Renewed & revived

Central's changing blueprint constructs another year

Central. A building as unique as the people inside. Any sophomore will confess: five floors, four sides, and construction detours can sometimes be hard to handle. The journey to room 315 consisting of a jumble of floors, sides, and stairs. The confusion still causes occasional juniors and seniors to blush when they find themselves in the right room, but wrong floor, or when caught tripping over the ever-famous doorstops. Outside, the uniqueness continues. A faculty parking lot filled to overflowing, a student lot just "bigger than a breadbox," and the downtown streets surrounding Central holding their share of students unable to get a parking permit.

Central. A constantly changing place holding a multitude of people with a style all its own.

Goodbye Summer

Drifting into Fall

As summer drew to a close, bringing with it the end of swimming, sunning, and soaps; the reality of fall, football, and a fresh new school year lay on the minds of everyone.

While students still mowed the lawn, slept late, and walked Fido; secretaries, administrators, and teachers worked busily to prepare for the opening day rush of locker handouts, schedule changes, and general mass confusion. Everything possible was done to reunite old friends and welcome new ones to C.H.S.

In the rough

The first day of school. Those awful words that strike fear into the hearts of every sophomore and relief into the hearts of juniors and seniors, eager to graduate.

Central students were greeted that first day with jack hammers, dirt mountains, and stuffy, dust-filled rooms. Although uncomfortable, most students put up with it, waiting patiently to move into quieter carpeted rooms, the new athletic field, and improved student parking lot.

Autumn explores new boundaries

The 4 minute warning

Passing period has possibilities

Everyone knows what goes on in the classroom, but do people realize the mysteries of passing period? Four minutes between periods never seem to be enough, but students remarkably find the time for just about anything.

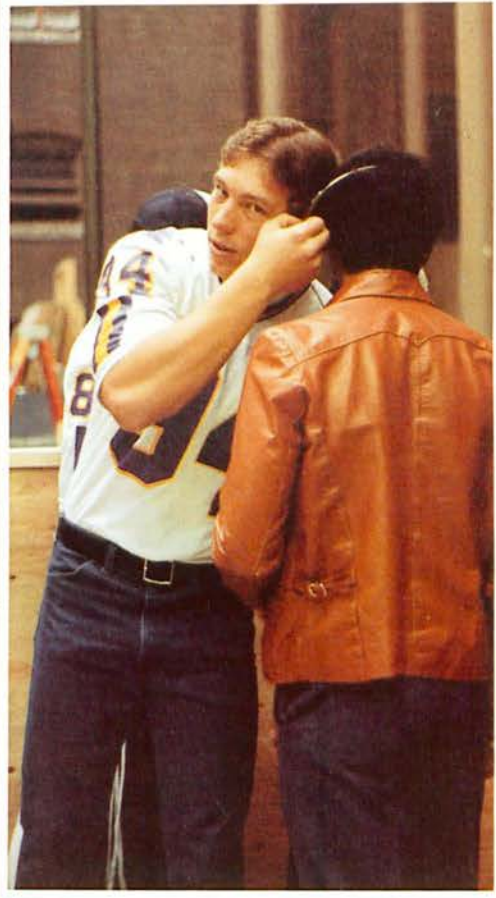

First, there's the group that sprints to the pop machines before they are shut off and the girls that hang around 048 discussing who'll pick up whom for what date when. The three guys that are always comparing notes from history after third hour (or are they just waiting for that cute blonde to go by?), and, of course, there's always the guy that never has to stand in study hall because he slips quietly into his seat just as his name is being called.

But, no matter the activity, Central students will always find the time.

Creeping out to face another day.

The sharing of headphones between friends.
Peering from the bushes during passing period is a possibility.

Outside

Take a look after hours

With all that goes on inside Central's four walls, even more goes on outside. The minutes following 3:20 P.M. are crucial. For some students, a social life is pushed to the side so a job receives top priority, while others are just as content at home with a date of calculus and Sweet-98.

Remember the times you swore you'd read your English literature but instead met everyone at Godfather's for a night of pigging and Pac-Man? Or your best friend that just had to go shopping for that new album the night before her A.P. History final?

Student life: The time to relax, revive, and relieve the tensions and stress of every-day routine to bring out the best in all of us.

'83: a class above the rest

August 30, 1982, marked the beginning of another school year at Central. For seniors it was to be their last two semesters in high school. A year of memories, filled with challenges and expectations, funtimes and friendships, decisions and dreams to be fulfilled. As the year progressed, so did the excitement, the climax: GRADUATION.

Central has seen many graduating classes come and go - has been a part of many lives. Just as Central is carried in the memory of each graduating class, so is the character of that class impressed upon Central. Whether by changes in tradition, records broken, or of personal achievements, each class stands unique. Yet each class is only what the individuals make of it.

The election experience

Senior officers sanctify 'C'

'T'was the month before Christmas and Central's halls were decked not with holly but with campaign posters. The atmosphere was electric: hand-outs, emblems, and slogans broadcast the aims of 32 hopeful candidates. With everything but television commercials and the occasional baby to kiss, Central was transformed into a microcosm of the political world.

One of the many decisions of the year facing seniors was who would represent the class of '83? The decision was as difficult for students as the race was for the candidates. The battle for Vice-president proved to be as arduous, if not more so, than that for President. But the opposition made the achievement all the more worthwhile. And for six Centralites success was achieved. Andrew Stover took the position of President with Dave Foster sharing the ticket as Vice-president; Channing Bunch obtained the accountable title of Treasurer; Kylie Hofacre gained note as Secretary; and Steve Fauglid and Melissa Hall were voted Boys' and Girls' Sergeant-at-Arms respectfully.

The class officers' objectives focused on the word tradition: to uphold the tradition of not walking on the "C" and to pioneer an annual scholarship auction were among their plans. As a group, however, they aimed to be more active than conventional class officers.

A class that has

When August came Central acquired a new class of Juniors for the school year of 1982-83. There have been numerous classes of juniors, each swearing upon the new school year to be unique and special.

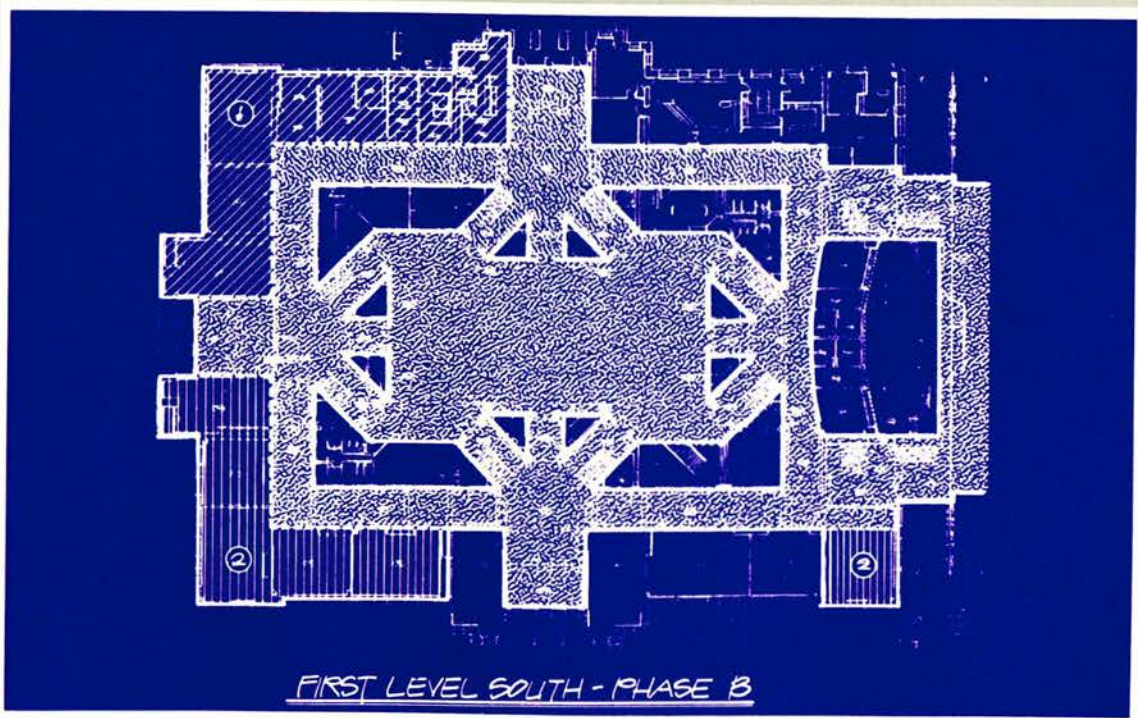

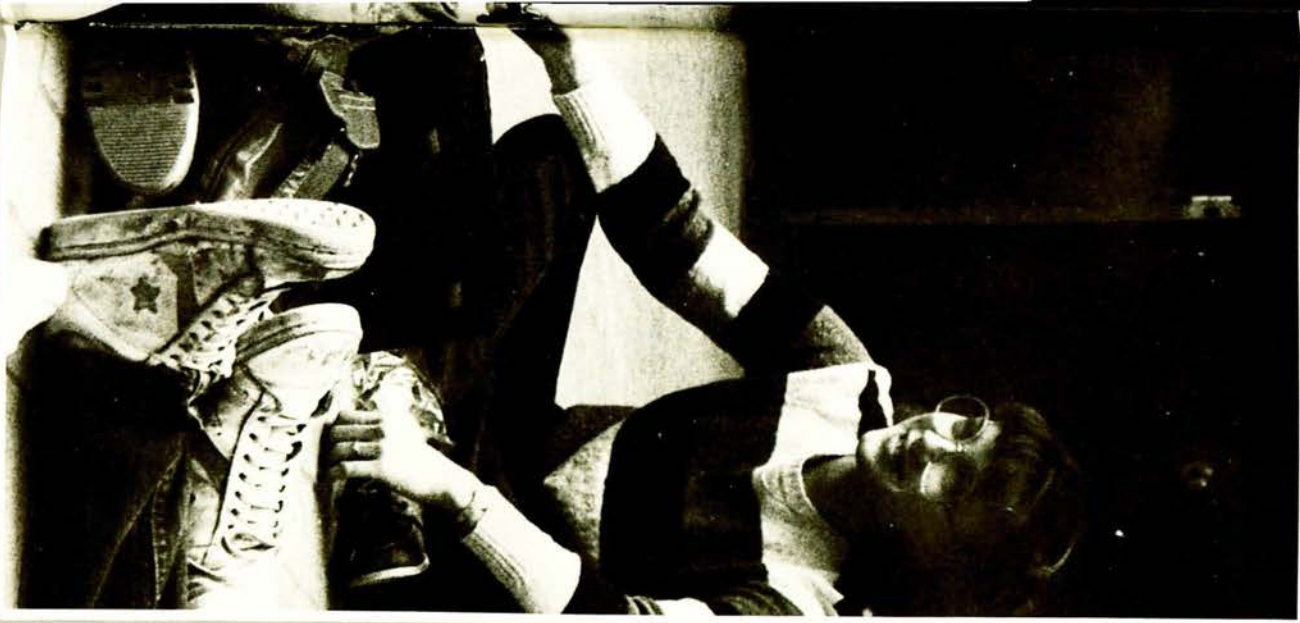

Every year they have lived up to their expectations showing a different style of creativity. This was a year of growing, a year of expanding, a time to prove oneself and make choices for the upcoming senior year and beyond.

