MAKE YOURSELF NEEDED

The world has no use for anyone whom it cannot use—one who is not needed in the great every-day work of the world.

Remember that that's why the graduates of such a business college as

BOYLES COLLEGE

get along so well in the world. They possess a needed ability.
They are either good Bookkeepers, good Stenographers, crack Telegraphers or competent Civil Service appointees.

The world needs Boyles College graduates. It can use them profitably every working hour of every working day.
It is willing to pay them handsome salaries for their services.

You can enter any time now.

Come in and have a talk with us about this or at least send for a copy of our now famous Year Book.

The VAN SANT SCHOOL

eighty-one young men and women. In support of our frequently repeated statement that our school shows a higher age and educational average than other business schools, we give you the following facts:

We have just five pupils with only Eighth Grade education and these five were at home for from one to four years before entering our school.

We have nine pupils with Eighth Grade education and from one to six years' subsequent employment.

We have ten pupils who have had one year in High School, sixteen who have had two years, twelve who have had three years, and twenty-five who have had four years. Of the sixty-three pupils, seventeen have had from one to six years' subsequent employment, and several have been employed for something less than a year.

We have five pupils who have carried their education beyond High School, and four of these have been employed for some time subsequently.

Few, if any, business schools can make such a comparative showing. Graduation from our school is proof to the business man that your education, ability and technical proficiency are to the highest.

The Tapioca Pudding.

"You!—You know how to cook? Why my dear sister, the very idea is in itself ludicrous. Why you know about as much about cooking as—as—"

"Oh that's alright Walter," cut in his sister. "Just don't bother about completing that little simile of yours—it would merely cause you an unnecessary amount of effort and could not possibly express the depth of contempt you seem to have for my cooking."

"Why your knowledge of the culinary art commonly known as cooking, is so crude—so truly deplorable" went on the young man not heeding the interruption, "that I hate to think of you as one of the family. Now take Violet for instance—there's a girl that can cook! Why what she doesn't know about cooking isn't worth knowing. I tell you she—"

"Now you just forget Violet for about a minute! "broke in his sister, thoroughly aroused and bubbling over with righteous indignation." You are constantly setting her upon a pedestal and expecting me to worship her as you do! Just because you are so desperately in love with her is no sign that I am—and even if I was I wouldn't be constantly talking about it. I can cook as good as she can any day! And it seems to me you have no excuse for finding fault with me. I have been doing all the cooking since mother left for Florida—that's three months ago—and you are still fat and healthy and getting meaner every day!"

"Amen."

"Oh go ahead and get sarcastic now! I suppose—"

"Wait a minute sis—hesitate a moment before you start your second exhortation. Tomorrow is Sunday, and in the afternoon Violet and I are going skating; after which we will come here and partake of a dainty little lunch—"

"Which I am to prepare I suppose."

"Certainly,—and then we will go to church in the evening. You may come with us if you wish," he finished with grand condescension.

"No thanks. I prefer better company. I will stay home."

Next evening a truly beautiful little luncheon had been prepared. There were all manner of dainties. However, there was one particular dish that Marie had spent a great deal of time and effort on. This was the dessert. A delicious form of tapioca pudding, served with the most tempting and delicate sauce that one can imagine. It was a luxury which she seldom made unless for a very special occasion. When the table was set and everything in order she viewed her dainty spread.

"Well—I'd be willing to bet anything that she couldn't do any better than that—especially the dessert. I am going to watch her and see if she really likes it, I don't see how she could help it." The suddenly changing her tone to a more sarcastic view. "I suppose my big brother will be somewhat surprised when he sees that I also have a guest. But then, dear me, I couldn't think of having a spread like this with no one to help eat it but that beloved little Violet of his. Anyway I do kind of like Jack and I think he will appreciate it every bit as much as she will,—and I am sure he will like the dessert."

About an hour later the four were seated at the table and the fun seemed to be at its highest. The lunch was finished—all pronounced it a triumph of the culinary art, but Marie was dissatisfied. Violet had not touched the tapioca pudding.

"Didn't you like the dessert Violet?" she ventured.

