HEREAFTER the REGISTER will endeavor to appear at the regular time. The last two editions were compelled to be issued early on account of the interference of the holidays.

THERE is some talk among local baseball players of forming a city league. If this is done, the Athletic Association should not fail to enter its team. It surely would not take last place.

ANOTHER former member of the class of '87 has passed away, the third since last commencement. Miss Blanche Sylvester died at her home in this city on the 9th of this month. She had remained in the High School less than a year, but in that time had endeared herself to her classmates who now feel their loss.

THE editor of this paper has received the following notice for publication in the December REGISTER:

"Will the young gentleman who so kindly referred to the girls in the last issue of the REGISTER as 'those useless articles' please call at my office and receive reward. SEM PATRONEM.

Do not blame the editor for the bad Latin attached and the extraordinary grammar, for we are sure there were no 'girls in the last issue of the REGISTER.'

THE following article appeared in the Omaha Excelsior, as an editorial, December 10th:

"After January 1st, we shall write 1888. This is the first time in one hundred and ten years that the date of the year contained three figures the same. Our grandfathers and great grandfathers and great great grandfathers used to write it 1777."

The author of the above would do well to come to school for a while. Perhaps 1811 don't count but it has three 1's in it just the same.

ALREADY the first term of this school year has slipped quickly by, and we are now asked to show what we have gained by the past four month's work. The time allowed has been considerably shortened, but by extra effort the prescribed amount of study has been accomplished. Each one must answer to himself as to whether he might have done better. To the members of the ninth grade the novelty has worn off, leaving them prepared to sail in with a will.

The classes in physiology, trigonometry and turning have completed those branches. In their places, zoology, solid geometry and wood carving will claim attention next term. Advanced physics will also be dropped.

The examinations this week will test the work in all branches of our curriculum. But there is one evil in connection with the present system. So much time is given to the scholar for "stuffing" that many poor scholars can get as high a mark as the best. It is to be hoped, however, that this thing will not be greatly indulged in at this school, as it may readily be seen that it works great injustice.

ONE THIRD of the year is gone and the seniors have not even organized yet. They must remember that they cannot be members of the twelfth grade forever. They have looked forward to the enjoyment of the present year ever since they entered the High School, but as yet have done nothing to show what their positions allow.

In most schools, the seniors organize immediately at the beginning of the school year; often every class, as soon as they enter the High School department. The selection of class emblems, colors and mottos should be made so as to give plenty of time for their use.

Seniors, make the most of it while the title "class of '88" remains. The recent entertainments have shown that there is talent enough in the school to get up a first-class exhibition by which money could be raised for a class banquet, ball or other class enterprise. The twelfth grade could do this with scarcely any aid from the other classes. For several years the graduating classes have had neither banquet, ball, party or pic-nic. The class of '88 might set the ball a-rolling and enjoy themselves while they can.

OTHER SCHOOLS.

The senior class of the Beatrice High School numbers twenty-two members.

The Peckskill Military Academy has adopted a new uniform for its pupils.

The scholars of the St. Paul High School have a toboggan club.

Grand Rapids, Michigan, wants a single session system for the High School department.

There are four Colleges in the United States that support daily papers. They are: Harvard, Yale, Cornell and Princeton.

In the High School of Dedham, Mass., the experiment is being made of using newspapers instead of text-books in the reading class.

The Indian training school at Carlisle, Pa., recently sent west a large number who had finished the course at that institution.

The Boys at Bellevue College are organizing an athletic association after the fashion of our school.

The State University has a uniformed band. There is a drum major attached to it.

The Colorado Springs school has a fair sized herbarium. It contains over two hundred specimens about half of which were collected in the locality surrounding them.

The Dayton, Ohio, boys, engage in a sport which would be novel here. They recently had a hare and hound race. A gold medal being offered to the hound who first caught one of the hares. The latter had fifteen minutes start and all reached the goal in safety so that the prize was not awarded.

The senior chemistry class at Springfield Ill., twenty-seven in number, tips the scales at 3460 pounds. The average weight is a little over 128 pounds.

During the first few days in December, the alumni of the St. Paul High School gave three performances of the play, Esmeralda, for the benefit of the Library fund. The hall was filled and quite a sum realized.