The class of '84 worked hard to achieve goals they had set and experienced great success. They possess one more year of knowledge that will lead them to what they want in their lives for the future.

They will choose between pursuing a college education and employment. Good luck next year to a class with spirit!

Juniors look to the future

Junior year: It is a time of transition. This year is the middle rung of the high school classes. There are important decisions to be made. If one plans to attend college, one must prepare in the junior year. Central High School has a college preparatory system sending a great number of graduates off to higher education after graduation.

This curriculum ranges from biology to AP physics, algebra to calculus, extensive English and Social Science Departments, with a choice of four foreign languages, a highly accredited Journalism Department, and a variety of human interest courses.

The renovation relocated all counselors in a large counseling complex located on the third side. Students visit this center on their free time and find a variety of information to aid them in a choice of career colleges, or after-school jobs.

Many students at Central decide to find a job in their junior year. This is partly because of the fact that they turn sixteen. It is also because of the need for money to support hobbies and extra-curricular activities.

'85: A class creating new

Central opened its doors in August to a group of young people new to high school life. The incoming sophomore class entered a building that has been in the stages of renovation for three years.

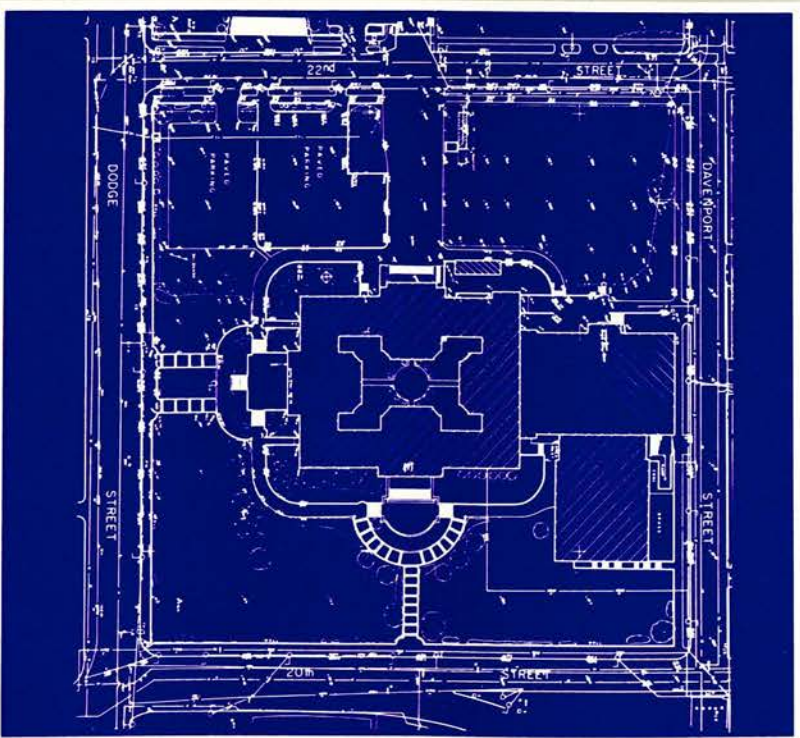

They entered confusion of unfamiliar surroundings and had to match the accelerated pace of high school energy that goes into every day at Central. There were many names, unfamiliar faces, new teachers, and class schedules with which to become acquainted.

Central offers a wide variety of extra-curricular activities that are available to join if one has the time and ambition. The class of '85 contributed their fresh ideas and creative energy to making it a year of accomplishments. They had a positive approach when faced with difficult situations, learning and growing from day to day.

The next two years will not be easy but will be looked forward to for good times. The best is yet to come!

Various activities of Central

The Central High staff consists of eighty-two teachers, one principal, three assistant principals, thirteen cafeteria workers, fifteen custodians, and seven clerical workers who all work together for you, the students. The teachers' duties are to teach the students; they also are in charge of various activities from coaching a football team to advising a foreign language club.

The principals are involved in student discipline and the overall supervision of school functions. Dr. Moller said, "My favorite job is visiting classes and counseling students." The cafeteria workers prepare meals for students, five days a week. They serve a lunch and a breakfast, which they begin preparing early in the morning. The custodians keep our school in good repair and clean for each day. And finally, the clerical workers keep the whole operation running smoothly.

All of these people work together to perform one job: to help Central students achieve their fullest potential.

Diverse activities keep Central

The administration at Central consists of one principal and three assistant principals who keep the school running smoothly. Not only are they in charge of student discipline, but they are also involved in the various school activities.

Dr. G. E. Moller, Central High principal, has duties of overall supervision of the school, teacher appraisal, and special discipline. Dr. Moller said his two favorite jobs are visiting classes and counseling students with their personal and school related problems.

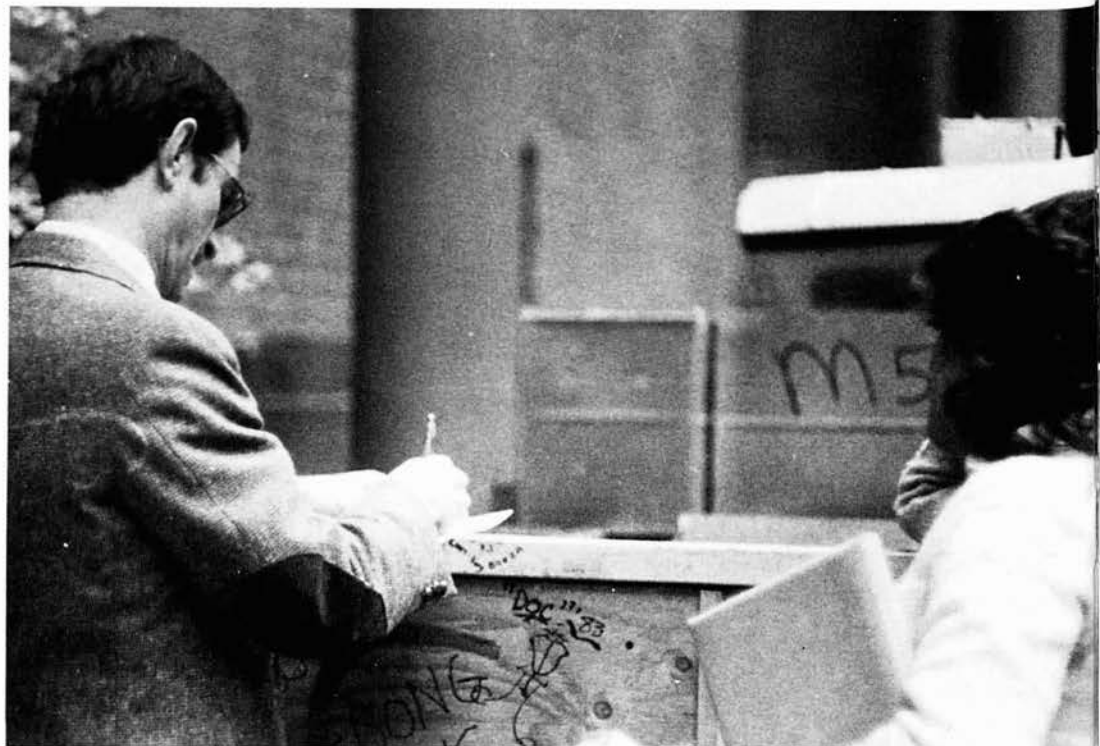

Mrs. Udoxie Barbee, assistant principal, came to Central this year. Actually Mrs. Barbee has been here before; she is a Central High graduate. She stated that the only thing that has really changed is the courtyard and the new gym. A few of Mrs. Barbee's duties are placement and supervision of student teachers, cafeteria workers, career day, and fire drills. She is also in charge of regular student discipline.

Mr. Richard Jones, assistant principal, came to Central sixteen years ago as a counselor. The following year he became assistant principal. Mr. Jones became the athletic director this year. He has supervision over the whole athletic department, from uniforms to the hiring of referees. Mr. Jones also handles supervision of SA tickets, determination and publishing of honor roll, and disciplining students.

Mr. Al LaGreca, assistant principal, came to Central nineteen years ago. Four years later, he became assistant principal. Mr. LaGreca's duties include processing of student schedules and grades, handling all school activities, and disciplining students. Mr. LaGreca has also worked on planning for the schools renovation during the past several years.

Aides and office staffs assist faculty

Central High office staffs keep the school operating smoothly. The office staffs consist of the main office, attendance office, and the assistant principal's office.

Wanda Zerzan, Martha Rasp, and Sharlene Rosenthal are the main office secretaries. Their duties are wide and varied. Sharlene Rosenthal's jobs range from answering phones to mailing out transcripts for past Central graduates. A few of Wanda Zerzan's jobs are assigning substitute teachers, delivering the payroll, and sorting the mail. Martha Rasp serves as secretary for Dr. Moller.

The attendance office is managed by Francis Welch and Esther Wageman. They handle students who are checking in and out of school. They also record all student absences.

The assistant principal's office is staffed by Eloise Schwertfeger and Jo Derry. Eloise Schwertfeger is the athletics secretary and also Mr. Jones' secretary. Jo Derry handles all of the date processing and is Mr. LaGreca's secretary. They share the secretary work for Mrs. Barbee.

The Central High Faculty is assisted by the faculty aides. The aides do things teachers can't do or don't have time to do, such as run off dittos, type up tests, and arrange bulletin boards.

Mrs. Hazuka works in the guidance office as a secretary. Mrs. Heese is also a secretary except that she works in the English department. Mrs. Bauer helps in three departments: foreign language, math, and the library. She spends two hours a day in each department. Mrs. Allender spends her time at Central playing the piano for Mr. McMeen's music classes.

Bookroom, cafeteria, and custodians

Mrs. Luella Schaaf is head of Central's school store and book room. Not only has Mrs. Schaaf been here twenty years plus, but in these years she has been the school's treasurer. As treasurer, she handles incoming deposits and makes out checks to the various organizations. There are thirteen aides who work in the store and book room. They do such things as sell school supplies and fill book orders. Those students working in the book room are: Jeff Frenking, 10; Tina Hucceby, 11; Gregory Nunn, 11; Marla Krehbiel, 11; Polly Springer, 11; Rex Schmadeke, 12; Jaki Fritz, 12; Heather Gaherty, 12; Mark Jording, 12; Susan McDaniel, 12; Steve Beda, 12; Cheryl Thompson, 12; and Brian Lovgren, 12.

is do their share

The cafeteria is a place that everyone goes through at least once in their three years here. Two meals a day, breakfast and lunch, are served there.

Thirteen women work in the cafeteria with fourteen helpers who assist them in preparing and serving the meals. Cafeteria workers include John Blackburn, Curtis Brown, Linda Cobb, Dorothy Cross, Patrick Dawson, Patricia Ellis, Anthony Ford, Darrin Hall, Damin Jackson, Kathleen Lee, Brian Lundin, Shane Starks, Brian Williams, and Jojo Mayhue.

