STUDENT ASSOCIATION CAMPAIGN STARTS TOMORROW

FRESHMEN BOYS GIVEN WELCOME AT Y. M. C. A.

Prominent Members of Senior Class Give Talks on Activities

RECEPTION BIG SUCCESS

The Hi-Y party held Friday night, for the freshmen, was a success from every standpoint. The freshmen had a lot of fun and the seniors and the faculty enjoyed it in a little more sedate manner. Each fellow, regardless of class and distinction, was labeled with a card bearing his full name. Thus Mr. Gulgard was merely Frank Gulgard, Mr. Hill was plain Fred Hill and so on. Stanley Reiff had the job of tagging the guests, and it is certain that no one eluded his watchful eye.

The freshmen were given full run of the "Y," having the privilege of using all the game tables, ping-pong balls, and the swimming pool. George Likert, Francis Murphy, Clayton Wiegand, and Roland Howes took about forty of the 9A fellows into the pool, where they splashed about in great style. While the more aquatically inclined were taking advantage of the swimming privilege, the others made themselves at home and proceeded to get acquainted. After the swim, the bunch was taken into the Hi-Y meeting room, and for about ten minutes were entertained with some of the latest song hits, played by Eddie Ballantine's jazz crew. The orchestra was composed of Eddie Ballantine, saxophone; Harris Pinkerton, piano; Walter Albach and Roland Howes, banjos; and Herman Deutsch, traps.

Mr. Mickelwright and one of his never-failing Larry Semon comedies held the attention of the guests for the next half hour. The picture, one of Larry's best, kept freshmen and seniors alike in continual uproar, and put them in a fine humor for the speeches that were to follow. The orchestra played during the intermission and while the picture was going on.

Colonel Walter Key made a few preliminary remarks as presiding officer of the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Hi-Y, of which Walter is president. He praised the spirit of co-operation which the faculty shows toward the Hi-Y, saying that the faculty help has been one of the main factors in the success of the organization. He then introduced Principal Masters, who told the fellows two very interesting and pointed stories. Mr. Gulgard, military commandant, Mr. Schmidt, football and track coach, and Mr. Hill, basketball and baseball coach, were also introduced to the freshmen.

Major Walter Albach opened the series of talks with a short speech on military drill and the regiment. He said that the two best things for a freshman to do was to get his lessons in a satisfactory manner and to drill. "Drilling is a contest, where only the most able and the most fit survive," was the keynote of his talk. The major said, "At the end of your freshman year, the best of you are chosen to be corporals. You work and drill for a year more, and the best of the corporals are chosen to first sergeants and sergeant majors. At the end of your junior year, the best of these non-coms is chosen to be colonel, and the others are put in the places for which they are fit."

Vic Hackler, representing the Register, explained a few of the features and functions of the high school publication. He said that the Register was a democratic organ, not for the benefit of the faculty, or the journalistic class, or for any one organization, but for the whole school. He urged every freshman to subscribe.

Archie Baley said a few forceful words on the question of freshmen coming out for athletics. He said that the prestige and position of Central High depended largely on her athletic teams, and explained to the younger fellows the necessity for their personal support and efforts. Judd Crocker followed with an inspiring speech boosting the Student Association. He enumerated the benefits and the privileges which the holder of an Association ticket receives, and impressed on everyone the fact that he must buy a ticket to be a loyal student. He also said that the Student Association is the financial backbone of Central's athletics.

Roland Howes closed the program with a fine speech of welcome to the freshmen. He endeavored to impress upon them that the seniors and the faculty were their best friends, and not their enemies as many new students believe. He expressed his hope that they would all get into school activities, and that they would put all their best effort into whatever they attempted.

ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE TO BE GIVEN SOON

The second annual Open House will be held Friday night, September 29, at the school building. It will be conducted in a way similar to that of last year.

All of the students will be urged either to bring or send their parents, in order that the teachers may become acquainted with them.

Open House is considered the greatest social event of the school year. Its purpose is to stimulate a spirit of friendliness and co-operation between the teachers and parents.

The faculty hopes to receive the support of the Parent-Teacher's Association as well as that of the entire student body in making this affair an unequalled success.

Principal Masters issues the following appeal to the Parent-Teacher Association:

If I remember correctly, the Parent-Teacher Association expressed a willingness to co-operate in this work. We shall be very glad, indeed, for their help, and if there are a number available, we would like to have them on working committees with teachers. For example, we shall need about ten or a dozen on the Refreshment and Serving Committee; others on the Reception Committee; one or two on the Publicity Committee. We shall also be glad for any general suggestions and help. If you could ask one or two women to act, perhaps these could select others who would be willing to serve with us.

