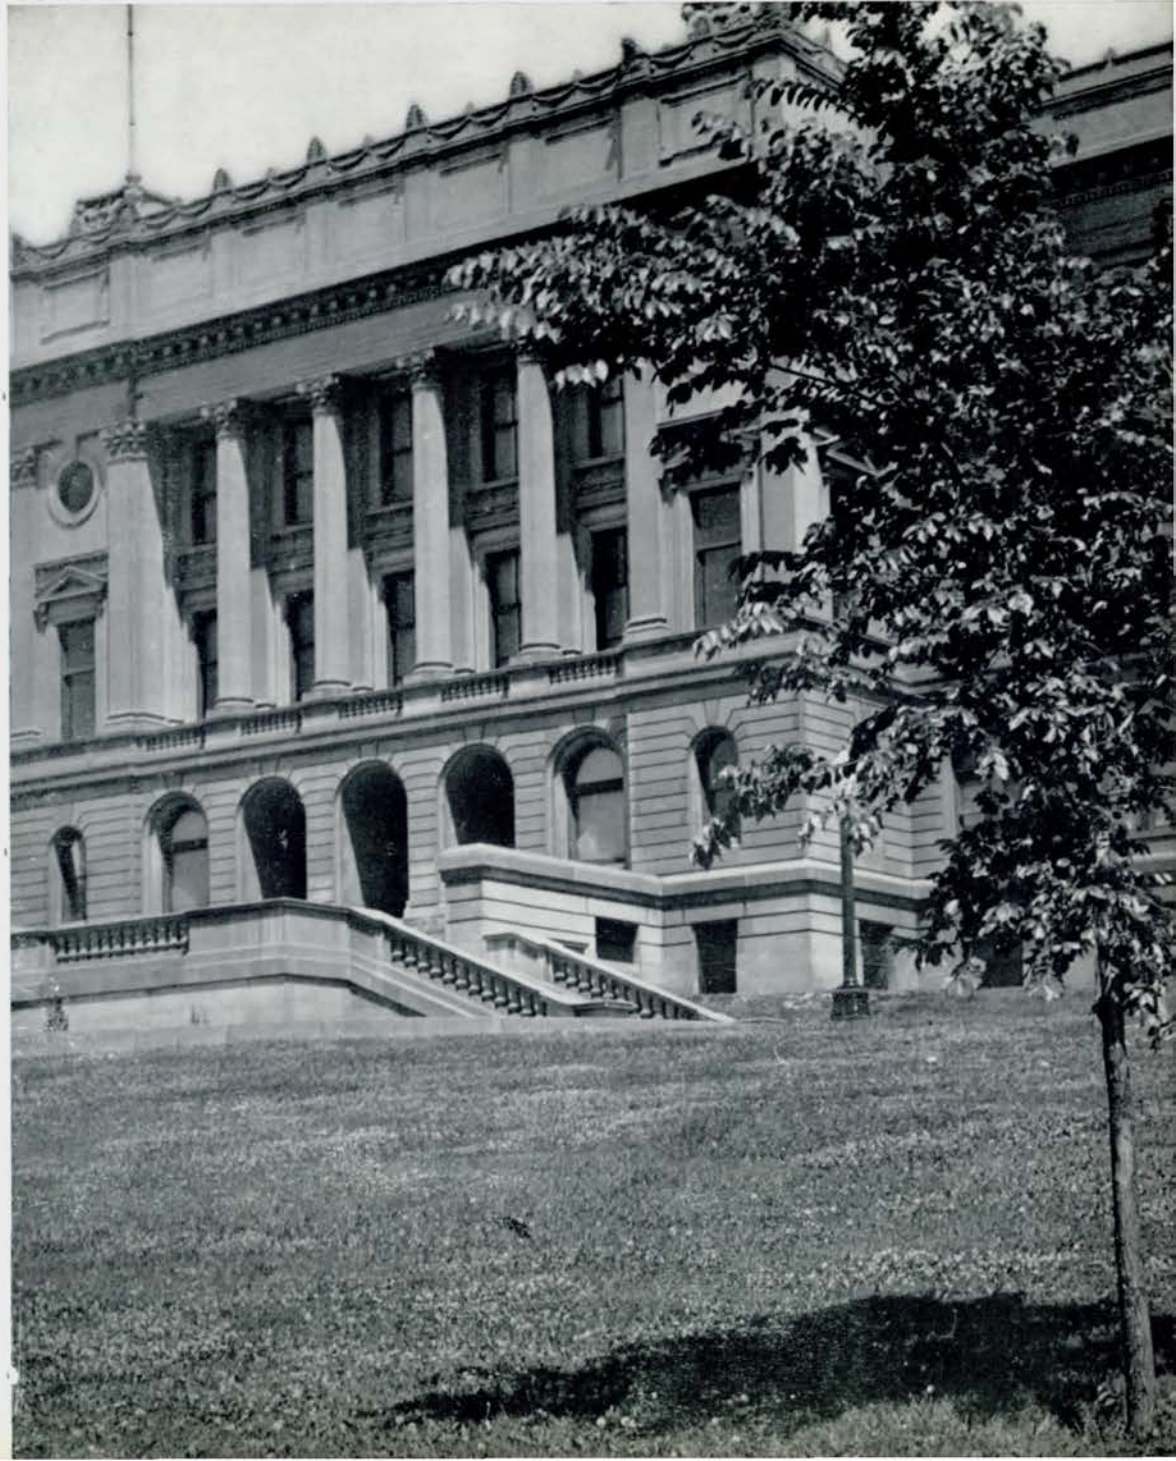

The Spirit of Central . . .

From the summit of Capitol hill, the Spirit of Central High school humbly gazes upon a generous and ambitious city—Omaha, Nebraska. I, that "Spirit," dedicate these historical pages to you, Omaha, whose concern for and interest in the younger generation produced "the high school" on Capitol square.

A territorial school law in 1859 authorized a public education system for this region; thus Omaha High was born. Being only a pioneer village, you were void of elaborate and substantial buildings; the old State house at Ninth and Farnam would have to do temporarily.

A 10-year search for a permanent home followed, as we moved from the State house to Ninth and Douglas, Thirteenth and Douglas, Fifteenth and Douglas, Sixteenth and Douglas, Douglas between Fifteenth and Sixteenth, Fifteenth and Capitol Avenue, Sixteenth and Farnam, Fifteenth and Chicago and, finally, to the Episcopal school at Fourteenth and Jackson streets. Still two Omahans, J. H. Kellom and S. D. Beal, continued our quest for a perfect location.

In 1867 the territorial government was removed, and you officially became Omaha in Douglas county, Nebraska. The transfer of the controversial state capitol to Lincoln left you, the city, with a useless territorial capitol building surrounded by 10 acres of weeds. What should grace the hill with the "grandest view in Nebraska?" Deploring the inadequate Omaha school system, the Honorable George W. Frost and Colonel E. B. Taylor, president of the Nebraska Senate, worked fervently for the passage of a bill authorizing the maintenance of the obsolete capitol as a "first-class high school."

First school building on Capitol hill.