You might see these people cleaning up after Homecoming spirit week or repairing your locker. They are the people who keep the school clean and in good repair. Central High has a custodial staff of fifteen men and women. They are Patrick Clyde, Leroy Fowler, Joe Friesen, Riley Gunther, Lewis Hansen, Jesse Heller, Roy Holmes, Robert Jones, Martha Kid, Leland Kling, Frank Massara, Lawrence McKnight, James Merrifield, Elza Tabor, and Virginia Tuite.

The athlete of Central High School

Sports at C.H.S., although not as stressed as academics, still mark a major event in the school's daily routine. With the wide variety of sports offered at Central, most of the students are, in some way, involved.

Records, pictures, and descriptions of each sport are shown on the following pages. Such events as football, volleyball, and cheerleading, to name just a few, are included in this section.

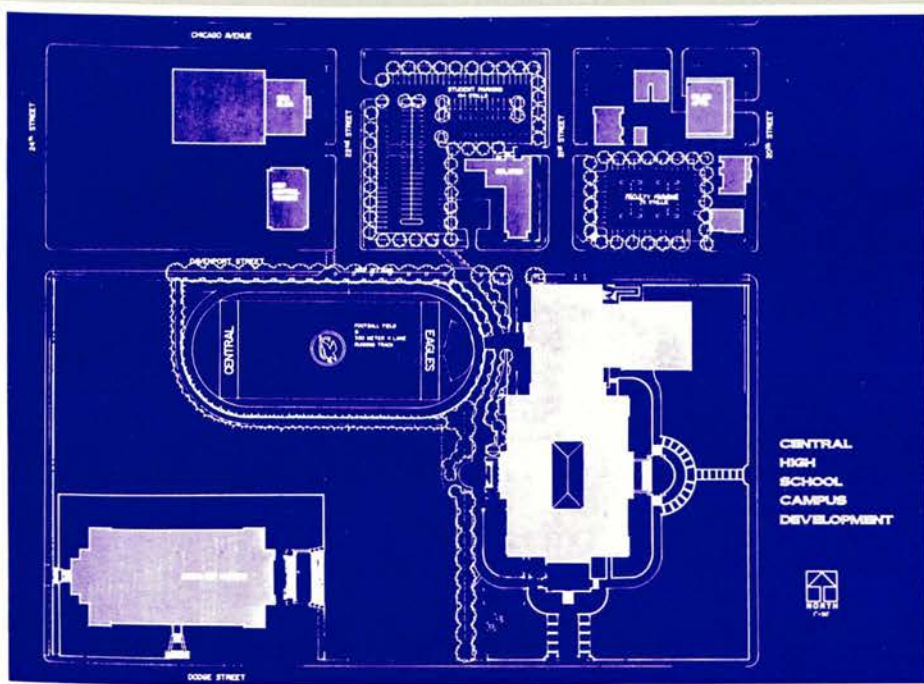

Central often produces quality athletes and even state champions in many events. Described in the sports section are each of the sports and the participants.

Volleyball is a highly successful sport at Central.

Cheerleading supports the athletes and adds pep to the event.

Varsity Football team's true accomplishments outshine record

Varsity Eagles claim hard-earned 4-5 1982 season record

While most students were relaxing at home during the summer, the players of Central's Varsity Football team were out practicing. This continued throughout the fall season as well, while the team memorized plays and the offense and defense got in shape for a tough season.

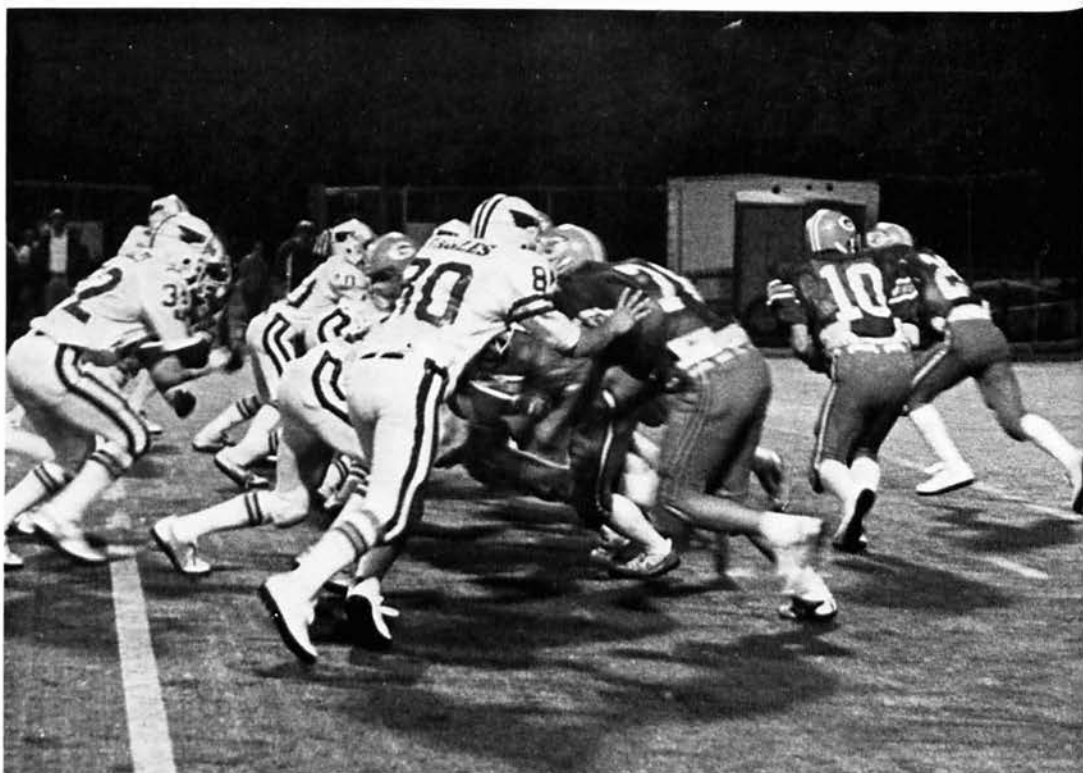

Getting off to a slow and disappointing start, losing four close games in a row, Central rallied at the end of the season to win four of the remaining five games. Central won these games by large margins, as well. Combining the close losses with the big wins proved that Central had both a good and determined team.

Although the Varsity team did not produce a spotless winning record, colleges and universities were still very interested in some of Central's athletes. Several players: Tom Stawniak, Howard Howell, and Nate Blanks, to name just a few, were highly recruited. Combining all these positive factors proved that, in spite of the record, Central had a winning Varsity Football team.

Varsity Football team's spirit endured

Central's losing five close games was even more disappointing than just typical losses. They lost all five by an approximate average of only three points per loss. Close games, especially when Central was, at one point, ahead of their opponents, were hard to accept.

Losing by only one point to both Prep and Burke were special hardships. But the determined Central team rallied to crowd encouragement to win big success in the last part of the season.

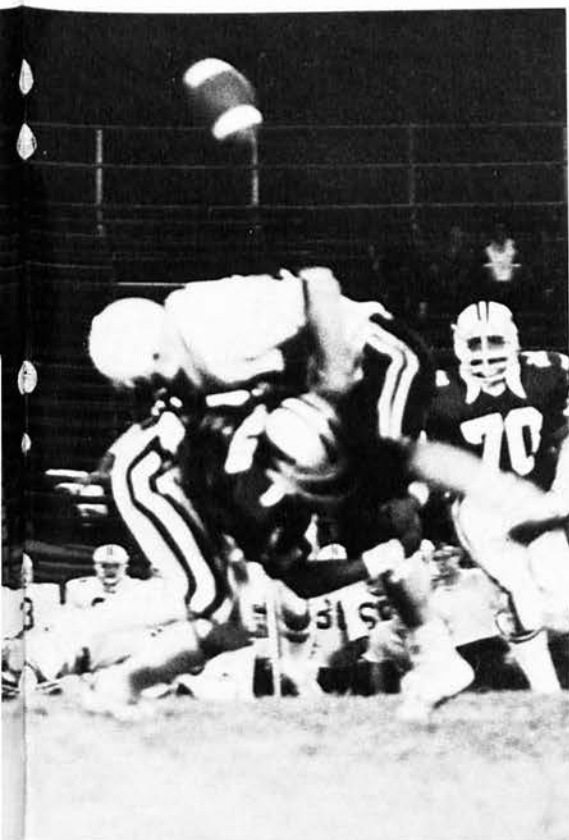

Although the seniors did not end their last high school football season with spotless records, all their hard work paid off. Several players have been highly recruited by large colleges and universities.

Junior Eagles show determination and potential

With a 5-4 season the Junior Varsity had their ups and downs including a win against Prep, the first in over ten years, and an error-filled loss against Burke.

"The team overall came a long way in playing and working together, and matured like expected although there was a lack of conviction on some of the player's parts," stated Coach George Grillo.

"With excellent players on offense as well defense, Harold Donaldson being the most consistent all around player, the team started to show some determination and potential to improve in the last few games," concluded Coach Grillo.

Although the Junior Varsity had to play on some fields that were not as adequate as the Varsity's, there was always the astro-turf practice field to look forward to for next year.

Reserves show the determination that brings an undefeated season.

The reserves 7-0 record speaks for itself; a defense with only 12 points scored on it all season and an offense with a season total of 173 points.

When asked to name some of the team's outstanding players Coach Mark Allner replied, "If I had to choose one guy, I would have to choose them all, they were all tremendous."

With a tremendous team effort the sophomores went on to raise Coach Bobby Bass's record for the last two years to 14 wins and no losses, a "very good record."

Varsity Volleyball players

The Varsity Volleyball team, recovering from a disappointing beginning, did not lose faith or enthusiasm finishing out the 1982 season. Building up confidence and experience, the girls ended the 3-9 season in style, winning the last two out of four matches and losing the other two by only narrow margins.

The team is expecting much better results next season, Coach Standifer explained. Only five girls will be lost to graduation, so many experienced players will be back for the 1983 season. Combining the old members with many new girls the team will be getting, there is a lot for the coaches and players to look forward to. With over ten players returning to play on the Varsity squad, the Volleyball team should be well prepared to take on any opponent they meet up with.

Victorious in the last four out of five matches J.V. Volleyball gathers momentum

The Girls' Junior Varsity Volleyball team turned around last season's losing record and came up with a much more productive year. The team really got started about halfway through the season, winning four out of the last five games in regular season play. Coach Standifer commented, "There was much improvement in spite of the fact that there were many new girls."

Starting with a smaller team than the J.V. team of 1981, the girls saw more playing time, which led to more experience. Two of the J.V. players, junior Karen Kalkowski and sophomore Jessica Haynes, saw playing time on the Varsity squad as well. This experience shows that many of the underclassmen will move up to the Varsity team next year, but there will be just as many girls left to make a strong J.V. team as well.

Weightlifters have powerful season

One of Central's only individualized sports, weightlifting, often gets shorted attention, while other sports demand more student and crowd support. But these powerlifters deserve to be recognized, setting records and higher weightlifting standards. The lifters, who go to the weight room and gym any spare study hall and after school, are often athletes who participate in other sports and lift weights to keep in shape. But these powerlifters compete as well.