MISS PAXTON WILLS HIGH SCHOOL $1,000

Susan Paxson, former Central High school teacher, bequeathed $1,000 to the school. She died June 8 at Manchester, Iowa.

The will, written in her own handwriting, August 16, 1920, was filed in Douglas county court today. It is a remarkable document. The estate is estimated to be worth $50,000.

The $1,000 is bequeathed "to the department of ancient languages of the Central High School, Omaha, as the nucleus of a fund which I hope may be increased by friends who believe in Latin and Greek, to promote interest in the study of these languages."

Bequests are chiefly to relatives, as follows: Mary E. Hayes, sister, $3,000; Sarah L. Morrissey, Indiana, sister, $1,000; Emma Paxson, sister, California, $1,000 and five shares of Delaware County State bank stock and half interest in the home in Manchester; Ruth Paxson, sister, Shanghai, China, $2,000; Ruth Morrissey, niece, $3,000; Florence Hayes, niece, $2,000; Charles Hayes, nephew, $2,000; Lewis Paxson, nephew, Chicago, $500; John Hayes, nephew, St. Louis, $1,000. Miss R. Benedict, Missouri, $200; Randoe Patty, Iowa City, $200; Mrs. M. Keagy, Manchester, $100; Mrs. Alice Arnold, Manchester, $200.

The Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church of Manchester is bequeathed $300.

To the Manchester library she gives her Latin and German books.

She asks that Paul W. Kuhns of Omaha and H. F. Arnold of Manchester be appointed trustees of the property.

MISS TIMMS MARRIED; TO LIVE IN DENVER

Our high school lost one of its best loved teachers this summer when Miss Lillian Timms was married to Mr. J. P. Speer, in Glenwood Springs, Colorado.

She and Mr. Speer had been friends since college days. They expect to make their home in Denver.

CAMPAIGN TO LAST THREE DAYS

AK-SAR-BEN PAGEANT IS SYMBOLIC OF WEST

Symbolical of the Spirit of the West, Coronado rolled back the clouds of centuries and reappeared last night at Ak-Sar-Ben field in the real Quivera. Crowds, assembled from all over Nebraska, witnessed his triumphant entry.

The prologue, Prairie Vespers, was made up entirely of public school children and showed the open air spirit of the prairie west in chants and interpretive dances.

The setting was a summer evening with the fairies, goblins, grasshoppers, birds, and all the other inhabitants of the prairie grouped together for their nightly revel. The Spirit of the Fairies and Twilight Haze were the central figures of this panorama of nature.

Coronado was shown in his vain quest for the fabulous seven cities of Cibola. He was tricked by wily Indians into setting out for mythical lands abounding in gold.

The second part, to be given tonight, will show Coronado's disappointment and his revenge upon the Indians. Downcast and discouraged the Spanish leader and his army will leave while a great spectacle telescopes the Centuries in one brilliant vision.

Miss Lena May Williams, the head of the Dramatic Department at Central, directed and staged the entire public school section. Directly under her was Miss Constance Platt, the head of the gymnasium department at Central, who directed dancing. Mr. Jones, physical director, was in charge of the five groups. Each group had one teacher in charge.

Group one, Miss Frances Gross; group two, Miss Ruby Johnson; group three, Miss Jeanette Newlean; group four, Miss Grace Griffith; group five, Miss Fanny Meyers. The perfection of the whole testifies to the persistent efforts of those in charge.

FIRST NON-COM DRILL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

On Monday the regiment took on another member of its complete outfit. Companies A and D received rifles—good greasy rifles, and again the cadets were assigned the arduous task of getting "those pieces cleaned." From early fall to late spring, the cadet is apt to consider a rifle barrel as one of the seven blunders of the world.

But the torment is not to be confined to companies A and D. Yesterday companies B and C were also issued pieces. Tuesday, E and F will receive their share of the trouble.

Before all of this has happened, "non-com" drill will have started, for on Wednesday, according to Colonel Key, those desiring a commission, those who are "non-coms," and those who have received commissions will all fall in together for a first class drill. From this group the crack company is soon to be formed.

SPEAKERS' BUREAU IS ORGANIZED FOR YEAR

The school's "activator," the Speakers' Bureau, held its initial meeting in room 129, with Mr. V. E. Chatelein in charge, Friday morning, September 15. The meeting was characterized by its large attendance and good attention.