"No dear. I never like tapioca fixed that way."

"Oh—how do you fix it?" suddenly interrupted the impetuous Walter, always anxious to show off Violet's superior knowledge. "Now be sure and listen Marie because you know Violet is a very good cook."

It is quite unnecessary to describe Marie's feelings,—to say she was dissatisfied, crestfallen and hurt would scarcely express it. However, she listened to Violet's recipe with flattering attention.

When Walter and Violet were gone Marie remarked disgustedly.

"Goodness—they sure have got a good opinion of themselves—"

"And incidently each other."

"— I'll just cook some tapioca that way for him sometime and see how he likes it."

"Well, I want to be here to see the fun."

"Alright Jack—that's a bargain. Next Wednesday evening at dinner."

Wednesday evening arrived—so did dinner—so did the boys, as usual.

"Oh,—you've got tapioca tonight," observed Walter.

"Yes," replied Marie shortly. "I cooked according to Violet's recipe."

"Oh did you?" said Walter, suddenly interested and very much pleased. "I guess I'll eat mine right away."

Jack and Marie exchanged meaning glances. Jack winked very wisely and Marie looked exceedingly solemn.

"Gee! that's good dope sis. Now that's what I call a delicious dish—that's really worth eating!"

Jack avoided looking at Marie and looked steadily at the picture of a pink cherub eating blue pears—no they were plums—maybe they were apples. Marie solemnly wielded the little silver sugar tongs and put six lumps of sugar in her tea.

"I tell you Marie, Violet sure does know how to cook!—there's no getting around it! Why she knows more about cooking in a minute than you do in a week. Why she—say have you got any more?" Turing to Jack. "I tell you Jack, Violet is a wonder! Now don't you honestly think that this is lots better stuff than we had last Sunday?"

Jack ceased to view the pink cherub and his blue apples. Marie stopped putting sugar in her tea and their eyes met. For one instant both were painfully sober then Jack grinned—bit his lip—and—looked back at the pink cherub. Marie vainly endeavored to control herself—but it was a miserable failure. She leaned back in her chair and started to laugh,—then Jack joined in and they both laughed with such thorough good humor that it seemed as if they would never stop. They laughed until the tears rolled down their cheeks.

"Oh say Walter!" said Marie as soon as she could get her breath. "That's one on you!"

"And—Violet knows—more in a minute—than Marie does in a week!" gasped Jack between breaths. "Oh Walter!—how could you!"

Walter looked very surprised and uncomfortable.

"Huh! I don't see anything to laugh about!"

"Why you silly boy," laughed Marie. "I cooked it the same as I always do."

The Junior's Revenge.

Feeling ran high between the Junior and Senior classes of Orinoca High School. In fact it ran so high that the papers daily blazoned forth the deeds of "Runt" Carver, the ringleader of the tricky Seniors. And as yet not a Junior had dared to lift a hand to stop the havoc raised by the upper class men.

Now there happened to be a fellow in the Junior class, by name, Tom Barkley. He was a rather quiet lad and to those who did not know him, he seemed to be rather dull, but he was by no means so dull as his report cards would show. He was very slow to act, but when he did act he was always sure of what he was doing.

After another outlandish trick by the Senior "gang" Tom began to think seriously of the idea of getting even, so he called together a few of his closest friends and held a pow-wow with them in his room to decide what was to be done about getting even with the Seniors. They all gave their ideas of the way to proceed but no definite plan could be decided upon. At last Tom Barkley began to speak, "Fellows I have it."

"Have what?" "The smallpox or hay fever?" ejaculated Ed Brown.

"Neither, returned Tom but I've got the idea of making that runt of a Senior, Carver, wish he never saw a Junior in his life."

"Well out with it old man, get it off your chest," sang out another fellow conspirator.

So Tom continued, "There are two things that I know of," in fact, three things and they are:

"First, That the senior hop is coming off on the twentieth; secondly, that 'Runt' Carver is going to take the best looking girl, which happens to be my cousin, and thirdly, that he is going to hire the only taxi in town to take her to the 'hop' in."

