Editorial.

WE TAKE GREAT PLEASURE in presenting to the public the fourth REGISTER ANNUAL. The popular criticism seems to be that an ANNUAL is so much like the preceding ones. It should not be judged from this standpoint, because it is simply a compilation of the histories of the various school organizations which do not change very much. New ideas have been added this year and nothing has been spared to make this issue a truly representative paper and we sincerely hope that any faults which may be found will be excused and the paper judged as a whole.

SCHOOL SPIRIT, that factor of school life without which a school would be dead, has been aroused to a seemingly unlimited extent. Old literary and debating societies have been reorganized, new ones have been formed, a banjo club organized, the Athletic Association remodeled and thoroughly renovated, class organizations improved, all these tend toward one great end—the uplifting of the purple and white, the advancement of the Omaha High School. Our boys have made a splendid record on the gridiron, the D. D. S. has won the first debate of the state championship series and everything seems to indicate that this year will surpass all others in enterprising spirit and enthusiastic co-operation. Let us strive to maintain this high standard already set and finish up with a most glorious end of a most glorious year.

ALLAN B. HAMILTON, '01
Editor-in-Chief.
(Captain Company B)

WE WISH TO THANK the school for the hearty support given us in our attempt to make the REGISTER a model school paper and a thorough representative of the school. Numerous contributions have been handed in and most of them published. But some have been merely thoughtless "scribbles," which do not deserve the name of literature, as they possess no literary value whatever. These have been cast aside because they are utterly useless. What we need is first-class literature. Some of the stories and sketches could be wonderfully improved if a little more time was spent in their preparation. Some possess a great amount of literary aptitude and would be far above the average if more attention was paid to detail. There are many good, even brilliant writers in the school and these, with others, are sometimes heard to complain of the literary department of the REGISTER. They do not see how they could be of any use in bringing up the standard. Do not wait to be asked to write a story, but do so at your own option. We wish to thank all those who have contributed to the REGISTER. We wish to thank Mr. Waterhouse and the other members of the faculty for their kindly interest and valuable support. We wish also to thank those artists who have drawn for us, Miss Marion Reed and Miles Greenleaf; and Leslie Hicks, whose works have not yet been published. We thank all these people again, and hope that the same spirit will be shown us till the end of this school year and to our successors afterward.

RAY E. DUMONT, '01,
Business Manager
(President Cadet Officers' Club)

WE CANNOT FAIL to recognize that great changes have been made since Mr. Waterhouse has been principal. He found us without the highest ideals in the line of scholarship. We were without debating or literary societies. Athletics were at the lowest ebb. At once he set out to work up a loyal school spirit. He said, "Primarily we are here for study." Proceeding on this basis great and sweeping changes had to be made, which in the first place caused some personal grievances, because the students did not thoroughly understand the issue at stake. Scholarship was then made of chief importance. Who will say now that the Battalion was ever in better condition than it is today, or that we ever had a better football team than today, or that we ever had a better Athletic Association than we have today? The Football team once played to an empty grandstand—it now plays to thousands. Mr. Waterhouse is always willing to help, to advise, and to assist the pupils. His desire to know the pupils, his interest in every pupil, is in a large measure the cause of the great change. Mr. Waterhouse is known throughout the state as a progressive educator.

THE REGISTER was greatly honored the other day by being placed under the corner stone of the new High School building. It was another proof of the oft repeated saying, "The REGISTER is one of the best High School journals in the United States." We do not desire to be egotistical, but where could our readers find a better school journal than the REGISTER. The REGISTER employs its own artists who make its designs from purely original sources. We call attention to the cuts that have appeared from time to time in its columns as a proof of this. If in the distant ages these Registers come to view, the people will know that the students of former days had pluck and energy enough to edit and publish their own school paper.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON is over, our first debate is a thing of the past, social events are but pleasant prospects and so we are left to concentrate our time and abilities on studies and drill. The new plan which we were forced to adopt this year, of drilling three times a week when the weather permits and not at all when it cannot be out of doors, has so far been very successful, because of the excellent weather this fall. In general the boys are doing good work. For some reason, though, there does not seem to be as much rivalry between the companies as there was in previous years. This spirit of rivalry gives to the boys a company interest and pride which goes far to improve military efficiency. So far there does not seem to be much difference in progress, every company has an equal chance for the flag, and it lies almost wholly with the men as to whether or not they will make themselves the heroes and drink soda on "Cap." The companies are far better than they were at this time in previous years, and if the winter "lay off" does not materially alter conditions the averages of '00 will be so high the judges will have to figure them out on the scale of 1,000.

Everything comes to him who waits." So says an old adage, but don't you believe it. Everything comes to him who hustles and don't you forget it. The man who waits gets left, but the man who hustles gets there. If you expect anybody to hand you a soft snap on a silver platter you will be disappointed. Snaps are like public offices—there are not enough of them to go around.—Ex.

CLASS COLORS—Green and White.

Green and White,
Green and White,
High School Seniors—
We're all right.

Class of 1901.

Strange to say, we began as freshmen. Our first year was spent in study and getting acquainted. We had no organization and consequently no officers, except class editors. Allan Hamilton and Hope Hanchett.

The Sophomore year was a gala year for our class. We had every advantage for making this class a record-breaker, and we did so. We chose the following officers: President, Campbel Fair; vice president, Florence Jordan; secretary, Allan Hamilton; treasurer, Anna Carter. We were especially fortunate in our choice of president. Although of no great stature, his size did not detract in the least from his ability, and under his management the class won the fame which it has held to this day. Excellent programs were given, besides the great mock senate and the Sophomore play. The president's choice of the cast for this play is as commendable as were all his acts. The leading lights were Nell Painter, Lillian Boyd, Edna Hardy, Percy Powell, Kenneth Russell, Campbel Fair, Arthur Schreiber and Lee Hake.

The play was a great success, and Mr. Fair is to be congratulated, since it was the first event of the kind given by our class.

In the mock senate the boys who have since become famous all over the state, as debaters, made their start. Those especially noticed were Arthur Jorgensen, Harry Reed, Burdette Lewis and Warren Hillis.