In his speech, Mr. Chatelein explained that the bureau has a two-fold purpose; first, a personal one, that of developing one's personal talents enough to be able to address an audience; and the other, a social one, that of accelerating school spirit. He explained that the bureau had a unique position in school affairs, having but one competitor, the Register.

Every home room was represented by some member and Mr. Chatelein took the opportunity to invite all the guests to become members.

Miss Floy Smith spoke next. "The status of Central High School throughout the state and nation depends upon you, the Speakers' Bureau," she said.

The rest of Miss Smith's talk was devoted to giving the speakers material for the speeches they will make next Wednesday. A complete football schedule was also announced. Miss Smith explained the three types of Student Association tickets, and explained at length the advantages of the three-dollar cash ticket, which she hopes every one will purchase.

In dismissing, Mr. Chatelein announced a meeting Tuesday morning at which sample talks will be made by last year's members. He also commended the organization upon the large attendance. Ninety-three were present.

NOTICE!

THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE REGISTER WILL BE A SPECIAL FOOTBALL ISSUE—DON'T MISS IT! IT WILL BE SOMETHING NEW.

STUDENT CLUB GIRLS HOLD FIRST MEETING

Members Explain All Duties in Biggest Girls' Club

The first meeting of the Student club this year was held Thursday after school at the Y. W. C. A.

The meeting opened with some club songs led by Kate Goldstein. Short speeches by Miss Hatch of Sioux City and Miss Neale, one of the new sponsors, followed.

The programs for the coming year, as set forth by Anne Perley, have to do with the all-round girl—how she plays, where she comes from, why she avoids black cats, what Student club membership means to her. The closing program is entitled Alice in Hungerland.

Gertrude Pollard, who has charge of the membership committee, explained that her chief duty was to get people acquainted.

Jean Hall interpreted the duties of the service committee as those of preparing baskets at Thanksgiving and at Christmas. Its members write to girls in foreign countries and send them styles cut from fashion magazines. Thus there is mutual education in manners and modes of dress.

Geraldine McMasters of the social committee said that that committee was chiefly concerned with making every girl have a good time.

Formerly the Student club gave a play in order to raise money. This year, however, there is to be no play and as a means of raising funds, the club girls are taking subscriptions for the Omaha Daily News. Mr. Anderson of that paper spoke of the merits of the offer.

During the conference at Okoboji, Miss Howard conducted a Bible class of which most of the Omaha girls were members. Beginning September 25, and henceforth on every other Monday afternoon for one-half hour, Miss Howard will, for the benefit of the club girls, direct a class in Bible study.

STREET HEADS NEW REYNA SPANISH CLUB

The new Spanish club with Senor Reyna at its head, held its first meeting Wednesday after school. Only those students taking Spanish II and III are eligible for membership. A little later in the year, however, Senor Reyna expects to allow some of the Spanish I students to join.

The objects of the club are to improve the Spanish of the members, to further interest in Spanish, and to make a study of the Spanish speaking countries. Geography, history, and literature of Spain will be studied. Most interesting of all, the entire meeting will be conducted in Spanish.

The club will meet the first and third Tuesdays of every month.

At its initial meeting the following officers were elected: Stanley Street, president; Virginia Hafer, vice-president; Jane Roberts, secretary; and Max Givot, treasurer.

The Reyna Society was chosen for its name.

500 MORE IN SCHOOLS THIS YEAR THAN LAST

A most significant proof of Omaha's rapid growth can be found in the school enrollment records which were completed last week. There was found to be an increase of five hundred over last year's attendance in the public schools, while there is a corresponding growth in the faculty list.

At a general meeting of the Omaha teachers, on Monday, September 4, at the First Methodist church, there were twenty or thirty who could not get inside the building.

CARE OF BUILDING WILL BE TAKEN UP

"It is up to the students to keep the building in its present spotless condition," said Mr. Masters. "The faculty has unanimously decided to do their part in this effort."

The work of cleaning up Central High School, which was brought around through the tireless efforts of the Parent-Teacher's Association, cost the Board of Education around $15,000. In order to arouse the students to a sense of duty, an awakening is being planned. This consists of a discussion in home room on methods of keeping the building in its improved state and on the passing of a resolution to send a note expressing the thanks of the student body to the Board of Education. A note has already been sent by the faculty. Mr. Masters, on being presented with a nice brown rug for his private office, would also send a message of appreciation on his own part.

The first meeting of the L. T. C. was in the form of a reception for freshmen girls. It was held in the gym room, for no ordinary class room could contain such lively spirits. A continuous round of games, dances, and refreshments made the freshmen feel at home.