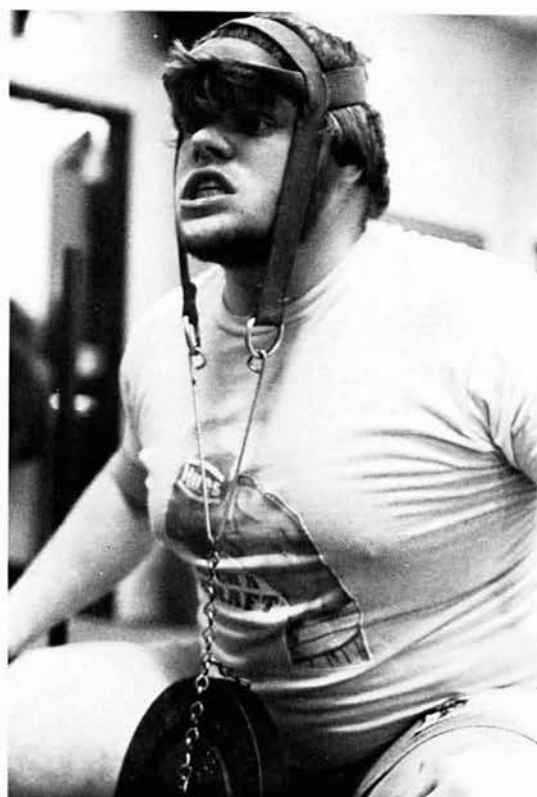

The competitions go by the competitors' weights and have three divisions: bench, squat, and dead lift. The winners are the lifters who accumulate the highest total pounds in each weight class.

Females also participated in the weightlifting competitions. Senior Crystal Gresham set lifting records in meets. Another record-setter was Howard Howell, who squat-lifted over 600 pounds. These records, and increased participation and support, will help build up recognition for the weightlifters.

Boys' Tennis posts 8-1 season

With an 8-1 record for the 1982 season and also the conference title, the Boys' Tennis team went to Metro and returned with second place at State. "With a group of talented sophomores, the team should do well next year, even with the graduation of three very good seniors," Tom Backer, Dave Foster, and Bob Ptacek.

On the season's only loss, Coach Waterman feels that, "if the team would have played Burke at any other time in the season, the outcome would have been different because we (the team) beat Prep easily, and Prep did not have a very tough time beating Burke."

"With a lot of work over the summer and winter, the team should develop its potential and be very talented for next year's season."

"With team captain Pete Tracey the constant best, and all the other members improving every week, it has been quite a successful year," concluded Coach Waterman.

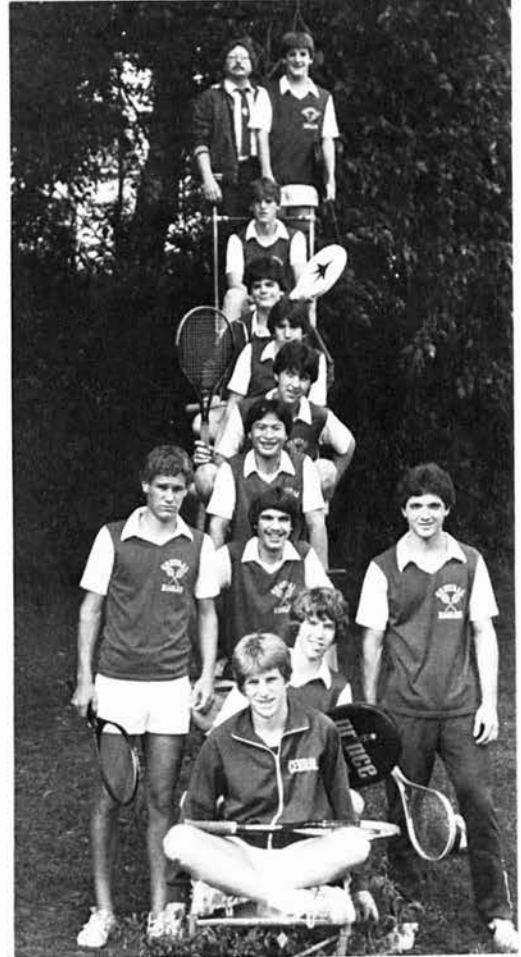

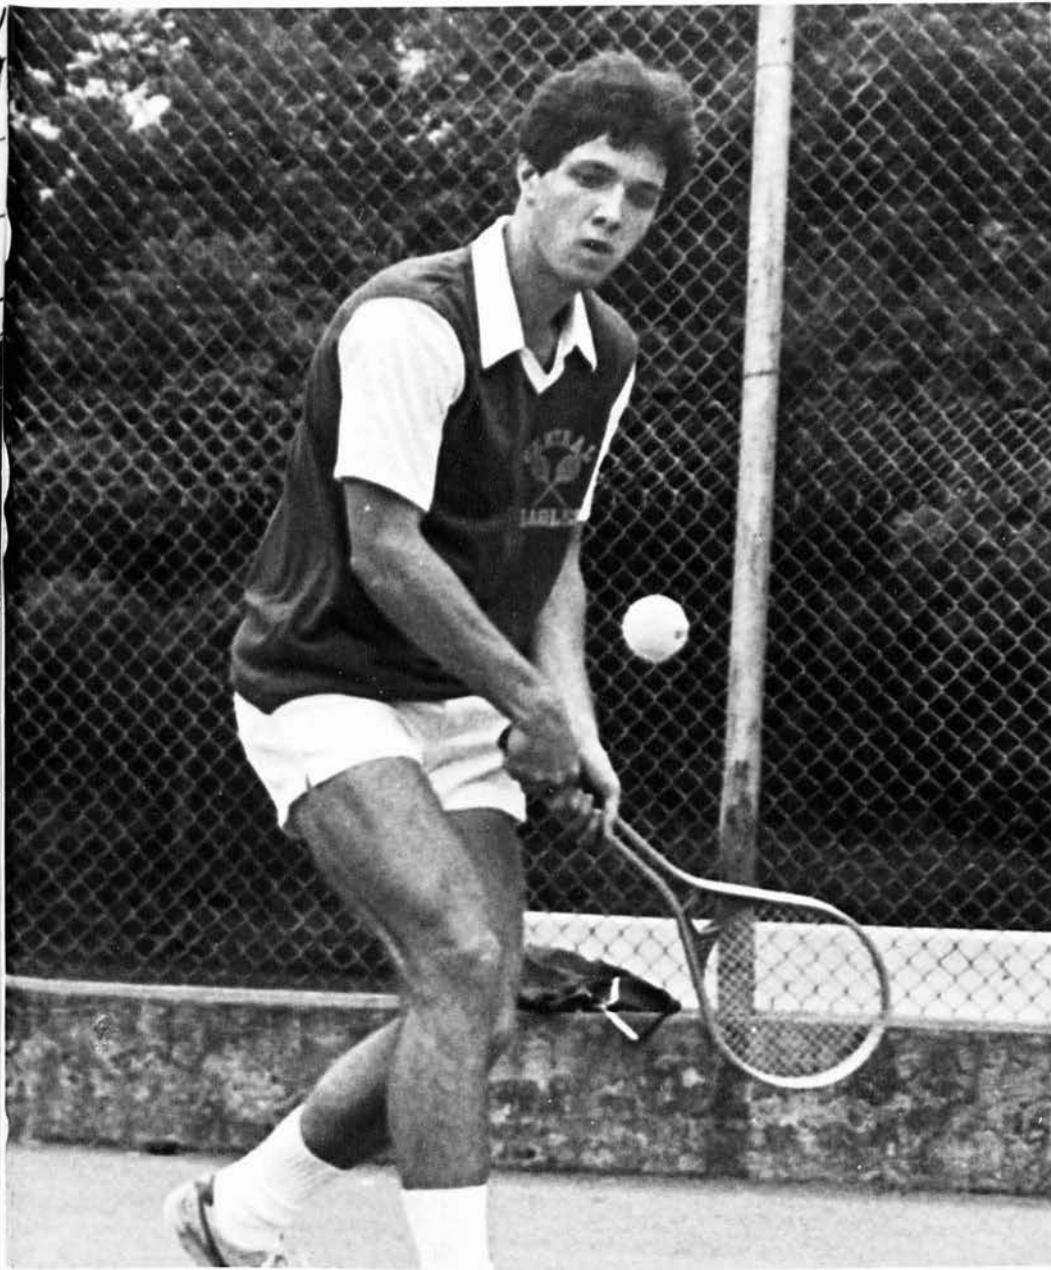

Dave Foster waits patiently for the serve to be returned.

Cross Country has shining season

The Girls' Cross Country team finished first in Metro and first in Districts. The girls finished a close second in state, losing first by only three points. "With an undefeated season in the dual meets and having everyone return next year except Maggie Rathouz, they should have a super year like they had this year," stated Assistant Coach Gerringer.

The Boys' Cross Country team finished seventh in Metro and an impressive fourth place at the Roncalli Invitational Meet.

"The Boys' team is pretty good compared to the amount of experience which they have," said Coach Gerringer. With some of the best runners being Steve White, Gardine Wilson, Andrea Tkach, Karina Lathrum, Jody Baker, June Finley, and Suzanne Oehm, they helped the teams in the dual meets."

Judging by the amount of experience returning to both the Boys' and Girls' teams, the coaches feel that Central should have a tough Cross Country team next year.

Girls' Basketball team proves unbeatable

Citing underclassmen as some of the best assets on the Girls' Varsity Basketball team, Coach Paul Semrad has the right to be not only proud of last season's team, but anxious for next year's as well. Juniors Maurtice Ivy and Sarah Stohs, as well as sophomore Jessica Haynes, helped build up a strong Varsity squad.

The girls put up a consistent show all season, winning the Holiday Tournament during Christmas break and continuing to win all their regular-season games. The World Herald ranked the girls number one throughout the season as well.

Discovering that all their hard work paid off in the long run, the Girls' Varsity Basketball team enjoyed success after success on the court. Crowd support at both home and away games helped encourage the Lady Eagles to victory.

Asked how he felt about the season, Coach Semrad responded, "I'm really proud of the team!"

Improvement for Varsity Basketball

The Boys' Varsity Basketball team encountered some hills and valleys playing last season. They came out on top of such matches as Burke and South, even though they were the underdog. The team also lost to Benson, Tech, and T. J., each by only two points.

Seven seniors played on the team, so such assets as Deon Alexander, David Stennis, and Paul Martin will not return for next season. But many experienced players: four juniors and a sophomore, Bertrend Turnbo, will play on the Varsity squad again next season. Coach Jim Martin is also looking forward to some of the talent that the J.V. team produced. "Some of the twelve sophomores will move up to our squad," Martin said. He concluded that the young squad should produce a good 1983-84 season.

J.V. Girls' Basketball team gets results

Finishing the season with an 8-7 record, the Girls' Junior Varsity Basketball team made a name for itself. Starting the season off beating several strong teams such as Bryan and Burke, the girls began a tough but productive season. They had several close losses to predominant powerhouses, such as Westside and Benson.

"We've shown tremendous improvement," commented Coach Cheryl Brown. She cited such players as sophomores, Tonya Kelley, Sonya Clark, and Sandy Hucceby as assets for the squad. These girls will all return next year.

The J.V. Girls won their last three games, which helped bring forth a winning record and a name for the J.V.'s. Coach Brown is optimistic for the success of the 1983-84 Girls' Junior Varsity Basketball team. Those girls that do not move up solely to the Varsity squad will be back to assure Coach Brown the success she predicts.