We must not pass by the great Sophomore-Junior debate. Impelled by its desire for victory and by their confidence in themselves this class challenged the Junior class to joint debate. The challenge was accepted and the Juniors sent Charles Pritchard and James Godfrey to defend their laurels. Our class chose Arthur Jorgensen and Harry Reed to go against them. Enthusiasm was at its height. Room 43 was crowded to the doors, with anxious Juniors, Seniors, Sophomores and even Freshmen. The battle was hot and fierce. In Mr. Pritchard our boys had an opponent renowned for his ability as a debater and they should and did receive the highest praise for coming off victorious. This was a great day for our class. We had won the day and were now the greatest class in the High School. Seeing what a failure the Junior class had made against the Sophs., the Seniors wisely kept out of our reach.

With the end of the Sophomore year went our president, and, although he has not been with us since, his memory lives and he has a warm place in the heart of every member of the class.

We now go one step higher and reach the Junior year, where our reputation was not only upheld, but strengthened. The class should be congratulated in its choice of the following officers: President, Arthur Jorgensen; vice president, Anna Carter; secretary, Arthur Schreiber; treasurer, Nell Carey.

Our debating talent was transferred to the D. D. S. and we had very little chance to increase our greatness in debating as a class, but it is enough to say that in all debates throughout the state the Junior class was the best represented, as four of the five members chosen were usually Juniors.

In choosing a president for the Junior year the class manifested its usual wisdom. Mr. Jorgensen proved himself to be a splendid executive officer and manager. Under his guidance was given the Junior social and Junior play. The hop was a decided success, and far eclipsed the one given by the Seniors. The Junior class won its fame along the theatrical line in "The Ghostly Strategy," which was pronounced unexcelled by anything yet given except the Senior play, "Tulu," of the previous year. Those who took part in this play were Anna Carter, Florence Jordan, Nell Carey, Percy Powell, Arthur Jorgensen, Dwight Cramer and Arthur Schreiber. Miss Carter and Mr. Powell were exceptionally fine, although the whole cast was one of which we can well feel proud. The Junior play was the last play given in the Omaha High School.

To tell of the numerous other achievements of the class would be out of the question, so we pass them by, lingering long enough to thank Miss Adams, who held the position of class teacher for two successive years, and who helped to make the class of 1901 the great class that it is.

And now we are taking the last steps of our praiseworthy career. Each one who has kept pace with our class in scholarship may now be proud that he is a Senior and especially so since he may hold that title as a member of 1901. Although we never question the reputation of our class this year, still we feel that there are some obstacles with which we must contend, and which have never before confronted a Senior class. The greatest one of these is the new arrangement of having classes until 4 o'clock, thus preventing meetings until that time. But even their hindrance is not insurmountable when opposed by the spirit genius and scholarship of the members of the class of 1901.

The first meeting of this year was indeed a spirited one, as election of officers was the task before us. The principal candidates for president were Mr. Arthur Schreiber, and Mr. Burdette Lewis. It was thought by all that the contest would be close, but the ballots showed a "landslide" for Mr. Schreiber. Under the able guidance of our new president a musicale has been successfully given and all are now waiting anxiously for the "hop" which will probably be given during the Christmas vacation. We are nearing the goal of our High School career and when we take our parting will anyone doubt but that the class of 1901 was the most illustrious class of all those that have unfolded their wisdom in the classic rooms of the Omaha High School.

Class of 1902.

On September 19, 1898, the class of 1902 entered the classic halls of the Omaha High School, and with becoming awe ascended the several flights of steps to the Freshman study room. This class, bound to be behindhand in nothing, elected officers and organized the first year. Frank Coatsworth was the first president, who, by his fine executive ability and firm will, brought the class safely through the many trials and tribulations which of necessity attend a Freshman organization.

The next year the class was under the leadership of Arthur Kenney, the famous Irish comedian. During this year many interesting programs were given and the class developed into a closely knit organization. Frank Coatsworth again came to the front this year by attaining places on all the Demosthenian debates.

Now we have brought this illustrious class up to its Junior year; what will happen next, the misty future will reveal and until then we must wait with breathless expectation. With the present officers in charge there is no doubt but that 1902 will break the record made in previous years.

Class of 1903.

In the first year our class numbered about seven hundred pupils. As we were not well enough acquainted, it was thought best by all not to organize that year, and so we were represented only by our class editors, Catherine Pritchard and Leslie McDiarmid. Nothing noteworthy was done by the class then, though several of our members distinguished themselves in athletics and various other ways.

As soon as school opened this year, class organization was talked of, and a little later on Miss Florence McHugh called a meeting for that purpose. This meeting resulted in the election of John Dumont, president; Madalene Hillis, vice president; Earnest Kelly, secretary; Bernice Carson, treasurer. Another meeting was held later on in which a constitution was adopted and Miss McHugh, Mr. Benedict and Mrs. Fleming were chosen as class teachers. This fall many of our members distinguished themselves on the football field and others along literary lines, and if conditions point truly, there is a bright and glorious future before the class of '03."

Class of 1904.

On the seventeenth day of last September there was a great commotion in the High School building; but the newly made Sophomores went on in their usual dignified manner without turning their heads, and remarked, "Oh, that's nothing but the Freshies falling up-stairs." However, in less than three weeks, these enterprising Freshmen had shown their literary tastes by forming the Alice Carey Literary Society for girls, and the Webster Debating Society for boys. No attempt has yet been made to organize the class. It will profit by the experiences of former classes, by waiting until they are better acquainted with each other's abilities.

The new boys have been highly complimented for their drilling, and they felt justly proud in their first parade at the laying of the corner-stone of the new High School building. We are well represented on the foot-ball team by E. Rostermund, who won great admiration by his good playing as left guard.

While we have not so far gotten our teachers rattled by the ready questioning of a phenomenal young philosopher or mathematician, we have a class fully up to the average of previous classes at the same age; and we must not forget that industry and honesty of all its members will make a more successful class than one which shines by the light of one or two bright young scholars, the remainder of them being of less than ordinary ability or industry. Let us then be industrious for the good of each, and for the good name of the class of 1904.

FRED THOMAS, '04.

D. D. S.

One of the first things that Mr. Waterhouse saw lacking in our High School when he became its principal was a debating society. The boys had heretofore shown their abilities in class meetings and he decided at once that a debating society would be most pleasant as well as an instructive organization. Foremost among the boys, Mr. B. G. Lewis assisted Mr. Waterhouse in his plan, and on October 2nd, 1899, a meeting of young men interested in debating was called in room 37. Mr. Waterhouse in one minute worked up the required enthusiasm. Mr. Lewis was elected temporary chairman, a constitution committee appointed and the society was nearly complete.