CENTRAL SQUAWKS. By Bill

To be or not to be: Shall any student try to shift responsibility? No! Well then, Wednesday morning, come to school with a smiling face—plus $3.00. We want you for members of the Student Association.

Famous Expressions:
 "Ninety-nine out of ninety-eight are wrong," by Miss J. Von Mansfelde.

School days; school days,
 Dear old golden rule days;
 Flappers, bobbed hair, and a lot of things,
 Giving to studies the silver wings,
 Study hours come and also go;
 Little notes flutter to and fro.
 And teacher is silent, but go slow,
 Be careful, so careful, you know.

"Bugs" may be an interesting subject, but did you know that an Entomologist is an insect? Biology, fourth hour in 340, avers so as a whole.

If more lessons were studied at home and less at the last minute, more A's would be the result.

You can't get any more out of a thing than you put into it; you can't get anything without paying for it in some way; and you pay for everything you get.

Remember you're a Centralite. Hold up your head!

Here's the First Squawk
 Perhaps it might not be amiss,
 To offer some advice.
 If you will heed it, wise you are,
 If not—you're on thin ice.
 Be courteous, be honest, kind—
 Play fair and do your best;
 Work hard, be prompt, and have ideals,
 And you will lead the rest.
 —W. T. M. '23.

Would you call the pop-corn wagon a blessing in disguise, or not?

Famous Plans: "Let's go over to the Greeks this noon." ? ? ? ? !

Will somebody tell a freshman how to look up to a senior.

DON'T FORGET THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION.

It has been said that school is a bore. Not half as much as you think. Wait until you see the other side first.

The Register appreciates what you send it; that is, "Squawks" does. Send in an original squawk.

Somebody said a monkey was a funny animal, but—

Do the flying eagles unable to fly from their flag pole tops personify Centralites on a nice afternoon?

Let's call this number the Student Association number and shut-up. Huh? G'bye, BILL.

Question: Do you think everyone in Central should be provided with an elevator key?

Mr. Schmidt, mathematics teacher and football coach: NO!!!

Harold Reed: No, for there are not enough elevators to carry the mob, and besides we need the exercise.

Elizabeth Trimble: Personally, it would suit me fine, but there would be a lot of trouble during lunch hour.

The Register staff has made the lamentable discovery that one of its members has missed his calling. Gray Bemis has an intellect far too noble for exchange work. He should have been a collector. Ask Kate.

Unruly as Usual
 A young clergyman who was temporarily filling a city pulpit made the following request in his prayer: "May the brother who ministers to this flock be filled full of fresh veal and new vigor."

Thought from Freshman English:
 "George Washington and Abraham Lincoln both were born on holidays."

Gerald Tanner, a member of the junior class, is at the Ford hospital, recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The Register wishes to announce that the literary department will be filled each week with material selected by Miss Taylor from the representative English class work which is handed to her by the English teachers.

The theme of the masque here printed concerns the spirit of democracy in school life. The masque done after the model of Cosmos was composed by Edna Levine, '14. Miss Levine is at present editing the boys' and girls' section of the Chicago Evening Post.

Dramatis Personae

Youth, a Knight.
 Democracy, his earliest Playmate.
 Eternal Truth, a Sage, Father of Democracy.
 Snobbery, Ruler of a Secret Order.
 His Crew—
 Narrow-minded Prejudice, his first lieutenant.
 Flattery, an Enchantress.
 False Standards, an elaborately but tastelessly dressed Lady.
 Extravagance, a very fashionable lady.
 Seld-Conceit, a very snug gentleman.
 Arrogance, a haughty Lord.
 Thoughtlessness, the Fool.
 SCENE I discovers an open field.
 Enter Truth, a sage, with his daughter, the maid, Democracy.

DEMOCRACY: "Oh Father Truth, immortal, aged sire, Born straight of high, almighty Zeus And clear-eyed Pallas, pure and fair, Of thee a boon would I. Confiding Youth with whom from infancy I played and shared in all my joys and sorrows, Has truly now near Man's estate arrived, And soon must gird his armor on and in The sweet, yet stern, brisk battle, Life, Must go to win his spurs, else lose his shield; Yet Youth to better fight the coming foe, Does linger still, his hand to skill In that world-famed lyceum, In that renowned, firm-pillared school called Education. Its aim not only knights and ladies is, But brave and useful Men and Women, And yet within its lofty columns, spacious halls, Beneath the very eagles of its spires, Exists a polished, petrifying ill, That to the final good as threatening is, As viper-curl'd Medusa's ugly head. A circle strong, though contraband exists, A poisonous, oft-times envied order, Whose craven monks and Templars are The fake-named cliques of Secret Organization. There thronged among his peers sits Snobbery And ruleth with an iron hand. Because of this for Youth I fear; For Youth is young and loves congenial fellowship; Because of this I greatly fear That his good nature may be played upon And by the sound of pretty speeches Hopes of 'honors' and 'good times' He be enticed into the crafty spider's web, And in its filmy meshes soon forget His simple playmate, plain Democracy. His noble impulse slowly stifle, And all his high ideals forsake. Oh, Father Truth, this boon would I: Wherever Youth, impulsive, heedless stay, Desert him not, but stay his erring hand, Train true his eye to catch the gleam Of Conscience, keen-edged sacred sword! Grant me the word, oh Truth, That will my fears allay."