"Now I happen to know the fellow that runs the said taxi, and if I can bicker with him to let me run it for the night of the twentieth, "Runt" Carver will never go to that dance."

The surprised Juniors began to hug each other with glee, and to pledge secrecy.

The night of the Senior hop came, and instead of the original taxi driver, our friend, Tom Barkley, the junior, was in his place. He stopped for "Runt" and instead of taking him to his cousin's house he drove him rapidly out into the country. Suddenly the machine stopped and the unsuspecting senior asked what was the matter. "Spark plug broken," sir, replied the bogus driver.

* * * * *

It is useless to say that the senior did not get to the dance.

Tom's cousin was not forgotten however, for Tom had told her of the trick against the trickster. She, of course, was indignant at first but she soon began to see joke of the thing, and finally considered that it "served him right." She went to the dance, but not with "Mr." Carver, but with an alumnus, that she thought very much of.

The next Monday; a large crowd of school pupils stood about a sign in large black letters, which bore this legend:

CARVER: CALL-A-TAXI.

It is not necessary to conclude that no more tricks were played upon the Junior class. H. J. M., '14.

DEBATING

Work among the debaters is progressing finely under the excellent coaching of Professor Burke, and the boys themselves are all very enthusiastic over the season's outcome. The schedule as arranged by Professor Reed, includes debates with South Omaha, West High (Des Moines) and Lincoln.

The first preliminary was held in the auditorium on December 17, at which time the following were chosen: Allan, Torell, Hixenbaugh, Kulakofsky, Ketcham, Thompson, Landeryou, Craig, Warshatsky, Jacobsen, Douglas, Muskin, Dalzell, Eldridge and Smith. The question was "Resolved, That the commission form of municipal government should be adopted by American cities."

The debaters chose either side and many good speeches were given, both in opposition and defense of the plan. It is on this question that the South Omaha and Des Moines will be given and it is only by constant practice on the question that we will be able to defeat them.

Of the eighteen picked on December 17, six men have been assigned to work on the Single Tax question, which will be the subject of the Lincoln debate. Three of these men will represent Omaha and they are now busily preparing the question.

Mr. Burke is very cheerful regarding the team and feels that it will be one worthy of the support of the entire student body.

The Scrub's Reward.

"It's great to be a hero,
It's fine to be a star,
To hear your name resounding
Through halls of fame afar."

"But it's tough to wear a jersey
And be looked on as a dub,
That's why we sing the praises
Of the fellow on the scrub."

"But worst of all was from the start,
(And no one knew it better),
The chances were not one in ten,
He'd ever win a letter."

"But there was that within him when
Hope hid her cheering gleam,
Which made him fight the harder
For Alma Mater and its team."

The above appeared in the Flat Hat of William and Mary College, and we have printed it as a tribute, however inadequate it may be, to the part of "fellow on the scrub" plays in turning out a successful team. What can fully repay the fellow who comes out day after day to be battered and driven up and down the field to give the first team practice, who has no hope of recognition and whose love of school prompts him to sacrifice so much? His goal is the turning out of a winning 'varsity and the triumph of his Alma Mater, and, whether he succeeds or not, we say, "Hats off to the scrub!"

You can't drill outdoors, but you can wear overcoats. We have the kind you'll like—L. Systems, at 1-3 off—Magee & Deemer.

ATHLETICS

Basket Ball

Interest in basketball is booming and both the school and class teams are practicing. The school is practically sure of having a strong school team, as several of last year's stars have joined the squad again this year. In the few games played both the new and old men have shown up well and give promise of a fine season.

The schedule of games as arranged by Manager Reed, is as follows:

- January 18—Lincoln High, at Lincoln.
- January 25—York High, at Omaha.
- February 1—Sioux City, at Omaha.
- February 7—South Omaha, at South Omaha.
- February 15—Lincoln High, at Omaha.
- February 21—Sioux City, at Sioux City.
- March 1—South Omaha, at South Omaha.
- March 8—St. Joseph High, at St. Joseph.
- The state tournament will be held at Lincoln, March 16, 17, 18.