At its meeting the society adopted a constitution and elected officers. Mr. Lewis, whose name will ever have a star by it for the earnest, faithful work and many restless hours he spent in perfecting this infant organization, was almost unanimously elected president. The other officers were A. A. Kilkenney, vice-president; Warren S. Hillis, secretary, and Arthur Jorgensen, treasurer.

The history of the society's work was begun and perhaps occupies as enviable a position as that of any other debating club in the state today. In a preliminary debate, Warren S. Hillis and Frank Coatesworth were chosen to represent the High School at Lincoln, December 26th, on the Boer question. These two gentlemen were awarded highest honors at Lincoln by those who heard them.

Thus, the society's first attempt was a grand success. The next event is one that all will remember and needs no repetition here—the defeat of the Ciceroians of Lincoln, March 9th, by a D. D. S. team consisting of Warren S. Hillis, Arthur Jorgensen and B. G. Lewis. Then came the only blot on our history—our defeat, May 11th, by the Crabtrees of Beatrice. Our team in this case consisted of Arthur Jorgensen, B. G. Lewis and Frank Coatsworth, and we think our failure to win was due entirely to non-support from the school.

This year the prospects are brilliant. At the first meeting Mr. W. S. Hillis, who distinguished himself last year in debates, and who was a valuable assistant of the president in all his arduous labors, was elected president; Arthur Jorgensen, vice-president; Harry F. Reed, secretary, and William Coryell, treasurer. The constitution was changed so that officers are now elected semi-annually. A committee on debates was chosen as follows: B. G. Lewis, Arthur Jorgensen and Emil Conrad.

Mr. Hillis is largely responsible for the formation of the Crabtree-Demosthenian-Ciceronian League. A schedule of debates has been arranged.

The first debate of the series was held in Omaha, in which the Demosthenian team, composed of W. S. Hillis, Arthur Jorgensen and Harry Reed, defeated George Gregory, Robin Nickell and Roy Weaverling, the Beatrice team, by seventeen points. Harry Reed won first place. This indeed was a solace for a former defeat.

We will send two representatives to contest in the state debate. We will debate Lincoln on February 8th. This, with other debates, will keep the society busy for the whole year. We are going to follow our enthusiastic leader and president to victory. Few people outside the society fully understand what efforts it takes on the part of those having the responsibility upon them. But in Mr. Hillis we all know that we have a president who will spare no effort to make the Demosthenian society, organized but a year ago, the champion of the state. Three cheers for Hillis!

O. H. S. Banjo Club.

A banjo club has finally been organized in the High School. This club is composed of ten members who will represent the musical talent of the school in that line. An effort will be made to secure the services of Mr. Gillenbeck as teacher, who has played for the musicales and entertainments held in the school. After the members of the club have sufficient practice they will be prepared to play for the entertainments which will be held in the O. H. S. in the near future. Much is expected of this new club, as several of the members have already shown their ability as musicians. M. S. T.

C. T. C.

At the beginning of the second term in 1900, several enterprising Sophomore girls, not wishing to be outdone by the Juniors and Seniors, determined to organize a Sophomore literary society. Accordingly on February 6th the first meeting was held in room 37. A full attendance attested to the fact that the Sophomore girls were interested in the organization. Wishing to have a society entirely different from the Juniors and Seniors, we adopted the name, "Current Topic Club." Emma Schreiber was chosen president; Laura Congdon, vice-president; Mildred Slater, secretary; Zola Delleker, treasurer, and Miss Peterson was unanimously elected an honorary member. From that time programs were held nearly every two weeks, consisting of "current topics," music and recitations. As the club was young and inexperienced we decided not to hold any open meetings, but now that we are dignified Juniors we feel capable and probably will appear before the public soon.

Our colors were in evidence at the Officers' hop and all there probably remember that little pink and green corner. Whether it was the mirror or the dainty decorations which attracted attention of all, more especially of the boys, we could not decide.

Our first meeting this term was held November 28, "Literary Day." The officers for the ensuing year were chosen: Fay Towns, as president; Mary Stearns, vice-president; Bessie Moorhead, secretary; Marie Carter, treasurer. With such enterprising officers we hope to accomplish much in the future. E. S.

Early in November a number of bright girls of Sophomore dignity, met for the purpose of organizing a literary society. Of course its name must be a secret—thus would a delicious air of mystery attend its doings. Its purpose should be the best: to elevate its members in every way; to promote interest and skill in literary work; in short, to give the world, especially the High School world, something good. Incidentally, some good times will not be considered at all out of place. Plans for the future were discussed, and the following officers elected: President, Olive Carpenter; vice president, Mary Morgan; secretary, Louise Parmelee; treasurer, Esther Cochran; sergeant-at-arms, Julia Coburn.

A second enthusiastic business meeting followed on Wednesday, November 28. Silver gray and pink were chosen as society colors, and the constitution was read and adopted. It was decided that the society should be known as the "P. G. S."—not the Pretty Girls' Society.

Fifty-three girls signed the constitution, and promised secrecy, and whoever heard of a girl, especially a Sophomore girl, revealing a secret?

The P. G. S. is very happy in claiming Miss Ruth Phillippi as an honorary member and society teacher. A program committee was appointed and it is hoped that at the next meeting a good program will be presented. A winter of helpful and enjoyable times is confidently expected.

Webster Oratorical Society.

The Webster Oratorical Society was organized for the purpose of debating, by the boys of the class of 1904. The officers are: Mr. Durkee, president; Eugene Royce, vice president; Edward Bidwell, secretary; and George Wiedenfeld, treasurer.

The Webster Oratorical Society met November 28. Mr. D. Martin was elected sergeant-at-arms, and a committee consisting of Messrs. French, Williamson and Allen was appointed to select colors for the club. The REGISTER was made the official paper of the Society.

Alice Carey Society.

On November 14, 1900, the girls of the ninth grade met to form a literary society. Elizabeth Congdon acted as temporary chairman, and Eloise Hillis as temporary secretary. The officers elected for the year are: Marion Hughes, president; Lizzie Kiewit, vice-president; Florence Mason, secretary, and Bessie Knapp, treasurer. Such is the history, in brief, of this new society. Nothing, as yet, has been done, but in the near future we expect to hear much from them.

Attention is again called to the fact that copy must be neatly written on one side of the paper only and on sheets of uniform size. No poorly written manuscripts will be accepted.

Amaranth Society.

The history of the Amaranth Society has none of the mazes and intricacies which are characteristic of other great histories written in years gone by, but instead this society has but one aim or object to guide its future actions, and by which it will no doubt become one of the greatest as well as most influential societies of the High School.