The Junior Varsity Basketball team, finishing the season with a 9-7 record, had a year to be proud of. They lost five of the seven early in the season in a tough streak, which Coach Paul Pennington felt could have been won later in the season. "I'd like to think that if we played those teams now (at the end of the year), that we'd win."

But the J.V. team has much to look forward to for next year's season. The 1982-83 team was composed of twelve sophomores and only two juniors, so the team will return in full strength.

Coach Pennington cited Dave Moody, Bertrend Turnbo, and Shawn Starks as leading scorers; receiving 135, 128, and 118 points respectively, in sixteen games. Jackson and Turnbo were leading rebounders, each with 85.

With all the experienced players returning next season, Coach Pennington is highly optimistic for the future of the Junior Varsity Basketball team.

Girls' Golf refines season

"Losing four seniors really hurt the team this season." Only two starters returned from last year's girls' golf team: Kylie Hofacre and Susie Gaffney. "The team lacked experience in playing in competition," expressed Coach Ed McDaniel.

Like the football team, the girls' golf team experienced a rebuilding season. Only two girls, Kylie Hofacre and Julie Conine, will not return next year. Four girls, Susie Gaffney, Leslie Bowen, Amy Story, and Marsha Peters, will play for the 1983 season, and a freshman may play as well.

"Next year," stated Coach McDaniel, "the girls must rededicate themselves with a change of attitude; they know that they can play, now they must realize that they can win." With all the experienced players returning, the team may do just what Coach McDaniel desires.

Swimmers recover from decline in participation Swim team prepares for future

The 1982-83 Swim team, forced to rebuild after losing many participants, turned out a hopeful record. The team, smaller than in the past, had many outstanding swimmers, several of whom will be back for at least one more season. Coach Allner cited several underclassmen as top-rate swimmers, capable of placing well in state, as well as boosting their team in duals and triangulars. A freshman has also been incorporated into the program. Shelly Sitzman competed with the Girls' Swim team.

The swimmers, working fun into their workouts, did well in their dual meets and practiced hard, anticipating state competition. Coach Gebhard expected swimmers such as Tom Lehr, Ken Dutch, Dave Kaslow, Jodi Baker, and Julie Sutton to place well in state.

Wrestling season projects hope for '84

The Wrestlers had a good season individually, even though the final dual meets did not say so. The individuals worked towards their major goal, state, and could only compete in twenty-six individual meets before state.

Coach Gary Kubik cited Tom Stawniak, Dave Foster, Gabe and Frank Albanese, and Tim Chamberlain as "outstanding" wrestlers, who promised to do very well at state. Seven Varsity Wrestlers returned from the previous year's squad, and three state qualifiers as well. Combined with much new talent, the 1982-83 squad turned out a good performance.

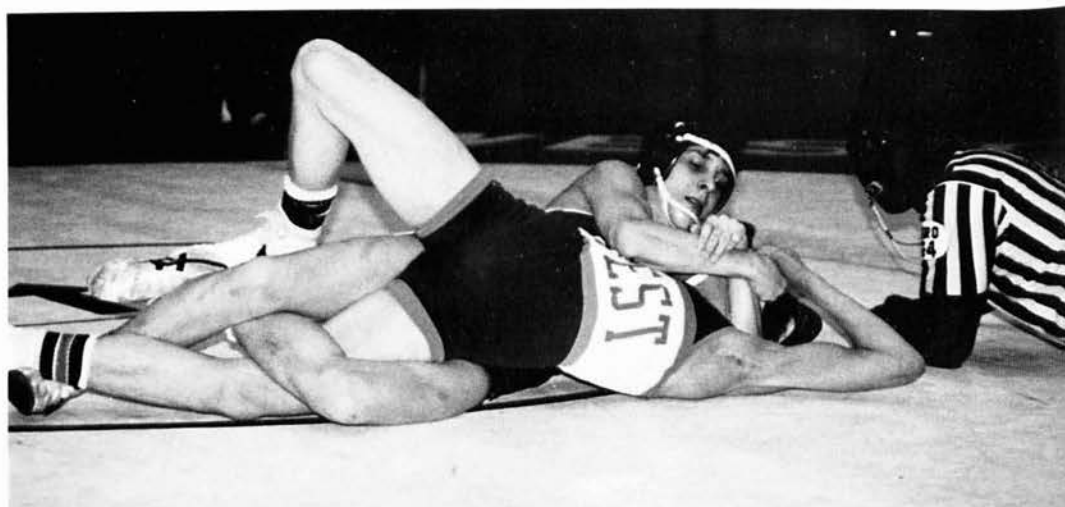

Coach Kubik is looking forward to another good year as well, when the 1983-84 season begins. Several experienced wrestlers will be returning to the Wrestling squad.

Gymnastics team: just warming up

A young but experienced group, Central's gymnastics team proved itself to be good competition last season and plans on doing just as well next year. Only losing three seniors, the teams will have many returning lettermen. "But the two boys that don't come back will hurt," replied Coach Kent Friesen. They will lose Steve Houlton and Kurt Pyle. The consolation is that the teams still have many good gymnasts ready for next season.

The State Meet was the highlight for Central's Gymnastics teams. Steve Houlton won the All-Around competition, which is a highlight for Central. This award has only been earned twice in the history of Central, the last time being in 1967. Steve also won the Pommel Horse, the High Bar, and the Rings. "He worked very hard for it," Coach Friesen stated. "Since the beginning of the season, Steve has really tried hard."

Jackie Slezak qualified individually for State and received first place for the All-Around competition, the Uneven Bars, the Vault, and the Floor Exercise.

Enthusiasm: what cheerleading is all about

Varsity Cheerleaders spark fans

The 1982-83 Varsity Cheerleaders. Helped by the new Cheerleading sponsor, Mr. Clyde Lincoln, these girls have worked hard to earn the name of Varsity Cheerleaders. Surviving summer and fall practices, plus an N.C.A. training camp program at Iowa State, these girls have reaped the rewards of a long season. The squad has cheered for a tough football season and entertained crowds at basketball games, as well.

The Varsity squad, consisting of eleven members, has followed the tradition of running the halls, performing pep rallies, and, of course, cheering at games.

J.V. Cheerleaders involved

Junior Varsity Cheerleading: The middle of the line. Reserves are now below, but the Varsity Cheerleaders are still above the J.V. But being the middle squad has its advantages. The number who participate on the squad grows, as well as the experience.

The J.V. Cheerleaders help the other squads as well as themselves by having fund raisers such as bake sales and making posters advertising upcoming sports events.

Cheering for many sporting events is the duty of the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders. Not only must they cheer at Varsity games, but J.V. as well. This adds up to lots of hard work, but lots of fun too. The work paid off in practice and proved worthwhile when the girls performed.

Reserve squad adds spirit

The Reserve Cheerleaders. Just learning the ropes of being high school cheerleaders takes time, the tenth grade squad discovered. They have to cheer at Reserve events and Varsity events but still keep up with schoolwork. It may sound tough, but all the work is well worth the effort. The girls enjoy their job and work hard to project all their Eagle spirit to the crowds. These girls enjoyed their first year of high school cheerleading, and the general consensus is that many of them will return next season as Junior Varsity Cheerleaders.

Marching, dancing, and cheering Eaglettes boost Central

The Eaglette squad is not just another cheerleading group. These girls march, dance, and perform, as well as cheer. They needed lots of hard practice to come up with the final product the spectators saw at pep rallies and games. Helped by Eaglette sponsor Mrs. Peggy Ritchey and lots of hard work, the girls made another outstanding season.

Beginning practice in the summer, the Eaglettes participated in an N.C.A. pom-pom camp at Okoboji, then they began working with the band for football season.

The squad, consisting of juniors and seniors, marched with the band, cheered, and performed during half-times throughout the year. Those shows proved that all the practice paid off.

Low test grades?

Activities are those things that keep many students exceptionally busy. From the theatre to the rifle team to journalism - all these activities require quite a bit of time outside of school. In the fall, band members are at Kellom Field, ready to practice, about the same time that other students are getting up. Also in the fall, the musical cast can be at school rehearsing as late as 9:00 p.m. There are concerts which vocal music students are required to attend, as well as many late nights for the journalism staffs when the deadlines are near.

However, activities aren't just related to classes. The annual Homecoming parade and dance attract participants that might not be active in the more regular activities.

Though countless yawns and low test grades may be attributed to participation in school activities, those activities help make school fun, sociable, and much more memorable.

Homecoming ... A Tropical Paradise

Drama Club's thematic entry in the parade, presented by Kris Olsen, Lisa Kerekes, Krissy Smith, Skippy, and Mrs. Stommes.

Laughter, tears, shouts, and cheers are all words that could describe the activities surrounding Homecoming. The halls were decorated early the Saturday morning before Spirit Week, the week preceding the football game and dance. While quite popular, Punk Day was criticized by many of Central's individualists. One of the more outspoken individuals, Ric Hagberg, stated, "Punk is an attitude, not a fashion."

The Homecoming Parade began at Washington Elementary School, where the few precious hours between school and judging of the decorated vehicles were spent taping streamers and balloons to students' cars. Paul Aufenkamp, Tim Chamberlain, and Rex Schmadeke won first place in parade competition with their larger than life papier mache eagle. Second place went to the Register staff's car and third place to the Junior Classical League's chariot, pulled by toga clad sophomores.

The football game against Burke was played at UN-O on the A. L. Caniglia field, Friday, October 15. The game went into overtime and the Eagles narrowly missed the two-point conversion that would have won the game. The final score was 32-31.

The royalty crowned during the dance on Saturday the 16th of October at the airport Ramada Inn was Tracii Patterson and Channing Bunch. They and many other dance goers danced till midnight to the tunes of the band E. T. C.

Band jams in the courtyard before winter break.

Preparation for the marching band performances was quite extensive. Even before school got started in late August, the band got together for several rehearsals at Kellom field. Practicing became quite common during the fall semester. Band members would have to be at school by 7:00am to board a bus to go to Kellom to rehearse until the end of first hour (band class).

The students of the elementary school Kellom (of Kellom field fame) watched the group rehearse several days a week. The youngsters were so awestruck that the marching band donned their uniforms, complete with hats and white shoes (soon soiled by the thick mud of the field) and performed for the grade schoolers as a "thank you" for the use of their field. The 'thank you' received in return was dozens of pictures and poems composed by the students at Kellom.

Marching and playing instruments was not the only preparation for all the half-time shows. A uniform committee, headed by Candy Mertz, worked throughout the summer mending uniforms.

Band participated in both the Labor Day and the Columbus Day parades as well as performing with other OPS high school bands at Norris Jr. High in November.

Scintillating spirit in the stands

Central High's Pep band performs at such events as away football games, boys' and girls' basketball games, and for pep rallies when requested to by the cheerleaders.

Each band member is required to attend at least four of the performances to earn part of his credit. Mr. Warren Ferrel, band director, said, "Pep band is a chance for band members to really enjoy themselves and have fun."

Leader Dan Kuhns said, "Sometimes it gets to be a real drag having to be drum major all the time - it's more fun to be in the stands with everyone else."