The citizens of Omaha donated $65,000 and the Nebraska legislature appropriated $25,000 plus the revenue from Omaha's fines and licenses for repairing and enlarging our future campus. However, an obstacle appeared when the board of regents under Alvin Saunders consulted a noted Chicago architect, Mr. Randall, who described the capitol building as "unsafe and unsuited to school purposes." June 2, 1869, your board of regents legalized the razing of the hazardous structure; March 21, 1870, they sanctioned an immediate building permit. You eagerly bought bonds to hasten completion of Omaha's first secondary school.

Three of your "favorite sons," Honorable Mr. Frost, chairman; Augustus Kountze; and Gov. Saunders, president, formed a building committee that worked zealously on the four-story structure. Oh, you were proud of this school; every day you would gaze up the steep hill to the building that was "conceded to be the best structure in the United States." A north and a south wing were attached to the main building—the whole was covered by an impressive slate Mansard roof. This architectural triumph possessed two spires; one 203 feet from the ground supported by a 22-foot square tower—a spacious lookout was placed in the tower 150 feet above the earth; the other capped a ventilating shaft 160 feet above the soil on Capitol hill.

Our Omaha High school, costing your taxpayers $200,000, was finally completed in the spring of '72, and 50 students trudged through the mud toward their first permanent school building which was truly "a monument of the liberality and wise forethought of the business men and taxpayers of Omaha."

"145," the first auditorium.

Omahan Edward Rosewater worked energetically for the establishment of a board of education to supersede the board of regents; this bill was passed by the legislature in 1872. In August your first city superintendent of public instruction, A. F. Nightingale, began his crusade for a secondary course of study "equivalent to the requirements of admission to the best Universities of America." Thus you, the denizens of

The old and new combine facilities.

Omaha with your wonderful aspirations, laid a scholarly foundation for an eminent public school system and an equally prominent Central High school.

Suddenly a mysterious ailment afflicted our adolescent school, and by 1875 only 28 students were enrolled. Furthermore, the first regular class scheduled to graduate in '76 boasted only three prospective seniors. This crisis afforded some Omaha anti-educationalists fuel for their desired abolition of the high school; they emphatically stated that "... the luxuries of education are to be paid for by those who want them!"

A plausible explanation for the sluggish attendance was that "as cities grow larger, the high school percentage of enrollment always becomes less" due to the expansion of a city and the greater distance between the home and the high school.

In 1885 our growth was still hampered by accomodation of the primary grades; therefore, in 1887 the seventh and eighth grades were removed from our premises.

The four clock-faces on our tower became more realistic in '87 when they were equipped with moveable hands calculated to toll the hours on a mammoth 1,500 pound bell. To enable Omahans to see this new time-piee at any hour, the board decided to illuminate our campus.

Outstanding colleges, such as Williams, Smith, Wellesley and Vassar in '87 allowed our graduates to enter their portals without a preliminary examination. An Omaha High school diploma would suffice. The University of Nebraska permitted our graduates to begin their college work as sophomores. The application of our forefathers' motto to "know something of everything, and everything of something" had commenced to reap dividends.

Our excellent academic reputation and our beautiful building were incongruous with the unkempt appearance of our lawn. Since Omaha High did not embody a cafeteria or lunchroom, we ate our lunches on the south and east terraces which soon were littered with newspapers, orange peelings and paper bags. Besides this the prairie grass surrounding the school had become too thick for our outmoded lawnmower, a cow, to control. In 1890 the board of education formed a landscaping plan that would make our compus grounds as venerated as our school.

Our school became exclusively a high school in 1891 when Central school was erected to accomodate the graded department. However, our student body, continuing to grow, caused an unhealthy congestion at Central High. In 1901 the blue and buff Bedford stone east wing of a proposed 3-story fireproof rectangle was built. The exterior was embossed with carvings "emblematical of Art, Literature, Science, Learning and Architecture, thus forming a lasting memorial of the purpose to which the building was dedicated."

Graduating classes in the succeeding years presented art works for the decoration of our corridors: 1902, heroic figure of Winged Victory; 1905, full-size casts of Minerva and Clio, and busts of four Greek mythological characters. Our quadrangle, costing $750,000 was completed in 1910.

Cadets review on old Dodge hill.

Since this was no longer the only high school in Omaha, "Omaha Central High school" unofficially became the accepted name of this school in 1915 at the suggestion of Principal J. G. Masters.

In comparison with the new quadrangle our gymnasium and auditorium were antiquated; in 1930 a $250,000 north wing providing modern facilities was completed.

During your centennial anniversary, Omaha, a new honor has descended on the halls of our school. The School and College Study of Admission with Advanced Standing has selected Central as one of 90 schools in the United States where competent students may receive college-level credit.

One-hundred years of wise counseling and encouragement have continuously supported and nurtured this school. If you have not regretted your role as a benefactor, then the Spirit of Central High proudly says, "The success that has been shall continue to be ours."

1930's grand extension.

"College-bound" has been and is the predominate repartee of students leaving the portals of Central High school. Why? Throughout 95 years, Central has presented a curriculum designed primarily for the prospective collegian. However, all students, those that are to terminate and those that are to continue their matriculation, benefit from such a liberal foundation of knowledge.

Success and failure often hinge precariously on one's mastery of that erratic phenomenon known as the "English language." A four-year English course outlined by Frank Rice, head of the department, includes the grammatical essentials plus abundant samples of the rich literary heritage with which we as Americans are endowed.

In recognition of Mr. Rice's study under the John Hay Fellowship at Yale and Columbia universities in 1952-53, the John Hay Whitney Foundation presented 12 meritorious books to Central's library.

Central's history department, supervised by Miss Irma Costello, equips each individual with a thorough understanding of the political, economic and social problems encountered by man. A compulsory three-year study includes world geography, world history, civics and American history; whereas economics, modern problems and English history are elective.

The "ways and means" of campaigning and balloting are experienced by the juniors each fall as they vie for Boys' and Girls' County offices. By arranging the appearance of Nebraska Congressman Roman Hruska at an activities assembly, the history department provided the student body with an opportunity to meet their "government" directly.

Monument to knowledge.

In the past decade, the science department has repeatedly won recognition in Westinghouse's National Talent search and local honor in the University of Omaha science workshop.

Individual projects, often requiring two or three years for development, are encouraged by this department. Such scientific accomplishments are then displayed at Central's annual science-math open house and the Junior Academy of Science.

Four subjects—biology (compulsory), chemistry, physics and general science—are supervised by Roy C. Busch.

La Maitresse Doris Carlson, La Profesora Jane Nichols, Magistrae Ruth Pilling and Josephine Frisbie and Herr Ed Clark comprise our language department. Spelling bees, "20 Questions," "Concentration," phonograph records, choirs and oral recitations facilitate the learning of French, Spanish, Latin and German at Central.

Modern methods have invaded Central's mathematics classes! Scientific application (law of the lever), geometric constructions (Christmas tree ornaments) and visual aids make mathematics a more interesting and more practical subject. General mathematics, algebra, plane and solid geometry and trigonometry are taught in Andrew Nelsen's department. In the spring, awards are given to the seniors who have received all "ones" in math.