Not long ago the Senior and Junior classes in congress assembled, formed a joint literary society to be composed of members from the two upper classes. This was all done under the suggestion of Mr. Waterhouse, who wished to have in the High School some society with broader ideas than those of a class organization. Heretofore when classes have graduated their organization has also departed, but now this narrow idea is no longer dominant in the Amaranth Society, because when the Seniors graduate the Juniors will be left each year to take up and promote the work of the society.

At present a committee is at work getting up a program which will soon be given. Much will be expected, as material may be taken from both classes and we have reason to expect that no one will be disappointed.

Senior Social.

On Friday evening, December 28, the Seniors will hold their first social. The president has appointed the following social committee, who are busily engaged in making arrangements: Fred Naughton, Harry Reed, Dwight Cramer, Anna Carter and Lorraine Comstock. The hall and parlors of the Metropolitan Club have been secured, and the decorations, which are now being prepared, will make it a beautiful place for a hop. Mr. Dimnick will be on hand with his splendid orchestra and everyone is anticipating an enjoyable evening.

Sam Rees, '00, has been elected treasurer of the class of 1904 at the University.

Lillian Robison, '00, and Hortense Clarke, '00, have joined the Delta Gamma's of Lincoln.

James Godfrey, '00, is attending Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia. He will be home for the holidays soon.

1900. Don't forget the class reunion on Thursday evening, December 27. Please let the secretary know as soon as possible whether or not you will be able to come, so that plans for entertainment may be made.

The class of '96 will hold its fifth annual reunion at the home of its president, Miss Stella Heustis, 1819 Binney street, on Friday evening, December 28th. The class of '96 was the first class to form a permanent organization. They have held a class meeting every year since they graduated and they have proven quite a success. The circle has grown smaller each year, but those who are left enjoy getting together and talking over old times and finding out what has become of the other members of the class. Often those who can not be there write letters to be read at the meeting, thus keeping in touch with their class-mates. It might be well for other classes to follow their good example.

K. A. K.

The K. A. K. was delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Amy Cooper on Friday evening, November 30. This club has developed into a most enjoyable social club, and nothing is spared by the members to increase the enjoyment.

The sixth meeting was held at Miss Alice Towne's on Friday evening, December 14. Every moment was enjoyed to the utmost any everyone left with the feeling that such evenings of pleasure are very rare.

As we view the brilliant social achievements of the past the Cadet Officers' Club is seen a thorough success. Since the year of its birth, 1894, musicales and hops have been held which deserve a place on history's pages. United and constant effort always meets with success. The club is composed of officers, who, although they are the keenest of rivals for military honors, unite as one for the interests of this organization. The first president for 1894 was Capt. Connell. As it may be seen from the splendid records of the club, no president since organization, has lacked ability and efficiency. With Mr. Dumont, the president of 1900, we all look forward to an unusually bright social season. The two principal entertainments of the club are the musicale and the hop. The musicale which precedes the hop, takes place on January 18, the prime of the social season, while with the hop the crowning event of the season, in April, the curtain falls on the society. The first hop was held in the well-trod halls of the High School building and the three last hops in the decorated halls of the Millard hotel. Each of these entertainments deserve mention for the excellence of music, the beauty of the hall and the gayety of the participants. But as Kipling says, that is another story. The work of the club has now assumed a wider range. In addition to the social functions the business of the battalion is transacted, the discipline of the respective companies considered, and military tactics are discussed. After considering the events of the past, resplendent visions of the future arise to add glory to the name of this club.

HERMAN K. LEHMER.

Company A.

Captain—Herman K. Lehmer.

First Lieutenant—Byron O. Pickard.

Second Lieutenant—Webster Sutherland.

In 1894 "A" began its career as a company organization under the command of Ralph Connell. By excellent work the flag was captured by this illustrious company. "A's" next leader was Joel Stebbins. Following him came Holmes, an excellent tactician, a good disciplinarian, and a captain who bore himself with great military dignity. Then under Clarke "A" again won the flag. Underwood was the next proud commander of this splendid company, but as he left school before the end of the year, Wherry was selected to occupy that place of honor, and although he did not win the flag, he worked the company into such fine condition as to win the admiration of all. The next year "A" was again placed at a disadvantage by having two captains. The first, James Godfrey, and the second, Irving Slater. The company was again doomed to be disappointed, and let "B" take first place.

This year under their able and efficient captain, "A" is going to show the other companies what they can do, and are bound to carry away from "compel" that silken emblem.

Company B.

Captain—Allan B. Hamilton.

First Lieutenant—Herbert Bay.

Second Lieutenant—William Coryell.

The first captain of Company B was George Purvis, a captain of rare military ability. Under his discipline the company attained a high standard and made a good showing at "compel."

Collett was the second captain of this splendid company, and, although he worked hard and faithfully, he was greatly disappointed at the outcome. Next came Sumner, a good leader, but he also was sadly disappointed and "B" company had to take a back seat.

Under the magnificent leadership of Robison, "B" company was drilled into excellent shape and everyone thought he had the flag "cinched." But again they were doomed to fall back and let another company take first place. It was in this year that the company obtained rifles and equipments.

Next came Alvison, senior captain. Possessing great military ability and tactical knowledge, he strove to raise the standard of drilling to the highest possible degree, and although "B" company did not win the flag that year, it was the finest looking company ever seen in the Battalion. At the annual competitive drill in June, 1900, "B" company won the flag, under the leadership of Walters. This is the first time the colors have been in possession of Company "B," and every effort is being made this year to follow the example set in the previous year, and to make this company second to none. Hurrah for the "Blue and White!"

No remarks are necessary when the names of the present officers are heard, for they have all shown their ability as officers.

Company C.

Captain—Harry P. Reed.

First-Lieutenant—John Holmes.

Second Lieutenant—Ralph Christie.

Company "C" was first organized in '94, with Captain Egbert at its head. At the competitive drill Lieutenant Merritt took charge of the company in the absence of Egbert, and captured second place.

But '95 was the glorious year for company "C." It literally wiped the earth with its opponents. Sergeant Bowen got "dibbies" on the medal, the company carried off the flag and A, B, and D were forced to look on in open-mouthed wonder.

Captain Wigton led the company through its third year and at the end it was clearly shown that "C" was still among the foremost. Second place was secured, and private Norton established "C's" monopoly on the medal.

In '97 under Captain Potter, rifles were obtained, and the company assumed a more warlike aspect, but "compet" showed that "C" had slightly degenerated.