SCENE II—A room richly furnished after the oriental fashion.
 Snobbery enthroned, and at his right Narrow-minded Prejudice.
SNOBBERY: "Yet further need of counsel wise have we, Most faithful, noble, and obedient Prejudice, Within our ranks a vacancy we find, One more we need our circle to replete, One more may worship at our shrine. A lad endowed and gifted well, crave we— One fit to join our order old and mighty."
PREJUDICE: "Aye, such a one ken I, my Lord, He is a talented and pretty fellow, His wealth far-famed, his purse-strings gathered never; His lineage proud, so ancient is, Had we, we'd boast it ever. 'Tis Youth I mean, a maiden knight As yet unskilled in worldly practice, But yet the portals gray wherein he dwells Bear even now the mark of our sure foothold. Might he 'mongst us inveigled be A loyal subject to your Majesty?"
Snobbery: Thy commendation sage and goodly sounds; Youth is not total stranger unto me Though often he pretends to scorn my sway. Full requisites he has, I see, That make for his eligibility Into our own select Fraternity But stay! A way I see to win Youth unto me, Bring forward Flattery!"
 Enter Flattery. Pays homage to Snobbery).

FLATTERY: "Oh King, so powerful, so strong, so fair, What would my king of feeble Flattery?"

SNOBBERY: "Arise, ye black-haired luring witch Age-winning tool of Gods and men, We've work for you to-night. To-night beneath the sanguine spruce, In the forest of Sham and Show, Let a banquet rare be spread Of dainty, rich, and sumptuous food. Let all our crew assembled be, Make merry and rejoice For another we'll add into our throng— To-night we pledge the new one in. And you, sweet Flattery, must lead him on, For though your charm men may deny, Your speech deride, your efforts loathe, they say, At heart they love you well, love too The pretty tinkle of your Siren Song And gleefully unto its lulling strains, they list, And listening, soon are lost, And so, Go forth, and with your fawning, silver tongue, Entreat, cajole, plead well our tale. Return at eve; bring with you Youth along."
SCENE III—A forest. A large tree toward the left, a pile of fagots underneath it. To the right a long table, handsomely decorated. Snobbery and his Crew seated at the table and singing a jolly melody.
 Enter Youth led on by Flattery, her black curls bobbing, her quaint yellow gown fluttering in the summer winds.

FREE SPEECH

To the Editor:
 Nearly all of the pupils, as far as I have been able to find out, desire the abolition of the home room. It has been decided failure, with the exception of the senior home room, ever since its inauguration. If the home room is a necessary evil, why can't it be used for recreation as was the original purpose? As it is many teachers have a study period with enforced quiet, and some even use the period for class recitation. If programs, which I admit were rarely good, are not popular, cannot the time be used for talking or study as each individual wishes?
 A. B. V.

To the Editor:
 Central always has played fair in all of her activities with other schools. Our slogan has been "Fair Play." Let's play fair with each other this year and return the books we find promptly to the book room. You be prompt in turning in the last books and the other fellow will. You make sure that you have your own books from the rack in the lunch room, and others will be as careful. Half of us cannot be fair and prompt and the other half careless in such matters. Everybody now, let's have fair play in returning all lost articles this year.
 Y. Z.

To the Editor:
 Have you noticed the new water cooler that have appeared in the lunch room recently? During the hot weather this ice-cold water is a stimulus like that of an oasis in a desert. It is not so hard to live on lukewarm water from the bobbling fountains if one can have a nice cold drink at lunch. Whoever was responsible for the installation of these watercoolers deserves hearty thanks of the student body.
 —M. R. F.

To the Editor:
 There has been a mighty effort made by both the teachers and the librarians to give Central the best of Library facilities. A great amount of time and expense has been spent to equip our library with worthwhile material. The librarian has even gone as far as to give you freshmen some special instruction as to its various parts, its regulations, and its workings. The result lies with you.
 —D. R.