Tri-City League Games

Omaha holds at present the lead in the Tri-City League, having won all games played. The results have been as follows:

- December 14—Omaha, 28; Omaha Uni., 27.
- December 17—Omaha, 28; Council Bluffs Y., 21.
- December 21—Omaha, 32; Kansas, 21.
- January 7—Omaha, 33; Creighton, 29.

These Tri-City games are played every Tuesday and Saturday and admission to holders of season tickets is ten cents.

In practice games outside the league, the following games have been played:

- December 27—Omaha, 46; Alumni, 22.
- January 1—Omaha, 28; Plattsmouth, 12.

A Statement from the Athletic Board.

The Athletic board of the High School desires to make the following statement regarding its policy in the matter of making awards to members of football and other athletic teams of the Omaha High school.

Three years ago, in February 1910, this board unanimously adopted a resolution which read as follows: "Resolved, That the Athletic board of the Omaha High school discontinue the practice of giving sweaters or jerseys to members of athletic teams." This action was taken after a full discussion of the matter and seemed at that time to be the sentiment of every member of the board.

In December of 1911, after the close of the football season, the question again came up for discussion, on account of a feeling on the part of the members of the football team that they should have sweaters awarded them. Again it was unanimously decided by the Athletic board that their policy of awarding only the "O" was the better policy, and the matter was settled in that way. This conclusion was reached after correspondence with a large number of the leading high schools in the various parts of the United States, in which it was found that more than half of the schools reached by correspondence had come to the same conclusion, that the school letter was sufficient reward.

During the last football season there was more or less discussion, through the papers and otherwise, of the possibility of sweaters being awarded to the members of this year's team. We wish to take this opportunity of saying that it is still the unanimous sentiment of the members of this board that no form of award should be made to the members of any athletic team except the Omaha High school letter. This letter carries with it the honor of having represented the school, and shows as great an appreciation as it is possible to give. We believe that the practice of giving sweaters or other similar rewards leads to a wrong viewpoint on the part of the recipient, who is very liable to come to regard the value of the sweater as greater than the value of the letter.

Finally, we wish to say that it is the hope of this board that the field of athletic activity in the Omaha High school may be very much widened, in order that a much larger number of boys may participate in the organized games of the school. To this end we have secured several tennis courts, and hope to have more courts next year; we have taken up soccer football as a form of school athletics, not to take the place of the regular football but to supplement it, and reach those boys who cannot play the more strenuous game; and we have hopes of securing, in the near future, an athletic field of our own, whereon may be held all the different high school games: football, baseball, track, soccer and other field sports.

LOCALS

Frank Sanders, wants to know (as usual), if Miss Sackett is planning on running a lunch room on the third floor?

The mid-term annual will be published next month. The annual will contain pictures of all the graduates and several other features. Extra copies will be twenty-five cents each, on sale at the Register office. Graduate's assessments are payable before February first to Harold Torell. The assessment is one dollar and a half.

The new Register office is nearing completion. The office will be located opposite Room 325. (Yes, dear, the editor sits behind that cage.) The inner shrine will be decorated with an electric light and by simply holding the paper in front of it we can see through some of our jokes.

Remember, that the season tickets admit to debates this year. Use them!

We wonder why Allan on entering school in the morning always looks at the thermometer and sighs "No chance?"

No darling, Sands isn't cramming for exams. He got a B in Chem last week and is trying to make it up.

Speaking of exams, the deadly conflicts come on January 27-30, inclusive.

If the coal had arrived a few hours later, "it might have been different."

Rawson White has been made basketball manager, and Harold Langdon debating manager, at a recent meeting of the athletic board. Both men are without doubt the best for their places.

An entertainment was given on December 20 for the benefit of Mr. Fitzgerald. An interesting program was given, and the $105 raised helped to make "Fitz's" Christmas a happy one.

The Ames College Glee club sang at both lunch hours on last Monday, and certainly made a hit. That was good the ways the bawled out "little Ky-yi" wasn't it now?

There is no military write-up this month because the editor, Major Hammond, is compiling a list of probable sponsors, both his own and others.