In the year 1898 Newton Buckley was selected as captain for this notable company. He was well liked by all and under him the company made great progress. But on the night of the competitive drill it was sadly disappointed when the last place was secured.

The next year George Canfield took the company in hand and through his strict discipline and with the assistance of Ray Dumont and Albert Randall as lieutenants it captured second place in the competitive drill, although composed of the smallest men in the battalion.

This year the men are even smaller than before, but as "Choice goods come in small packages," the company commanded by Harry Reed, who is rapidly getting them into fighting trim, will surely carry the flag next year or know the reason why.

Company D.

Captain—Warren S. Hillis.

First Lieutenant—Arthur Kelkenney.

Second Lieutenant—Harry Kelly.

Boom-a-la-ka, boom-a-la-ka, bow, wow, wow,

Ching-a-la-ka, ching-a-la-ka, chow, chow, chow;

Boom-a-la-ka, ching-a-la-ka, H. S. C.,

We are the people of Company "D."

Anyone who has heard a crowd of boys in cadet uniform shouting this yell, would have found, by inquiry, that they had two principal characteristics: First, as indicated by their yelling, they belonged to "D" Company; and, second, as indicated by the history of the Battalion, they belonged to "de" company.

For the first two years of its existence "D" Company was entrusted to Capt. Samuel Burns, and Capt. Ray Wagner, respectively, who, though they worked hard, were disappointed at the competitive drills.

During the third year, under the command of Capt. George Morton, the flag was awarded to our company, it having handsomely beaten the other companies at the annual drill.

When Capt. Frank Manchester took charge in the autumn of 1897, guns were loaned to the company by the government. The company, thus improved, had fine prospects, but were beaten by a small margin at the end of the year. However, the effects of the defeat were somewhat lessened when Sergeant Whittey carried off the medal.

The next in order was Capt. Russell Harris. No one can forget the work of himself and officers, for, when the government reclaimed the company's guns for use in the war, Harris and his officers, by hard work, succeeded in obtaining full equipment for the company. A decided change was now manifested in the drill. Hitherto the boys had taken no interest in drill and only attended because they honored Capt. Harris, but now they "braced up." So it came about that, although the other companies had guns all year, and were bragging about what they would do to "D" in June, Capt. Harris drilled the company so well that they captured the flag, notwithstanding the fact that they had no guns until March 25, 1899. Hurrah for Harris!!

Next came Capt. Paul Robinson, an officer well liked by his men, and one who worked hard for his company. Although the company was put in fine condition by his efforts, the flag was lost to "B" Company by a few points on account of the over-confidence of the men.

This year we are under the command of Senior Capt. Warren S. Hillis. His qualities both as officer and student are too well known by all to need mention here.

The prospects this year for "D," with a fine captain and an intelligent set of men, are the best on record. "A word to the wise sufficient," so, deeming all High School students to be so, we say to them and to others, "Place your bets on "D" at the seventh annual drill!"

This year we have started on our course with bright prospects under the command of one of the finest officers that has ever held a captaincy in the High School Cadet Battalion, the boys are in good condition and are steadily improving. Thus we expect to give the other companies a little surprise when we appear on the field "that eventful night."

Company E.

Captain—Dwight Cramer.

First Lieutenant—Ernest Johnson.

Second Lieutenant—Arthur Jaynes.

Company "E" is no longer the largest company in the Battalion. At the beginning of last year it was decided best to form another company, and so "E" was reduced to one-half its former size and the new acquisition to the Battalion was called "G" Company.

Great interest is taken in the drill this year and the boys of the company are beginning to show that they can drill and resent the "slams" given them by members of the other companies who think that nothing good can come from this quarter.

During the first part of the year the company was without officers, as those loyal gentlemen were supporting the honor of the O. H. S. on the gridiron. Officers from the staff or from other companies took charge of "E," and developed it into the fine-looking company it now is. Under the command of Captain Cramer we expect to see "E" the best drilled company in the Battalion.

DWIGHT CRAMER.

Company F.

Captain—Arthur Jorgensen.

First Lieutenant—Lawrence Sidwell.

Second Lieutenant—Arthur Wilhelmy.

At the opening of the school year in 1899 it was deemed necessary on account of the great increase of men, to form a new company, and on October 17 the official order making Company "F" the new uniformed company was read. Gay Hardy was appointed Captain. This proved to be a wise choice, as he filled the position as no one else could have done. Willard Lampe was appointed first lieutenant, and William Stephenson, second lieutenant.

Equipments were very much in demand, and they were conspicuous only by their absence. It was nearly a month after the formation of the company that the "non-coms" were appointed and then it was that drilling commenced in earnest. Shortly after, through the earnest and continued efforts of the officers, the company was equipped; then how proud the members were, and how hard they drilled!

When First Lieutenant Lampe left school, Second Lieutenant Stephenson was appointed to fill his place and First Sergeant Reed was promoted to second lieutenant. Later on Stephenson left school and Arthur Jorgensen of Company "D" was promoted to fill his place. It was in this capacity that Jorgensen became the well-drilled man that he now is.

Company "F." can justly claim men, who have shown that the manual is in their control. Ralph Badger having won first place and L. T. Sidwell second place in last competitive drill.

CHANNING PARKER.

Company G.

Captain—Channing Parker.

First Lieutenant—Emil Conrad.

Second Lieutenant—Roy Waring.

Company "G." one of the two ununiformed companies of the Battalion, was organized last year, because of the overcrowded condition of Company "E." Its first commissioned officers were Harry Higgins, captain; Kirschbaum and Lehmer, first and second lieutenants, under whose command the company soon turned out to be one of the best drilled companies in the Battalion.

This year the prospects are exceedingly good, as there are about forty-five boys enrolled, and each boy is taking hold of the drill with an enthusiastic and determined resolve to make their company the equal of any of the other companies, and the result thus far shows that the boys are making good their resolve.

The company this year is ably led by Chan Parker, who is taking a great interest in the drill and who is very popular with his officers and men.

The non-commissioned officers, too, are the best to be found in the school. The company was indeed fortunate in securing for third corporal a boy of great military prowess and large experience, namely Frank Peltier.

If the company only had a part in the annual competitive drill, as it should have, it would make some of the uniformed companies look out for their laurels.

The record of the football team for this year has, despite the rather gloomy outlook at the beginning of the season, been good. Out of eight games played we have won four, lost two and played two ties in which there was no score. Against twenty-one points scored against us our team has rolled up sixty-three against other teams. Our defeat by Tarkio was to be expected as they greatly outweighed us and played a close game with the State University and defeated the local medical college team by fifty-two points while they were able to make only a single touchdown against us.

