N. Y. Life Building. Omaha.

A great effort has been made to increase the membership of the Athletic Association to one thousand, and we are very glad to see so many enthusiastic workers for the O. H. S. Yet why not still more? We have over sixteen hundred students and there is no reason then why we should not have over sixteen hundred ardent workers of the A. A.,

which is an organization of the school.

You say you are no football player or base ball player. That may be true, but is that any reason why you should not feel interested in football or base ball? You are a member of the Omaha High School, and surely you would like to see your own school triumph over its competitors, whether the contest be football, or base ball, or anything else. Surely you would like to do your share to make the A. A. a success and help to cheer our team to victory. You do not wish to be one of those persons who go in one door and out another, associating only with themselves, and when they have left the building behind them for the last time, immediately forget what they saw and what they learned. They can recall no pleasant memories from their High School career, no fond recollections of High School friends and chums, and with a feeling of bitterness they leave school to enter the stern world. Many times they have wondered at the success and advancement of their classmates. "Why was that and that person so popular? Why was he or she elected president of that or that association while no one as much as thought of me?"

If they would stop to trace the cause they would invariably find that that particular person was a member of some school organization, was a hard worker for his or her class and took an active part in anything bearing directly on High School interests.

We have our choice now. Shall we choose to be active members of this school or shall we drag along without any regard for its reputation and standard?

It is true that all of us cannot get out on the gridiron and buck the line of the enemy, but we can show our loyalty to the school and our sympathy for our young soldiers, by joining the A. A., by helping to sell tickets, by advertising the games and by being present at the games and cheering our heroes in defeat as well as in victory.

They are spending their time, they are risking their limbs and bodies for the honor of the O. H. S. Should we stand idle and disinterested? Far from it.

Therefore, fellow students of the Omaha High School, take this into serious consideration and see that you can meet your friends with a "I am one of the 1,000. Are you?"

A word or two about our literary societies. The Athletic Association represents physical development, while the literary societies stand for mental training. Both are vastly important and neither should be neglected.

Of the latter we have so many different ones, that there is no excuse for any student not seeking to take advantage of some one. However, it seems strange that so many are indifferent toward literary work and training. They never go to any programs, they never go to any debates and seem to utterly disregard their value.

Now wake up and let this year be an exception to all others. Join some literary society and then, above all, be an active member and not a drag to your comrades, and when the O. H. S. holds its annual debate with Chicago let the whole school turn out in a body and cheer for the purple and white. This will probably be the only debate in Omaha this year, as the others are to be held in the other cities, and such being the case, we expect every member of the school to be present at this debate, which will be held the 6th of November.

Our literary societies have re-organized and are now ready for the year's work in earnest. The results of the elections are as follows:

The Alice Cary—President, Elizabeth Kiewit; vice-president, Therese Wallace; secretary, Beth. Congdon; treasurer, — Mrs. Fleming was unanimously elected club teacher.

The Elaine—President, Florence True; vice-president, Mattie Bliss; secretary, Florence DeGraff; treasurer, Helen Woodward; sergeant-at-arms Inez Carpenter; teachers, Miss Sullivan and Miss Crane.

D. D. S.

One of the most important events of the year will be a debate on November 6 at the Kountze Memorial church.

Last June our school sent its debating team to Chicago. There the boys met defeat, but are now convinced that they gained and learned as much by that defeat as they would have done by again tasting the sweets of victory. They regretted much, however, to see the beautiful gold medals awarded to the proud Chicago debaters as victors, and then and there our boys determined to humble their opponents at the first opportunity. It happens that two of the Chicago debaters of last year are on the Chicago team this year. The Demosthenians, realizing the situation, have selected the same debaters from our school. This will stimulate the Omaha team to a desire for revenge on their old foes and will make victory that much the sweeter. They are making a thorough preparation of the subject, "Resolved, That Municipalities Should Own and Operate Their Street Railways." The question is an important one in all our large cities and will undoubtedly be solved by our ambitious team. This is the only one of the scheduled debates, that will be held in Omaha this year. Therefore, all patriotic members of the O. H. S. should make it their duty to be present and cheer the boys on to victory.

The Browning—President, Margaret Philp; vice-president, Mattie Robertson; secretary, Ruth Mackin; treasurer, Coralie Meyer; editor of the Oracle, Rachel Atkinson; teachers, Miss F. McHugh and Miss Rockafellow.