Margaret McFarlane has been appointed to succeed Dorothy Myers as Sophomore editor.

By the way, have you noticed the new lights? We don't know what they will be used for but the school needs decorations.

Those students having the good fortune to be on the west side of the building were excused from their fifth hour class on January 8, to hear Miss McHugh give an interesting talk on "Education vs. Graduation."

IN MEMORIAM

The Register Staff extends their deepest sympathies to the family and friends of Myrtle Erickson of the class of 1916, who passed away on January twelfth.

You Must Make Good or Step Down and Out

The managers of the great business firms are not looking for young men and young women who are skilled in explaining why they failed to make good.

These managers don't want explanations nor excuses—THEY WANT RESULTS. They are looking for young people who can GET RESULTS. They like to secure

MOSHER-LAMPMAN GRADUATES

as these managers know MOSHER-LAMPMAN GRADUATES are trained along lines which qualify them to "deliver the goods."

If you are ambitious, and desire to make good when you start in the business world, and to rise to positions of trust and responsibility, then you should take that broad business training which can be secured at the MOSHER-LAMPMAN COLLEGE.

This course will place you far above the average business college graduate. In short, it will enable you to a business success.

ADDRESS: MOSHER & LAMPMAN, 1815 FARNAM STREET

ORGANIZATIONS

The first joint meeting of the year was held in the auditorium, December thirteenth. The following interesting program was rendered:
Piano Solo, "Liebestraum" (Liszt)—Helen Pierce.

Debate—"Resolved, That all cities should adopt the commission form of government." Affirmative, Carlisle Allan; negative, Harold Langdon.

Some Characterizations, "David Copperfield"—Lulu Pritchard, Helen Johnson, Florence Emmett.

Whistling Solo—Helen Keating.

Stereopticon Pictures, "Some World-famous Paintings"—Helen Garvin.

Recitation—Katherine Sturtevant.

Piano Solo—Kenneth Widenor.

A Scene from "As You Like It"—

Prologue—Marion Parsons.

Rosalind—Dorothy Black.

Celia—Ruth Cattin.

Orlando—Lila Marshall.

Webster.

The Webster held an interesting program on December 6, consisting of:

Debate—"Resolved, That the United States army should be increased." Affirmative, Kenneth Widenor and John Robel; negative, Porter Allan. Debate won by negative.

Current Events—Harold Langdon.

Jokes—Harold Landeryou.

Margaret Fuller.

The meeting of the Margaret Fuller Society was held Friday, December 6, in room 219, and a very enjoyable program was given, of which Eleanor Austin had charge.

The matter of pins was brought before the society, but nothing definite was decided about them.

The program consisted of:

Reading, "Gossips"—Margaret Williams.

Verses—Margaret Williams, Elsa Smith, Margaret Crocker, Marion Coad, Corrine Elliott, Eleanor Austin.

"Leaf from a Girl's Diary"—Eleanor Austin.

These verses were written describing some noted man or woman, some person in the society, without telling the name. The society was left to guess who or what the person or thing described was.

All were very clever and helped to form a fine program.

Browning Society.

The Browning Society held a meeting on December 6 in room 149. As the former artist had left school, Lenore Allen was elected artist. A good program was given under the leadership of Gladys Goodman.

The entertainment given by the Browning girls under the leadership of Miss Shields was one of which the society is proud. A scene from "As You Like It" was given.

Elaine Society.

On December 6 there was a meeting of the Elaine Society, and a very enjoyable. Mark Twain program was given. It was in charge of Miss Etta Medlar, and was as follows:

"Life of Mark Twain"—Helen Johnson.

"Deception"—Gertrude Stout.

"My Watch"—Margaret Getten.

D. D. S.

The Demosthenian Debating society held its twelfth annual banquet at the Paxton, December 30. The banquet hall was decorated in the society colors and many pennants adorned the walls. Every one present had a very enjoyable evening and inspiring talks were given by a few of the many alumni present. Frank Hixenbaugh, president of the society, acted as toastmaster and those responding were Glen Paxton, Barney Kulakofsky, Lyle Roberts, Gilbert Eldredge, Kenneth Craig, William Campen and Malcomb Finley. Extemporaneous talks were given by Harold Torell and Morton Rhoades. The debating society from the standpoint of the faculty member was discussed in two very interesting talks by Professor Bernstein and Professor Woolery.