Fundamental knowledge for beginners and practical knowledge for the advanced student is stressed in Industrial Arts. O.

J. Franklin, department head, explains and demonstrates to prospective engineers and architects the principals applicable to mechanical, machine and architectural drawing.

Sixty-seven years after a dilatory beginning, shop and stage classes under Robert Beck are designing and producing back-grounds and props to provide professional settings for all Central productions including the opera, Road Show, fall and senior plays. Floats which Central entered in the centennial Youth Parade were the effects of this versatile group.

The business department, inaugurated in 1887, is directed by Richard Kunc. Courses enabling students to obtain training for clerical, commercial and secretarial careers include business training, bookkeeping, writing, salesmanship, shorthand, transcription, commercial law, type, office and secretarial training.

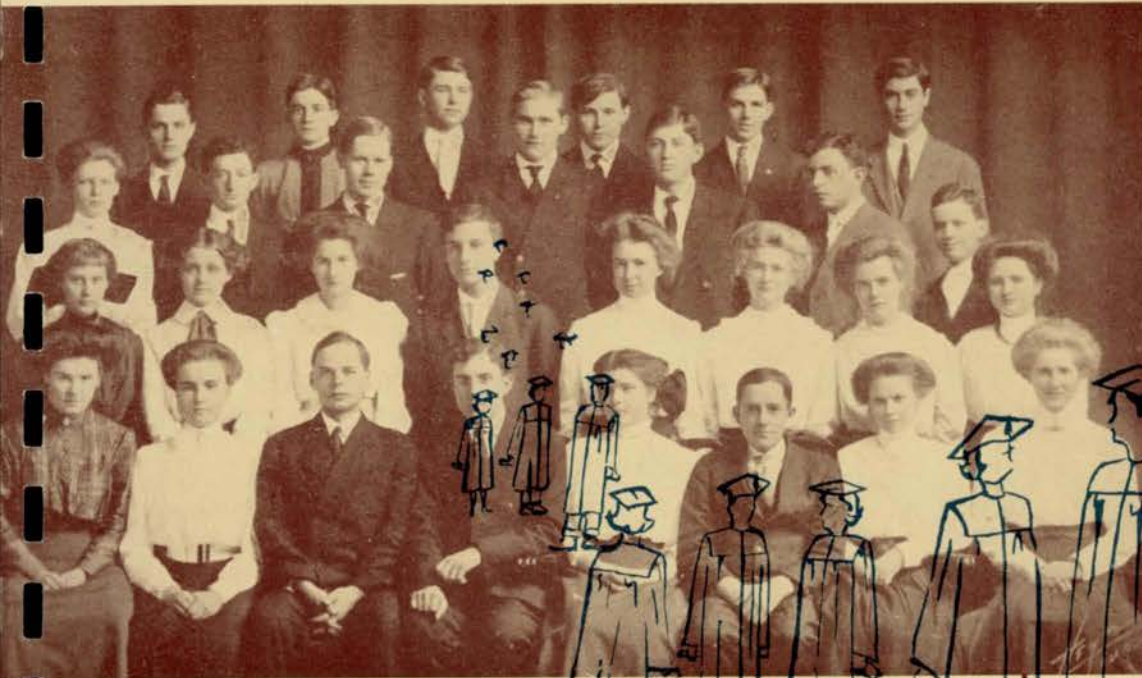

The conventional household arts department has been rejuvenated. Now a more practical program is presented in the name of "vocational homemaking." This includes the study of marketing, nutrition, hospitality and family relations besides the customary attention to cooking and sewing. Males invaded this ordinarily female vocation this year when Mrs. Fern McCready's department presented a home economics course exclusively for boys.

Art, music, dramatics, speech, journalism, physical training, and ROTC all covered more fully in another section complete the curriculum of knowledge and training available to the students of Central High school.

Seniors have busy year

The hubbub surrounding the Senior Class of 1954 terminated when 326 seniors received their diplomas June 12.

The first day of school, seniors began an activity-packed year with participation in the fall play, operetta, and Road Show. A highlight of the first semester was the annual Military ball. This colorful event saw 67 seniors ascend to ranks of officership.

Next on the senior agenda was the traditional election of class officers. Five boys and one girl were chosen as standard bearers for the '54 class. These six, under the direction of Miss Cecil McCarter, coordinated plans for graduation, handled class money and generally assisted in senior banquet arrangements.

Second semester, customarily the busiest, featured the twentieth annual All-Girls' party at which Kay Jorgensen was crowned Miss Central.

Seniors fitted into the centennial theme with participation in the Centennial Youth parade. The senior play "Junior Miss" added to the last-minute fever, while only one week later seniors led the entire Central music department in the traditional music festival.

After the O-Ball came baccalaureate services, climaxed by the long-awaited senior banquet and dance.

On Saturday evening, June 12, seniors took part in the solemn commencement exercises, embarking on their future lives with the waves of pleasant memories of their high school careers.

Council represents students

Established in 1939 to encourage participation in extra-curricular activities, to formulate student opinion and to promote better relations between students and faculty was Central High's Student council. Meeting each day with sponsor Miss Irene Eden and each Monday with Principal J. Arthur Nelson, the council discusses school problems and policies.

To qualify for council membership, a student must file a petition signed by 50 of his class members and maintain a "2" average. Council officers were elected by members themselves who chose Park Ames president, Judy Lundt vice president, Kay Jorgensen secretary, Terry Moshier treasurer and Sandra Garey, Speedy Zweiback and Jerry Gray sergeants-at-arms.

The president leads council meetings and school assemblies, the vice president takes charge of homeroom representative meetings, the secretary takes minutes of council meetings and the treasurer handles all ticket sales and financial matters. Members ushered at school productions and sponsored the annual All-Girls' party.

After the death last fall of council-founder Mrs. Irene Jensen, Miss Eden became sponsor. In honor of Mrs. Jensen the council dedicated this year's All-Girls' party to her, calling it Memory Ball, and left a silver crown to the school.

Honor societies give recognition

The National Honor society began in 1918 when Joseph G. Masters, then principal of Central High, suggested to the National Association of Secondary School Principals that an honor society be formed to encourage scholarship and leadership in the nation's high schools.

Opinions of Mr. Masters were that the basis of election to the society should be made on scholarship, leadership, character, initiative and services; that the members should be representatives from 15% of the senior class, and that the election should be made by the principal and a committee chosen by him. Thus, each spring Central is given the opportunity to recognize the excellent achievements of its seniors.

Five years later in 1923 Mr. Masters again proposed an organization to recognize individual achievement. This time, however, the underclassmen were to be rewarded for excellent records in both scholarship and school activities. To be eligible for membership in the Junior Honor society chapters—Epsilon for freshmen, Delta for sophomores and Gamma for juniors—the student must be on the honor roll at the end of first semester and midterm of second semester. This year 75 girls and 66 boys were named members of the various chapters, the juniors leading with 57 representatives.

Kay Jorgensen, MISS CENTRAL XX

Coronation, festivities highlight ball

Amid a regal setting of princesses, countesses and ladies of the court, Kay Jorgensen was crowned Miss Central XX at the Memory Ball, annual All-Girls' party, April 2. Miss Josephine Frisbie, senior girls' counselor, crowned Kay in climax to the evening's program, and a crown was presented to the girls of Central by Park Ames, student council president, in memory of Mrs. Irene Jensen, originator and sponsor of the party.