Trumpets, trombones, saxophones, a piano, bass guitar, drummer, and a percussion section make the final sound an enjoyable experience. The music of the band was heard by all who attended open house. They also perform in Road Show and make their final performance at the Spring Swing Thing. Jazz Band is directed by Mr. Warren Ferrel, Instrumental music instructor.

A combination of string and brass instruments make up the Orchestra which meets in the bowels of Central, room 048, everyday during fifth and sixth hours.

Many members of the Orchestra as well as the band spent hours of extra time rehearsing the music for "Guys and Dolls." Pit Orchestra members were after school along with the cast until way past many bedtimes.

A Cappella reflects talent

Passing by room 145 eighth hour, one can hear the sounds of ninety-eight singers. This is the sound of the A Cappella Choir practicing for a variety of different performances. A Cappella warmed the hearts of many with their music as they sang in a benefit for Multiple Sclerosis at Peony Park, the All-City Music Festival, and Central's own Road Show.

Members of A Cappella had to try out for a part in this group by singing a solo for Mr. Robert McMeen, vocal music instructor. They also had to sing with a group of people and were judged on their ability to read music.

The group chose as their President Dave Salzer and their Vice-President Bob McMeen. Amy Schmidt and Tom Backer were elected Secretary and Treasurer, respectively.

Mr. McMeen was selected to direct the ninth grade chorus in the All-City Music Festival, held on February 5th.

Singers captivate listeners

A select group of eighteen singers compose the CHS Singers. Singers perform at a variety of places such as churches, restaurants, nursing homes, the annual Road Show, the Spring Swing Thing, and the O-Club Banquet. The choral group breaks the year up into different types of music. Renaissance Jazz, and Christmas selections are just a sample of their many pieces. Added to the eighteen singers, Karina Lathrum plays the piano for the group. Singers not only sing, but they also add simple dance steps to their performances. Mr. Robert McMeen directs the group which meets every day third hour and perform once a month or in some cases more than that.

Sassy staters soar

A select group of instrumentalists and vocalists made their way to the November performance in the All-State Music Festival. In October, students auditioning for their place in the festival were required to present a prepared tape, and they were also required to either play or sing a selected arrangement chosen by the judges.

All-State consists of three musical groups: Orchestra, Chorus, and Band. Central had representatives from each of these groups.

Being involved in All-State took many hours of practice until everything was ready for the final performance. Helping them through this was Mr. Warren Ferrel and Mr. Robert McMeen.

Stage crew constructs fantasies

The pounding of nails, the whirr of saws, and the odor of fresh paint engulfs the stage in the auditorium each day ninth and tenth periods. This is the world of the stage crew. Not only responsible for the design and construction of the sets for the fall musical, Road Show, and the spring play but also the scene changes — including lighting and curtains — during performances, the crew plays as much a part in the productions as the actors.

Under direction of Mr. Larry Hausman, the crew is experienced in all aspects of set construction and carpentry. Mr. Hausman, with seventeen years of experience, willingly shares his expertise with his students. He also directs the lighting crew which illuminates the stage for each production.

Gambling and love share stage

The annual musical gracing Central's stage this fall was the Broadway hit "Guys and Dolls." The story is of crapshooters in the Broadway section of New York in the early 1950's. Sky Masterson, a well known gambler, is sucked into a bet with Nathan Detroit, the local crap game runner. Nathan bets that Sky can't take Sergeant Sarah Brown of the Save-A-Soul Mission to Havana for dinner. While Sky attempts to woo the prudent Miss Sarah, Nathan finally agrees to marry his fiancee of fourteen years, Miss Adelaide, a dancer at the Hot Box Night Club.

Sky succeeds in taking Miss Sarah to Havana, and in doing so, falls in love with her. Wanting to help save the mission from being closed due to lack of sinners, Sky bets the crapshooters against their souls in their crap game in the sewer. Sky wins, and all the crapshooters must attend a midnight prayer meeting at the Mission.

In the end Sky and Sarah are married, as well as Nathan and Adelaide.

The show was cast after a week of nerve-racking auditions. Immediately the cast began the grueling eight weeks of rehearsal. The show was under the direction and supervision of Mr. McMeen, vocal music instructor;

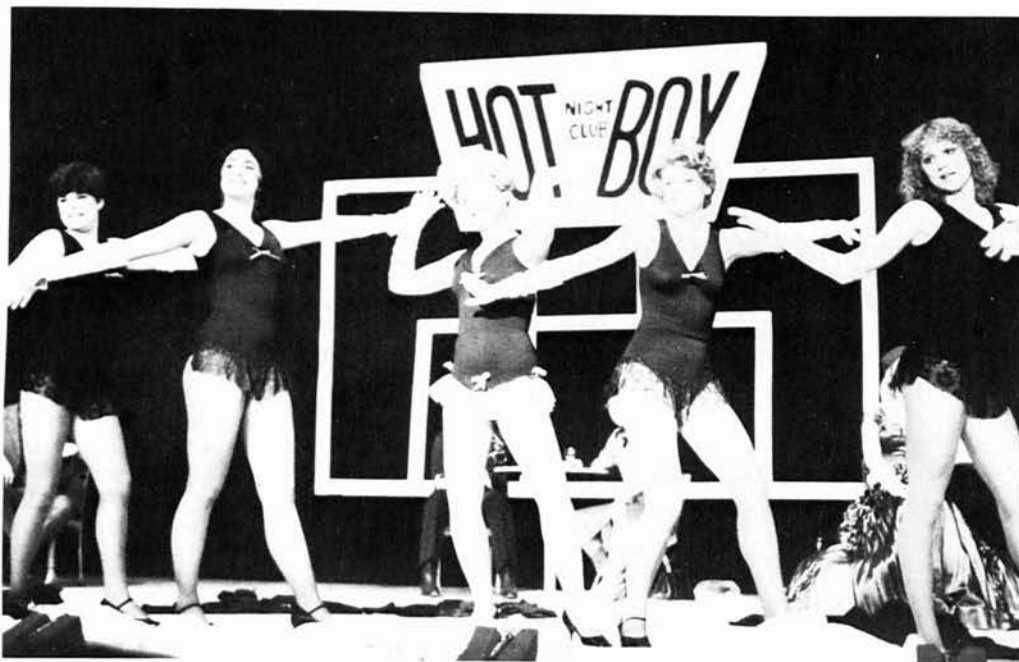

Mrs. Stommes, drama instructor; and Wendy Larson, choreographer. The student directors were Mary Blazek, Sue McDaniel, and Kris Olsen. They took care of attendance, noting stage directions, and giving lines during the rehearsals which sometimes lasted until 9:00 p.m.

The awe of Road Show '83

On February 17, 19, and 20, 1983, Central High presented "A Night on the Town," the 69th annual Roadshow.

After 69 years, one would think that Roadshow would become repetitious; however, each one has been unique.

Roadshow was compiled of several acts, each as original as the actors in it.

This year a professional lighting crew was hired and a permanent set was built.

As cast member Kris Olsen put it, "The work that Mr. Ferrel and the entire cast and crews put into it was phenomenal. Everyone pulled together to hold up the 'Tradition of Excellence' of Central's Roadshow."

Opening the show was A Cappella Choir with several upbeat selections.

The heart of Central Student Assembly

The heart of Spring Prom is the Student Assembly. Wendy Weiner, Assembly President, states that Spring Prom is the major thing the group works for all year. To raise funds for prom, Student Assembly held a number of bake sales; they sold carnations for Valentines Day and also Eagle towels. The group also produced the second student directory.

In addition to Spring Prom, Student Assembly participated as student hosts in the Easter Seals Telethon, and they sponsored a bloodmobile for Central students and staff.

This year was the first year for Central to have a Prom King and Queen. This too was one of the accomplishments of the assembly.

Student Assembly is made up of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Elections for sophomores are held in the fall. After being elected by the student body of the sophomore class, those students chosen will be a part of the Assembly for their three years at Central.

League members follow national motto ...

'N.F.L. trains for leadership'

The National Forensic League is an organization of debate team members. The N.F.L. gives its members a formal background in speech and debate. Students must research various topics throughout the year. The students research topics in practice for district, state, and national competitions. According to Mrs. Ellen Pritchard, debate teacher, Central has sent more debaters to nationals than any other school in the state. This year the national convention will be held in Kansas City.

This split in the classes also resulted in a split in the Dimension staff, causing co-editors, Deana Vodicka and Kris Olsen, to meet outside of classtime. According to Deana, "The truth is, now that the yearbook is completed, Kris and I can work together during eighth hour to make this year's Dimension the best ever!"

Several new techniques also went into sales promotion this year.

JROTC serves school

For some, JROTC is the extent of their military training, but for others, it is the beginning of their military career. The JROTC has participated for the eighty-eighth year in the Aksar-ben Coronation and Ball. Central's JROTC is the only high school in Omaha involved. During President Reagan's visit, the JROTC helped as ushers and directors. JROTC also marched in the Columbus Day parade including fifty cadets and the Homecoming parade with thirty cadets involved. The group placed second in the annual Creighton University Orienteering meet. Ten cadets participated. Major Edward McDaniel and Sergeant William Middleton are the JROTC sponsors.

Aiming for perfection

This year was a beginning year for the rifle team according to Sergeant William Middleton, rifle team sponsor. There were only two shooters returning from last year, Paul Aufenkamp and Charles Crinklaw. With the nearly new team, Sergeant Middleton feels that the new shooters have good potential. The rifle team practices Tuesdays after school. They compete against other area high schools for the highest score.

Register

Omaha, Nebraska, January 20, 1983

The Register, that semi-monthly publication of Central High. The staff compiled of a number of worthy journalists and photographers. Each day these individuals meet in room 315, the newly remodeled media center, during 6th and 7th periods.

Often the staff is involved in story sessions during which story ideas are brought up, discussed, tossed out, or assigned to a member to cover. Interviews and researching as well as writing the articles consumes a great deal of time. Additionally, selling ads, doing layouts, and correcting proof takes up much time out of class.