The Hawthorne—President, Mildred Seriviss; vice-president, Gertrude Schermerhorn; secretary-treasurer, Florence Dean; teachers, Miss Peterson, Miss Randall and Miss Towne.

The Lincoln Society chose these officers: President, Herbert French; vice-president, John McCague; secretary, — Potter; treasurer, Sam Millard; sergeant-at-arms, Sidney Mandelberg.

The Athletic Association called a mass meeting of pupils and teachers on Friday, October 9, to arouse enthusiasm. Mr. Pearce and Mr. Bracelen each made a fine talk on the value of athletics and the importance of enthusiastic support by the school. Mr. Peltier also made an inspiring speech and won much applause. The Association is making a special effort this year to promote the athletics in the Omaha High School and should receive the earnest support of all.

The Kappa Delta Kappa fraternity met last Tuesday at the home of Burleigh Withers. At this meeting a resolution was passed to give the Chicago debaters an entertainment at their hall, "The Normandy," on the evening of the 7th of November. Surely the Chicago boys will be entertained when this society gives the entertainment.

On Friday, October 9, an interesting meeting was held in room 31. All German pupils were invited to meet for the purpose of organizing a German club. The room was crowded. All showed enthusiasm and soon from out the windows, across the campus was heard the sound of true German melody. With herr Dasenbrock as sanglehrer, the singing school progressed splendidly and all sang "Heil dir im Siegerkranz" and "O Tannenbaum" with a vim that would do credit to any German boy or girl. Each member has been requested to suggest an appropriate name for this organization. The society will meet every Friday if possible, in room 31, and will give a program. These will consist of German songs, recitations, dialogues, etc., together with a singing lesson at each meeting. The club will be very helpful to all German pupils; it will give them fine training and also a realization of the beauty of German which is often forgotten in the struggle with vocabulary and grammar.

HOW MADGE WAS CURED OF SLANG.

"Shoot it!" said Madge. "I don't see any use in studying—not one solitary single bit."

"I don't think that's a very proper expression for a little girl to use," said her mother. "I wish you would cure yourself of that habit."

"But, shoot it, any way, mama, I have to have something to say when I feel like two cents, and there are worse things than shoot it."

And Madge threw herself on the floor and stared moodily into the fire. Soon the logs began to take grotesque shapes and make queer noises. Just as if they were trying to talk, she thought to herself.

"Trying to talk—Well! I should say," said a voice, and a little brown man jumped out of the grate, seated himself on the fender and looked at Madge. Madge looked around to see if her mother saw him, only to find that she was alone.

"That's odd," said she, "I didn't see mama go out."

"It is odd," said the little brown man. "But then—"

"Where under Sam Hill did you come from and what do you want?" asked Madge, not in the least frightened.

"Never mind where I came from," he answered with a twinkle in his eye, "I'm here for your good and at your request or rather that of your mother."

"I'm sure I'm not glad to see you," said Madge, not too politely.

"Tut-tut! Didn't your mother just say that she wished you wouldn't say 'shoot it'? And doesn't shooting belong to the fire department? And ain't I in the service of fire? Well! I should say. You shall be cured. Ta-ta!"

"How?" Madge cried. But the little man in brown had vanished.

"Shoot it!" said Madge, "he might have stayed and—"

There was a terrific explosion. The walls shook and the house seemed to be tumbling about her ears. Madge heard it fall and screamed. When the racket was over she ventured to look around the room. The mantel and grate were all blackened up as if from the discharge of a gun.

"How in the world," began Madge, but just then she caught sight of her books on the floor where she had thrown them a few moments ago. The sight of them aroused her old anger.

"Shoot you," she said, giving them a little kick, "I never want to see you again."

The words were scarcely out of her mouth when a similar explosion occurred and her books were torn to pieces and riddled with bullets.

"This is getting serious," she thought, "I shall tell father, but shoot it, he's down at the office."

Immediately the air was rent with a fearful crash and stones, bricks, desks, chairs, books and everything else began to come raining down thick and fast.

"An eruption," Madge screamed, "Brother, brother, what's the matter? Harry, where are you?" she cried, rushing frantically from room to room. "Shoot it, you are never at home when I want you," she sobbed, now thoroughly frightened. At that time the same mysterious gun was fired and she saw her brother lying white and still in the front yard—a dash of red on his temple.

"Oh! dear; Oh! dear, what have I done?" wailed Madge, "I ought to be shot myself."

The same terrible noise, and Madge awoke to find her mother bending over her, gently shaking her.