The Washington, D. C. manual training school instructs its pupils in the working of wood and metal and also in kitchen work.

All the public and private schools in this city close during the holidays for periods varying from one to two weeks.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Smith College,
Northampton, Massachusetts.

DECEMBER 11th, 1887.

Of course there must be ever so many things here in which the readers of your paper would be interested if only I could be so fortunate or so clever as to write of them.

The college grounds are not extensive but very pretty, with beautiful stretches of lawn, just the place for tennis and the most delightful fruit-trees free for all.

There are ten or eleven buildings five of which are houses in which some hundred and sixty students have their homes. The other two hundred and ten members of the college board in Northampton or have their homes in the neighboring towns.

Each house has a matron who expects to be notified if a student goes out after tea or intends to be absent from a meal. The only things required of us are that we be present at recitations and at the gymnastic exercises. Sundays we have to ourselves, the only religious exercise connected with the college being morning chapel on week-days.

But there is one real bonafide rule. Lights must be out at ten.

However my letter has already been longer than I intended so I shall write you some other time about our rules.

Yours sincerely,

Jennie M. Wallace.

THE FAN DRILL. ADVERTISEMENT

In the Auditorium of the High School this day, being Thursday the 15th of DECEMBER, will be presented

A QUEEN ANNE EXHIBITION of Eight Parts, among which will be performed the celebrated FAN DRILL by ten Veritable Dames of the Queen Anne Time; also Entertainments of MUSICK Interspersed by most agreeable Singers and Players. To commence at QUARTER PAST TWO, so that all may be done by Four a clock.

PROGRAMME

1. Chorus { a. See How Lightly, Donizetti
b. Sweet and Low, . . . Barnby
2. Essay: The Period, . . . Lena Byrne.
3. Class Exercises: Anecdotes and Remarks on Social Life, . . . . .
4. Vocal Solo: The Kerry Dance, . . . . .
Rose Brady.
5. The Rape of the Lock, Adda Robinson.
6. Violin Solo; Cavatina, Herbert Rogers.
7. Essay; Mr. Alexander Pope's Tea Party, . . . . . Nettie Wood.
8. The Skipper, . . . . . Jude.

11. Essay: Women of the Time, . . . . .
Mary Sherwood.
12. Sunset, . . . . . Buck.
Leo G. Kratz.
13. Fan Drill, . . . . .

The above programme shows in itself the nature of the entertainment which it announces. The whole passed off very smoothly and was well received; especially numbers 4 and 8 which were loudly applauded. Messrs Kratz and Rogers both responded with an additional piece. The only drawback was the length of some of the essays.

Of course the fan drill was the main attraction and it was gone through by the ladies with military precision. They were very prettily attired in dresses of the Queen Anne style; their faces covered with powder and black court plaster cut into fancy shapes while a high white cap was placed above the powdered hair. The young ladies taking part were: Misses Gundie Coburn, Carrie Detweiler, Ida Boyce, Jennie Young, Lizzie Morrill, Alice Brown, Neva Turner, Jessie Parsell, May Wallace, and Anna Witman. Mr. Howard Clarke acted as captain.

The hall was entirely filled and many standing. It was decorated with evergreens and above the platform on each side was a large fan, emblematic of the entertainment. The whole formed an enjoyable afternoon.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Blake, was compelled to be absent the first part of this month on account of sickness in his family.

Miss Sallie McClintock has been absent from school on account of illness. Her friends will be glad to learn that she has now recovered and intends to return after the holidays.

Mr. Sidney Bovingdon, representing Cinn and Company, was shown through the school on the fifth.

Mrs. Weinlagen has entirely recovered from the injuries received in her fall just before Thanksgiving.

Scott Van Ettet, has quit school in order to have an operation performed on his eyes. He has many good wishes for a successful result.

Miss Mabel Fonda, one of the High School's old favorites made her first appearance before the Omaha public at the Grand on Thanksgiving evening. Miss Fonda appeared three times during the performance and was heartily applauded on each appearance.

Miss Dorn, '87 is now teaching at the Pacific school in this City.

Stuart Shears, is again at home. Last week, he showed himself at school for a short time.