SOCIAL

When one thinks of Christmas vacation it is with the thought of social events and pleasure. This vacation has been crowded to the last with one thing after another, to afford everyone pleasure.

The first dance of the vacation, known as the Senior, was held at Chambers' on December twenty-third. The hall was prettily decorated in navy blue and gold, the class colors, and four pretty cozy corners decorated in the colors of Larai, Ko Kunthian, Les Hiboux and Em-anon occupied the different corners of the hall.

The Tres Kaideka gave their first annual dance at Chambers' on the evening of December twenty-six. The hall was decorated in brown and white, with two brown and white cozy corners.

On Christmas night Helen Streight entertained about twenty couples at Dundee hall. Christmas greens and bells were used in decorating the hall. A very enjoyable evening was spent by everyone.

December twenty-eighth a dance was given at the Country club for the high school set by Clarence Peters, John Hannigan and Philip Chase.

Several watch parties were given on New Year's eve among which was a theater party at the Brandeis followed by a watch party at their home. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Fitzgerald entertained for Ruth, at this party.

Another one was at the home of Stowe Sutton, where several boys met and then went to Hanscom park to skate the old year out.

Another one was given by several high school girls at the home of Catherine Gould.

January first, an informal dance was held at Dundee hall. About twenty-five couples were present.

Helen Howe entertained at cards at her home on Thursday evening, January second.

On the evening of January third, the Maltese club gave a large dance at the Rome. The hall was decorated in American flags and the colors of the club, gold and white. The programs were of red leather with the club name in gold upon them.

The El Siete gave a small dance and watch party at Jacobs Hall on New Year's Eve.

Larai held their second annual banquet at the Rome on December twenty-seventh. The table was very prettily decorated in red and blue, the club colors. Walter Hixenbaugh, '12, acted as toastmaster, and Carlisle Allan, Harold Torell, Arno Truelson, Irving Benolken, Kendall Hammond responded to toasts.

The O-dix gave an Orpheum party on January third.

Clothes for society functions and every day too—the kind young men like—now selling for 1-3 off, at Magee & Deemer's.

Miss Davies: "They had some trouble over the whiskey in Pennsylvania, but the militia managed to get it down."

Our Honor Roll.

A—is for Allan, who edits this book.
 Even his eyes have the editor's look.
 B—is for Baliman, who captained the team
 And worked up a winner, so it would seem.
 C—is for Croker, Miss Kathryn, you know
 Senior class editor, also a Ko.
 D—is for Durkee, who leads the cadets.
 Most popular boy in the school you can bet.
 C—is for Evan's, Dwight B., you see,
 Class thirteen's treasurer; after D. D.
 F—must be Fritz—height six feet four
 All we dislike about Fritz is that pomadour.
 Gideon's entered the newspaper field.
 The gates of a game to him never are sealed.
 Hammond and Hixenbaugh are collected and calm.
 Speaking of dignity, they take the palm.
 Inkster and Jobst are sharks in Geom.
 Jones, a first sergeant ought to be com.
 K's—Kulakofsky—Barney's his name.
 Cheer leading and debating give him his fame.
 L—is for Langdon, who is biz is chuck full
 As captain of I he does a nursery rule.
 M—must be Marshall, our captain and Q. M.
 Need gloves or belting? He's the fellow that sells 'em.
 Nelson for Golden played a star game.
 His work against Lincoln should give him fame.
 Omaha High had a great football team,
 Now watch the basket ball men for a scream.
 P is for Paxton, the head of his class,
 Whose day's not complete without notes from a lass.
 Question arises—Who wrote up this bunch?
 Allan won't tell L. H. has a bunch.
 Rhoades, as a booster, sure takes the cake,
 Never has missed a game, meet or debate.
 Sorenson never hurries he's ne'er in a fret
 Though he is poky he's not been left yet.
 Torell, a mere Junior, has a record so bright,
 That telling his triumphs would take up a night.
 U—what the deuce. Why sure, there's a U
 If we can't find a better, we'll make that one do.
 Woodbridge is last in the line of the great.
 His write-ups are read all over the state.
 Yeiser? Oh yes, we almost forgot Jack,
 But to fill in this last line we'll bring him back.