To the Editor:
 Vacation is usually considered as a space of time in which our brains may sink back into their original shape, but take a hint from the Central girls. Their mental capacity has so increased during this vacation that a band of ribbon must be placed around the forehead to keep the box from spilling over. Brains are worth more than looks anyway.
 —D. R.

To the Editor:
 Do you know your own school and do you keep in touch with its activities? How do you answer this question? If yours, how did you get your information? Through the Register, of course. I no, you have missed much pleasure, and also have failed to do your part. Tomorrow marks the first call for the Register. Everyone is going to buy one. Get out your money and help make the Student Association drive a success.
 —L. H.

SELF-CONCEIT:
 "A pretty toast I've all prepared To honor you, dear friends, to-night: May pleasant days aid all my clan To wax and grow to eminence 'Til each of them may come to know His own dear Self as eminent!"
THOUGHTLESSNESS:
 "Aye, Self-Conceit your confidence, cannot help admire, But why look solemn and grow grave, And why plan forward to be great at all? The Now is when I live, my Lord, And now I dance and caper; To-day I feast and revel merrily And pay the piper when he calls tomorrow!"
TRUTH:
 "But when tomorrow grows to-day, The piper comes—and you must pay!"
 (To be continued)

EXTRAVAGANCE:
 "Come fill your cups to over-flowing, Quaff deep to Fashion, Style, and longed-for Wealth, Then raise the precious goblets up again, And drink to pampered, dear Extravagance, Beloved companion and the darling of you all!"
THOUGHTLESSNESS:
 "A pretty speech, oh dear Extravagance, Would I the wit to sing another! But witless, brainless, Thoughtlessness am I, A knave, a fool, a jingling elf, That of himself but seldom thinks, And of his neighbor never. But I can laugh and I can sing And so I'm welcome ever."
 (Laughter and applause at the jester's careless capers).

TRUTH: (In the guise of a twisted gnome).
 "Sour silence and not laughter thou deservest, Thou merry, mad-cap, hair-brained knave, Without the quips, and veiled jests This direful order soon must Wither, languish, and decline."
SNOBBERY and CREW:
 "Away, thou misshaped, hunched dwarf, Away! And hide thy ugly, kill-joy face!"
DEMOCRACY: (Aside).
 "'Tis Truth they mock, the craven lot, So distorted is their gaze, So wrinkled are their souls, Eternal Truth to them does seem as nought But some foul hideous dwarf."

ARROGANCE:
 "On with the feast, raise high your cups, Great glee and laughter ever greet Snobbery's haughty Crew, For so thy brother Arrogance Doth daily wish to you."
 —Helen Gifford.

SCRAMBLED SPORTS

Creighton, our first opponent on the gridiron, will have a squad composed of veterans this year. Captain Danahy, "Doc" Nolan, "Jack" Prendergast, and Johnny will most likely hold down the backfield positions, and Mullen, All-City guard, Canglia, guard, Morgan and Mullen, tackles, and Narkevitz, end will bear the brunt of the defense. Several other experienced men will also be available.

The Purple and White squad had its first hard workout Saturday morning. Coach Schmidt took his proteges out to Elmwood park where they had some intensive practice topped off with a light scrimmage. Shoulder pads and head-gears were issued to the first squad.

All letter men have reported and practice is going on at top speed. Coach Schmidt is experimenting with backfield combinations, and from the looks of things should have a world-beater by the first game.

"Demon" Rosenzweig, Bexten's star third team end last year, is back in football togs. We don't know how it happened, but he is wearing a dandy second team uniform. When he heard that Percival was back, he said, "Darn it, there goes my chance for the team."

Art Coglizer, who expected to come to Central, decided to go back to Kemper Military Academy. We are glad to say, however, that Ward Percival was not thinking of returning there, but is back and is out in football uniform.

The regiment will soon be able to boast of a commissioned officer football team. At the present writing, George Likert, Stanley Reiff, David Doten, Clayton Wiegand, Jack Coglizer, John Spellman, and Worthington Williams are all in uniform, and seem to be enjoying themselves immensely. If "Coach" Crocker and three or four other of the officers came out, we could have a regular squad.

SEVENTEEN LETTER MEN IN '22 CLASS

1922 graduations hit Central fairly hard this year, but did not leave the Purple and White without able supporters. Seventeen letter men in the several branches of athletics were in the class of 1922. A little summary of their work while in Central, and what they intend to do in the future will no doubt be interesting.