Bert Wheeler, was in the city to spend Thanksgiving and will soon be here for the holidays. He is well satisfied with the State University and says that it ought to be patronized more by scholars from the High School.

It is announced that Harry Moores is to be appointed assistant ticket agent for the Wabash.

THE MINSTRELS.

As a novelty for a school entertainment the recent minstrel show takes the lead. Over four hundred people crowded into the auditorium last Friday to witness the burnt cork show given by the boys of the High School.

The following programme shows who participated in it.

PAN DRILL.

Mr. Bowlossy Cur Raffey,
Author of Play.

Mr. Howard Clarke,
Director of Ballett.

The audience greatly enjoyed the en-

tainment and evinced their approval by frequent applause and laughter. The burlesque at the end was especially funny and the efforts of the boys were well appreciated.

ATHLETICS.

It was thought when the REGISTER was last issued that all base-ball was over for the season but the Belleuve College Star in its November number came out with an interesting account of the last game between the College and High School nines. After a complete account of the first part of the game in which they made all their runs they say that "Higgins a High School boy, per occasionem" was put in the box. This charge was made while the game was in progress that he was not attending the school and it was emphatically denied by all, but the writer of that article reiterated the charge without attempting to ascertain whether it was true or false. It is supposed that he is still laboring under the excitement of the game. He then closed by saying that the game was declared drawn to be finished at some future date, weather permitting. The game was really given to the High School nine as the number of innings agreed upon had been played with the exception of one-half innings due the winners.

Coasting and skating are in order, as soon as the weather permits.

MILITARY.

Who broke the panel in the armory door?

"Wait until the bugle blows."

Wanted:—Some strong men to carry off the dead at the next sham battle. None other need apply.

A new way to load a gun: Lay it on the ground and load with one hand in your pocket. This is the sham battle method.

LITERATURE OF THE DAY—SECOND PAPER.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

One of the best known writers of current literature is Ella Wheeler Wilcox. Her poems as well as her prose work are read with great interest while she is so often sought for advice that articles written by her upon fashion, occupations of women etc., often appear in the newspapers of the land.

She is a native of Wisconsin and as she is now some thirty odd years of age, her home was in what was then a frontier state and her childhood was spent on a Western prairie; She had no friends who could help her in attaining fame, but through her own efforts she claimed the attention of critics before she was eighteen years old. Her first works were published in the New York Mercury, under non-de-plumes, when she was but fourteen years of age, but this same paper refused her first poems, at the same time offering some very sarcastic suggestions. Her first money was sent by Frank Leslie, and soon after she was able to furnish her parents with a comfortable home. She was always charitable, and one of the hardest lessons she had to learn was that of investigating the worthiness of an object before giving to it. The Waverly Magazine first presented the name, Ella Wheeler, to the public. From that time on she has been steadily and surely attaining success. Though her works have called forth the harshest censure, she has never become discouraged but has patiently read through each criticism. She has never asked for help.

Taking her works in order of their publication, a little book on temperance, called "Drops of Water" appears first. Owing to the nature of the subject as well as its literary value, this has occasioned much comment, both praise and abuse. "Schells" is a little work now out of print, which was soon followed by "Maurinne." The latter is considered by many to be decidedly her best production.

Three years later the "Poems of Passion" created such a sensation that a friend advised her to suppress the work. She would not heed, however, and newspapers contained many articles of comment. But she was helped to read the criticism by the coins which poured in. The only novel which she has published since her marriage with cultivated Mr. Wilcox, is "Mal Mouille," which is said to be too far advanced for the people of these times to appreciate. It has been said of this work that "many a sermon will have to be preached to cover the ground 'Mal Mouille' does." Mrs. Wilcox's writings have greatly improved since her constant association with one of the ablest critics of the day.

She had many faults, most of which she has overcome, but she still has a quick temper which, however, is not aroused without just cause. She is deeply religious, and, while she seldom attends church and does not tolerate creed, she has strong faith in prayer. She is truthful, sincere, and very frank. It is said that in her native state they admire her for her beautiful character more than for her literary production.

NOTES.

Examination.
Merry Christmas.
Do you feel shaky.

The door of the boys dressing room has been locked of late. This knocks the boys out of a place in which to congregate.