Alumni and undergraduates too, will like the L System clothes, at Magee & Deemer's—Now at big discounts.

Gertrude (reading L' Allegro)—"O Herbs and other country messes."

We wonder why Doc blushed.

Sands: "Come darling just one kiss. Just one and then I'll go."

Voice from Upstairs: "For heaven's sake give him one. It's two o'clock."

10 A English student reading composition: "A beautiful horse was standing at the gate, which had a long mane and tail." Some gate.

Mrs. Atkinson: "The people of that day didn't have all our comforts."

Bright Senior: "No, but they had quilts."

Mort to Kyke before school: "Let's go in, here come the teachers."

Allan, coming out of dream: "What? Oh yes, the curly black haired one for mine."

Dr. Senter: "Mr. Yeiser, did you put those pieces of cardboard on the ceiling?"

Jack: "No, sir, mine would not stick."

Miss Fulton (in Ancient history, trying to help pupil remember name of an ancient city): "Where do you get your table clothes from?"

R. B.: "Hayden's."

HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATIZATION OF SHAKESPEARE.

1. "Comedy of Errors"—Freshmen.
2. "Much Ado About Nothing"—Sophomores.
3. "As You Like It"—Juniors.
4. "All's Well That Ends Well"—Seniors.

Katherine W.: "I've an idea."

Gladys G.: "Be kind to the stranger."

Miss Davis: "Who invented the steamboat?"

Bright Senior: "Steamboat Bill."

Sunday School Teacher: "Now, Johnny, why do we put a penny in the plate today?"

Johnny: "Cause there ain't nothin' smaller."

Mrs. Atkinson: "Kenneth, why haven't you your lesson?"

Ken Craig: "Cause I heard that history repeats itself, so I didn't study."

Miss Landis: "Why doesn't the moon get rich?"

Class: "We give up."

Miss L.: "Because he spends his quarters getting full."

HIGH SCHOOL RESOLUTIONS

To keep out of politics—Jim.

To play hymns—Wallie.

To cut out the mush—Sands.

To get five A's—Lympsky.

To boost the Webster—Burkie.

To speak to Freshmen—Ken.

To hurry the lunch line—Mort.

To keep my dignity—Hammond.

To try for a B—Torell.

To collect copy—Doug.

Kendall had some chewing gum

It was as white as snow.

And everywhere that Hammond went

That gum was sure to go.

He took it into Chem one day,

Which was against the rule.

Doc Senter took the gum away,

And chewed it after school.

Father: "How is it that I find you kissing my daughter?"

Young Man: "Fine, sir, fine."

THE REASON WHY

Two lads were walking through a cemetery when suddenly the elder one paused and said gravely: "There is where my father is buried."

"Aint that funny?" the other one replied. "The monument says 'Not dead but sleeping.' But I don't believe it."

"Shure, that's right. Ma says so."

"If he was sleeping what did they bury him for?"

"Huh, didn't want to hear him snore, I guess."

"Bill's goin' to sue the company for damages."

"Why? Wot did they do to 'im?"

"They blew the quittin' whistle when he was carryin' a heavy piece of iron, and he dropped it on his foot."

Albert was a solemn-eyed, spiritual child.

"Nurse," he said one day, leaving his blocks and lying his head on her knee, "nurse, is this God's day?"

"No, dear," said the nurse, "this is not Sunday, but Thursday."

"I'm so sorry," he said sadly, and went back to his blocks.

The next day and the next, in his serious manner, he asked the same question and the nurse tearfully said, to the cook, "That child is too good for this world."

On Sunday the question was repeated, and the nurse with a sob in her voice said, "Yes, Lambie, this is God's day."

"Then where is the funny paper?" he demanded.—Ex.