In playing the second University team, Dunlap, Creighton and the Genoa Indian school we were playing against older and heavier men. Lincoln we would certainly have beaten had the game been played on a good field.

The season has been free from squabbles and the games have on our side been always clean and sportsmanlike from start to finish.

Below is given a brief description of the personnel of our team.

Robertson has played his first year at center. He improved throughout the season. Steady in the beginning, he developed into a good man on defensive work and a strong tackler at the end.

Rostermundt, left guard, is a Freshman. He carried the ball well and opened holes wide enough for a brass band to march through, but his best work has been on the defensive where he has been under every play.

Secrist, right guard, is one of the old men, and played on the championship team last year. He is always good for a gain with the ball and has been always a strong point in interference and on defense.

Sterricker, left tackle, has been particularly strong on defense. He has broken our opponent's line and interference and tackled men for a loss time after time. He played in the last three games.

Mullen, right tackle, played his first year on the team. He has been reliable and steady, a sure ground gainer, and a fine hole maker and an excellent man in interference.

MacDonald, right end, never played before. He has made a fine end, using his head and being cool, steady, reliable and a sure tackler at all times.

Standever, left end, is the pigmy of the team, but has never been found wanting. He has always played against men who greatly outweighed him, and has always been a heady end and at times a brilliant ground gainer. This is his first year at football.

Lehmer, at quarter, has been a strong man on defense and has, by fine tackling, saved many games. His work in interference has been excellent and he kicked our only goal from the field this year. He played half in '98 and managed the team this year.

Marsh, right half, has played three years. He is a good ground gainer and especially strong in bucking the line. He is also a good tackler and a fine man in interference.

Tracey, left half, is one of the "old timers." He was captain of the team for two years and during the last two games this year. He is our speediest man and gained ground always through the line or around the end. He is a fine tackler and saved many touchdowns. His kicking goals and punting have been of the best.

Griffith, left tackle, is a born football player. He always keeps his eyes open and his mouth shut. He is a good ground gainer and did fine work in breaking up end runs. During the last two games he played full-back and did equally well behind the line, showing himself a good punter and line breaker.

Englehardt, captain and fullback, has played three years. He has been a tower of strength, never failing to gain through the line. On defense and in interference he has been a regular fiend, making almost impossible tackles and breaking the opponents' plays. He has been a good captain and well liked by all the team.

Fairbrother, last year's right end, played in two games this year and did excellent work while he was in school.

Taylor played left guard the first of the season and before he left school did excellent work, showing a great deal of sand and football ability.

LINCOLN, o; OMAHA, o.

Saturday, November 24, was the red letter day of the present football season, because it was then that the warriors of the red and black banner and those of the purple and white, met on the local gridiron and walloped each other to a standstill. The Lincoln eleven was accompanied by a crowd of rooters one hundred strong, and Lincoln's failure to pass the center of the field was not due to any lack of encouragement. Enthusiasm and school spirit ran high, as it always does in our contests with Lincoln, and yells of appreciation rent the much persecuted atmosphere surrounding the Y. M. C. A. grandstand.

Both teams played subs in the place of good men, who were hurt or absent. Lincoln was handicapped by the loss of Fullback Mickel and Halfback Follmer, and Omaha by the loss of Fullback Engelhard and Right End Fairbrother. But though the teams were weakened, they were still evenly matched. For Lincoln Benedict was the bright and shining star, for Omaha Tracy and Griffith were the giants.

Benedict of Lincoln kicked off to Sterricker who returned 5 yards. Tracy punted to center of field. Lincoln advanced 5 yards and Omaha held for downs. Marsh went around left end for 5 yards, Tracy 5 through center, Mullen 5 through left tackle, and Marsh went around left end for 30 yards and a touchdown, but his foot had slipped on the muddy field and scratched the line so the ball was brought back 20 yards. Lincoln held for downs. Benedict punted for a gain of 25 yards, Omaha tried a place kick from the 45-yard line, but failed. Omaha held for downs and by steady bucks advanced to Lincoln's 10-yard line. Lincoln took a brace and got the ball. Lincoln punted for a gain of 20 yards. Omaha advanced to Lincoln's 15-yard line.

Score, first half, Lincoln, o; Omaha, o.

Second half: Tracy kicked off to Benedict. Benedict made 10 yards around left end. Lincoln lost 5 on next play. Benedict made 5 through center and then punted 40 yards. By steady bucking Omaha advanced to Lincoln's 35-yard line. On a trick play Tracy made 15 through Lincoln's right tackle. Lincoln held for downs and punted 40 yards. A Lincoln man got the ball before it was touched by an Omaha man and was consequently penalized 10 yards. Tracy punted to Lincoln's 10-yard line. Lincoln gained 5 and punted 50. Tracy made a spectacular run of 35 yards around the right end, McDonald added 7 around the left end and time ended with the ball on Lincoln's 20-yard line.

HIGH SCHOOL, 30; GENOA INDIANS, 0.

On Thanksgiving day the High School boys achieved their most glorious success and the humiliated and scalplless representatives of America's proudest race were forced to flee by the back gate and seek their humble tepees on the western plains of Nebraska.

When the Indians first came onto the field their size and speed marked them as winners, but they lacked in team work, and Mitchell and Upshaw, two Carlisle players, together with Baker, the quarterback, played the whole game. The High School team worked like one machine and the individual work of Tracy, Secrist, Mullen and Standeven was of the highest order. Tracy played one of the prettiest games ever seen in the city and his clever return of punts, his five difficult goal kicks, and his brilliant end runs formed a fitting climax to a season in which he has been the star of the team. Secrist was a tower of strength at guard and his line bucks would admit of no obstacles. Whenever they wanted a sure gain they knew whose number to call.

The first touchdown was made by Marsh in the first half after about 10 minutes of play. The others were made in the second half by Tracy, Secrist (2), Marsh. Tracy kicked all goals.

On the whole the game was clean and devoid of all unpleasantness. The Indians are certainly gentlemen and we hope to meet them again when their team work is better.

LINCOLN STARS vs OMAHA STARS.