The works and apparatus for the new clock have arrived. The workmen have begun to put it in place.

The school authorities will soon open a night school in this city.

Bids have been received for putting four electric lights on the High School grounds that would illuminate them nicely and drive away the toughs and footpads who assemble there at night.

"What a pretty tie Rusty has on." This was the exclamation that greeted every boy that entered the eleventh grade room one day about two weeks ago. And the next thing each boy did was to wipe the water off his face.

Pease Bros., Hatters.

The Board of Education has ordered a supply of moulding boards and wood-carving too's for next terms manual training work.

One of the teachers in the grades on the first floor is trying to teach her pupils how to swing Indian clubs.

The daily papers are making quite a fuss over the lack of fire escapes on our building. It certainly ought to be attended to but the reporters down town, may feel uneasy while the scholars never think of fire.

Calling Cards in all styles, printed at the Excelsior office, 113 S. 16th Street.

Why do some boys desire fresh air the most when the thermometer in the room registers about sixty degrees? Whatever the reason, they are careful to open the windows when the teachers are not about.

A peice of sidewalk that lay just south of the east entrance, has disappeared.

Thanksgiving passed off very quietly. Perhaps the feature of the day was the turkey-dinner given the newsboys by Hellman. Our boys held a meeting in the hall of the second floor, on the Monday after, and unanimously decided to meet again next Thanksgiving at the corner of 13th and Farnam in order to get a turkey-dinner; that is, provided Mr. Hellman is willing.

All geology pupils should learn the meaning of the word "evidence."

Ask Andy how he enjoyed his Thanksgiving dinner at Hellman's.

One of the senior young ladies thinks that a certain young gentleman needs a pair of mittens so that he may relieve his pockets once in a while. It is suggested that she knit him a pair and present them as a Christmas present.

Go to Pease Bros, for all kinds of warm caps and gloyes.

The girls who were requested to depart from the tenth grade room on account of the embarrassment of the practicing minstrels, think that they have been deeply offended.

Silk suspenders at Pease Bros.

Of late, the boys have been having sham battles at recess and noon, using, as weapons, elastic bands and paper wads. Those who were caught had to pick up the paper as a punishment.

Parisian novelties and dainty books for presents. Chase & Eddy, 113 S. 16th St.

There is some amusing information written on the blackboard of the German recitation room. It consists of English written in German letters.

It is the opinion of one of our scholars that the verb meaning "to be loved" signifies motion. We always knew it had a powerful attraction.

ATTENTION SCHOLARS.

If you want to buy presents for Christmas go to Edholm & Akin's, opp. P. O.

EXCHANGES.

We would like to inform the Hesperian that, though our space is limited, the matter published consists of school news. The REGISTER aims at quality not quantity. We are publishing a school journal and not a literary cyclopedia in installments.

The new cover of the Christmas number of the High School World is well gotten up and equal in design to the standard of its contents. We beg leaveto remind the artist (in the form of advice, not criticism,) that she forgot a place for the name of the month.

The High School Times of Dayton, Ohio, is publishing a series of "Sketches Here and There" which are quite interesting.

The Bellevue College Star is at hand. It was rather late in making its initial appearance this year.

Handsome Neckwear suitable for gifts, at Pease Bros.

THE NEW RINK.

The new ice skating rink on 23d and Harney will be opened on Monday, Dec. 19. The rink is admirably located, being but one block from the Farnam, St. Mary's Ave. and cable street car lines. The tent of which the roof is formed is up and makes the place cosy and attractive.

The building at the west side of the rink is neat and comfortable and contains an office, skate room, refreshment room, and ladies' and gentlemen's dressing rooms.

A band of twenty pieces will be in attendance and a stand has been erected in the centre for their use. The place will be lighted with electric lights.

It will thus be seen that the management propose to have everything contribute to the pleasure and comfort of those who seek to enjoy themselves in the healthy recreation of skating.

As the scholars of this school will undoubtedly form a large percent of the rink's patrons, they will probably be interested in all items from it, and so the REGISTER proposes to keep them posted with regard to it. Those who attend on the opening night will see the gayest skating party that has ever taken place in Omaha.

Those who have no skates need not stay away on that account as they can get them at the skate room.