The evening began in the gym with the costume party and traditional skit presented by the princesses. Marshal of the gym party was Jean Cutler. As is the custom, each girl attending brought a gift for Children's Memorial hospital or the Hattie B. Munroe home for crippled children.

After presentation of the costume prizes in the gym, the spectators went to the auditorium to view the grand march and coronation. Those marching included Miss Central; her ladies-in-waiting, Judy Lundt and Marsha Waxenberg, and the princesses, countesses and attendants—all elected by the senior girls. Others marching were class officers, club presidents, student council girls and freshman girls who were train, crown and scepter bearers. Barbara Holmes was mistress of the coronation ceremonies.

Music was provided by the orchestra, dance band and Mrs. Noyes Bartholomew at the organ. The party was arranged and managed by the boys of the student council.

Committees arrange activities

This year as always senior committee members were busy planning events that climaxed their four years at Central. Beginning work early under the chairmanship of Julie Vogel was the election committee that supervised the campaigning and election of senior class officers.

Orders for caps and gowns were placed by the Cap and Gown committee whose chairman was Everett Richardson. Reading many plays before the selection of "Junior Miss" was the duty of the Senior Play-Reading committee.

The banquet was arranged by the Banquet Arrangements, Program, Table and Decoration committees under the respective leadership of Nora Brown, Marsha Waxenberg, Judy Avery and Red Thomas. Projects of these groups respectively were to decide on time, place and menu; to decide on theme, speakers and entertainment; to decorate the tables, and to make favors and table decorations. All plans for the dance were made by Fred Nelson and his committee.

The last group to get into operation was the Commencement Arrangement committee which, under the leadership of Laurance Hoagland, made the plans for the commencement of the 1954 class.

ACTIVITIES

Omaha High school band 1905

"Rad"

Training in leadership, military discipline and knowledge and respect for authority are offered to Central High school boys through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit.

The history of this organization dates back to 1893 when an officer from Fort Crook instructed the cadet regiment. In 1937 the War department reorganized these cadets into an ROTC regiment which four years later became a battalion.

The large enrollment in drill this year made it possible to return to regimental status, making Central the only Omaha high school to have a field rating. The two battalions each have a major as commander and three companies. Attached to the regiment is the ROTC marching band. The military department is under the supervision of head instructor Master Sergeant Darrel W. Miller and his assistants, Master Sergeants Harvey M. Hansen and James Andre.

The Cadet Officers' club was organized in 1939 to replace the Senior Cadet club, which had been in existence since

Reserve Officers' Training Corps

1895. The Cadet Non-Commissioned Officers' club was reorganized also in 1939.

Highlighting ROTC activities in 1953-54 was the twenty-ninth annual Military ball in the Peony Park ballroom January 29. An impressive grand march by the 65 newly-commissioned officers followed the announcement of the new lieutenant colonel and his lady. The Commissioned Officers' club sponsored a dinner party for new officers and their dates after the ball.

The "Sound Off" sox dance, at which first promotions of the year were announced, was presented by the Non-Commissioned Officers' club November 21. Miss NCOC was chosen by the boys from a field of four candidates.

Central's ROTC department is proud of the coveted McDermott trophy, which it has won for the past three years. Outstanding units of the group include the crack squad, rifle team, color guard and marching band.

In the middle of November, the rifle team began its tryouts for the 1953-54 season. With only three veterans, the team lacked five riflemen for competition. The team started its climb to the top with Master Sergeant Darrel W. Miller as coach and Ronald Brodkey as captain.

In the first round of intracity competition, the gunmen were defeated twice, ending up in third place. They won the second-round crown, however. In the battle for the coveted city championship, the Eagles were downed by the South High Packers.

Other laurels gathered by the team were twenty-fourth place in the William Randolph Hearst match, eighth place in the Fifth Army Area Intercollegiate and Interscholastic ROTC rifle matches for 1954 and the championship of the first annual Creighton University Invitational tournament.

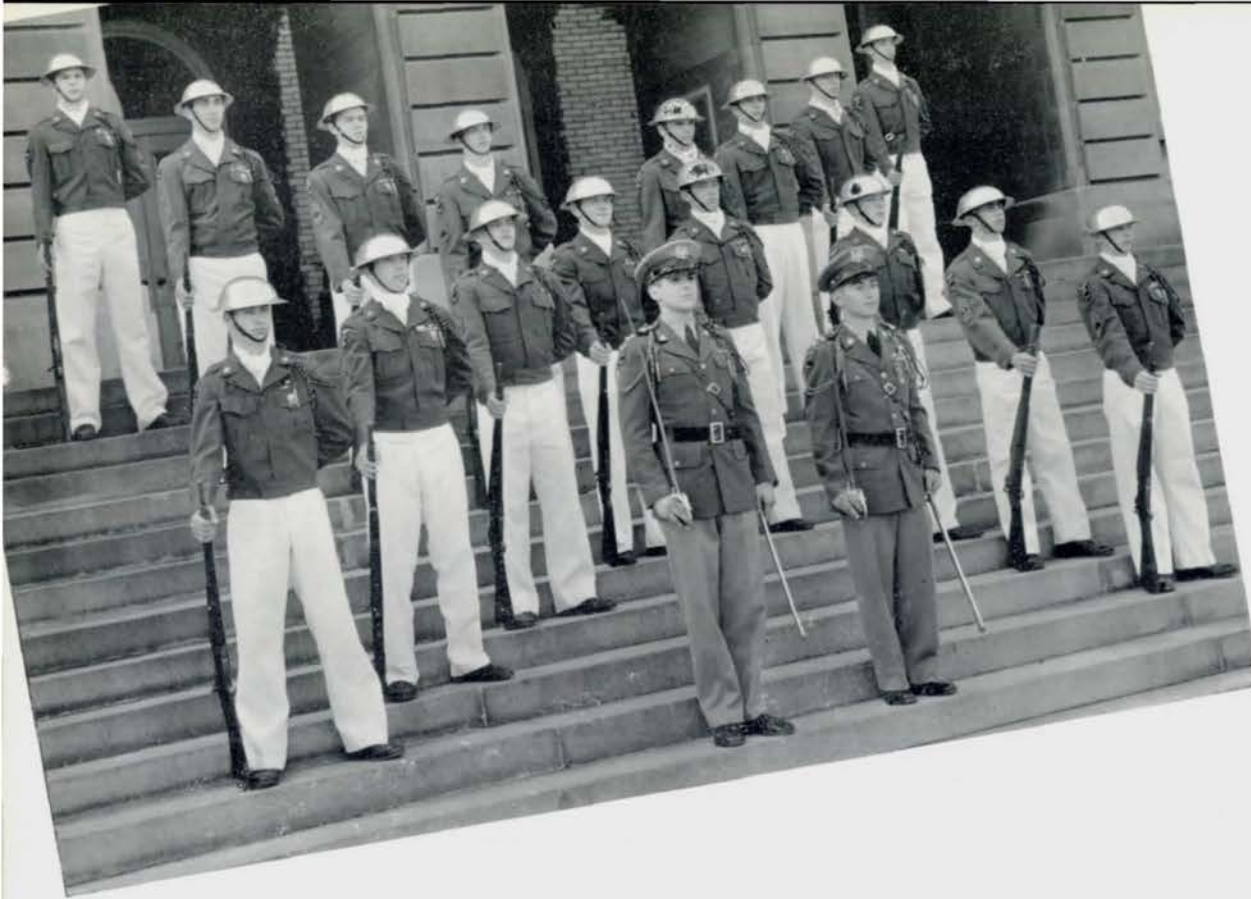

During the season, Brodkey captured the intricacy high prone and stand medals. Dick Mueller won high individual total at Creighton's tourney.