At Vinton Street Park, on Saturday, December 15, two elevens, composed of players of the Lincoln and Omaha high schools, and the stars of the previous three years, played a post season's game to wipe out old scores and decide the championship once for all. But both sides were disappointed as not a score was made. The field and day were almost perfect, and the game abounded in brilliant individual plays and desperates scrimmages. The individual work was better than the team work in both teams. During the first half Lincoln had the best of it, although Omaha made a brilliant start. This half was played in Omaha territory mostly, and once Lincoln got the ball on the fifteen yard line. The second half was Omaha's half, and our boys were in striking distance of Lincoln's goal all the time. At the very last, with the ball on their eight yard line, the Lincolnites braced and the game ended 0 to 0.

Now that another successful foot ball season has passed, it is proper that some definite action should be taken in regard to the organization of a track team. We have an over-abundance of material in school from which to pick a team and by preparing one's self at this early date, training faithfully, there is no doubt in the world but what we would land the pennant next spring. We hope some definite action will be taken in this matter. J. M.

Heard in Eleventh Latin: "After Cicero's time the cavalry became a parade corpse (corps).

"Casey dropped from the fourth stoory windy t' the sidewalk, t' day." "Was he kilt Oi dunno?"

When a girl's two lovers call on the same evening she naturally feels that her company is too "menny."

Signor Secristo, the famous tenor, is soon to make his public appearance in Omaha's musical circles.

Shall H. Reed become the Great Pacificator? Shall he bridge over the chasm between the past and the present?

Teacher: "Mr. Lewis, some one has written his name on your back." (Then some one guiltily rubbed off "Pig.")

Have you seen—Harry Reed as "Kiddie," Ray Dumont as "Hatty," Arthur Kilkenny as "The Irish Lieutenant?"

Will the person who signs himself X. Y. Z. please tell the editor his name? We prefer to deal with known quantities.

Query: Is Miss McHugh's name pronounced "Make You" or "Make Hugh?" Address answers to "Freshy," care Register.

Miss Copeland (in room 43).—"Children, there is entirely too much talking and too little studying. It must stop at once."

Taylor says: "Innes much as I have ushered at the concerts, I should receive my carfare as a recompense, if nothing more."

Gordon says he's going to use crutches for the rest of his course at school—the girls were all so inquisitive as to who he is when he went down the hall.

An inquisitive person wishes to know: "Is the star under Morseman's chevron a sign of brightness?" We would advise the person to consult "Dear Jack."

Chambers' Dancing Academy. Classes open for beginners and advanced pupils. Assembles every Thursday evening. Corner Seventeenth and Douglas streets. Telephone 6111.

"Ah, dear," she said, "you mock my love; but I would fly with you to the end of the earth." "Yes," he grated harshly, "and when you got me there you'd take my millions and shove me off!"

"Yes," said the would-be funny guy, "the lance corporal is the most important officer in the battalion—in his own estimation." "Are you one?" inquired the young lady with an expression of total oblivion.

"Ah!" cried the sentimental man as he staggered onward through the wintry blast, "what is this I see? A little lamp-post put here to stand all night in this cold? Ah, most cruel, grasping Gas company!"

A freshman ran his teacher down,
With expressive indignation;
His teacher overheard the lad,

Exchanges.

The Pennsylvanian and Daily Cardinal come to us regularly. We are very glad to receive them.

We think the Scarlet and Cream, Lincoln, Neb., would be improved by an exchange column and a cover.

The H. S. Argus, Richmond, Ind., has a very attractive cover and the contents do not disappoint the reader.

The Index, Forest Grove, Ore., is a well planned paper, but of more local interest, which can also be said of the Lafayette, Easton, Penn.

In looking over the exchanges we find so many without an exchange column. It seems to be a general complaint because all of the exchanges mention the same thing.

THE DAILY BULLDOZER

TRIUMPH OF JOURNALISM—OUR PAPER'S GREAT ANNIVERSARY

VOL. LXXIXLIV—No 1,000,000

OMAHA, NEBRASKA, DEC. 17, 1900

PRICE, Forty-seven Cents

The Christmas number of the Interpolitan is very interesting. "The Courting of Nora McCrea" is worth any one's reading, and so also is "With My Favorite Authors: Stanton."

The Radiator of Somerville, Mass., is a well published paper. Its make-up is excellent and other school papers would do well if they would do as this paper does, i. e., illustrate.

The Central H. S. Monthly, Cleveland, O., is very interesting, but we think its exchange column could be improved by some comments on its exchanges instead of clippings from them.

The retiring staff of the Crescent, New Haven, Conn., should be congratulated on its last number. Among its interesting currents are some very good stories. We wish the new management success.

In an examination the students were required to give the principal parts of "to skate." One of them did it as follows: "Skati, slippere, taileri, bumptum." The professor marked his paper: "Fail, failure, flunkxi, suspendum.—Ex."

The Dartmouth Magazine is one of the best exchanges we received this month. There's a very good article in it entitled "Dartmouth Architecture," which is handsomely illustrated.

"The Stone of Sur," in the University School Record, Cleveland, O., is a very well written story, one of the best published in any of the exchanges.

Among others worthy of mention are the H. S. Panorama, Binghamton, N. Y.; the Purple and Gold, Bellevue, Neb., and the Elgin H. S. Mirror, Elgin, Ill.; the Academy Monthly, Germantown, Pa.; the Echo, Dubuque, Iowa; the Steele Review, Dayton, Ohio; the University School Record, Cleveland, Ohio, have striking and attractive covers.

We have received many new exchanges this month, among which, worthy of note, are the Tech, Peoria, Ill.; the M. H. S. Quarterly Review, Medford, Mass.; the Prairie Schooner, Blair, Neb.; the Advocate, Lincoln, Neb.; the H. S. Forum, St. Joseph, Mo.; the Eugene H. S. News, Eugene, Ore.; the H. S. Record, Amsterdam, N. Y.; the Prospectus, Somersworth, N. H.; the H. S. Voice, Cambridge, Ohio; the University School News, Cleveland, Ohio; the H. S. Beacon, Hammond, Ind.; the University of Michigan News-Letter, Ann Arbor, Mich.; the Ferris Institute News, Big Rapids, Mich.; the Gitche Gancee, West Superior, Wis.; the Quill, Chicago, Illinois.

Hades—(Special Telegram.)—The foot ball game here today between the Imps and Spaniards was won by the former with a score of 26 to —4. This closes the foot ball season, as a place kick was made just before time was called, which sent the ball down the bottomless pit.

Brooklyn—Associated Press Dispatch)—A new invention of J. R. Dumont's, called the "Autotrotchic Baby Cab," has been recently introduced here. The machine is propelled by electricity and is provided with strings whereby the joting father may guide his yelling child through park-walks, streets, and even needle's eyes.