"What is the matter, Madge, my child?" she was saying. "Did you have a bad dream? You just screamed as if your heart would break and said something crazy about a gun's going off and killing Harry."

But Madge never said "shoot it" again. Thus was she cured of slang. J. F. '04.

THE BRAIN TRUST.

Once upon a time (and it wasn't so very long ago either) there was a man of extraordinary, wonderful, startling brilliance. Now this man was no second Morgan or Carnegie, but he had studied pretty carefully their tactics in regard to the great trusts, so he made up his mind to follow their example; but to achieve greater distinction and honor if possible. When he first set out in life to earn his own living, he was a country schoolteacher and, being the only smart man in the vicinity, naturally didn't want to have a common, stupid country girl for his wife. He scoured the land for miles around, and at last wooed and won a fair maid who was almost his equal, but being a woman, could not be quite. It would not do for such a brilliant couple to have ordinary children. They sent them to school at four, and of course at ten they were Latin prodigies and could give any construction in Virgil from a dative of indirect object to a deliberative subjunctive. This man is now principal of a large western high-school and his children have won world-wide renown for the stupendous size of their brains. That this great brilliance may be kept in the family, he is searching Europe for marriageable men with brains and has lately put an "ad" in the "personal" column of a large New York daily:

"Wanted—A man with intellect; none other need apply.—H. BIGHEAD."

Let us hope that he will succeed in marrying his daughters to his satisfaction, but may the great trust be broken at some fast approaching time lest our walls shall crumble to ruin, and moulder in dust away.

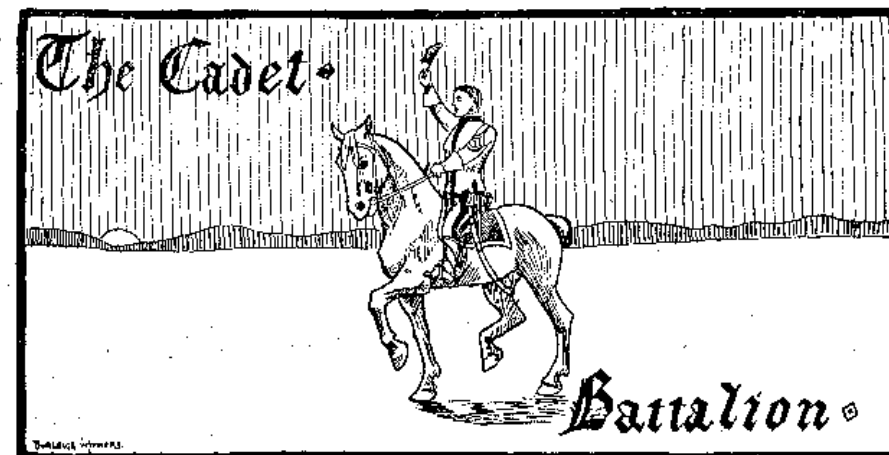

C. M. '04.

SENIOR ELECTION.

The first meeting of the Senior Class was held Friday afternoon in room 204. The purpose of this meeting was to elect class officers. Ben Cherrington was elected president by a unanimous vote; Florence Mason, vice president; Minnie Eldridge, secretary;

Arthur Remington, treasurer; Leon Callahan and Therese Wallace, sergeants-at-arms.

A great deal of class spirit was shown in the election and many yells of '04 were given with the greatest enthusiasm.

The drill has now begun in earnest. The excitement of the carnival and parades being over, the men have settled down to steady work. Owing to the scarcity of belts and other equipments, drill for the present will be without arms. Although in the near future we hope to have the battalion fully equipped, and in better condition than ever before.

On the 7th of October, the battalion, under command of Commandant Wassell, marched in the Ak-Sar-Ben parade. Although the companies were handicapped by having to fill out their ranks with new men, the drill on a whole was equal to all, and exceeded, some of the companies that participated in the parade.