High five members of the squad receiving letters are besides Brodkey and Mueller, Laurance Hoagland, Robert Weigel and Payson Adams. Others on the team who were awarded shoulder cords for membership are Richard Frank, John Watts, Terry Pierce, Sam Marvin, Gary Campbell, Ted Vahl and Park Ames.

Each year, 16 outstanding sophomore and junior cadets are chosen to compose the Central High regimental Crack Squad, outstanding drill team. The boys are chosen for their proficiency of arms, leadership ability, physical stature and mental quickness. Supervised by two senior leaders, the group must learn difficult and intricate crack manuals and maneuvers, working for perfection in performance.

This year's squad, directed by Cadet Major Richard Frank and Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Richard Gilinsky, began rigorous practice early in November. Their first performance was at the Military ball in January, where the team thrilled on-lookers with new and delicate maneuvers in a perfect production. At this time they were presented with Crack Squad cords designating their membership.

The boys delighted three audiences at the Road Show with the precision and snap of their feats. Other performances included the Sertoma club of Omaha, Armed Forces Day review, Centennial Youth Parade and a presentation in Arlington, Nebraska.

Junior who have been on the teams for two years are Robert Larsen, Mark Burke, Alan Levine, Phil Schrager and Robert Forrest. Others are juniors Gene DuBoff, Robert Lucas, Gene Carlson, David Herzog and Eugene Zweiback and sophomores Robert Hall, John Goldner, Tom Bollinger, John Watkins, Jack Harrow and William Roark.

Choirs participate in many activities

The a cappella choir, one of Central's largest and most outstanding organizations, has completed another successful year under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Howe Swanson.

Annually, the a cappella choir sponsors the school opera with cast chosen from its members. This year the choir presented the "Desert Song" by Sigmund Romberg.

One of the most popular events of each school year, the Spring Festival features numbers by each of the groups of the department. Then they combine for the final selections. The department works diligently for several weeks before performance in order to capture the beauty that more than 500 voices together can produce.

A cappella members also appeared in the Road Show in March. In a beautiful formal setting, the choir sang both serious and popular songs. In addition to school performances the choir participated in the annual All-City Music festival in January.

Officers were Morgan Holmes, president; Nancy Tompkins, secretary; Peggy Peterson and Park Ames, librarians, and Sue Ann Tappan, courtesy chairman.

Musicians have busy year

Central's orchestra, busiest group in the instrumental music department, not only played for fall play, opera, All-City Music festival, All Girls' party and commencement, but also presented a Leroy Anderson concert as an activity assembly. This year Lora Franklin served as concertmaster of the group.

One of the best received groups of the department is the dance band. Under the direction of Larry Schwartz this group shone in the Road Show playing such numbers as "Prom Jump" and "The Creep." The dance band highlighted all the school dances, the Sound-Off, the All Girls' party and the senior play.

This year the instrumental music department has been unified by the introduction of a board of control composed of the band and orchestra officers, the librarians and representatives of the dance band. Some of the duties of this board are seeing that a feeling of unity is created, thereby strengthening the department, and that members are made aware of their responsibilities. The purpose of this board is to avoid competitions within the department.

Band promotes school spirit

An organization contributing much to the life of a high school is its band. Since its organization in 1900, the Central High school band has been foremost in promoting school spirit by playing for athletic games and assemblies. The marching band performs intricate maneuvers, both humorous and serious, at football games. In winter the band rehearses numbers for their spring concert. Musically-advanced boys and girls participate in the annual All-City Music festival presented in the city auditorium.

Within the membership of the band is the ROTC band, directed this year by Fred Nelson, which provides a program of light music at the Military ball and all music for military reviews and parades.

The entire instrumental department is under the direction of Noyes N. Bartholomew, graduate of the American Conservatory of Music of Northwestern university.

Register staff wins awards

During 1953-54 the journalism department has made an impressive record. Besides putting out 16 issues of the Register, the staff has won honors at two regional meetings.

At the University of Omaha High School Journalism conference the paper received three first places for page make-ups. These were awarded to front page, edited by Hank Pollack; sports page, edited by Ray Somberg, and editorial-feature page, edited by Nora Brown. Martie Jo Martison placed second in the feature-writing competition.

At the Nebraska High School Press association convention in Lincoln, Anne Marie Hruska received first place in proofreading, while Suzanne Richards took second in copyreading and editing.

Seventeen reporters and editors traveled to Minneapolis during the summer to attend the National Scholastic Press association conference.

The O-Book, Central's second regular publication under the direction of Mrs. Beth Crabbe, was published by a staff composed of members of the journalism and art departments, headed by senior editors.

Colleens offer service

A club to which all girls can belong, whether seniors or freshmen . . . that was the demand that girls of Central made early in 1926. When Students' club was disbanded, there was not an organization that brought the girls of the high school together. So, under the direction of several faculty members, a large group assembled and chose as its name Central Colleens. Aims of the club were to form more perfect friendships, to establish co-operation between upper and lowerclassmen, to insure helpfulness to the school and to promote democracy and school loyalty.

This year, as one of Central's largest service clubs, Colleens had a membership of 326 girls. At holidaytime they were busy spreading the true meaning of Christmas by providing a needy family of eight with Christmas dinner, clothing and toys and also by dressing 50 dolls for underprivileged children.

The sick were remembered throughout the year. Favors were sent to the Hattie B. Monroe Home for Crippled Children, and the Tag committee participated in lily and poppy sales. In February the Colleens invited the faculty, mothers of cabinet members and members themselves to the annual Valentine tea.

Much of the credit for the committees' work goes to faculty sponsors Mrs. Betty Clayton Burke, Miss Irma Costello, Miss Josephine Frisbie, Miss Juliette Griffin, Miss Verona Jerabek, Miss Marguerite Keller, Miss Virgine McBride, Miss Ruth Pilling, Mrs. Augusta Turpin, and Miss Alice West.

Officers were Connie Little, president; Jane Fellows, vice president; Virginia Frank, secretary; Judy Lewis, treasurer, and Barbara Hyland and Phyllis Yoes, sergeants-at-arms.

Y-Teen group started in 1915

The Students' club was first organized at Central in 1915 as part of the Girl Reserves of the YWCA. This organization emphasized character-training and was open to all girls. In 1918 with between three and four hundred members, it was the largest club in the city and one of the largest in the country. In 1946 the club's name was officially changed from Girl Reserves to Y-Teens.