Corque, France—(Special.)—The Doughnut contest held here today was won by E. G. Lewis, he having eaten 743½ doughnuts in one hour against 412¾ by nearest competitor, A. Jorgenson.

BOILED DOWN.

Education is one of mankind's and also vegetablekind's most prominent helpers. It not only makes it easy for the former to obtain a good situation, but it makes for the latter an easy access to the tables of hungry men. For example of the latter statement, we make speak as follows: These are men who cannot possibly bear the sight of cabbage, but who will pounce upon a dish of cauliflower and devour it with the greatest relish. And yet, cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education!! Wonderful!!!

A Brave Battalion Boy

When the Cadet Battalion "fell in" on Friday, December 7th, 1900, they were marched north at a swinging, steady gait and all proceeded well until they arrived upon the scene destined for their magnificent maneuvers.

Here a ferocious looking heifer was prepared to do as much execution as could be done in a radius of 11 feet 4-6 inches, thus seriously threatening the order of the Battalion. The boys were being forced back, foot by foot, contesting obstinately, when our brave Quartermaster Sergeant, Fred Naughton, arrived on the scene after a phenomenal run of twenty rods.

He rapidly took in the situation and bravely throwing himself into the thickest of the mix-up, held off the beast, at the point of his little brass "pig sticker," while the battalion executed "Tours left, column left," and drew off in good order.

Ah! the glory of the deed!! How bravely he stood there, not even moving a hair's breadth from the track of the raging beast!! Could you have seen him you would have wished to shout, "Bravo, Fritz!!"

Discipline alone restrained us from doing so.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Harry Reed and his company of stars will present, until February 1, his great eleven-act tragedy, entitled "The Unknown Quantity."

The Freshmen will have (whenever the weather permits) a dully game of cross-tag on the Campus. Admission free to spectators, "11" to players.

MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD

Mr. C. Roach Is Brutally and Suddenly Slain by a Family Enemy

The story of a most blood-curdling horror came over the wires of the Bulldozer this morning. Even the instruments felt the sensation, for their ticking sounded greatly likely the dripping of blood!!!

The victim and assassin in this case are a cockroach and Arthur Schreiber respectively.

The murder, which took place at Schreiber's house last night, was caused as follows:

The cockroach, who was a boarder at Schreiber's, came in about 9:30 and proceeded to annoy Art, who was practicing a speech to be delivered to the Seniors, by crawling up his sleeve, dropping upon his head from the ceiling and other similar things.

Schreiber bore it with rising anger until finally, carried away by a maniacal frenzy, he seized the cockroach, cast him heavily to the floor, winded him with a downright blow of a stove poker, which struck amidstships, and then taking "his little hatchet" hacked away until the remains could not be told from a small bit of boarding house hush or Cudahy's yard.

He is held (in close confinement) in the War Department, by the well known chair at his desk. Enter not ye unbelieving mortals!!!

LATER—An attempt was made at an early hour this morning to gain access to the prison grounds, presumably for the purpose of dealing out speedy justice to the poor wretch, but the prompt action of the guard frustrated the designs of the angry mob.

EDITORIAL

Today, dear readers, in commemoration of the publishing of our one millionth number of the Daily Bulldozer, we have decided to honor all with a free copy of the paper. We have, to show our esteem for, and mutual work with, the High School Register, given this, our most wonderful copy, as regards appearance and contents, as a supplement to the paper mentioned above.

As we know it is human to try to find everything possible concerning some one else's business—since many of our readers are trying to carry out such a plan with us—we have decided by the unanimous vote of the editor to quell this seeking once and for all by a complete statement of our business prospects, since our organization and a future promise to do the same in future years.

Up to last night at 11:35 p. m. the Bulldozer had received a larger number of dispatches over its private wires than any paper in the world from such important places as New York, San Francisco, Hong Kong, London, Hades, Paradise, and even the most distant cities of our native country, including South Omaha and Council Bluffs. We have also received several telegrams from Egypt, which, though we have not found its exact location, we suppose to be somewhere in Illinois. And, desiring never to tell a falsehood on our own authority, we take this from the eminent and most worthy geographical authority, Mr. Thomas Nawn, C. A. and T. F. M.

During the past few years our paper has been run into the ground two or three times but it has now come forth again with a firmer root on this very account. The Bulldozer (since the American people have followed its advice in the presidential election) may without immodesty take the credit of producing the prosperity of this country. This paper has received twelve distinct letters of thanks from President McKinley for its quick and practical solution of heavy national problems, and advice to him on such affairs.

This paper supports the people and the people should support it!! And, when those who have not banded in their subscriptions learn that among our subscribers appear the prominent names of Ed Turner and Rob Ridsen they will not hang back.

Our terms to subscribers appear in this paper.

Byron Pickard, a young student of the High School, met death at 12:20 a. m. this morning amidst the most blood-curdling shrieks and ear-splitting yells ever produced by the agony of human.

This young fellow had been studying Trigonometry or some such thing, and had crowded so many angles into his head without system that two of them had been forced (vertex foremost) into his brain when the Latin book of W. Coryell struck his head after falling three stories.

The funeral will be held from his residence, 214 West Wauquohop street, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow.

Coryell is held captive (by a young lady) and manifests no disposition to escape.

Pay no money to persons claiming to represent this paper unless they present properly signed and official credentials from the publishers.

LATEST RECIPES

HORSE RADISH—Chop fine one dozen raw turnips, add one half-cupful of Haarman's Worcestershire sauce, let it stand two (2) hours, let it sit four (4) hours, put it in a granite kettle, and get as much as you can for it, if you sell it.

BLACK CARAMELS—Six ounces of best tar, four cubic inches, black rubber, two tea-cupfuls flour, one pound butter, four tablespoonfuls sugar. Pour in enough water to cover, boil 29 minutes 4 seconds, pour into flat pans, and cut into squares when cool. This may be sold with success, at 3c per-(diaps).

CUCUMBER PICKLES—Take some small cucumbers and after washing thoroughly put them to soak for 24 hours in a gallon of kerosene, then touch a match to the contents; when the kerosene is consumed take the cucumbers and place them in a half-gallon measure. If there is not at least one quart of cucumbers continue the process until there is. Then pour over it a gallon of vinegar strengthened with axle-grease, being careful not to spill a drop. After letting this stand two days place in a small keg, head it up tightly, and leave it to be opened by posterity.