To the regret of every member of the battalion Capt. Wassell left Omaha for the Phillipines, Friday, Oct. 16. Thursday, the 15th, being his last day with the battalion, the members of the C. O. C. planned a pleasant surprise for him, in the way of a dress parade. During this parade as a token of the appreciation of his services, as commandant, Capt. Brown in behalf of the members of the C. O. C. after delivering an excellent address, presented Capt. Wassell with one of the latest revolvers. In his farewell address to the officers, Capt. Wassell stated that his best wishes would be with the battalion always, and if he ever would be in a position where he could serve the battalion in any way, he would readily do so. He will be succeeded by Capt. Frank A. Cook, whose military record is as follows: Cadet, U. S. M. A. 1881-1885; 2nd Lieut., 4th Cavalry, 1885-1886. Most of the time in camp and in the field on the Mexican frontier in the Geronimo campaign. Civil life from 1886-1898. During this period was captain for two years in the Rhode Island Militia; commandant of cadets and instructor in mathematics two years at Berkely School, and Episcopal Military School in Providence, R. I. Same one year Bryant School, Roslyn, L. I., under George B. Cortelyou, now Secretary of Commerce and Labor. Lieutenant Colonel, 1st R. I. U. S. Vol. Infantry, 1898-1899. During this period he was in Camps Alger, Va., Camp Meade, Pa., and Camp Fornance, S. C. Commanded regiment six months during absence of colonel; commanded battalion and regimental drills several times each week during this period. Major, 26th Infantry U. S. Vol. 1899-1901. Served in command of battalion at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., San Francisco, Cal., and in the Phillipines. Captain, Commissary, U. S. Army, 1901 to present time. Capt. Cook will take command of the battalion immediately.

Mary Dallas '02 and Laura Congdon also of '02 are Sophmores at Vassar.

For fear of causing this to be named the "Kick Department" we shall refrain from speaking our mind in this issue, though the temptation is a strong one. Perhaps it is enough to say that in the game against Creighton three weeks ago there was about one H. S. student there, to every three from the University. Also that Creighton's rooters made something like nine-tenths of the noise.

But another situation even more serious has presented itself lately. Just after the Harlan game, some one started a wild rumor at school that the team was to disband. This is absolutely false and has not been thought of by the management. It would be better to go ahead and lose every game than cancel our dates now. We have given our word that we will play certain teams on certain dates and it is our duty to fill the schedule at all cost. Two years ago we cancelled a game of base-ball with Sioux City after having partaken of their kindest hospitality on a trip up there. The result is that Sioux City will not give us a game any more. Last year we backed out on the eve of a game with Kansas City when it was too late for them to arrange another game. They too refuse to play us. Peru Normal last year was served in the same way. Ought not this to be enough?

Fellow Students! If you have a grain of enthusiasm or loyalty in you, now's the time to fish it out. Anybody can laugh when the crowd laughs, anybody can yell for a winning team; but it takes a fellow with an abundance of the true spirit to fight for a losing one.

SNAP SHOTS.

Captain "Tommy" is back on the battle line again after a couple of weeks absence. He strained his back at the Harlan game but he's had a wooden one made now; one that can't be strained.

Coach Capell is the idol of the knights of the head harness these days. The boys all like him, and work hard for him. He wishes to announce that if there is a boy in the H. S. who wants to try, whether he has ever played or not, he would like to see him upon the campus any evening immediately after school. If he has no suit, arrangements will be made to get one, also that while he is coaching no player has any position for the season. A new man has just as much chance to make the team now as he had at the beginning of the season.

Poor "Put." He had to play centre. And he wanted to play full so bad too.

Would somebody please shed a tear?

BASKET BALL.

Once again the basket ball season has started. This year we surely hope to win the championship of the great middle west. At present the Lincoln High-school team holds this honor which she all but lost last year to the O. H. S.

Our prospects are for a team that will be the strongest in the history of the High-school. Conditions are better than they ever have been; the game seems to be getting more and more popular, not only with the boys but with the girls. Lovers of indoor sports seem to realize that is becoming the GAME for indoors.

Every eastern college of any prominence now has a basket-ball team while five years ago not one out of every fifteen claimed to have anything to do with the game.

This year a majority of our foot-ball players are out for basket-ball practice, and because of their foot-ball training are showing up well. A great many candidates this year are experienced men, which is an advantage because their knowledge of the game helps the new men to swing into action. At the present time, taking both the new and old men, there are about twenty or twenty-five candidates for the team.

In the eastern colleges and high-schools a coach is generally hired to coach the team and to make it a good success. That is the proper

THE GIRLS' DEPARTMENT.

The Carnival had about the same effect on the gymnasium as on the lessons. The girls got plenty of exercise on the Midway, and when they got up in the gymnasium the remark was often made: "Oh, I am so tired"—but perhaps it was only from climbing the four flights of stairs.