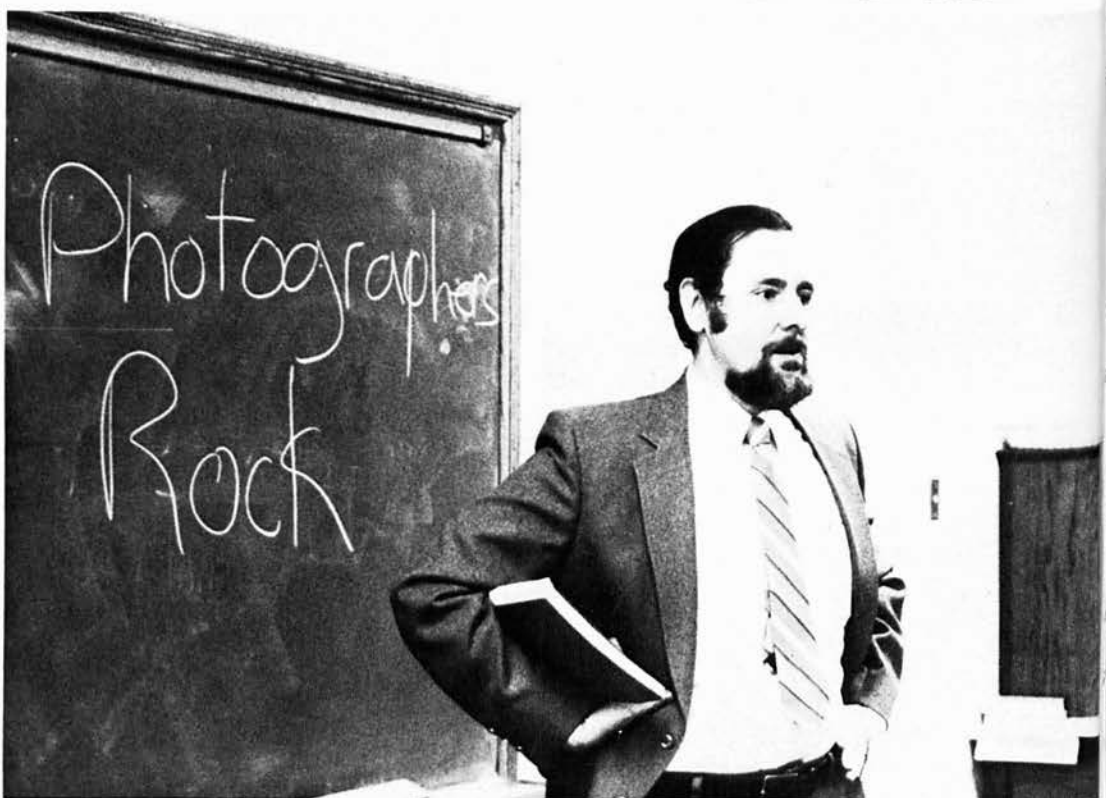

More personally with the staff, their favorite ice cream flavors were disclosed in an informal poll. Chocolate came out on top with mint chip pulling up a close second. A few extravagant flavors were raisin nut cluster, raspberry mocha, and cinnamon.

Exhilarating aggravation Working on the yearbook

Working on the yearbook staff encompasses much more than simply meeting each day eighth period. Much time outside of class is spent obtaining interviews and information for the copy.

Several members of the yearbook staff attended workshops to gain a little more experience and get some new ideas for layout design as well as innovative approaches to copy and captions. The most involved workshop was held at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln during the summer. For four days Deana Vodicka, Editor, and Kris Olsen, Activities Editor attended lectures and classes dealing with all aspects of yearbook production. They learned many things from the yearbook supervisors holding the lectures, and many of the new ideas they learned have been incorporated in this book.

Through dedication, perseverance, and much prodding from Adviser Gaherty, the staff tirelessly worked on the book to capture a few of the moments and people at Central in 1982-83.

Clubs get involved

Within this section can be found memories of a year gone by, a year past, but not forgotten in the minds of those involved. The activities pictured only represent a portion of the year's festivities. During the year club members were able to host and partake in numerous activities. Many clubs sponsored fund raisers to benefit their organizations and the entire school.

Special thanks goes to each club and their sponsors for making the entire school term more enjoyable.

Engineering Club starts anew

This year marked the beginning of several new groups at Central. Among those new was Central's own Engineering Club.

According to Mr. Jerry Brown, Club sponsor, it was the students who urged him to start the club.

One of many goals of the club was to acquaint the members with the various fields associated with engineering.

Anthropology Club tours sites

The Anthropology club went to various sites in and around Nebraska during the year. The sites toured by the club included a return visit to Thurston, Nebraska, where last year they found a thirty-one inch buffalo skull. Mr. Gary Kubik, club sponsor, said the skull was one of the largest ever found in this area.

The students dug for various artifacts at these sites. Some students used their findings as part of a project entered in the Greater Nebraska Science and Engineering Fair. # Math/Computer Science club begins Central's Math club underwent many changes during the year. The club's name was officially changed to the Math/Computer Science club. The main reason for the name was the purchase of an Apple II computer for the club. The computer was furnished by candy sales the members made earlier in the year. Club members also sold decals and tablets to raise money. The club's new sponsor, Mr. John Waterman, believes the name change was needed to attract students who wouldn't ordinarily join a math club.

The club's activities included hosting a math contest in November. Members were also able to partake in various local contests.

Chess - year round activity

Although competitions for Chess club began in November and ended in January, members could be seen playing all year long. During the season students practiced as often as four nights a week although they were only required to practice twice a week. Mr. Kevin Throne, club sponsor, realizes the dedication of the members and hopes that more members will be able to go to the national competition next year.

The club has always had a strong reputation among area schools. This year the team did little to damage that reputation, taking first in the Mid-America Scholastic tournament in December. Members include: (Left) FRONT ROW: Angelo Randazzo, Ty Soares, Todd Starkey, Roy Wright. SECOND ROW: Mr. Throne, Tim Hughes, Arthur Kosowky, Gene Huey, Bill Zuck, Jay Nigh. # Debators research issue

"Resolved that the United States should significantly curtail its arms sales to foreign countries."

"Resolved that the United States should significantly curtail its arms sales to foreign countries," was the topic for the high school debate teams this year. Competitions were held nearly every weekend from September through March in a three-state region consisting of Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota.

To have been active in debate at Central one must have been enrolled in debate class meeting tenth period every day, taught by Mrs. Ellen Prichard. Funds for debate came from the Central activity fund.

DECA stresses marketing

DECA members remained active throughout the year with various fund raisers. For the second year students sold popcorn in the DECA concession stand. They also held car washes and bake sales to raise money. Many of the proceeds went to finance trips to state, regional, and national conferences. This year DECA was able to send fifteen members to the regional conference.

O-Club

O-club is an organization of student athletes. During the year members participated in many non-athletic events. Several times during the year Mr. George Grillo, club sponsor, hosted an informal breakfast for the athletes. Members also attended several pizza feeds. The pizza feeds were designed to attract students to sporting events other than their own. According to Mr. Grillo, the breakfast and the pizza feeds were a means of showing the athletes they are appreciated the entire year.

Students sold candy to raise funds for the annual O-club banquet in May. Awards went to the best athlete in an individual sport and also to the best all-around athlete.

Drama Club

"Lights. Camera. Action." To hear these words is the dream, occasionally the reality, of many of Pegi's Players. However, whether this is "to be or not to be," a member's ambition, Drama club offers a world of excitement.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Pegi Stommes, the club raised funds by means of bake sales and candy sales to finance their activities. These activities included a secret initiation, a halloween party, and a hayrack ride earlier in the year. Members also saw several plays and sponsored a picture-taking session with Santa. The highlight of the year was the annual Pegi Awards banquet. Awards went to the most outstanding thespians.

J.C.L. getting better with age

The Junior Classical League has been at Central for more than eighty years. The club has undergone many changes including a name change, but one thing has remained the same and that is the club enrollment. J.C.L. has always had the largest enrollment of any foreign language club. One contributing factor is the club's busy schedule. During the year members attended a hayrack ride, several banquets, and a chariotathon.

The club's major fund raiser was a turkey raffle, with the proceeds going to two needy families at Central.

German club

Skis Crescent slopes

In September, club members were taken on a hike through Fontenelle Forest. According to Mrs. Gretchen Schutte, club sponsor, hiking is a favorite past-time in Germany. Also during the earlier part of the year members dined at a local German restaurant and attended a picnic along with five area high school clubs.

Winter proved to be the most active part of the year for members. In December members visited the Lutheran Home of the Aged. Students sang traditional German songs and presented Christmas cards to the residents. Students also actively participated in foreign language week and attended a sledding party. The conclusion of the winter festivities was a ski trip in March. Members were able to ski the entire day while at the Crescent, Iowa lodge.

During the year French club members experienced a bit of French culture. The students viewed the film "Small Change" which depicts the life of French students. Students were also given a chance to ask questions about student life when foreign exchange students visited their classrooms during February. Mrs. Daryl Bayer, club sponsor, believes that foreign language clubs have a responsibility to expand students' knowledge of a particular culture.

Club members kept busy by hosting the Inter-Language soccer tournament for the second year. Members went caroling in December and also actively participated in Foreign-language week.

Spanish club involved Makes year count

Early in the year Spanish club members were active. Members participated in both the foreign language volleyball tournament and foreign language week. During foreign language week students wore clothing and flags symbolic of their language. The week's activities were concluded by a banquet held in the courtyard. Entertainment for the banquet was provided by a choir made up of students from all four languages.

Club members sponsored the annual foreign language bowling tournament for the sixth year. Mrs. Vickie Anderson, club sponsor, said students from all the languages were encouraged to participate.

'Extremely talented ...'

Photographers. Those useable, abuseable, and "extremely talented" beings that are the scapegoats for many a missed deadline are actually the ones without whom the yearbook would not be possible. What many people don't realize is that it is really the photographers that mold, shape, and form the ingredients that eventually become the highlight of that year. Every shy smile, quick laugh, and embarrassing prank are captured in freeze-frame and transferred to the yearbook staff to be put down on paper and remembered for years to come.

THE MOST IMPORTANT BOOK
A HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT MAY EVER READ.

It takes more than brains to go to college. It takes money for tuition, room, board, and books.

To help you meet the costs, the Army offers the Army College Fund. You can join it upon qualifying when you join the Army.

For every dollar you put in, Uncle Sam puts in five or more. So, after just two years in the Army, you can have up to $15,200 for college. A three-year enlistment can gain you up to $20,100.

Call or stop by for your free copy of the Army College Fund booklet. It's an education in itself. We're located at 401 South 16th Street.

Call 221-4721.

Volume 77 of Central High school's yearbook the "O-Book" was printed by Walsworth Publishing Co. of Marceline, Missouri. Our Yearbook can be seen in the hands of 915 Central students.

Cover design and all blueprint reproductions furnished by the Dana Larson Roubal and Associates. Returning to the original school colors of purple and white, the South side and Central's new school sign was printed in white and purple on the cover derived from a graphite pencil sketch. The lettering chosen was Optima.

Inside, body copy was written in 10 pt. Optima and 8 pt. Optima for captions. Headlines varied according to that section Editor's style.

The "Blueprint Theme" was developed during the month of September when many different theme topics were debated upon. "Blueprint" was agreed upon as the best way to represent 1983. Caricatures on pages 82 and 83 were drawn by Bob Allen.

Special thanks go to Jack Martin Photography, Mr. Dan Daly, Mrs. Jo Derry, Mrs. Martha Rasp, Mrs. Lu Schaaf, Erika Herzog, Mrs. Margaret Quinn, and all Central High faculty who devoted their time.

This Spring delivery book covered all activities up to February 28. A Summer Supplement mailed in August will conclude the 1982-83 year.

This was a year full of events. Looking back, it all seemed to go so quickly.

The time to say good-bye to the kids that made your days a little bit easier is at hand. Your A.P. Chemistry partner that didn't tell when you mixed the wrong chemicals and almost blew up room 311, the second semester stud that you always wanted to talk to but didn't, and the teacher you never said thank-you to.

Oh, the juniors and sophomores know that it's only three short months until they see the gang again, but the seniors know that this is really good-bye and can only hope that the promise of "Let's keep in touch" can be kept, & so, if you're quick, you can still get your Chemistry partner's phone number, say hi to that second semester stud, and thank that teacher that cared enough to help you through. Hurry, you might be able to catch them.