As part of community activities, Y-Teens helped sponsor morning Lenten services, held this year at Trinity cathedral. To further intra-city club cooperation, representatives of Y-Teens from the six public high schools met monthly to decide policies and inaugurate new projects.

Y-Teens and Colleens participated jointly this year in a teacher-student panel to gain better student-faculty relations. Buying mirrors for the girls' landings was another project shared by these two groups.

Committees were guided and encouraged by faculty sponsors Mrs. Carol Blough, Miss Alice Buffett, Miss Doris Carlson, Mrs. Marie Dwyer, Miss Cecil McCarter, Mrs. Helen McConnell, Mrs. Fern McCready, Miss Angeline Tauchen and Miss Margaret Weymuller.

Officers were Anne Marie Hruska, president; Mary Strater, vice president; Carol McBride, secretary; Dixie Cagle, treasurer and Ada Ruth Gerlecz and JoAnne Parrish, sergeants-at-arms.

Central high players "...On with the show!"

"There's no business like show business!" Perhaps the students of 1926 had this thought in mind when they laid the foundation for Central High Players. This thought is still part of the club as well as the opening lines of its theme song.

The Players serve to advance high school dramatics, only requirements for membership being to try out for the fall play and to have interest in the theater. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Amy Rohacek Sutton, the club annually produces the fall play. This year "Ramshackle Inn," a mystery-comedy by George Batson, displayed the unusual talent of two juniors, Topper Teal and Prudie Morrow. With an excellent supporting cast they exhibited fine acting ability in the two performances.

Monthly meetings are highlighted by guest speakers who explain some aspect of theater work to inform and interest the members. To climax the year's activities the group sponsors an annual spring banquet. New officers are dramatically revealed in an atmosphere of suspense, and "oscars" are presented to the outstanding actor and actress of the year and the best supporting actor and actress. Candidates for these awards are chosen from the casts of the fall and senior plays.

Officers who presided during 1953-54 were Nora Brown, president; Timon Greene, vice president; Cynthia Zschau, recording secretary; Prudie Morrow, corresponding secretary; Peggy Hellner, historian; Peggy Peterson, marshal, and Lineve McKie and Topper Teal, sergeants-at-arms.

Villagers promote art interest

When the senior art class of 1923 decided to organize a club to promote appreciation of art, they probably had no idea that the Greenwich Villagers' club of 1954 would still be carrying out the goals.

Although the club's membership requirements are the same—it is open to all students who are taking or have taken an art course or who are interested in the field—its activities of the past year differ somewhat from those of 30 years ago. For instance, two of the club's projects were the construction of a large tie curtain for the (old) auditorium and the organization of a sketch club to promote interest in outdoor sketching.

This year, however, members designed, made and sold Christmas cards and co-sponsored the Camera Cut-Up sox dance with the journalism department and the Photo-Lab club. Besides these money-making projects, the club heard talks on pottery construction and modern art and presented their annual tea for parents and teachers.

Thus, under the leadership of Miss Zenaide Luhr, sponsor; Peggy Hellner, president; Sandra Joseph, vice president; Dorothy Lorimer, secretary; Georgiana Stober, treasurer, and Muriel Green, sergeant-at-arms, members are fulfilling the hopes of their artistic predecessors.

Latin club first in country

Latin week, observed each year by an elaborate program, this April found Central's Romans celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the club, the first of its kind in the United States, and one of the oldest in our school. Eating with their fingers and reclining on couches, the costumed members enjoyed a banquet authentic as to food and entertainment.

Highlights of this year's meetings were a Latin skit, "Tres Parvi Porci;" a bebop version of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar; a lecture on Roman comedy writers by Dr. Leo V. Jacks of Creighton university, and a journey through Europe via colored slides.

In 1903, Miss Ellen Rooney and Miss Susan Paxson, whose award examinations are still held each spring, launched the Latin society with the purpose of acquainting Latin students with Roman daily life and culture beyond regular class work. An English version of Miss Paxson's play, "A Roman Wedding 63 B.C.," was presented in 1950 in the Joslyn Memorial concert hall under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Engle. The publications Vergiliana and Loquax in the '30's have been the most ambitious projects of the club.

Officers this year were Jerry Beaty, president; Dean Jones, vice president; John Holmes, secretary; Ralph Keill, treasurer, and Kay Carmony and Milton Moskowitz, sergeants-at-arms.

“Mesdames et messieurs...

“Je déclare la séance ouverte.”

That's the way the first French club meeting might have been called to order in 1923 when a group of students interested in furthering the French language at Central banded together. Various activities of the club in its early years included the adoption of a French orphan, an annual dance or play, contributions to a French charity and a French correspondent of the same age for each new member.

In 1925 the club was forced to divide as the boys' and girls' extra-curricular activities conflicted. The organizations created were the Le Cercle Francais for the girls and the Gentlemen's French club for the boys. For many years the meetings were conducted entirely in French; now, for convenience, they are transacted in English with the exception of the opening and the officers' reports.

Club officers Laurance Hoagland, president; Marsha Waxenberg, vice president; Sandra Joseph, secretary; Julie Martin, treasurer, and Karen Parsons and Fred Buffett, sergeants-at-arms, aided by Miss Doris Carlson, sponsor, preside at monthly meetings, which this year featured a French play and a short program presented by the French Choir. The choir is an auxiliary group of the club, its purpose to learn and present French songs to the club and other organizations. Carol Blease and Silvia Greene have led the group this year.

One of the most anticipated events is the annual spring picnic. Here, after a brisk game of baseball and a dinner provided by the club, officers for the next year are announced.

Inter-Americans study Spain

The year? 1922. The sponsor? Senor Alfonso Reyna. The organization? Spanish club. The activities during those first years varied somewhat from those of these past months.

Members read biographies of great Spanish artists and authors, they studied Spain's history and they participated in varied social activities, one of these being spring and Christmas hikes. Upon graduation each member who had completed the required number of merits in attendance and program participation was awarded a silver ring bearing the club's emblem.

This year as in 1922 the purpose is the same: to promote interest in the Spanish language and culture and to better understand the customs and ways of life that are so different from ours. To accomplish this, Miss Jane Nichols, sponsor, was aided by the club's officers: Carol Micklin, president; Therese Kahn, vice-president; Jane Fellman, secretary; Joan Kretschmer, treasurer, and Prudence Morrow and Terry Swanson, sergeants-at-arms.

Two programs this year were highlighted by travel talks and slides of Europe presented by Miss Nichols and Miss Ruth Pilling. Always a success, the Christmas party again featured the breaking of the gift-filled Pinata and the singing of Spanish songs and carols.

Club members displayed their theatrical interests by writing, directing and producing two skits. The first was entitled "The Day of the Race," the second dealt with uses of the Spanish language.

Hi-Y has high purposes

"To create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and community high standards of Christian character." Thus is described the purpose of Hi-Y over the entire country.

Founded before 1920, Central Hi-Y first held evening meetings in the early '20's that were preceded by dinner at the "Y." After the meal, the boys, usually numbering about a hundred, divided into Bible groups, one of which was led by Joseph G. Masters, principal.