The classes are now formed and on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays screams are often heard 'way down in the library. Of course on Tuesdays and Thursdays it is much more quiet, as those girls were initiated into the mysteries of gymnasium last year.

way to do; but the O. H. S. does not need to do that, for Mr. Bernstein has very kindly consented to coach the team this coming season. He is by no means a new man at the game but one who has played a great deal. Cherrington, last year's captain, will again try for his old position as forward, and with his four years of good experience will help Mr. Bernstein coach the team. Cherrington has shown his ability in this line before. The team won many a victory last year and with this new material combined with the hearty support of the school and faculty it is sure to be a winner against all odds.

As yet no definite schedule has been arranged although communications have been carried on with many of the high-schools of Iowa and Nebraska preparatory to making up the season's schedule.

Those of the old men out for practice are: Potter, Meyer, Switzer, Lindsay, Cooper, Lee, Kewitt, Durkee, McAvin, Searle, Walsh, Patterson, Cherrington.

The new men are: Thompson, Hunter, Rogers, Loftus, Burnett, Brome, Yoder, Ralph, Shields.

Clarence Walsh is this year's captain and great things are expected from him as he was one of the best players on last year's team. RICHARD PATTERSON, Manager.

The girls have been particularly enthusiastic about certain exercises. This interest is caused by the coming foot-ball games, when they all want to be in fine condition for rooting. Surely this is true patriotism. Basket-ball will be started soon and the girls are all anxious to display their skill in this line. So far Miss Higgins has been working to get the girls in a fine physical condition before they begin the game. The beginning girls will do mostly Swedish movements, while the advanced girls will do apparatus work.

A short time ago, a teacher said she thought the Register should be made a medium through which a most disagreeable habit, into which some pupils have fallen, might be corrected.

It seems that some look upon a program meeting as a most suitable place for a friendly chat, with some fudge to eat when conversation lags. We all like fudge but we like it in its place and that place is decidedly not in a room where speaking and singing are going on. Imagine how disagreeable it is for a boy or girl to stand up before an audience and hear the hum of conversation and the crunching of fudge on all sides.

Just think this over and I am sure you will see how greatly annoying and impolite this habit is. It has been said that a word to the wise is sufficient and a little bird whispered in my ear that unless that maximum is proven true in this case, drastic measures will be used.

There have been no programs this month, but in several of the society teacher's heads are stored away extremely new and novel entertainments for next month.

The German pupils have started a singing class to be held every Friday. We are very glad to hear this for undoubtedly much new talent, which before was latent, will be aroused. Surely we need it.

EXCHANGES

We were glad to find exchanges from our old friends and from a few new ones coming to us through the mail the past month.

We are now receiving exchanges from the four extremities of the United States, namely, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

Although our present exchange list numbers about seventy-five, we are not satisfied. We intend to increase it to one hundred before New Year.

Any person knowing of a paper worthy of exchange with our own would greatly oblige the management and myself by reporting the same.—The Exchange Editor.

We are glad to add the "Lever" of Colorado Springs, to our list of exchanges.

The Stentor introduces its first number this year with a piece of poetry entitled "Welcome."

We wish every success in the world to "The Spectator."

Where did the Latin School Register find the picture of the beautiful young lady which appears on the cover this month?

The Windmill is little but "Oh My." Look out it comes from Kansas.

The Dartmouth not only speaks for itself but for its president.

A good report card maketh a glad father.—Ex.

The "Purple and Gold" is living up to its last year's record as a literary paper.

The Daily Nebraskan is a welcome visitor to our school.

We are always glad to read the Cardinal of Wisconsin because it is right to the point and you don't have to read four or five pages to find out what it is talking about.

When some their prayers direct ahead,

This is the way they con it,

"Lord, give us this day our daily bread,

With lots of butter on it,

"Never judge a book by its cover" holds true with the High School Item. Though it has a cover that would do a dime novel justice it contains reading matter that would satisfy the highest standard literary pupils.

The school News of Cleveland is given up almost entirely to athletics this month.

The "Purple and Gold" contains a stunning piece of poetry entitled "Since the baby came to town."