The graduating class of 1983 — "The best class in the history of Central High School" according to Dr. G. E. Moller, principal. On May 26, the seniors of 1983 were dubbed this distinction during Central's commencement.

Norbert Schuerman, Associate Superintendent of Schools, and Board of Education members Frank A. Bogard and Brenda Warren presented diplomas during the one and a half hour ceremony.

The witty and entertaining orations of Harry Berman and Dave Salzer focused on the quality and value of an education at Central. In conjunction with Andrew Stover's presentation, their speeches looked towards the future. "What now?" Dave Salzer asked an enthusiastic class of '83 as they sat together for the last time — eager to become history.

Memories of Prom and Military Ball

The evening of April 23, 1983, was the annual Spring Prom. Sponsored by Student Council, the dance was held at the Warehouse ballroom in Carter Lake, Iowa.

Formally clad couples began arriving at eight o'clock p.m. and danced to the music of the Shades of Brown and Breeze until midnight.

A first in Central's Spring Prom history was the coronation of a King and Queen. Runners up were Bob McMeen, Tim Cook, Gardine Wilson, and Dave Salzer for King, and Renee Rizutto, Teri Svoboda, Sheila Monen, Deena Roach, and Lorraine Beck for Queen.

The annual Military Ball was held on Thursday, March 17, at Peony Park. The dance was sponsored by Bryan High. All LD-3 and LD-4 (third and fourth year) seniors were promoted to officer's rank if it had not previously been attained.

Recognition Night was held on May 7 in the New Gym. City Councilwoman Sylvia Wagner was present for the evening. Superior cadets were awarded, as well as an outstanding cadet award for each grade level. The Battalion Staff for 1983-84 was also announced.

'Perfect' cast enacts spring musical 'Charlie Brown'

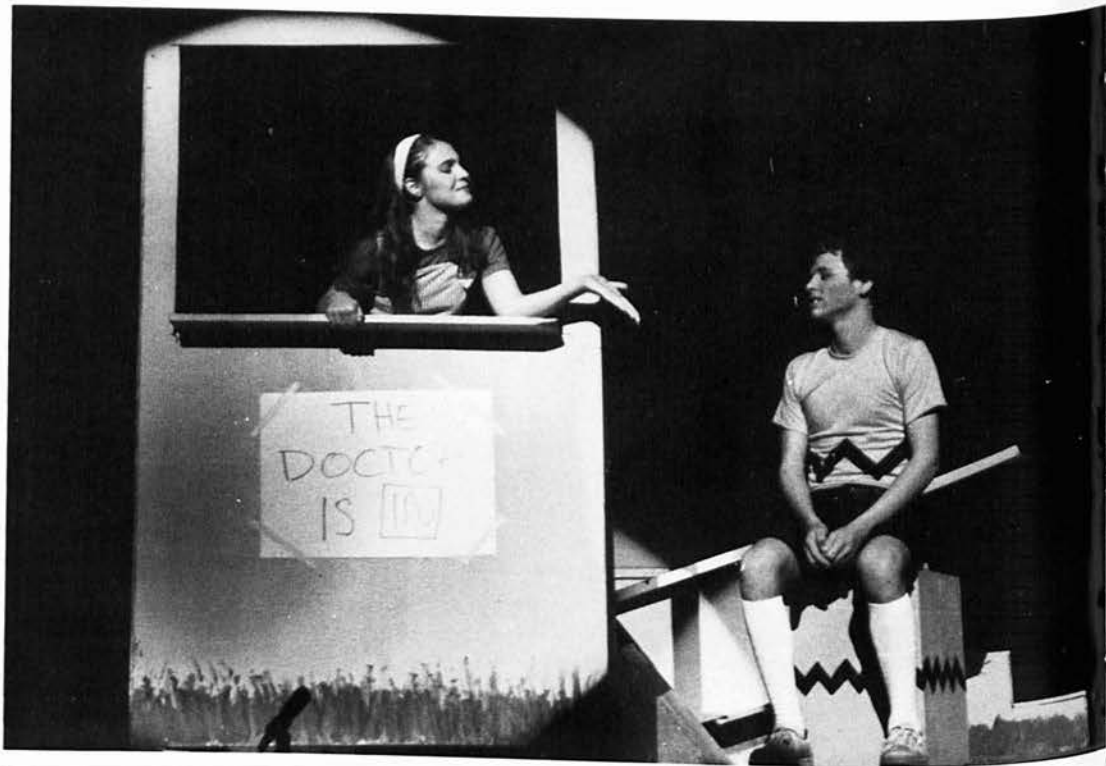

The spring play this year wasn't a play at all, it was a musical. A first for Drama teacher Pegi Stommes, she was quite pleased with the production. "Everyone fit into their part perfectly," she said. John Bennet was hired as music director and Wendy Larson as choreographer. They helped the main characters and the additional chorus members in developing their characters as well as utilizing their singing and dancing talents fully.

One student matinee was performed on April 29, and public performances were held April 30 and May 1.

Purple Feather Day ... ... a tradition at Central

The traditional 'balloon lift-off.'

As annually spoken by Master of Ceremonies, Dr. Moller, "The sun always shines on Purple Feather Day." Despite a bit of a chill in the breeze, the sun did shine on the sophomores, juniors, and seniors that had earned a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Omaha Public Schools superintendent Dr. Jack Taylor and local public relations man Bill Ramsey spoke to the honorees at the ceremony held Tuesday, May 10 during third and fourth periods on the East Porch.

Dave Salzer asks the burning question. "Why?"

Soccer - a recognizable sport

This year Central received its first Soccer club. The club was formed due largely to the efforts of Steve Berman, a sophomore. According to Mrs. Sue Gambaiana, club sponsor, it was Steve who first approached her with the idea of sponsoring and it was he who contacted two local colleges in an effort to find coaches for the two teams.

Since the National High School Athletic Association does not recognize soccer as an official sport, Central's soccer team can not receive funding from the school's athletic fund. To cover league fees and equipment expenses members sold candy and held bake sales. Also members bought their own uniforms and often provided their own transportation to games. The team was largely aided by a donation made by the PEP organization of Central.

The girls' team was coached by Scott Durbin and Alan Brady, both students at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Creighton students Joe Castelli and Tom Egan coached the boys' team. All the coaches worked on a volunteer basis.

Track teams dominate events

Once again, Central produced a State-Champion track team, for both the boys and the girls. Discus hurler Tom Stawniak, the 800-yard and two-mile boys relay teams all brought back medals from the State meet while the girls relay teams and individual runners did just as well.

With track events always producing newer, better records, Central must have an all-around track team with incentive. CHS has a large team, which adds to the competition within the team and gives depth to many events.

Many underclassmen participate in track, which shows that Central will have a powerful team for years to come. This year's track team won all the duals throughout the season, as well as three pre-season invitationals.

Varsity Baseball qualifies first time ever to State

Led by pitcher Damon Osborne, catcher Bob Ptacek, and first baseman Jim Waldron, the Varsity Baseball team accomplished a feat new to CHS history. The Baseball team compiled a winning record with the help of a team which Coach Wally Knight calls one of the best Central has had in years.

The team advanced through Districts, playing tough games, to face top-ranked Northwest in the quarterfinals of the State tournament. Disappointingly, Central lost the game 10-0. But the team had accomplished a new goal. They qualified for the State Baseball tournament. With several good players returning next season, namely Pat Salerno, another pitcher; the boys can make a new goal, just one step better than this year. Coach Knight is optimistic about the future for the Varsity Baseball team.

Beating several strong opponents and proving tough competition J.V. Baseball shapes up record

Junior Varsity teams often have fluctuating seasons because of the large player turnover which occurs yearly. J.V. players move up to Varsity sports, and the coaches are faced with a whole new group of inexperienced athletes. But Coach Dirks considers the 1983 J.V. Baseball team to be a good start for Central. There were several sophomores on the squad and many talented juniors as well. Coach Dirks cited Cory Davis, Joe Pruss, and Jerry Jensen as big contributors to the team.

With the sophomores who will return to the J.V. team next year, combined with the new players Coach Dirks hopes to get on the team, the J.V. squad should be well-prepared to face any opponents coming up next year.

Dirks feels that, even though some of his players move up to Varsity every year, Central has a good, solid J.V. program, which prepares the boys for Varsity competition.

Boys' Golf team gains experience

The Boys' Golf team, with only six matches to make or break their acclaim, turned out a good season with a 3-3 record. Coach Ed McDaniel said that the only senior, Mark Jamison, was a leader in the scoring, as well as several good, new underclassmen.

Losing only one player, the team has a lot to look forward to next season. Although they were a new team, the boys placed fourth in Districts, only one spot shy of a berth in the State tournament. The team also beat some tough opponents this year, namely Millard South. The victories of this season, combined with the experienced players who will return to play on the 1984 Boys' Golf team, indicate a promising and winning team for the next year or two. The team compiled a good record this season, and individuals also turned in some good scores on their own, so Coach McDaniel formed a real winning team.

Girls' Basketball team wins State tournament by one free throw

In the final seconds of the Girls' State Basketball finals, Central was one point behind Lincoln Southeast. Then Maurtice Ivy was fouled. She shot and made two free throws to beat the Knights 39-38. That finished the girls' season with a 25-0 record, many broken records, and lots of public recognition for Central sports.

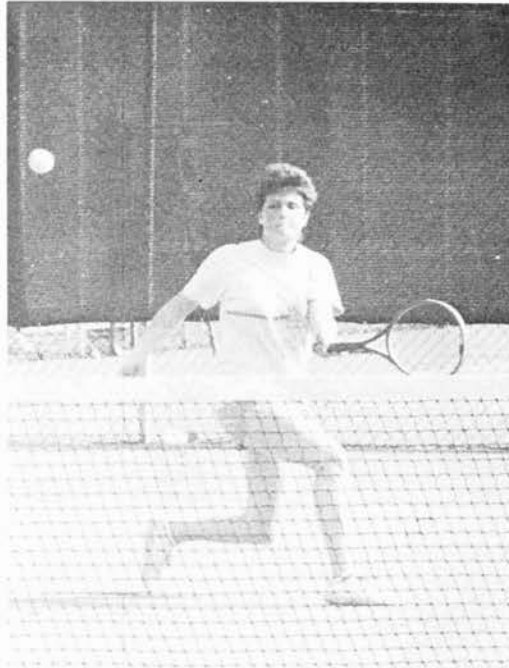

Congratulations to Coach Paul Semrad, all the girls on the squad, and all of the supportive fans. All the hard work and anticipation paid off this season: Central High School's Varsity Girls' Basketball team is the number one in the state and holds much promise for next year as well.

Girls' Tennis team produces winners

The Girls' Tennis team, though not as large as in the past several years, has compiled a winning record with some strong individuals. Coach Joyce Morris pointed out DeeDee Mancuso and Anne Lee as two strong seniors who helped lead the team to its 7-3 record. The girls won their last five matches, beating Millard South and Bellevue East in that series. Earlier in the season, the team also defeated a high-ranked Benson tennis team.

Coach Morris expects another good season next year when several of her girls will return and play. She expects more girls to try out for the team next spring, and combining those new girls with her returning lettermen, believes Central will have another winning tennis team. Central received more recognition, through the Register and through crowd support, to help cheer on the winning Girls' Tennis team.