Activities this year differed from those of 30 years ago, featuring three outstanding events. In November the club participated in the model legislature held in Lincoln in conjunction with the Hi-Y Youth in Government program. At this time the club's bill for a bicameral type of state government instead of the present unicameral system was presented before the Hi-Y legislators.

This spring the Lenten week services were again given jointly with Y-Teens, and the club helped promote the Coronation ball along with the other Hi-Y clubs of the city.

Central's candidates for "Dream Girl" were Sally Berg, Conie Little and Judy Whittaker.

In charge of meetings this year were Morgan Holmes, president; Laurance Hoagland, vice president; Dick Losch, secretary; Sam Marvin, treasurer; Dave Young, sergeant-at-arms, and Park Ames, chaplain.

Science-Math accents projects

In 1947 Central's science and mathematics clubs joined and formed the present Science-Math club whose purpose is to encourage interest in the two subjects.

Affiliated with the Science Clubs of America, the organization carries out its activities on an individual basis as each member has his own project in biology, chemistry, physics, electronics, etc. Reports on the progress of these experiments are given at monthly meetings, which this year were highlighted by explanations and demonstrations of model cars, liquid air and a stroboscope.

Included in the year's activities was a trip to the University of Nebraska Engineers' day. The club sponsors the Science-Math open house and encourages participation in various science talent searches and workshops.

This year's officers were Fred Nelson, president; Jerry Beaty, vice president; Jane Carlson, secretary; Dewey Anderson, treasurer, and Jerry Singer, sergeant-at-arms.

Outdoorsmen stress conservation

Proud though she is of her many clubs with their long histories and tradition, Central also boasts of its newest organization, the Outdoorsmen club, started last year under the sponsorship of Wentworth Clarke.

Open to all boys interested in conservation and the outdoors, the club distributed membership cards this year, and honorary cards and scrolls were sent to distinguished people throughout the nation and Omaha. Activities of the club included donating to "Ducks Unlimited," presenting five books to the school library and planting trees on the school campus.

During Conservation week, which was promoted by a program after school for the entire student body, the club decorated the main showcase with stuffed animals and conservation posters. The club also participated in the Centennial Parade with floats in the "Westward the People" section.

This year's officers include Don Kalisek, president; Bill Ashley, vice president; Roger Robinson, treasurer; Marvin Ferenstein, secretary and Mike Gray and Bob Weigel, sergeants-at-arms.

O-Club fosters sportsmanship

The Central High O-Club, originated in 1920 and rejuvenated in 1927 under present athletic director Frank Y. Knapple is in 1953-54 still giving purple and white sportsmen an opportunity to participate in organized high school athletics.

Any boy who merits a varsity letter in one of the sports offered by the athletic department—baseball, basketball, football, track, wrestling, golf, tennis and riflery—is eligible for membership in the O-Club.

This year's initiation of new members was held late in April when pledges went through two days' fun and work as "stooges." Semi-annual elections resulted in this year's leaders being Gene Haman, first semester, and John Radicia, second. "Veeps" were Terry Moshier and Red Thomas; Norm Hudgins and Alan Rosen handled finances; sergeants-at-arms were Tony Caniglia and Haman.

The boys offered a service to the entire school by selling attractive bookcovers to the student body this year. Proceeds went into a fund for new movie equipment, to be available for all school activities.

Major event of 1953-54 was the O-Ball, formal dance co-sponsored by the O-Club and Girls' Athletic association at Peony Park. Feature of the evening was the grand march, consisting of senior lettermen and women. From candidates chosen by the two organizations were selected best boy and girl athletes, Gene Haman and Connie Tarascio.

Head football mentor Frank Smagacz, chief adviser, is aided by coaches George Andrews, Warren Marquiss, Jim Karabatsos, Ed Clark, Norm Sorensen and Master Sergeant Darrel W. Miller.

Best record since 1944

Central's '53-54 football warriors proved that Eagle grid fortunes are on the upgrade as they compiled a 5-3 record, best since 1944.

The game with Lincoln Central, who held a 30-year victory reign over the Flyboys, provided the first surprise of the season. The Eagles overcame a 0-6 deficit to score an electrifying 14-13 victory.

Benson and Creighton Prep, the next two foes, scored victories. In the Benson fray, the Eagles held a 7-3 edge in the closing minutes, but a 72-yard sustained drive and an intercepted pass gave the Hares two touchdowns and a hard-earned triumph. The Eagles held intercity champion Prep to a standstill for two quarters, but a devastating Bluejay air attack in the last half sent the Hilltoppers down 27-0.

Recovering from these reversals, Coach Frank Smagacz's gridmen subdued their next four opponents. Thomas Jefferson fell by the wayside 26-6; then South's five-year victory chain was snapped as the Flyboys emerged on top in a 7-0 thriller. A second-quarter extra point provided the margin of victory as the high-riding Smagaczmen edged Tech 7-6. Notching their fourth straight triumph in six intercity starts, the Hilltoppers scored one of the big upsets of the season by drubbing highly-rated Abraham Lincoln 19-6.

Seeking their sixth win for the best season since 1934, the Purples squared off against last year's intercity champion North. The Vikes tallied on a trick lateral the first three minutes and booted what proved to be the game-winning extra point.

Bright spot of the successful season was selection of Eagle fullback Gene Haman to the all-state football squad. Haman's rugged defensive play and brilliant running earned plaudits of opposing coaches and players alike.

Another successful season

"Records . . . records . . . records."

That's what Central's remarkable wrestling team laid claim to after sweeping through another incredible season undefeated, untied, even unapproached in 12 starts.

Besides capturing the state and city championships, Coach Norman Sorensen's competent bonebenders extended their undefeated string to 30 consecutive matches over the last three seasons.

Victory in the North Invitational tournament initiated the season for the Hilltoppers. Six individual champions represented Central as the team led Tech, its closest competitor, by a margin of 15 points. Eagle matmen began their dual-match combat with a 22-18 squeeze by Tech. The Ma-rooms, figured to be the strongest contenders for the Purples' crown, nearly bagged a victory by winning the last three matches.

The Hilltoppers followed with victories over Abraham Lincoln, North and South before again meeting near-defeat at the hands of dangerous Tech. Victory in the final two matches enabled the Flyboys to retain their winning streak. North, Thomas Jefferson and South fell victim to the powerful Eagles by large margins; and the Purples closed their dual-match season with their thirtieth consecutive win, 29-6, over Lincoln Central.

The state meet proved no difficulty for the Hilltop grapplers as they annexed the title by a margin of eight points over Tech. Central boasted two champions in Bill Hudgins and Dave Roseland, both winning their first state crowns. Hudgins led varsity scorers with 53 points, and captain John Radicia was runner up with 51.

Cagers strive valiantly

Eagle cagers opened their season with a 41-38 win over Creighton Bluejays but were able to grab only one other victory after that initial decision.

In a frantic second game, the Hilltoppers dropped a close thriller to the South High Packers by a 50-48 verdict. Joe Warner's 16 markers were tops in the Eagle scoring column. The Hilltop team saw an early lead fade into a 46-39 victory for the Yellowjackets of TJ, and then succumbed to intercity champ AL 64-50 in second-half hoop competition.