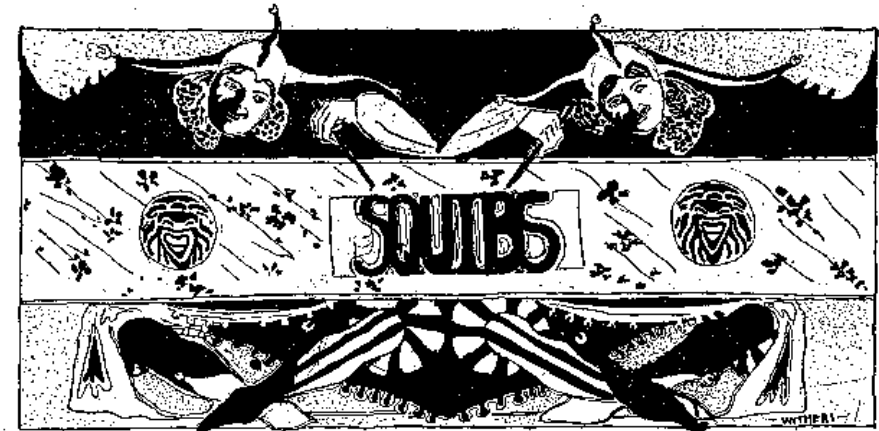

A wise man once said to his son:

Whenever you think of a pun

Go out in the yard

And kick yourself hard

And let me begin when you're done

How doth the busy little Fresh
Work till he thinks he's hunk,
Then go up to his little "ex"—
And make a beastly flunk.

"Non paratus," dixit Freshie,
"Cum a sad, a doleful look;
"Omne rectum," Prof. respondit,
Et "niht" scripsit in his book.

Who is Norma's Ray of sunshine?

Miss McH.—"Why did so many women on the ranches go insane?"

T. B.—"Because they did not have anyone to talk to."

She lost her head when he proposed,
But he, a trifle bolder,
Made search for it,
And found it on his shoulder.

Mr. Frisk says his name is not Friskie.

B. B.—“Now, Miss McHugh, if you were going to elope with a young man you would not tell your father about it, would you?”

A Freshman once to High School came

With hayseeds in his hair;

A pile of books he lugged along

And gasped in deep despair.

He clambered up the girls' stairway

And went up to the gym.,

But when he staggered out of there

There was nothing left of him.

Problem,

If a boy and a half eat a green apple and a half, how will they feel in an hour and a half.

OUR YOUTHS' CLOTHING

Maybe only a little better than that of some manufacturers, but it is a great deal better than most of them can make. We have the advantage of making it ourselves, and that is why you can get it for no more than is charged for the cheaper make of suits that most stores offer you. There is a matter of style, too, on which we pride ourselves. That appeals to the young man. To him it is “as good to be out of the world as out of fashion.”

WE MAKE THE YOUNG MEN GLAD

They are in the world, and especially so if they are in one of our FALL SUITS—and it isn’t every store that carries such a complete line of FURNISHINGS for young men. We have a large line of Blue Flannel Shirts and Black Satin ones and the variety of Sweaters is truly bewildering. In fact we anticipate the wants of “Cadets” and are prepared to supply the demand.

BROWNING, KING & CO.

R. S. WILCOX, Manager.

The revised edition of Mosher Shorthand is now from the press. This is an improvement upon the Gregg system, now so generally taught throughout the country. It improves the system by increasing legibility and speed. It has already been introduced into a number of prominent schools in the United States. It is taught at the Omaha Commercial College, and students find it far superior to any of the old Pitmanic systems, or the Gregg. From now on the best stenographers in Omaha will be those who write Mosher Shorthand. The Text-book is nicely printed and elegantly bound. It certainly is a great credit to Rohrbough Brothers, the publishers, and Prof. Mosher, the author.

The Football Team of the Omaha Commercial College is gaining an enviable reputation. Its record this year is one to be proud of. It is composed of some of the best material obtainable.

M. G. Rohrbough, President of the Omaha Commercial College, informs us that the attendance in the Business Department, also the Shorthand and Typewriting Department, is fully 20% greater than a year ago. The present enrollment in all departments is unusually large. The January Opening will be the largest in the history of the Institution. The Night School, which runs four nights each week, has a large enrollment also.

A Commercial education is the best investment a young man can make. It insures him remunerative employment at all times. The graduates of the Omaha Commercial College may now be found in every Mercantile House of any note in Omaha and adjacent cities. If you question this, send for a “Red of Positions,” or a list of students now employed at salaries ranging from $50 per month to $1,800 per year. A High School education is desirable. A business course provides for the bread and butter side of life.

A series of public entertainments, of a high musical and literary character, are in store for the students of the Omaha Commercial College during the winter months. These are usually open and free to the public. It will pay you to watch for them.

Perhaps the best Literary Society to-day found in Omaha is the Omaha Commercial College Literary Society. It has a large membership and the Programs every Saturday night are extremely profitable and entertaining. If not otherwise engaged, drop in at one of its meetings. It will pay you.