Wilmer Beerkle leads the field, both alphabetically and athletically. He is one of the few fellows who have earned four letters, that is, a letter in each activity, having been on the track team two years, the football team one year, the baseball team two years, and the basketball team two years. He was captain of the basketball team in his last year, and was the highest point-getter. Though athletics took most of his time, Wilmer had time to hold the position of senior president. He is attending Nebraska university.

Thorval Berg came highly touted from South Dakota, and certainly lived up to his reputation. His playing at end on the football squad for two years is remembered by all fans, and his work on the track team was commendable. Though he didn't get his letter in basketball, Thorval was a dependable man to send in in a pinch, and it was like losing a veteran to have him graduate in February.

John Day confined his activities to track, but gave quality, even if he did not give quantity. For two years he was Central's best half-miler, and during the 1922 season he developed into a fine quarter-miler. His graduation leaves a big hole in the middle-distance events.

Wilbur Erickson, a red-haired Swedish six-footer, worked with the weights in 1921, but didn't accomplish much. Coach Schmidt, acting on a hunch, tried him out in the half-mile. He didn't place in the city meet, but went right on training, and then beat Day in the state meet, taking third place in the half. With more training, his wonderful reserve strength should make him a fine runner.

Fritz "Andy Gump" Hansen was one of the best baseball players and one of the biggest clowns that Central ever turned out. His main line was pitching, but he could play any position on the team in a creditable manner. One other accomplishment that "Gump" possessed was blushing just at the right time.

Lysle, "Squink" Hoerner, captain of the football team, did not graduate, but left school to go to Annapolis. His bulk and strength made him a formidable opponent on the gridiron. He played for three years, and was on the track team during his junior year. He was major of the second battalion and one of the leading men in school life.

Lysle Holden had to overcome many difficulties before making the football team, but made a whirlwind half-back when he did get on. He was fast, and had an uncanny ability for picking out the holes in the other line. In the Columbus game, somebody kicked him in the head and he finished the game in a state of semi-consciousness.

Wallace "Big Jeff" Jeffries also had a hard time making the team, but his failing was too much for him. He played guard on the reserves in '21, but Coach Schmidt, working on one of his famous hunches put him to playing center. As said before his feet were too big and he took many a headlong tumble before he learned to take care of himself. All kidding aside, Jeff was a valuable man, and was put on the All-State team.

Robert Keyt, one of the best examples of dependability that we can put forth, was on the track team two years, on the basketball team two years, and was on the football squad in his senior year. He started the season like a whirlwind, but ruined his knee and was kept out most of the time. He was captain of the track team in his senior year.

Leo Konecky, the big little man of our athletics during the last year, was on the baseball team as a freshman, sophomore, and senior, and on the basketball team as a sophomore and senior. He was in New York City during his junior year and made a fine showing in one of the leading high schools there. In basketball and baseball he has only one rival,—his brother Paul.

Frank Maritsas, major of the second battalion after Hoerner left, specialized in track work. He was best in the broad jump, though he did fine work in the dashes and in the relay. Frank was voted the worst cut-up in the class of '22, and managed to fill the bill nicely. The only time he was serious was at drill, and he usually got a kick out of that. He is attending the University of California.

Donald Meyers did not finish his school year at Central, but left school after football season was over. He played guard on the football team for two years, but did not get his letter in '21 since he played only eleven quarters and twelve were required. He was president of his class as a freshman, and was student member of the Board of Control.

Charles Poucher came to us from California, and was soon a favorite with everyone, faculty included. "Chuck" became one of the hardest hitting half-backs that this school has seen for some time. Sioux City and Technical High will long remember the debonair half-back who parted his hair with such precision.

Phil "Snooky" Redgwick was one of the sand-lot stars. He very efficiently knocked down the grounders at shortstop in his junior year, and then shifted to second base in his senior year. "Snooky" had a fine batting average on the team, but he is mainly remembered for the wave in his hair.

Oliver "Olie" Sautter was chosen the best fusser in the senior class, but that is not his chief claim distinction. Olie was on the baseball team three years, on the track team two years, on the football team one year, and almost on the basketball team for two years. He was first string sub, but didn't get to play enough to earn a letter. Though only a junior, Olie was chosen to captain the team in 1921.

William "Lefty" Stallmaster played baseball when he wasn't trying to debate, and played a real game of said baseball.

"Lefty" held down right field regularly, and did a fine job of it. Nothing within his reach escaped him, and he was no slouch with the bat either.

Harold "Hi-Way" Way played baseball for three years, piloting the nine in his last year. His first two years were spent in the field where he enjoyed errorless seasons and in his senior year he was promoted to the infield, so that he wouldn't have so far to walk to the plate.