The chips fell in favor of Benson in the fifth scheduled game as the Bunnies nudged the Purples 48-42. Tech dealt the fifth straight loss with a 57-49 verdict, while the Bluejays took revenge by winning 40-34. Journeying to Lincoln, the Eagle five absorbed a 73-42 shellacking at the hands of a potent Red and Black squad.

The hot-and-cold hoopsters then pulled a major upset by downing North 52-50 on the University of Omaha court. Norm Hudgins dumped the winning bucket with 16 seconds left to play. Next evening, South's Packers drubbed the Purples 46-26.

In a return skirmish with TJ, the Eagles closed to within one point before the Yellowjacket spurt made the final score 60-55.

The Lynx of AL picked on Central to rewrite an intercity scoring record as they squared off with 86-46. First-place Benson came from behind in the final period to douse the Eagle fire 49-43. In the final two contests, North flipped in 61 markers to Central's 47, while the Trojans of Tech grabbed a 53-43 win. Techsters also nipped a gallant Eagle city-tourney bid 51-38.

Eagle seconds finished third in the reserve league with a 9-5 record, while baby Hilltopper "A" and "B" squads garnered fifth and second respectively in their league standings.

Diamond nine hit peak in tourney

Central's baseballers demonstrated the old adage "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" in the 1954 diamond campaign.

Coach Jim Karabatsos' charges compiled an unimpressive record in regular-season competition, then upset the dope sheet with a 7-0 whitewash over highly-rated North in the post-season intercity tourney.

In a semifinal contest, city co-champion

South handed the Eagles a 10-6 setback, despite a stern late-inning Central threat. Errors proved to be the downfall of the Purples as they fell to Thomas Jefferson 6-5 in their initial encounter.

A 10-hit Central attack led them to their first victory, a 6-1 conquest of North. Junior Stan Widman's two-run homer featured the victory.

Benson handed the Hilltoppers their next loss, a 2-0 reversal. Despite a three-hit performance by Eagle hurler Charlie Vacanti, Creighton Prep came from behind to hand the Flyboys their third setback 2-1.

Central performed as anticipated in the season's finales against the intercity first and last-place clubs. Tech fell to the Hilltoppers 6-5 in a thriller decided in the last half of the seventh inning. Once-beaten South uncorked its most high-powered attack of the intercity campaign, smothering the Flyboys 14-2.

Shortstop Ray Soberg led Eagle hitters with eight hits in 19 times at bat for a .421 average. Slugging outfielder Stan Widman was runnerup with a .350 mark. In post-season tournament play, Gene Haman led the Purple swingers with seven hits in eight tries, including a homer and a double.

Runners place high in big meets

Hilltop cindermen concluded an outstanding track season with participation in intercity, state and district oval carnivals.

The Flyboys initiated the season with a fourth-place ranking in an Omaha U warm-up session. Miler Mike Gray was a standout. Then the Eagle tracksters roared into high gear with second place in the traditional TJ relays only a few points behind potent North.

Husky Alan Rosen listed one of the early top state tosses when he heaved the discus 147-8 $\frac{7}{8}$ feet in the TJ trials, only 13 inches shy of the record mark. John Bremmer, Frank Alley, Fred Buffett and Roger Wardell slashed the district two-mile record, nicking 10 seconds off the mark set by Tech in 1953.

The Eagles nabbed fourth place in the district meet, a qualifying runoff for the state meet. The lads placed eleventh out of 42 teams that scored in the state, carrying home nine medals as evidence. Keith Banks was Central's top individual entry with second place in the 880-yard event.

Relay teams, making strong showings in every meet, copped third spots in the mile and two-mile relay jaunts. Dave Pullias, Earl Slater, Gene Williams, Banks, Bremmer, Wardell, Alley and Buffett comprised the two stick-shifting teams.

In intercity competition during the year, the Eagles were spilled in dual matches with Benson, North, Prep and Tech, while edging TJ, South and Ralston.

Golfers, tennis cover links, courts

Golf and tennis records offered sharp contrast in the 1954 season.

Eagle stickmen compiled a 6-1 record, good for second place in intercity standings. On the other hand, the less-experienced net squad fell below the .500 level with three victories in seven starts for a fourth-place finish.

Coach George Andrews' golfers captured six straight matches, all by a margin of at least eight strokes, before falling to Benson in the season's final and decisive contest. They opened on a successful note by garnering second place in the Fremont Invitational tournament. Low for the season was the Eagles' 352 against Thomas Jefferson.

South was the first Eagle victim as Morgan Holmes led the Hilltoppers with 41. TJ, Creighton Prep, AL, Tech and North also tasted Purple defeat. Freshman Bob Epstein fired the season's low of 37 against Tech, and Dick Frank shot a 39 for runner-up honors.

In the championship contest against unbeaten Benson, Hilltop golfers fell 351-356 despite Epstein's 40-stroke performance. They earned fourth spot in the State tourney, however, finishing ahead of all Omaha entrants including Benson.

Losing only two lettermen next season, Frank and Holmes, the stickmen should prove to be tough contenders on the fairway in '55. Returning are Epstein, Goldner, Goldston, Mullins, Olson, Shapiro and Zweiback. Doug Cohn, loss to the team this year because of illness, is figured to add strength to the Hilltop squad.

The net squad compiled a 3-4 record for fifth place in intercity standings. Eagle tennists pulled a surprise second place finish in the State meet at Lincoln, however, led by the Red Thomas-Laurance Hoagland duo who netted the runner-up spot in doubles competition.

In fact, seniors Thomas and Hoagland reigned victorious throughout the season, dropping not a single match in intercity competition.

The sophomore singles team of Schrock, Hall and Young gained valuable experience for future racquet teams although they dropped several matches. The Eagles out-pounded Tech, TJ and South, faltering to Benson, North, Prep and AL.

Next year will see the return of Hall, Young and freshman Jim Thomas for what should be a better-than-average season for Central.

GAA promotes health via fun

The Girls' Athletic association, open to all girls interested in sport activities, combines regular monthly meetings with a program of seasonal sports. By participating in a required number of sports, a girl may earn four awards—GAA emblem, the letters C and O and a five-pointed star.

Girls' Athletic association has progressed from gym clubs and membership in the Nebraska State league in 1928 to an inter-city association composed of the five public high schools in 1954. Under this system, a girl will not lose credit for any of her activities if she should transfer to another high school. All awards will be uniform and in each school's own colors.

Special activities of the club are a fall picnic or gym party for initiation of new members, a Christmas party, an overnight outing at Camp Brewster or Harding and a tea in May when awards are given and new officers installed. The major event of the year is the O-Ball, given jointly with the O-Club. At this time senior girls who have earned awards and senior lettermen are presented in a grand march, and the best senior girl and boy athlete are announced.

Officers this year were Shirley Palladino, president; Joan Kretschmer, vice president; Dale Peters, treasurer, and Joyce Bennett, Susan Mayberry, Audrey Samms, Sue Tappan, sergeants-at-arms. Sponsors of the club are Mrs. Lois O'Meara and Miss Marian Treat.