Eugene "Genie" Holmes, diminutive shortstop, though not a graduate, has left school. He made the team in his freshman year, but was not eligible the next year. He came back strong in his junior year, however, and beside making the baseball team, also made reserve letters in football and basketball.

Clippings
He: "I met a girl last night with the most affectionate eyes."
She: "What do you mean, affectionate eyes?"
He: "They were always looking at each other."—Ex.

X. "Daniel, how would you punctuate this sentence? "A pretty girl went down the street."
Y. "I would make a dash after the girl."

Father (reading letter from his college son): "He says he's got a beautiful lamp from boxing."
Mother: "I always knew he'd win something in athletics."

Freshman: "What would happen if I potired this water down your back?"
Senior: "I wouldn't be the only one to get soaked."—Ex.

I rose with great alacrity
To offer her my seat.
'Twas a question whether she or I
Should stand upon my feet.

OUT-STATE DOPE

North Platte, last year's state champion, has eleven letter men back, and has high hopes of repeating their performance of 1921. The team will average about a hundred and sixty-five pounds, and is said to be very fast. Their schedule includes Cozad, Lexington, McCook, Central City, Bayard, Gothenburg, Columbus, Fremont, Sidney, and South High of Omaha.

Lincoln, Central's ancient enemy, is all lined up to put a fine team into the championship race this year. Seven letter men, a dozen other first and second string men from last year, and several players from other schools are the foundation for the hopes of the Red and Black.

Lincoln's schedule is as follows:
Sept. 29—Fremont at Fremont.
Oct. 6—York at Lincoln.
Oct. 13—South Omaha at Lincoln.
Oct. 20—Tecumseh at Lincoln.
Oct. 27 or 28—Omaha Tech at Lincoln.
Nov. 3—Omaha Central at Omaha.
Nov. 11—Grand Island at Grand Island.
Nov. 17—Columbus at Columbus.
Nov. 24—Beatrice at Lincoln.

Other schools which expect to put good teams out are Beatrice, Columbus, Fremont, Grand Island, Broken Bow, Hastings, Crete, Wahoo, South, Technical, Creighton, and many more.

The Purple and White gridsters have a schedule that is no snap. Creighton High is the first opponent. The game will be played on Creighton Field, Friday, September 29. Coach Marrin is expected to have a fine aggregation, and the game promises to be a good one. Student Association Tickets will admit.

It is said that Shenandoah is grooming several pre-war players to assist in beating Central.

Shenandoah is the next victim, but the game will be played there. The dope is that Shenandoah has a strong bunch, and that they will give the Central team a tussle. The game is scheduled for Saturday, October 7.

Sioux City will come here either on Friday, October 13, or Saturday, October 14. As usual, they are strong, but it is rumored that Kutch, their All-State fullback is ineligible. This would weaken them considerably, since he was a wonder, both in offensive and defensive work.

Saturday, October 21, the squad takes the prize trip of the season,—to Council Bluffs. Though the Bluffs doesn't usually turn out wonder teams, a good game is looked for, since Owens, Walsh, Braham, Dugger, Henderson, Brown, Miller, and several other players from last year are back.

Revenge is sweet, and the Purple team gets their chance to retrieve the 7-6 defeat handed them by the North Des Moines High last year. For several years the Des Moines schools have been our bug-bear, and we hope to upset the jinx that seems to have followed us for so long.

Lincoln, our ancient rival, comes to Omaha on Saturday, November 4. As we said before, the Links think they are pretty good. It is needless to say that the team will do its best to reduce the size of the Red and Black hatband.

Beatrice, who so unceremoniously walloped us last year, will entertain Coach Schmidt and his machine on Friday, November 10.

The Packers tangle with the local aggregation on Saturday, November 18. The South High bunch is considerably weakened by the loss of Captain Ross Nixon, a veteran lineman. Nevertheless Coach Patton will put out a team of fighters who will not step back for anyone.

The annual battle with Tech will ring down the curtain on the 1922 football season. Coach Drummond and his letter men are all set to give us a hard battle, but the team will have the 1921 defeat to wipe out and will bring home the bacon.

HOCKEY TEAM

The gymnasium department is organizing a hockey team to which every girl is eligible whether in a gymnasium class or not.

The practice field has not yet been determined, but if the school field is not available it will take place in the parks. Practice starts as soon as the clubs arrive.

The Student club had a hockey team last year and it proved so successful that it was decided to make it a sport which every girl might enjoy.

Any girl wishing to join may see Miss MacDougal in room 415.
